STATE POLICE ISSUE WARNING

JULY FOURTH AUTOIST MUST OBSERVE REGULATIONS

With the announcement that there has been a 44 per cent reduction in traffic accidents so far this year in the State, State Police have issued a firm warning to Virginians to be careful in their Fourth of July celebrations.

Calling attention to the wartime need of conserving manpower and of eliminating the costly casualty tolls that have marred other Fourth's, Captain W. L. Groth, the department's safety engineer, said "Virginia cannot afford the luxury of this annual jamboree of carelessness". One year ago in the July 4 holiday period 8,750 people were killed in accidents. In Virginia, traffic accidents took 5 lives, and in the holiday period of the year before 23 lives were lost through traffic accidents.

Public officials, safety leaders and civilians throughout the country are being asked to enlist in this holiday campaign to prevent accidents. Through the combined efforts of the people of Virginia, July 1943 can be the safest—putting Victory first for the Fourth. The State Police make four holiday suggestions: (1) Stay close to home. Don't drive unless you have to. (2) If you bicycle for your outing, use every precaution for your safety. (3) If you are one of the nation's thousands of pedestrians, obey the common sense rules of safe walking. (4) Don't take any trips unless you have to, even on a public conveyance, since crowds on trains and buses increase travel hazards.

Mrs. John Clinton Eller

MISS JESSIE MAE CONNER BECOMES BRIDE OF REV. JOHN CLINTON ELLER

In a double-ring ceremony Wednesday at 4:30 P. M. in the Cannon Branch Church of the Brethren, Miss Mary Virginia Miller of Vienna and Miss Edna Eller of Salem acted as bridesmaids, and were gowned in pale pink marquisette and carried old-fashioned bouquets similar to that of the maid of honor. Little Miss Dawn Rebecca Spangler, niece of the groom was flower girl, wearing a formal length dress of aqua marquisette and having a coronet of pink summer flowers in her hair.

Rev. Wendell Flory of Chicago, Illinois acted as the best man, and Messrs. Galen Flke of Eglen, West Virginia, and Galen Crist of Bridge-water acted as ushers.

A reception was held at the home of the bride immediately following the ceremony. After a brief wedding trip Rev. and Mrs. Eller will be at home in Crab Orchard, W. Va., where Rev. Eller is now serving as pastor of the Crab Orchard Church of the Brethren.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEEMEN OF BOTH COUNTIES CERTIFY THAT NO GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT EXISTS

Proof Submitted Show Positively That There Never Was Any Authorized Plan To Rotate Office of Delegate Between Counties

My opponent, Mr. Moncure, in the campaign for nomination to the House of Delegates from Prince William and Stafford Counties, insinuates that I am acting dishonorably by opposing him for the next term. He keeps talking about a mythical gentleman's agreement to alternate every other term between the two counties.

I resent this insinuation very deeply because I was not a party to such an alleged agreement and am not in favor of such an agreement. Had I been a party to an agreement of this sort, I would stand by it.

Moreover, careful investigation by me and my friends, fails to disclose that there ever was such an agreement adopted by, or even presented to, the Democratic Committee of either Prince William or Stafford County. The following statements signed by certain members and ex-members of the two committees should speak for themselves. Some of the signers have been or were on the committees, twenty to thirty years:

PRINCE WILLIAM STATEMENT

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Having been advised that it is now being claimed that after Stafford and Prince William Counties were placed in the same legislative District, there was an agreement between the constituted party authorities of said counties, respectively, that in electing a representative from said two counties to the General Assembly, the representative should alternate between said counties, for a period of two terms, we, the undersigned members or former members of the Democratic County Committee of Prince William do respectfully state that no such arrangement or agreement has ever been made on the part of Prince William County; that such an agreement could be made only through this Committee, as to Prince William.

The undersigned, D. E. Earhart, certifies that he was Chairman of the said Prince William County Committee for many years, and that no such arrangement was suggested to said Committee, and therefore that no such agreement was approved or passed by the said Committee. That since his resignation as Chairman, C. C. Cioe has been Chairman of said Committee, who states that no such agreement has been made during his term in office.

STAFFORD STATEMENT

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Having been advised that it is now claimed that after Stafford and Prince William Counties were placed in the same legislative District, there was an agreement between the constituted authorities of the said counties, respectively, that in electing the representative from said two counties to the General Assembly, the representative should alternate between said counties, for a period of two terms, we, the undersigned former members of the Democratic County Committee of Stafford County do respectfully state that no such arrangement or agreement has ever been made on the part of Stafford County; that such an agreement could be made only through this Committee, as to said Stafford County.

The undersigned further certify that no such arrangement or agreement was ever suggested to said Committee, much less having been approved by said Committee.

G. B. WALLACE
W. T. PEYTON
JAMES ASHBY

If such an agreement is desirable, it should be presented to the county committees and made a part of the party plan. I am satisfied it would not be adopted as such.

