LOVELY WEDDING IN WASHINGTON

BECK-PATTIE NUPTIALS

A wedding of much interest to many Journal readers was solemnized at 8:30 Thursday morning, August 12, 1943, at St. Joseph's Church, Second and C Streets, N. E., Washington, D. C., when Miss Harriett Frances Pattie became the bride of Sgt. Frank Charles Beck of the Ordnance Department, U. S. Army.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Jett Pattie of Bellefarm, Gainesville, Va., and Sgt. Beck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Beck of Kansas City, Mo.

The church was beautiful with lighted candles and large vases of pink gladioli, lilies and aster. The bride approached the altar upon the arm of her father. She was beautifully gowned in white mousseline de soie, made with shirred fitted basque, long full sleeves and bouffant skirt of floor length. Her veil of finger tip length fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a gold cross necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a shower of orchids upon a prayerbook of simulated pearls, a gift of the groom's mother.

The very impressive double ring ceremony and nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. M. J. Farrell of St. Joseph's Church. The musical program was rendered by the organist of the church, while the vocal selections were beautifully sung by Miss Eva Owens, a friend of the bride.

Mrs. Edward Smith served as her sister's matron of honor. She was attired in a pale pink marquisette and carried a bouquet of vari-colored asters.

Mr. Edward L. Curtis of Kansas City, Mo., and Aberdeen, Md., as best man, and ushers were Mr. Joseph Lavezzo of Washington, D. C., and Mr. Edward Smith of Gainesville, Va.

Following a reception at the church, the bridal party and a number of relatives and friends were guests of the bride's parents at a very merry wedding breakfast at the Continental Hotel. The two-tiered wedding cake had a miniature soldier and his bride as its central decoration.

In the early afternoon the couple left, amid a shower of rice, for a honeymoon at Orkney Springs, Va. The bride's travelling costume was of steel blue crepe, with navy hat and accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

The bride attended high school at Haymarket and Manassas and now holds a position in the Aviation section of the War Department. The groom is at present stationed at Aberdeen, Md.

After September 15 they will be at home to their friends at 2440 Monroe Street N.E., Washington, D. C.

DEMONSTRATION AGENT GIVES HINTS

VALUABLE HOUSEHOLD HINTS BY MISS NELL GRIM

Rayon Eaters:

So many of our clothes have some rayon in them now, that we must watch for insects that destroy rayon. "Not guilty," is the verdict given to the clothes moth by entomologists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in the case of damage to rayon. But four other common insects are held as suspects. The clothes moth is found innocent because it feeds only on animal substance like wool, hair or feathers and damages only wool in a wool and rayon fabric. But silver fish, cockroaches, crickets and carpet beetles may be guilty. Silver fish and roaches are especially fond of starchy food so will feed on rayon containing a starch sizing. Carpet beetles prefer animal food but can subsist on starches. Crickets seem to like a diet containing roughage as well as calories as they will chew on any fabric. Insects usually attack soiled fabric first, because spots of grease or other food, and even perspiration provide extra nourishment.

A clue to the culprit may be found in the appearance of the damaged fabric. Silver fish and roaches usually starch on the surface of the cloth instead of cutting through. Carpet beetles leave small, round, smooth-edged holes while crickets make larger, rougher holes.

Many insects will cut through fabric if caught inside, the entomologists say. Some, such as ants, may tunnel through folds of cloth in making a nest. In general, insect damage to clothes can be prevented by keeping both clothes and house clean and by using sprays and powders when insects first appear.

When clothes are sorted, put them in a tight container with plenty of naphthalene or paradichloro-benzene flakes or crystals. Insects are not to blame for all holes in rayon goods. Rough treatment in laundering breaks threads and starts holes. Nail polish and perfume may dissolve rayon and chlorine bleach "rot" it.

Fall Garden Green for Vitamins
Now, that we have had a good rain, if you haven't planted turnips for your fall crop of greens do so at once. These turnips will offer crisp greens and later the turnip. These will help the family balance the daily Vitamin A budget and lay up a surplus besides, by serving the greens, raw, cooked and often. Vitamin A is plentiful in most green vegetables and can be stored in the body for later when A-foods may be scarce.

To preserve all possible food value, prepare green vegetables quickly. If you must keep them after picking or buying, pile them loosely to prevent crushing, and cover lightly in a cool, damp place. Wash but don't soak them, because some vitamins "soak out" into the water. Wash vegetables quickly, then lift from water to free sand and grit.

