County Agent Discusses "Disease of Small Grain Crops"

Diseases of small grains cause annual loss to Prince William farmers. Such losses are often erroneously attributed to soil or climatic conditions because plant-disease organisms are so small that they are easily overlooked. Treatments for stinking smut of wheat, loose or covered smut of oats and covered smut of barley may be made with New Improved Ceresan which is available at most local drug stores and through local seed and feed dealers.

New Improved Ceresan Treatment
Wheat, oats and barley seed may be satisfactorily treated in a barrel mixer, a cement mixer or other revolving machine. With such a mixer, New Improved Ceresan dust and the small grain are put in the mixer at the rate of one-half ounce of New Improved Ceresan to one bushel of seed. The mixer is turned slowly for about forty revolutions after which the treated seed is bagged. Avoid breathing the dust as much as possible. The treated seed is poisonous and must be kept out of the reach of animals. Surplus treated seed should be buried or burned. Grain may be treated two or three months prior to seeding and it is desirable to hold the treated seed in bags or bulk for at least twenty-four hours before planting to permit the volatile gases to penetrate into the seed coat.

Arrangements may also be made to buy treated seed or to have the home grown seed treated locally. Grain should be well cleaned before it is treated before it is treated in order to get best results.

A plan for making a home mixer may be obtained from the County Agent's office in the Manassas Post Office Building.

Miss Donovan Guest Red Cross Speaker

Mrs. Margaret Roblee Donovan, of the American Red Cross, will be the guest speaker on Monday evening, Sept. 11th, at the monthly meeting of the Manassas Woman's Club. The meeting, beginning at eight o'clock, will be held in Parish Hall.

Mrs. Donovan was one of nine girls in the first clubmobile unit to leave Washington on New Year's Day, 1943, and was in the first unit assigned permanently to the Air Forces. She was in the "donut wagon" attached to a bomber wing of the Air Forces in North Africa for nine months, only recently returning to the States to be with her husband, Col. Stanley Donovan, while he is stationed in Washington on special duty.

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting and hear Mrs. Donovan relate some of her experiences with our boys "Over There."

High Herd Yields Shown by Local Dairymen

The dairy herd of F. L. Hoffman, Gainesville, led in average production in August with a yield of 870 pounds milk and 43.3 pounds butterfat per cow. The J. Carl Kinchee No. 2 herd at Nokesville was second with 1,048 pounds milk and 37.8 pounds butterfat. The T. Gales Hutchison herd near Haymarket was third with an average yield of 1,055 pounds milk and 36.3 pounds butterfat per cow. The Birmingham Dairy herd, owned by J. C. Kinchee at Manassas, was fourth with 854 pounds milk and 32.4 pounds butterfat per cow. J. E. Barrett, Manassas, was fifth in the Association for August with an average yield per cow of 790 pounds milk and 28.9 pounds butterfat.

Nelson Page French, Newmarket, Va., has capably served as Tester of the Prince William Dairy Herd Improvement Association since June and is now starting in on his third month. Mr. French is President of the local Association and Charles C. Lynn, Jr., is Secretary-Treasurer.

Very satisfactory production was reported by French for all Prince William herds on test although dairymen operated under adverse conditions caused by the drought and shortage of feeds. A total of 492,939 pounds milk and 16,563 pounds of butterfat were produced by the twenty tested in August.

NAVY VOLUNTEER

Chief Specialist Alton Frix, Navy Recruiter reports the patriotic action of Frank Edward Jones, of Manassas who volunteered for duty in August. Jones is now in the Naval Reserve and is stationed at Bainbridge, Md., for his indoctrinal training.

The chief says that, regardless of when Germany surrenders, the quotas for September and October are greatly increased, and that still more seventeen year old boys are needed to man our seven ocean Navy.

The local recruiting office in the Postoffice Building is open every Thursday from ten until one, and later by appointment.

Thousands of young men are laying a solid groundwork for a future in medicine, dentistry, or pharmacy, as they serve in the Hospital Corps of the United States Navy, according to Lieut. Commander Charles L. Kessler in charge of Navy Recruiting in Va.

He states that young men now have the opportunity of a lifetime presented them in the Navy's offer to enlist them in the Hospital Corps, and to give them a starting "rate" if they have had experience, or appear particularly talented for this type of work.

Other young men who have interests or talents of another nature are finding great advantages in the training and experience given by the Navy after a man successfully passes the "Eddy" test. There is no obligation in taking this test, and every man of 17 years of age should try it, to see whether or not he can qualify.

Chief Frix said he was also responsible for WAVE enlistments, and would be pleased to discuss with young women of 20 thru 25 years of age, the opportunities available upon becoming a Virginia Victory Volunteer.