If such a plan were adopted it would mean that the delegate from these two counties would only begin to get needed experience before he would be replaced by a new man. It would further mean that the delegate from this district would never hope to get the chairmanship of any important committee, because such chairmanships ordinarily go to those who remain in the House long enough to deserve such honors. In other words, the delegate would be severely handicapped in working for the best interests of the district. Obviously, this is true and it would make no difference whether the delegate came from Prince William or Stafford, so far as the effect of such a plan is concerned.

I think it is plain from what is set out above that no such agreement as claimed by Mr. Moncure has ever existed and that he is making this claim, not in good faith, but solely for campaign purposes.

Respectfully,
E. R. CONNER, Manassas, Va.

MOVEMENT OF VEHICLES DURING BLACKOUTS

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to lights permitted on vehicles during blackouts. In order that there be uniformity in interpreting the rulings you will please be governed by the following:

1. During the BLUE signal all vehicles will be permitted to move with Headlights using the LOW or DE-PRESSED beam. This does not mean PARKING lights. When vehicles are proceeding on LOW or DE-PRESSED lights they shall proceed with proper caution, not exceeding a speed of 15 miles per hour.

2. During the RED (ALERT) signal NO vehicle will be allowed to move at all except when properly identified as an EMERGENCY vehicle.

SPECIALISTS ALL OVER THE WORLD EXPAND GM WAR EFFORT BEYOND PRODUCTION LINE

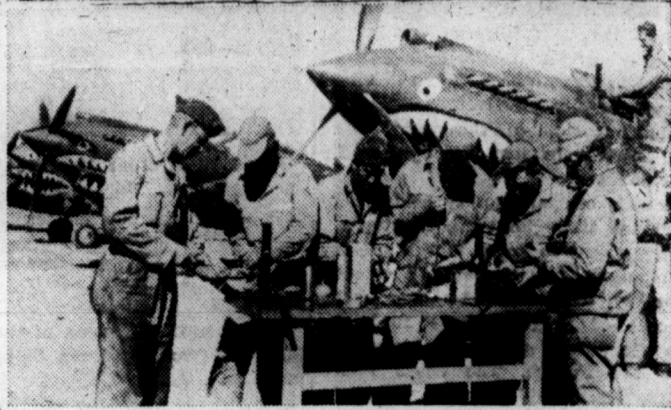

NEW YORK.—Far-flung wartime activities of General Motors over and above its large-scale war production, through which it has made available the services of technicians, developed training facilities and utilized overseas plants and personnel in cooperation with United States and Allied military leaders all over the world, were revealed in detail today for the first time in a special message by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman, to the more than 400,000 General Motors stockholders.

Highlights of the war products field service program, launched shortly after Pearl Harbor at the request of military authorities and since greatly expanded, which has the one prime objective of assuring that GM-built war equipment is kept at top operating efficiency and available for action at the front the maximum of time, are:

"Technical centers" have been established in England, Egypt, India, Australia, New Zealand and elsewhere; More than 200 technicians are assigned to combat areas as field observers, service or parts specialists on GM war products. A constant flow of performance reports on GM equipment at the front is forwarded through military channels to the research laboratories and the engineering staffs, forming the basis for joint action with military technicians in steadily increasing the technical excellence of the products.

Management and other services were provided in procuring and operating three emergency assembly plants for military vehicles in the Middle East; Assistance was provided to the Army in setting up truck reconditioning plants in specific combat areas, and to the Navy in establishing overseas service points for GM Diesel engines; Manufacturing and assembly plants in England, India, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have been converted to war production or assembly; Engineering facilities and personnel in the United States have been made available for experimental and development work; The General Motors Proving Ground has become an Army testing field for war products; Peacetime experience in warehousing and distribution of service parts has been made available to the Army and Navy;

There are 22 GM training schools in the U. S. which graduated 11,000 Army and Navy technicians in 1942 and are equipped to train 40,000 in 1943. In concluding his report on these widespread activities, both on the home front and in far-flung combat areas, all at the request of and in cooperation with military authorities, Mr. Sloan said: "Thus, in all phases of the war production effort, in volume out-

Corn—Home-Canned to Keep!

"Corn, a favorite food of man, beast, and bacteria, is the victim of defense propaganda and I am not talking about war," Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, made the above statement and went on to explain, "Persons who refuse to take the time and trouble to understand corn, defend their canning failures by claiming that it refuses to keep. The truth is, corn is more than willing to be canned, but is doomed to spoilage unless right tactics are used, because it has no acid to protect it against the invasion of bacteria. Tactics? Why," says Miss Kimbrough, "they can be summed up in one sentence: i. e., learn what is to be done, begin at the right time, keep things moving, and turn on the heat."