For the most in food value serve green vegetables raw as salad, relish or sandwich filler, always keeping them cold and crisp. In cooking, save the nutritious goodness by quick cooking and little water. To boil vegetables drop them in briskly boiling, lightly salted water, just enough to prevent sticking to pan. Leafy greens like spinach or others from fall gardens need only the water that clings to the leaves. Cover pan to hasten cooking, and cook only until the greens are tender. Save water they are cooked in for soup, gravy or sauce.

A quick, easy way to cook many green vegetables is pan-frying: For each 2 quarts of vegetables prepared, melt 2 tablespoons of fat in a heavy flat pan, add vegetables, and cover to hold in steam. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking or burning and cook until vegetable is tender but not mushy. Favorites for pan-frying are cabbage, shredded; kale, stripped from the tough midribs; spinach and summer squash, cut in small pieces; akra pods sliced crosswise; tender green beans, sliced. Drippings from roast meat, fried sausage, salt pork, or bacon give fine flavor to pan-fried vegetables when used as the fat. Or, add salt pork or bacon, cut in fine pieces and fried crisp, to vegetables just before serving. Other ways to vary flavor: Add chopped onion or a bit of leftover meat. Or sift flour lightly over cooked vegetable and mix well, add milk, and stir until thickened.

First cousin to pan-fried vegetables are old-fashioned "wilted" greens. Allow one-fourth cup meat drippings and one-half cup vinegar for each 2 quarts of prepared vegetable. Chop a small onion into melted fat and cook until onion turns yellow. Add vinegar and vegetable. Cover and cook until wilted. Season with salt and pepper. Serve hot or cold.

Green vegetables pair off well with other foods. Cook peas with diced potatoes and a little chopped onion. Cook okra with tomatoes. For meatless days mix cooked chopped vegetables in an omelet or serve over the top. Serve cooked greens, flavored with meat drippings in a ring of boiled rice.

Green vegetables make good soup, too. Have a soup pot always ready for bits of vegetables that would otherwise go to waste, such as lettuce peelings, outer leaves of lettuce and celery, leftover vegetables. Also in a pot go meat bones and water vegetables are cooked in. Keep soup cold between cooking and serving.

REV DECHANT ENJOYS TRIP

To the Editor,
The Manassas Journal:

Dear E.:

My recent vacation took me to Big Stone Gap, away off in Southwest Virginia. I write, not just because I had a pleasant vacation, but because I think all of us might profit by an account of this community.

I marvelled at the cows freely roaming the streets, grazing in the vacant lots and standing knee deep in the cool soft water of Powell River, which runs through the town. Though I didn't see them do so, I think they walk up to the "Pet" Dairy every night and morning to be milked.

The Stonegap and Blue Diamond mines are not far away, and part of our coal supply comes from this region. Besides climbing a mountain or two, hiking to Appalachia and back, and viewing the home of the late John Fox, Jr., author of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine", I had the pleasure of visiting the Janie Slomp Newman Museum. Mr. C. T. Barlow, the Hotel Manager, drove me to the Museum, and Miss Mabel McCullough, the Curator, was the courteous and well-informed guide.

The Museum gives a wonderful complete and accurate history of the development of civilization in Southwest Virginia from the days of its earliest settlement to the present. Here are the tools that were in early use for building homes, making furniture, and tilling the soil; both single and double ox yokes, and primitive plows and hand tools, and an ancient stone for grinding corn. Here are some of the oldest forms of lighting equipment used in America, a faggot holder, a bear fat lamp, and a spirit lamp. Here is a collection of flat irons, one heated with charcoal in a self-contained unit, others with iron elements heated in the hearth fire and inserted in the iron; and a curious fluting iron for putting crimps in the ruffles formerly worn by both men and women.

A number of dioramas depict life in the Southwest years ago. One shows a fletcher with the cooking being done at the hearth by life-like figures dressed in traditional costumes. Another exhibits early hand spinning and weaving. One is an ancient blacksmith shop with the smith at the anvil and the forge fire aglow. A fourth diorama is a realistic small town newspaper office, with editor, copyboy, pressman, and printer all at work.

A sizeable library contains books and pamphlets by and about people of Southwest Virginia. There are displays of fire arms, pails, baskets and buckets, and assorted butter churns, including a cradle churn. Very interesting is the collection of musical instruments, homemade violins, accordions, and the earliest mechanical music boxes. The side of one room is covered with fans of every description. Quilts carrying designs like Dolly Madison, Star of Bethlehem, Friendly Fan and Irish chain are shown near the old cord poster bed. Braided and woven rugs are on the floors.