The key to much of Russia's political activity is the fear that Fascism or Nazism, although beaten down at the time, may reappear again, only slightly disguised, and as such a danger as ever.

Letter From "Buddy" Merchant Somewhere in France is Cheerful Reading

LETTER FROM "BUD"
August 4, 1944,
Somewhere in France.

Dear Mom:
How's everything going at home these days? Well I hope! Well things are going very very well now. The Germans are in full retreat, and many of them are walking away with their hands behind their heads. Many of them say, "It's all over, we can't go on, the war will end in two weeks." Some of them are Russians, Poles, French, older type Germans, and Hitler's crying youth, who still think they'll win the war. These are the men who are holding up the end of the war. Yes, these little fourteen to eighteen year old men still yell "Heil Hitler!" but with what we're giving Jerry now, ever they will soon yell "we're through, it's all over."

As we moved forward today, we passed row after row of German wrecked and abandoned equipment, rifles, howitzers, anti-aircraft weapons, Mark IV and V, tiger and panther tanks, large German tanks of which I do not know the exact name, large trucks, buses, jeeps, weapon carriers, horses and buggies (the Germans ran out of gas, so they tried to retreat by horse and buggy), and left the dead German hero, Hitler's fighting men.

These were the sights which greeted my eyes. They were horrible, but to the American soldier, they showed the light of victory. Well, I have explained the first sights of our journey, so now I'll leave you with a bright feeling of what France is like now. As we passed through town after town, we were greeted with flowers, cheer, and the bright colors of the French flag, by its waving our own stars and stripes. Only a few hours ago the swastika and the groan of Hitler's voice had reigned over them, but now they had received their freedom. I now wear a bouquet of roses given me by a little French girl. Her eyes showed the joy, which only God could realize in them. Many of their homes were wrecked but they didn't mind. All through the night the little children still threw flowers until the road was covered with them. France was now on her first steps to liberation.

Your birthday package got through today and it was oh, so sweet. You and Rose must have gone to a lot of trouble getting it fixed up. Thanks a lot. Mom also has one on it's way. By the way the card was beautiful. It is slowly getting dark, so I'll have to close.

Lots of love,
Bud.

Lift the Spot
Spots and stains on thick materials like mattresses, upholstery, pillows, heavy rugs and also on wall paper are often more successfully removed by drawing out than sponging out, advises Margaret Furry, textile chemist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

If possible start removing the spot promptly while it is still fresh and moist and use some absorbing material. Common household materials like corn starch, white cornmeal, talcum powder or salt can all be used to absorb a moist stain. Magnesia powder and Fuller's Earth, which can be purchased at drug stores, are also good materials to have on hand for this purpose. Shake the absorbing powder gently on the wet spot, then brush off with a soft brush. Repeat until surface moisture has been absorbed. Finally cover the spot with the powder and leave for several hours before brushing off. Pieces of clean white blotting paper may be used also to draw out spots.

If the spot has dried, make a paste of cold water and one of these absorbents and spread over the spot. When dry brush off and repeat until the stain disappears. If the spot contains grease, make the paste of the absorbent and some grease solvent like carbon tetrachloride instead of water. Grease spots on wall paper can often be removed by this latter method.

Cake For Over There
Fudge cake and fruit cake are two good choices among cake for shipping in overseas Christmas packages, food scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture advise. These firm-textured cakes take the jolts and jars of travel better than softer, lighter or more crumbly kinds. The cake may be in a pound coffee can or some other similar can, then frosted in the can, covered with a tight tin cover, sealed with adhesive tape, and packed in shredded paper in a heavy corrugated cardboard shipping box.

Senator Harry S. Truman stumped in Michigan for the fourth term, promising shirt sleeved crowds that President Roosevelt, if reelected, would keep faith with the "common man."

The government has taken over eight more bituminous coal mines and has indicated that it will keep on seizing them as fast as they are shut down by spreading strikes of supervisory employees.

Kiwanis Club Is Addressed By Rev. Len Weston

It was a typical Labor Day speech with which the Kiwanis Club was treated by Rev. Len Weston the Friday before the holiday. His subject was "Why Labor Day?" He went down through the ages to renounce the relations that labor and capital have had, stopping here and there to speak of important incidents in these relations. Beginning he said he couldn't think of anything more humorous than to ask a preacher to talk about labor.

He spoke of the Guilds in the middle ages and ascribed to the Knights of Labor the origin of Labor Day in 1882. Speaking directly to his audience he pointed out that not only is farming a necessary work but also a dignified one. Two things have labor been striving for, shorter hours and more pay. Among the threatened pitfalls of labor he stated that labor is becoming political, that it is being exploited for political purposes, that it is taking advantage of its growing power, that it has substitute plans for an honest day's work, that it may not turn out an honest day's work for its increasing pay.