The first thing to be done is to get jars, lids, rubbers, and canner ready. If you have no pressure cooker, get along with a water-bath canner. Examine every jar and lid to see that it is in good condition—remember glass top seals and two-piece metal vacuum seal caps won't work unless the top edges of the jars are perfect. Wash everything clean; cover jars, glass lids and zinc caps with lukewarm water and put on the stove to heat. Cover vacuum seal lids and rubbers with boiling water and leave until needed. When everything is ready, gather the corn—bring in no more than needed for one canner full. Keep in mind that canning too much too late is a common cause of spoilage. Place the corn on a board and use a strong sharp knife to cut the husks (shucks) to you in the Middle West and South) off at each end just where the corn begins and ends. There shouldn't be any worms if you have followed Victory garden directions, but if there are worms in the tassel end, cut deep enough to leave them with the husks. The husks will come off easily and bring most of the silks with them.

Examine every ear of corn and use only those having plump, glossy, juice-filled kernels. Remove all silks; rinse the corn and cut it from the cob. One or more cuttings may be made, but scrapings should not be used unless processing can be done in a pressure cooker, because the scrapings make a thick mass that heats through slowly. Cover the corn with boiling water, using about half as much water as corn; cook five minutes; then pour immediately into clean, hot jars. A generous amount of water helps the corn heat through quickly and aids in preventing its sugar from caramelizing and causing a brownish color. Add one teaspoon salt to the quart and seal jars according to manufacturer's directions. Then put into the canner and process.

If possible, use pint jars, as they heat through more rapidly—the quicker the jars can be heated through, the more certain the destruction of bacteria. Process pints and quarts 70 minutes at 10 pounds pressure, or by boiling 3½ hours in hot-water bath. Remove the jars from the canner as promptly as possible after processing; finish sealing all jars that require rubber rings; set jars as far apart as possible on folded newspaper or cloth so they can cool quickly, but be sure they are not where a breeze will strike them.

The jars should be examined after twelve hours in order to make sure they are sealed. To do this, remove bands from glass top seals and metal vacuum seal caps (leave the bands off when the jars are put away). Test the glass top seals by pulling gently on the lids with the finger tips. Vacuum seals are tested by pressing down on them with the fingers—if sealed, they won't move under this pressure. "Lightning" type are tested by holding upside down and watching for leaks. There won't be any leaks if instructions are followed and there won't be any spoilage if you keep in mind that Vigilance means Victory. Furthermore, you will never know how good canned corn can be until you have tasted your own home-canned brand.

Nice Men

BARBARA had written to Marjorie Hanson, down in Georgia, telling her that there were loads of nice men in New York. Barbara had an apartment big enough for two, moreover she had a good job that she was in no danger of losing, and it wouldn't cost much more to feed two than one. "And so, my dear," Barbara wrote, "I want you to stay with me for at least six months and forget."

For lack of anything better to do, and because of her genuine affection for the downright Barbara, Marjorie left the town where she was still referred to as "poor Mrs. Hanson" and came to share the three small rooms that Barbara called home.

As usual Barbara had the situation well in hand with plans well formulated by the time Marjorie arrived.

"You were just eating your heart out down there in Georgia," she told her. "Not because you really care about Fred Hanson but because every one feels sorry for you. You're still young and unusually good to look at and it will be just too bad if you don't marry again. Me, of course, I'm different. But the only way you'll ever really forget the mess of a time you had with Fred Hanson will be to marry some man you can really love."

"But men like that are pretty scarce nowadays," Marjorie insisted; "at least down home they are—"

"There are plenty of them up here in New York," Barbara told her. "I never bothered with them till I began planning for you but I've been making a collection recently and after you have time to unpack and get your bearings I'll ask them around. But of course you will be Miss Stone, not Mrs. Hanson. Not that they'd mind that you've been married before," Barbara hastened to explain, "but because it might be that some of them had heard of Fred Hanson, and maybe it would get back to him that you were here and he might take it into his head to look you up."

"There's no chance of that," Marjorie assured her friend. "If he'd gone off with another woman there'd be a chance he might get tired of her and come back. But after he and my brother quarreled he became perfectly unreasonable. Naturally he couldn't expect me to take his side against one of my own blood—"

"It was all a terrible mistake," Barbara interrupted. "What I want you to do is to forget all about it."

Four months later Barbara admitted ruefully that the "loads of nice men" she had promised in New York hadn't materialized quite as she had expected. "Either they are terribly tiresome and have money enough to support a wife—"

"Or they are terribly tiresome and haven't," Marjorie finished the sentence.

"They aren't all tiresome," Barbara insisted. "You don't think George Lorrmore is tiresome, do you?"

Marjorie reflected for a moment. "I don't believe George is tiresome. George is pretty nice—and George thinks I'm pretty nice, but if George doesn't get any further than that, Barbara dear, I'm either going to get a job—which seems to be impossible—or go back home. I can't bear sponging on you any longer."

"You're anything but a sponge," Barbara told her. "We can live along this way as long as you like, but if you really don't want money of your own, why don't you accept one of the checks Fred Hanson sends you?" Marjorie insisted that she'd never take a cent from Fred Hanson and that in the future his brief letters with check inclosures would be returned unopened.