The Museum is housed in crowded quarters on the Slomp property. A recent grant from State funds will provide adequate and worthy housing for this splendid collection. Thoughtful readers may be inspired to see the historical and educational

PULPWOOD CUTTING IS ESSENTIAL

MANPOWER COMMISSION ISSUES IMPORTANT RULING

War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt today clarified the attitude of the War Manpower Commission as to the essentiality of pulpwood production in a statement to the Newspaper Pulpwood Committee.

"Pulpwood is an essential war material," he said, "used among other things for making rayon parachutes, shipping containers and smokeless powder."

"Its many wartime uses have created a shortage which is rapidly becoming acute. With these conditions in mind, the War Manpower Commission has recently classified pulpwood cutting and production of pulp as essential war occupations. "May I urge every man engaged in this essential work, either part or full time, to give it the best he has in him. Let him remember he is witting his axe and saw in the same struggle and to the same end that other men are welding bayonets and machine guns."

"I know that the men who work in the forests and pulp mills and the farmers who cut pulpwood from their woodlots are just as patriotic and loyal as any other group of Americans. Now that they realize the importance of their part in the war, I am sure they will respond with the extra hours, extra days and extra effort that is the only possible answer to this dangerous shortage."

Pulpwood cutting is now on a revised list of essential activities and has been so specified in a bulletin on forestry, logging and lumbering sent to the local selective service boards by the WMC. The cutting of wood, including pulpwood, also is included among the essential farm products listed by the Selective Service as a guide to local boards in the deferment of registrants engaged in agriculture.

As in all such cases, however, the local selective service board is responsible for determining whether a specific registrant's occupation is in support of the war effort. The WMC essential occupation list is the board's guide.

War Manpower Commissioner McNutt is the fifth top-ranking war agency chief to support the Victory Pulpwood Drive with statements explaining the importance of pulpwood in the war effort. The others are WPA Chairman Donald M. Nelson, OPA Administrator Prentiss Brown, ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman, and Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

Woman, Bent On Suicide, Leaves Hotel Ledge To Answer Telephone Call

Ready to leap from a sixteen-story ledge of a downtown hotel, a Dallas woman recently exercised the right to change her mind and hustled into her room to answer, of all things, a telephone call.
Police and hotel officials had been pleading with the woman not to jump. When their efforts failed, the manager in desperation stepped to a telephone and rang her number. The mystery of "Who's calling?" proved too much for the woman who stepped back into the room, where a detective grabbed her.

State Owns Finnish Utilities
All but 160 miles of Finland's 3,600 miles of railways are state owned. Public ownership also includes the 24,000 miles of telegraph lines, and most of the 118,000 miles of telephone lines. Airways link Finland with Estonia and with Sweden. Key road in the highway grid is the motor route linking Petsamo, northern port, with the south. A day's peacetime traffic count totaled 2,500 trucks, buses and motor cars. Winter temperatures pave the road with a tough upper crust that stands up to the pounding of truck traffic. Because of the Gulf Stream, Petsamo is ice-free—a sea-door "spare" that can be used even though the Baltic ports should be closed by ice or enemy action.

National Holidays
Strictly speaking there are no national holidays although many of them, such as Christmas, New Year's day, Fourth of July, Labor day and Thanksgiving day, are nationally observed.
Such holidays have been designated as public holidays by both the federal government and all the state governments, but the federal government is without constitutional authority to enforce such an edict in the various states. All congressional acts fixing legal holidays have been limited to the District of Columbia, federal territories and federal government offices. Otherwise holidays are established by separate state legislation.

Cassie Chadwick
Cassie Chadwick, born Elizabeth Bigley in Eastwood, Ont., in 1857, for a time practiced clairvoyance, but soon turned to forgery and was first arrested and tried at the age of 16. Of little education, plain, and decidedly "queer," she nevertheless was able to dupe otherwise sensible business men into believing she was a kind of ward of Andrew Carnegie and secure unlimited credit on documents forged with his name. She was finally exposed when a small bank failed because it had loaned her so much money, was tried and convicted in 1905. Sentenced to 10 years in prison, Mrs. Chadwick died after serving only three.