What is required—as all recognize—is that there must be better cooperation between capital and labor, that labor must not become tyrannical, as capital has been accused of being. He ended with an appeal for peace, prosperity and freedom at the end of this great war.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Mr. R. R. Fishpaw, the Agriculture Teacher at Manassas, was the guest speaker at the Chamber on Tuesday. He told the Chamber that if they could get the housing for the equipment that he could get the cannery. The cannery will have to be built of high school property. He will have to know in the next few days or the equipment will be given elsewhere. There are only ten canneries to be distributed over Northern Va. by the State and they are worth $1,000 each. The county is to furnish the building and it should be 30, x 50, and would cost around $4,000. The Agricultural Committee composed of Mr. Chas. Lynn the Chairman, Mr. Walter Sadd, Mr. Frank Cox, Mr. M. B. Leach and Dr. Pickrel will bring the proposal before the Board of Supervisors. It was proposed to have the cannery at the Dumfries School or in that section of the county. Mr. Fishpaw said the cannery at Nokesville had canned 10,000 cans of vegetables from the gardens around Nokesville.

Mr. Alpaugh read a paper from the State Chamber of Commerce informing us that the stores in Richmond will be closed on the day that peace is declared in Europe. If it should be on Saturday, they will open on Monday, but if the surrender should be on Sunday the stores will be closed on Monday. The State Chamber wrote to ask that the stores be closed here too. The following committee was appointed to see the merchants: Mr. Bushong, Mr. Gohlwaite, Mr. E. E. Conner and Mr. Hutton Tiffany.

The prizes have been awarded for the Prince William Projects contest to members by the Chamber of Commerce. The first prize was given for Foundry Business, won by the Hon. Harry Davis; the second prize of $15 went to Mrs. Chas. W. Alpaugh for a Broom Factory and the third prize was a tie between Mr. Holler and Mr. Moser, the project being a Woodwork Shop, for furniture and upholstery.

Southern States Coop Elects Directors at Nokesville

Members of Southern States Cooperative in the Nokesville section elected two members to the Board of Directors at the annual membership meeting in Nokesville High School recently. More than 140 farm people attended this get-together which was presided over by M. S. Kerlin.

Farmers named to the board were W. R. Colvin and Clay Wood, of Nokesville. The board chose Mr. Lester Huff as chairman for the coming year.

In his annual report on Southern States Cooperative, District Manager Russ Furman, of Winchester, announced that the organization is paying its members a patronage refund of 4 per cent on the purchases which they put through the cooperative during the year ended June 30, this refund totaling $2,018,000 for the entire membership.

"One of the most useful services which Southern States provided farmers during the past year was the Emergency Hay program under which the Southern States purchased and distributed for Commodity Credit Corporation 11,585 cars—more than 177,000 tons—of hay in the drought stricken areas of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and North Carolina," Mr. Furman said.

"I think you can take pride in the fact that your organization did this job with remarkable efficiency at a cost of only 61c a ton and that your cooperative by its own insistence returned to the Federal Government every cent of the net savings or earnings on the hay business. These earnings approximated a quarter of a million dollars."

The speaker reminded his audience that Southern States members produce food for several million people, food which is the most vital munition of war.

In discussing the activities of the National Tax Equity Association which accused rural cooperatives of not paying all the taxes they should, Mr. Furman characterized their attack on cooperatives as an "effort to deny to farm people their rights of free enterprise." He emphasized that the "real issue is not taxes, which cooperatives are paying, but the destruction of farm cooperatives. They challenge the farmer's right to go into business for himself and to perform for himself services which are vital to the successful operation of his farm as a means of livelihood."

Prize winners in the contests were Frank Foster and L. W. Huff, of Nokesville.

Hosts at this annual event were Southern States Nokesville Cooperative, Nokesville, and Southern States Cooperative.

Elmer W. Fox, son of Mrs. Bertha Fox, of Manassas, Va. who, recently moved to Rockville Md., was killed by a runaway horse. His small brother Alfred Fox, and Clyde Pearson were with him at the time but escaped serious injuries. He leaves a wife and five small children, mother, one sister, Mrs. Pauline Libeau six brothers, two who are in the Navy, one in the Army and the rest at home. The funeral was held at the Baptist Church at 2 o'clock Wednesday and was laid to rest in The Valley View Cemetery.