Marjorie was looking forward with more than usual eagerness to meeting George Lorrmore that evening. Marjorie and Barbara and George and a friend of George's invited for Barbara. Dinner on the Astor roof and then, instead of lingering to dance, back to George Lorrmore's luxurious little apartment.

Barbara patiently listened with well-feigned interest to George's friends' comments on golf, bridge and the stock market for an hour or more while Marjorie and George lingered on the balcony. And it was not until Marjorie insisted that she and Barbara take a taxi alone back to Barbara's apartment that Barbara realized that the task of making Marjorie forget had not been accomplished.

"You two were certainly having a serious conversation," Barbara began as they sped home. "I thought perhaps—"

"So did I for the first five or ten minutes," said Marjorie, and then after a pause. "George has been married before. You knew that. He has pretty serious views on marriage. But his first wife had been married before. Apparently she'd never got over it. He thinks women are all like that. No matter what they say or do—still true to their first love. He really thinks that and that's why he wanted to marry me, because he thinks I'm so young and sweet and unspoiled—"

"What did he say when you explained?" asked Barbara.

"I just told him he was right," and then I changed the subject and came in and told you it was time we went home. Barbara, I want you to write a letter for me tonight—to Fred Hanson. Tell him I want him to come back."

Pig Boat

At sea on a submarine isn't exactly the "life of Riley." In the Battle of the Atlantic, or on the great stretches of the Pacific these sailors know the hazards of their work.

One of the spots aboard these "Pig Boats" that all crew members enjoy is the galley, or kitchen. Space limitations prevent an elaborate setup, but cooks aboard these vessels are justly proud of the meals they prepare for their crews. Your increased purchase of War Bonds helps make submarine life as pleasant as possible.

U. S. Treasury Department

War Bonds should mean something more to you than just "a good sound investment." Figure it out yourself.

Where Will Money Come From?

People ask: "Where will the money come from?" to reach the thirteen-billion dollar objective of the Second War Loan. The answer is simple. The people HAVE the income.

When we produce munitions or peacetime goods, or anything else, we likewise produce income. For every dollar of production, there is a dollar of income.

The problem of war finance boils down to this—if individuals and businesses receive more income after taxes than there are things produced for them to buy, then excess funds arise. The government deficit is matched by the combined surplus of everybody else. This surplus should be put into Government securities to wipe out that deficit.

They give their lives... You lend your money.

Are you flitting mad about this? Does it mean anything to you personally? Then dig down and buy more and more War Bonds.

EVERY DRIVER CAN HELP

KEEP 'EM ROLLING

WAR, 1943 style, is war on wheels. Men, weapons and materials vital to victory must be moved swiftly, safely and without delay.

But each day accidents at grade crossings in America injure or kill 19 motorists and delay 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a drain on manpower and time that a nation at war simply cannot afford.

Will you, as a patriotic driver, enlist in the nationwide campaign now under way to stop these accidents? Here's how you can help:

1. Be extra careful—war-time careful—in all your driving.
2. Be especially alert when approaching a grade crossing.
3. Be sure the way is clear before you cross the tracks.
4. LOOK, LISTEN and LIVE!

Help keep 'em rolling for victory!

THE PRESIDENT'S VETO

President Roosevelt has vetoed more bills than any other Chief Executive. Of course he has had more opportunity, for no other President has had a third term. In the past 10 years he has vetoed over 600 acts of Congress. Grover Cleveland long held the record—464 bills during his two terms. But never before has a veto been so promptly over-ridden by the Congress than was the veto of the Smith-Connally Anti-Strike measure.

The Senate, within five minutes after the reading of the President's veto message, overrode the veto by a vote of 56 to 25 (a margin of 2 votes over the necessary two-thirds majority). Doubtless House action would have been just as prompt but for the fact that it was entangled in a parliamentary matter which prevented immediate consideration, but after a delay of an hour and a half, when the veto could be taken up, the President was rebuffed by a vote of 244 to 108.

Our own Congressman, Howard W. Smith, has led this fight to bring lawless labor racketeering under regulation by law. The American people have become outraged that any special group should have been allowed to stand outside and apparently above the law, even to the extent of seriously damaging the war effort. The nation is demanding quick settlement of the strike issues, and the prompt and stinging rebuke administered to a President who places his "social gains" above the national safety, may be but the beginning.

We must have legal action to end for the duration all strikes in essential industries, and certainly all strikes directly against government operated mines, factories and other vital activities.

APPOINTMENT OF CARL NEWTON

There seems to be a lot of things about the coal mine situation that just does not make sense to the man in the street, but the appointment this week of the President of the C. & O. Railroad to take charge of government operated mines seems different.

A man that can run a railroad like the Chesapeake and Ohio ought to have the qualities needed to operate the coal mines. The public has great confidence in the manner in which the C. & O. is managed, and will certainly be glad to witness for a change an appointment based on ability and experience, not on the fact that the appointee wrote some kind of "crackpot" book or was a Communist professor in some college.