Yanks Set Good Example
The United States army has captured the Australian soldier's imagination with its ceremonial customs, and this has led to a revival at several large Australian army bases of customs followed by the British army for centuries. An instance is the recent ordering of the ceremonial hoisting and lowering of the colors at sunrise and sunset in the Darwin area.
Every unit in the area hoists its flag at the mounting of the guard (sunrise) and lowers it at retreat (sunset). Revival of this traditional procedure is the answer to Britain's recent restoration of the "spit and polish" tradition.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Ships of the Destroyer type comprise the bulk of our fighting ships in the American Navy. Their average displacement is about 1800 tons, and they are fast, powerful, and hard hitting. They have been particularly effective in convoy duty and gave a good account of themselves in the Coral Sea engagement. They cost approximately $3,600,000 each.

Every Navy shipyard is turning out Destroyers in record time. They are essential for our two-ocean Navy. Purchase of more and more War Bonds will assure all-out production of these vital units for the Navy. Buy every pay day. If everybody invests at least ten percent of his income in War Bonds we can do the job. U. S. Treasury Department

Slender Hands Unnecessary For Fine Work, Army Says

The old idea that long, slender hands are necessarily the "finest" type, capable of doing the most delicate work, is "simply a lot of bunk," according to the flight surgeon of the world's largest bombardier school.

Basis for his statement is the examination, during the first year of operations at this huge home of the "Hell From Heaven Men," of thousands of bombardier cadets.

Because his is a job requiring split second accuracy, perfect timing and complete precision, the bombardier must have hands capable of work as delicate as that of a watchmaker, as deft as those of the finest artist. With his hands the bombardier must manipulate the complex mechanism of the famous U. S. bombsight in the few short seconds that his bombing plane is "on course," with the target reflected on the cross-hairs of the eyepiece. He must do this without a quiver or a tremor. In actual combat, he must keep steady in spite of enemy anti-aircraft fire, in spite of attacking enemy fighter planes. The action of his hands must be quick, skillful and certain.

"The idea that long, slender hands are the more skillful is based entirely on appearances, not on results," the flight surgeon at this bombardier school declared. "Here at this training center for Uncle Sam's bombardiers, where students must prove themselves not only proficient, but actually better than average, we have discovered through constant research that bombardier's hands run to all sizes and shapes, and that the physical proportions of hands have little, if anything, to do with their efficiency."

Army Mess Officer Plans To Get Most From Food

Housewives could take a lesson in making the most of their rations from an army mess officer. A mess officer's tricks to make a little go a long way are innumerable. For instance, bones are boiled three days to get a stock from which very tasty gravy and seasoning for soups and vegetables can be made.

When canned goods are used, the cans are placed in boiling water to be taken out and opened as used. This way, not an extra can is used. Fresh vegetables are used except in the case of corn and peas.

All excess fat is trimmed and rendered to be used as cooking fats and for frying. Even the lower part of a chicken's legs and the upper part of its neck are used. They are put in with the bones to boil. A very large part of the bone boils down to a very rich broth. A little of this rich broth goes a long way as a substitute for meat.

Now and then, soldiers receive a steak for their dinner. This is due to careful management by the post meat cutters. The army doesn't purchase any particular cuts of meat. The plate (breast part) and shanks are used in braised beef. Chuck is used for meat balls, to go with spaghetti, and for meat loaf. And of course the better cuts are used in the standard manner.

Starts Oil Flowing

To start oil flowing from a well in hard, dense formations usually necessitates a shot of nitroglycerin or some other explosive. Charges of this chemical varying from 5 to 1,000 quarts are lowered into the well and set off by a time bomb or small charge of dynamite. When the nitroglycerin goes off, it loosens up the formation at the bottom of the well, and promotes a more rapid flow of oil.

If the flow of an old well in a limestone area slows down, a chemical—muriatic acid—is pumped into the formation. It increases the porosity of the limestone, and the oil runs out more freely.

Reflect Light

The two terms, fluorescent and phosphorescent, both of which are descriptive of types of luminous coatings which are being used in increasing volume in meeting war needs, are sometimes confused. It is pointed out that both terms represent the ability of certain substances to transform some form of invisible energy into visible light. The results are indistinguishable to the eye, but between them there is one important difference. "Fluorescence" lasts only while the exciting energy source or ultra-violet "black light" is present; "phosphorescence" continues after the light has been removed.

New Uses for Old Drapes

Laundry and save the upper parts of window draperies that have worn out at the bottom. There is often enough good material left from a pair of draperies, to make a jumper dress for a little girl or trousers for a boy, depending upon the type of fabric. If not suitable for apparel, the well-washed fabric can be used for pillow coverings, table runners, or other household decorations.