Mr. Newton is only forty-five years of age, but has had much experience which would increase his usefulness in his new job. He has been a United States District Attorney, and his position as head of the largest coal-hauling organization in the world should further qualify him for task which at best will be a tough job.

OUR MINUTE MEN

There have been a number of "fourth battles of Bull Run." Each newest military action on the historic Manassas Battlefield seems for the moment to enjoy such a designation, but no military training action on this historic ground has more significance to the local civilian population than that which took place on June 20 when the Eleventh Battalion of the Virginia Protective Force held maneuvers there.

Prince William County was well represented, under the Captaincy of Wheatley Johnson. Our men, many what military men would consider as "over age," went through the gruelling tests in the most gratifying manner, conclusively proving that thirty-eight is really too young an age to be considered too old for combat duty.

We are indebted to Mr. O. O. Holler for the initial work in organizing our Prince William Minute Men. With rank of Captain he modestly occupies a position of less distinction in his company, but it was his leadership among the sportsmen of the County that brought to him the request to initiate this important project.

Under the able leadership of Capt. Wheatley Johnson our local company is composed of a very substantial group, all sportsmen familiar with fire-arms. We will not see much of them unless they should be called, but if such an emergency should arise where the police need help until the army can take over, we have the answer.

The public, we are sure, appreciates the patriotism of these busy men who are willing to stake their lives on any issue involving the peace and security of our historic County.

RESOLUTION ON
ROGER D. WHARTON

Resolved: That in the passing of Kiwanian Roger D. Wharton the Manassas Kiwanis Club has lost one of its most faithful members. Kiwanian Wharton had a record for unbroken attendance attained by few. If for any reason he was unable to attend the weekly meeting of his own club, he made up his attendance by attending some other Club, usually the Arlington Club. Whatever committee duty was assigned him, he could be depended on to discharge. He always wore a friendly smile; and his genial presence will be missed at the weekly meeting of the Club.

J. P. ROYER, Sec.

Committee (Ed. note: One of these attendances at other Kiwanis meetings was at Tulsa, Oklahoma, where Manassas was introduced to the Millionaire Club. Another was in Warrenton, Georgia, where Mr. Wharton was the guest of honor in the town where a tablet on the Courthouse green carries the names of two ancestors, Virginia Revolutionary Soldiers, who were in the Virginia colony in Warren County, Georgia, in 1789.)

A RESOLUTION

Prince William County No. 45, Daughters of America, has lost by death one of its most earnest and active workers, Brother R. D. Wharton, who joined the Council as a Charter member October 7, 1933, and departed from us May 29, 1943.

Whereas, Brother Wharton was ready and willing at all times to assist in any worthy cause for the advancement of the principles of our Order.

He set an example of service and self-sacrifice which was inspiring. His advice and leadership will be greatly missed. Many beautiful traits made up his character, and his loss will be keenly felt on meeting nights.

Therefore be it resolved, That this Council extend to the members of his family their deepest sympathy and join with them in mourning the loss of not only a valuable and splendid member of the Council but a most excellent citizen.

May they be greatly comforted by the esteem in which he was held by his many friends.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our records and copy sent to the bereaved family.

Candidates Cards

TO THE VOTERS OF PRINCE WILLIAM, FAIRFAX AND THE CITY OF ALEXANDRIA:

At the request of many of my friends in this Senatorial District, I have announced my candidacy for nomination to the office of State Senator, subject to the Democratic Primary, August 3, 1943.

The district, composed of Alexandria City, Fairfax and Prince William Counties has a complex situation that needs the services of the most experienced man whom the voters can secure. My service in the General Assembly which extends over three sessions has fitted me to represent the best interest of all the peoples in this District.

As a life long farmer, I am fully acquainted with many rural problems which face the farmers of this District. Having served as a member of the Board of Supervisors of Stafford county and as clerk of the court of that county, I am in a position to assist in problems of county government which may arise.

Owing to war restrictions it will not be possible for me to see many of the voters of the District. I am taking this means to solicit your support and consideration of my candidacy, with the pledge that if elected I shall certainly devote my whole hearted efforts in the interest of all of you.

GEORGE W. HERRING,
Woodbridge, Virginia

TO THE VOTERS OF PRINCE WILLIAM AND STAFFORD COUNTIES:

I announce my candidacy for re-election to the House of Delegates of the General Assembly of Virginia for the Counties of Prince William and Stafford, subject to the Democratic Primary Election, August 3, 1943.

Having served the good people of these two counties for the past two terms, and having been placed on two major committees—Roads and Finance—I feel that I can be of even greater service in the future.

There is no knowledge of the agreement, referred to by my opponent, by which a representative from each county should serve only two terms. I feel certain that the gentleman from Stafford never stood aside for me when first I became a candidate, and I see no reason why I am not entitled to run again.

I appreciate the support which I have had from the people of Stafford and Prince William Counties and if elected, I will endeavor to serve to the best interest of both counties.

Sincerely,
E. R. CONNER,
Manassas, Virginia

I hereby announce my candidacy for re-nomination as Justice of The Peace for Gainesville District. I will appreciate your support.