Keep Properties Up

"Paint is one of the essentials for keeping properties in a sound and livable condition," says the Federal Housing administration. FHA officials point out that one of the important ways for home owners to guard against undue deterioration of properties is by seeing that necessary painting jobs are not neglected.

Laborless Labor Day

How about a laborless Labor Day for you, the Homemaker? Truly you deserve relaxation along with the rest of the family! And it can be done, you know.

To make sure the day will be free from cooking, plan your menus for the entire week end so that practically all the meals can be cooked Saturday. Holiday meals needn't follow the regular schedule. With breakfast later in the morning and heartier, too, and a substantial dinner in the offing, lunch can be merely a snack or left out entirely. Of course dinner should be plentiful enough to take care of robust appetites, so we recommend the following:

LABOR DAY DINNER

Old-fashioned Baked Beans
Hot Spiced Beets
Cabbage, Carrot and Orange Slaw
Whole Wheat or Boston Brown Bread
Butter or Margarine
Applesauce Shortcake
Beverage

Ahead-of-time cooking—The beans, beets and shortcake can all be prepared ahead of time so that most of the work is done. Just reheat the beans for an hour before serving time. The beets can be cooked for Saturday with enough left over to spice and reheat for Monday. The shortcake and applesauce can easily be prepared earlier and united at the last moment.

Baked beans can be different—Practically everyone has her special way of baking beans. My favorite method is to put an onion in the bottom of the bean pot, then heap in the boiled beans, add sweetening, seasonings and enough bean liquor for moisture, and bake. The onion flavor permeates each and every bean in a most delicious manner.

Just Desserts—If you want to finish dinner off in a triumphant manner, then look to Julia Lee Wright's article in this week's Family Circle Magazine. It's all about sugar and shortening saving desserts.

150 BLOOD DONORS NEEDED FOR SEPTEMBER 15

If you have a boy or girl in the armed forces, would you deny them a chance to live, and return to you?

Think this over. Many lives are being saved on the battle fronts by the use of Blood Plasma, made from the blood contributed by those patriotic and loving ones back home.

You can save the life of a loved one by volunteering now to give one pint of blood when the Mobile Unit of the American Red Cross comes to Manassas on September 16.

The clinic will be in the Parish Hall of the Episcopal Church, door to the Post Office. Make an appointment now, and ask others to join you.

The clinic is in charge of a competent staff of doctors from the U. S. Navy assisted by fully trained nurses and civilians.

The donors run no risk, as a careful checkup is given, and only those in good physical condition are accepted.

Call Manassas 113 for an appointment. Let the boys know you are backing them with your heart's blood.

To the People of this Community:

DRIVE DEPENDS ON YOU!

Would you take a free ride on a wounded soldier's back? That's exactly what you would be doing if you did not do your duty in the Third War Loan.

Your idle weight would be felt by him on the battlefield. Every civilian counts in this kind of war. Every civilian must make his energy and his dollars work for victory.

Keep in mind that while our national goal in this drive is 15 billions of dollars, this money is being borrowed from you and you only. You are, as an individual, a deciding factor as to every dollar we reach this goal. An extra dollar becomes an extra bullet and extra bullet means victory of every type.

CROSS-RUSSELL

The Woodbine Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Doris Russell, daughter of Mr. James Russell of Canova, to Mr. Leonard Cross, son of Mrs. Sara E. Cross of Manassas. The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, August 29, with the Rev. Leonard Weston of the Manassas Baptist Church officiating, and a reception followed at the home of the bride. Miss Shirley Davis presided at the organ and Mrs. J. Vincent Davis sang "At Dawning."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white marquisette and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Her shoulder length veil was fashioned with a coronet.

Miss Lena Maddux of Kingsport, Tenn., formerly of Manassas, was maid of honor, wearing a frock of aqua net and carrying a bouquet of mixed flowers. Other attendants were Mrs. James Russell, sister-in-law of the bride, who wore pink net, and Mrs. Sidney Dunt, in a similar gown of yellow net, both of whom carried bouquets of mixed flowers.

Mr. Bernard Cross was best man for his brother, and ushers were Mr. William Ward of Indian Head, Md., and Mr. Judson Holmes of Manassas.

The church was decorated with ferns, laurel, and palms, and on the altar were cathedral tapers, surrounded by white gladioli and baby's breath.

Mrs. Cross had for her traveling costume a navy blue ensemble with matching accessories.

Dear Mother and Dad,

I guess you have been wondering why you haven't heard from me for such a long time. Well I can say I was just lucky. I've been in action fighting the Japs. I came out all right. I only got hit on the chin but not bad enough to mount to anything so don't worry now for I'm O. K. I got a letter from you while I was on the front and also Nina and Micky and was I glad. Boy that made me just go for more.

I was down in a hole in mud and water and I would read a little and then watch to see if any Japs were around, and at night we would be in our holes and would give them the works when they came around, but we got what we were fighting for. I was on the front lines for twenty days and all I saw was Japs. I am writing you this now with Japs ink and it's not very good. Well, Mother dear, tell everybody said hello and don't worry now. I'll write soon again. Tell Jane I'm thinking of her too.

I shaved now for a month. I could see me, I look like I never took a bath. TR days that we were Harry and Gie time I didn't Sunday School. It plenty hot. Morning Worship 11. Evangelistic Service 8 p. m. Pentecostal nite, Tues. 8 p. m.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Holy Stone

Cleanliness is the first order of every American soldier and sailor and the United States Government spends millions upon millions of dollars to keep our fighting men as clean and as healthy as circumstances will permit.

"Swab the deck!" cries out a petty officer and the men fall to with their "holy stone" equipment and in a short time everything is spick and span.

Buy War Bonds and more War Bonds and you know that you are sharing in the effort that will free the world from war lord domination.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The tradition of American cavalry threads back to Indian warfare days and although modern armies are largely motorized today, the cavalry still plays an important role. Sturdy, well trained horses and excellent equipment and trappings are necessary.

When men are in the saddle for hours, their saddles, saddle rolls and other equipment must be made to stand the wear. Complete with carbine and helmets, the equipment for the cavalryman runs into hundreds of dollars. You can help provide this with your War Bond purchases. If you have not done so, join the Payroll Savings Plan and out ten percent of your income into war bonds.

V Mail

When a soldier or a sailor is low in spirits there is nothing that will cheer him up as much as a letter from home, so the War and Navy Departments have devised a method of getting "the word" to its fighting men with the greatest dispatch. This is the microfilm method of transmitting letters, known to all of us as V-mail.

Any news from home is bound to please our soldiers and our sailors but the news they want to have most is the news from our production front and news that we are winning our fight against inflation by our savings and investment in War Bonds.

U. S. Treasury Department

This is a family war. Put your War Bond buying through the payroll savings plan on a family plan, which means figure it out yourself.

IN ADDITION TO OTHER THINGS, HE'S ON FIELD RATIONS—IF YOU GO ON BOND RATIONS YOU'LL BOTH THRIVE! AND SURVIVE!

I've Got a Home, too Mister! Every extra BOND you buy through the Payroll Savings Plan will help me get back to it. Figure it out Yourself.

Bell Labs Find Wink Takes Fraction Of A Second

Most of us know how to wink but not many of us know how "quick" is a wink. It took the Bell Telephone Laboratories to answer that question.

They developed apparatus to check the action of fast-moving mechanisms, such as tiny electric switches which go into action whenever one uses the telephone. With the same device they have timed a wink and according to their findings, if you do something as "quick as a wink," you're doing it in eleven-hundredths of a second.

An Open Letter TO OUR BOYS In the Armed Forces

You can Count on the People in This Community 100%

BOYS... yours is a tough job. Fighting this war is no fun. We know that... and this letter is to tell you that the people in this community are back of you to the limit... with everything they've got.

Here at home there is a serious pulpwood shortage. More pulpwood is needed and needed urgently for blood plasma containers, rayon for parachutes, smokeless powder, food cases and a thousand and one other things you boys need.

Well, we're starting a drive right now in this community to cut more pulpwood.

If we can't shoulder a gun the least we can do is shoulder an axe or a saw.

Our government says that it would take only 3 extra days of work this year for each able-bodied man to do the job that's needed. This is little enough to ask of any of us.

Well, if 3 extra work days will bring you boys home sooner... or even save one boy's life... we will put in the 3 extra days... and gladly.

We know our people and know the stuff they are made of. They have been fighting this War on the home front every day—buying War Bonds, working in war factories, on farms, and cutting pulpwood. But, if more pulpwood is needed, you will get it. This town and its people when called on always come through... and they won't fail you now.

We will back you up with Blood, Sweat and Trees.

WOODCUTTERS, FARMERS, CITIZENS:

This pulpwood shortage is acute. The situation is serious. We must act quickly. Uncle Sam is asking for only 3 extra days of work at regular pay. Enlist today... it's your patriotic duty. Get your button that shows you are in this Victory Pulpwood Drive. Don't let anyone say, "some boy died because you failed."