I hereby announce myself a Candidate for re-election to the State Senate for the 27th Senatorial District of Virginia, subject to the Democratic Primary to be held on August 3, 1943. I deeply appreciate the high honor you have bestowed upon me by electing me your State Senator.

I have on all occasions voted for what I believed to be for the best interest of my District and State, and if nominated and re-elected pledge a continuance of my best efforts in your behalf.

I wish to express my thanks to the people of Prince William County for their support and cooperation during my present term of office. You know my record, and I feel, that with my past experience, I can successfully render a service to the people of my county. Due to the gasoline shortage it will be impossible for me to see each and every person in the county and so I take this opportunity of soliciting your continued support. You know what I have done in the past, both in private life (as I was born in your midst), and in public life.

If my efforts have met with your approval, I will greatly appreciate your help in the coming election.

Sincerely,

Jar Rubbers Are Different This Year

It is now thought that red rubber will be available for jar rings this year but there will be no cause for alarm if the rubbers you buy turn out to be black. It is the rubber, not the color, that counts. True, you may be a bit startled when you open your first package of the war models. "But what of it?" asks Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company. "Our grandmothers got along well enough with lipless rubbers and so can we."

Months ago, manufacturers began experiments to learn how to make jar rings that would conserve both rubber and food—the government set its scientists to the same task. One of the first things upon which all agreed was that lips are unnecessary for opening jars. The point of a thin knife can be run under the rubber to make a tiny space for air to seep through and break the seal. It is then easy to remove cap or lid. It was also agreed that jar rings could be a small fraction of an inch narrower but the thickness must remain at the pre-war standard.

War-time rubbers will keep jars sealed air-tight, but they won't stand abuse. To get good results, break yourself of that never-good habit of stretching to test and follow these four simple rules:

1. Wash and rinse rubbers. Boil them to sterilize if you can fruits the old-fashioned open-kettle way. If processing is to be done, drop the rubbers in boiling water and set aside until needed.
2. Have rubbers wet when they are used—and be sure that each rubber lies flat on the sealing surface of the jar.
3. Partly seal all jars before processing.
4. Screw zinc caps and bands on glass top seal closures slowly when sealing, as quick or jerky turns cause rubbers to slip out of position.

How to declare war on the Axis

I being of sound mind, and madder than all get out...do hereby personally DECLARE WAR ON THE AXIS...and to make it stick, I am doing, or shall do one of the following four things mighty quick

1 Set aside as much of my pay as I can in War bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. If I am signed up already I'll raise my sights.

2 If I am working in a plant where the plan is installed but I haven't signed up yet...I will do it today.

3 If the Plan hasn't been installed in my plant...I will talk to my superiors, and see if it can't be adopted right away.

4 If I am unable to get in on the Payroll Savings Plan, I will go to my local bank where they will help me start my own personal plan.

HOME-CANNED BERRIES
TAKE LITTLE SUGAR

Home canned berries play leading roles in the pantry because they contribute vitamins and minerals for health, can be used in many ways, and are easy and inexpensive to can. Blackberries, blueberries, boysenberries, raspberries, elderberries—can them all and others, too, with little or no sugar. Sugar gives them better flavor and more calories, but has nothing to do with keeping qualities.

Berries are too precious to waste and none will be wasted if you will let it to that every step taken is the right one. First of all, wash, rinse and examine your jars. Be sure to inspect the top edges of those to be sealed with glass top seal or two-piece vacuum seal closures because top seals refuse to work unless tops of the jars are perfect. Cover jars, glass lids, and zinc caps with lukewarm water, heat to boiling and keep hot until needed. Wash and rinse rubbers and vacuum seal lids and drop them in boiling water—they don't need boiling unless you plan to do old-fashioned open kettle canning—then they must be boiled a few minutes to sterilize.

Every berry must be fresh, sound, ripe, and firm. Wash them carefully and then take your choice of canning methods.

Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, prefers to hot-pack berries. This is how it is done. Place berries in a wide, shallow pan; add one-half cup sugar, or less, for each quart of berries; set the pan over low heat and simmer until the sugar dissolves (remember you don't have to use any sugar); pour the hot berries into clean, hot jars and process five minutes in hot water-bath canner.

If you prefer cold packing, fill a jar about half full with raw berries, then tap it gently on a folded cloth to shake the berries down. When the jar is filled to within a half-inch of the top, add enough hot syrup to cover the berries. Process 20 minutes in a water-bath canner.

Syrup for four quarts of berries may be made by boiling two cups sugar and three cups water or berry juice together until the sugar dissolves. If you are a little short on sugar—and who isn't these days—try making the syrup of one measure sugar, one measure corn syrup, and one-half measure water or berry juice. This syrup seems rather thick and sweet, but it will become thinner and less sweet after it has been with the berries a few weeks. And if you have no sugar at all, cover the berries with hot berry juice or boiling water; seal or partly seal the jars (follow the manufacturer's instructions) and process 20 minutes in a water-bath canner.

If you want your berries to really star, can them without sugar. Then they can be used as if they were fresh from the patch. The juice can be drained off and used for making jelly. The berries can go into a pie or into jam—a jam turnover tucked in a lunch box will make the noon hour much more pleasant for somebody and surely you need nobody to tell you that jelly and jam are far more delicious when freshly made than at any other time.

YOUNGSTERS—HELP WITH HOME-CANNING!

Don't worry if you're too young for the WAACS or WAVES. There's another important job for you. Save all the extra vegetables from your Victory Garden by home-canning. A few jars a day take little time and add up to well-filled shelves by the end of the season. Food costs are high in the stores and may be high, but food grown at home still costs a few cents a jar.

There's a deep satisfaction in growing and canning your own food. Wait and see. You'll take inventory of your garden each day to see which vegetables are right for the table and how many extras there are to put in glass jars. Make it a point each day to gather everything at its prime, and make it a point of honor to get the extras into glass jars before they lose freshness.

That's the big secret of delicious, nutritious, home-canned foods—freshness. Home-grown, home-canned foods often have many more vitamins than those bought at the store, because they are fresh. And when you get a reliable home-canning booklet, you'll be surprised at how many different things may be put away for later use in glass jars.

Be sure to have the very best canning instructions and recipes. One fruit jar company offers a Blue Book free with a coupon packed with each dozen jars—or for ten cents if you have no coupon. The instructions are easy to follow. It is not necessary to have elaborate or expensive equipment. Form a canning club and have fun while you can!

5 Ocean Navy

When Pearl Harbor burst upon us our great expanse of territory was protected by a one ocean navy of about 350 first line ships with an addition of an approximate number building.

Now we are in a five ocean war and we are required not only to pay for the building of enough ships of the line but also for hundreds of Liberty ships and auxiliary craft. The amount of money you invested in War Bonds when we had a one ocean navy was all right then, it isn't enough now. Buy more and more War Bonds.

U. S. Treasury Department

War Takes 96¢ Of Each Dollar

Out of every $12.75 that is invested in a War Bond, $18 goes into guns, planes, tanks, ships and other military equipment. The 75 cents goes for ordinary governmental expenditures. Out of every dollar 96 cents goes toward the war effort and 4 cents goes for Government "business as usual."

The same ratio applies to all other securities the Government has offered investors in the Second War Loan campaign for 13 billion dollars.

What Is Inflation?

Do you have excess cash? You will answer, "No." But the fact remains that you do. For almost every wage earner these days has an income, in checkbook or pocketbook, well above the cost of his living, taxes, insurance and debt repayments.

You never actually "bid" against anybody for a porterhouse steak, but when you take the spending of all average Americans as a group, it's a different story. So it is important that excess money be saved rather than used collectively to bid up prices. If it is spent, instead of saved, prices soar. . . That's inflation.

Ideally, it should be invested in Government securities during the Second War Loan. "They give their lives . . . You lend your money."

HEPBURN-TRACY REUNITED IN M.G.M.'S DRAMATIC HIT "KEEPER OF THE FLAME"

Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn, who formed one of the year's brightest star teams in "Woman of the Year," are reunited in another dramatic and romantically exciting newspaper story in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Keeper of the Flame," adaptation of the I. A. R. Wylie novel, now playing at the Pitts Theatre.

Tracy plays Steve O'Malley, noted war correspondent and newsmen, who is assigned to write the life of a great patriotic leader recently killed in an accident. Tracing down events in the man's life he meets and falls in love with his young widow, played by Miss Hepburn. Circumstances point to murder, and the newspaperman comes to suspect the widow of complicity in a plot to kill her husband, which precipitates a series of tensely dramatic situations until the real facts disclose that she was attempting to protect his memory, and that he was involved in an unpatriotic, dictatorial plot.

Tracy's portrayal is grippingly dramatic, and Miss Hepburn rises to emotional heights in the dramatic climax in a burning arsenal. Richard Whorf, newcomer from the Broadway stage, is compelling as the jealous secretary, and Margaret Wycherly, veteran stage star, gives a gripping performance as the demented mother of the dead man.

George Cukor directed with deft skill and great attention to delicate human interest moments in the story. Principals include Audrey Christie, Donald Meek, Frank Craven and Darryl Hickman.

A dramatic musical score by Bronislau Kaper points up the dramatic highlights of the production.

ARE YOU HELPING THE AIRCRAFT WARNING SERVICE IN MANASSAS?

Chessie Writes a Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Manassas Journal

Sir:

EVEN a railroad kitten gets around now and then. And I have lately heard some questions asked and comments made about our railroads that have inspired me to write you this letter.

I suppose it is perfectly natural that people who see the enormous load of traffic our railroads are moving in wartime — people who watch millions of tons of freight and thousands of men in arms go rolling by—should say: "I'll bet the roads are coining money these days."

It seems to me that the truth of this question is something every American ought to know.

Nearly everyone has read or heard that during the recent years of depression the railroads had extreme difficulty making ends meet. In the twelve years following 1929, thirty-seven Class I railroads sought relief from their troubles in bankruptcy. Others staggered along under heavy burdens of debt. And the average earnings of all Class I railroads, for that period, were only 2.2% on investment.

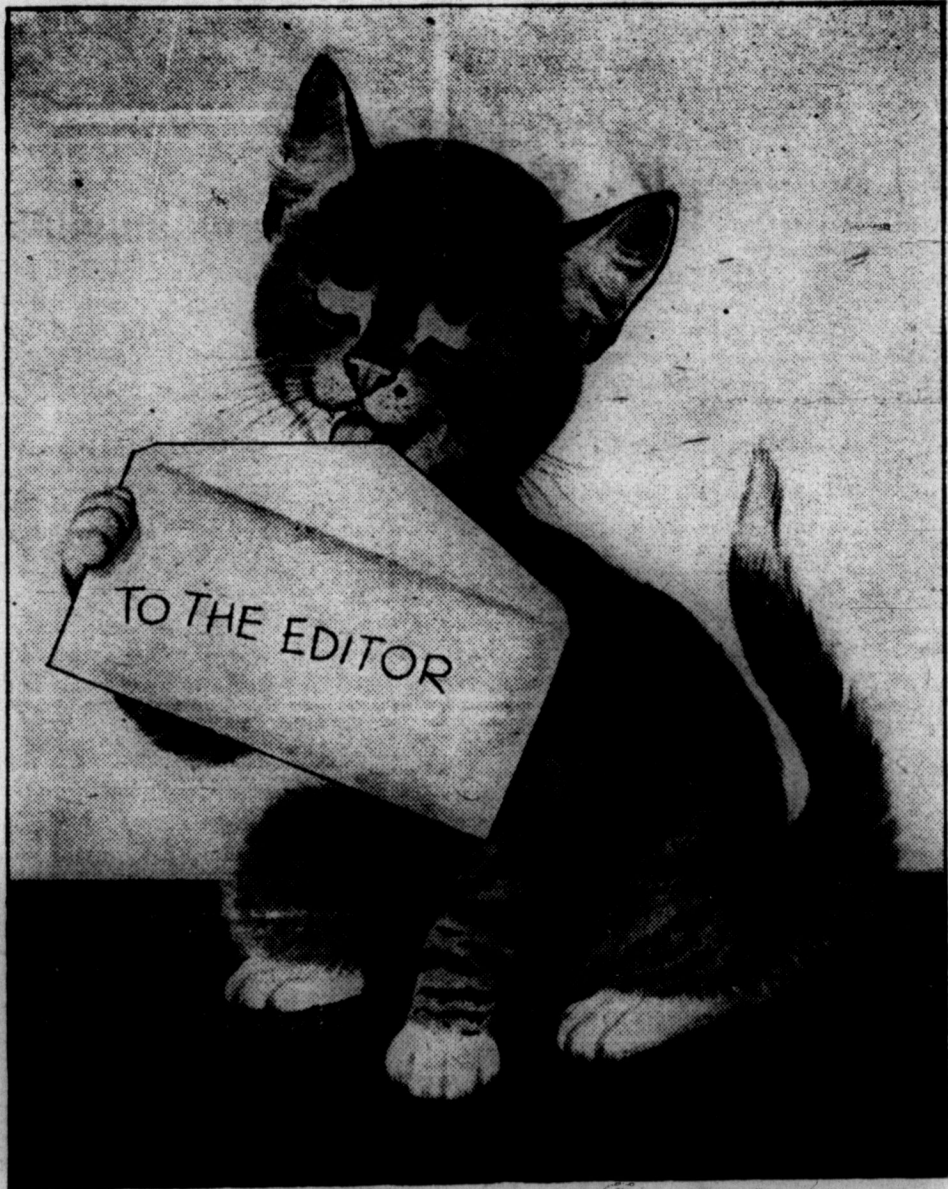

But what many people do not know is that even in 1942, the American railroads earned only a moderate return on investment.

Railroad traffic increased enormously, of course. But so did operating costs, so did taxes. And the average earnings, for all Class I railroads, in our first year of war, were only five and a half per cent.

Even the railroad kitten, Mr. Editor, can see that this is not a profiteer's wage.

It is almost the same percentage as the earnings that were fixed by the government for the railroads during the last war. It is within what Congress declared in 1920 to be a fair earning on railroad value. And the Interstate Commerce Commission has repeatedly recognized the principle that a fair return should be gauged by the average earnings over a period; that the roads should be allowed to make up in good years for the lean.

Mine is a small voice. But this is a free country. And it gets my fur up to hear people undervalue our railroads.

Those who do have only to look around them to see how tremendous a part in our national crisis is being taken by cars and coaches and engines—and by the men who run them. For transport is the life-blood of our war effort.

We have reason to be thankful for the strength of our railroads. And equally good reason, with a view to the years ahead, to see that they continue to be strong and sound institutions.