Fast Tense: Raymond Everett Nelson, television show producer, was talking about his younger days when he was a stock company actor in Cleveland. "Bob Hope and Pat O'Brien were both used car salesmen in that city at the time," Nelson said. "Hope would act as master of ceremonies at smokers and vaudeville shows when the regulars were ill or booked for two places the same night. O'Brien got into acting because his wife was interested in it and he wanted to 'go along for the ride,' as he explained it. One night, O'Brien and I were playing in 'The Trial of Mary Duggan.' The judge had a complete script on his desk out of sight of the audience of course. So whenever O'Brien forgot his lines, he merely shouted, 'I object,' and went up to the desk and got his cue."

Top Cards: Elsa Maxwell introduced John Reed King, master of ceremonies on the "Double or Nothing" program, to Dr. Hubert King, the distinguished cranial surgeon.

"This is just like a card game," commented La Maxwell. "Both of you Kings are practically alike. You resemble one another greatly. Your work is dependent on the brain." "Thank you," interrupted the dimpled John Reed. "But, much as I hate to admit it, Dr. King is superior. After all, he does draw the higher jack."

Gratitude Debt: Dick Roffman of Hillman Periodicals forwarded this thought: "A salute to some nameless man in the navy department who, some years ago, decided to stop this country from supplying helium to Germany for use in its dirigibles, etc. There are those who say that the Von Hindenberg (Zeppelin) never would have crashed in flames at Lakehurst if we had allowed Germany sufficient helium for it. But here's an important fact: When the planes of the Allies fly over occupied Europe and Germany itself they are not hampered by barrage balloons the way our enemies are when they try to get to Britain. Denied our helium, Germany can use only hydrogen. When a hydrogen-filled balloon falls, it bursts into flames and ravages the countryside, a double disadvantage."

THE BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

By parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

"For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power."—Cor. 4:20.

Faith changes our very heartbeat. Any thought on faith is eagerly welcomed today. Therefore, we think on Faith.

"O Lord, increase our faith," and let not the words of our prayer become brittle chips of fatality. Amen.

Jesus, stern son of fact, was never far from faith. The proof of this is written on almost every page of the Gospels and shows up in practically all of His helpings and healings. The afflicted woman who believed she could be cured by simply touching the hem of Jesus' robe is rather typical, and the words of Jesus spoke on this occasion guide us in this matter of faith.

"Thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace. . . ." (Mark 5:34).

Jesus did not demand faith so great as this woman's, indeed He said even as little faith as the size of a mustard seed is powerful enough to change one's life and move it ahead through obstacles large and small.

Plowman's Folly

By Frank T. Cox

The journalistic success of Edward H. Faulkner's "Plowman's Folly" is undoubtedly due to the farmer's willingness to consider any idea that might offer more light on the subject of tillage. The theories advanced in this book are for the most part highly imaginative and are supported by little experimental evidence. Little that is new is offered that the author has found to be practical.

Faulkner contends that the shallow disking of any land places it in better tith for subsequent crop production than does plowing under any conditions. He brands all plowmen as men who know not what they do and condemns the plow as a destroyer of the soil. He criticizes the subsoiler. He ridicules the cultipacker and substitutes a similar implement which he calls a marker-packer. He denounces land drainings and classes tile as a soil malterer along with the plow.

We are told that by carrying out his theory of shallow disking we will no longer have use for legumes to remove free nitrogen from the air and that without legumes we can dispense with liming. We are further enlightened that we have been carrying coals to Newcastle by adding mineral fertilizer elements to an already abundant supply in our soils.

Each "Faulknerism" paves the way for another. As we delve further into the discourse we find that the solution of many of life's problems as well as that of soil fertility narrows down to the simple expedient of laying aside the turning plow. We have the veiled promise that through doing so even the action of frost may be circumvented and that plant diseases and parasites may pass into oblivion. The author would furthermore build all vitamin richness into plants with his harrow and cartwheel marker-packer. Even the weeds in our crops would no longer have to be considered as an inevitable evil. In the author's own words, through the adoption of his theories Mother Earth would be made to smile again.

Faulkner's ideas boil down to the shallow disking of the topsoil as against plowing. No practical farmer questions the wisdom of moderate to deep plowing. The more unfavorable the growing conditions, the more evident are the disadvantages of shallow preparations. Land is plowed deep to create a seed bed. It is plowed deep to put undecayed vegetable matter in a position where it can disintegrate into desired humus. It is plowed deep to make it capable of absorbing and holding moisture, to check the running off of water and to make it possible for vegetation to develop a deep root system. When the land is well plowed crops stand up under droughts while crops on shallow stirred land ly worked soil layers to hold sufficient fire up because of the inability of thin-moisture in reserve. Under Faulkner's method, the hard pan of soils would eventually be brought to harrowing depth and the run-off of water would be almost complete.

Faulkner, in condemning drainage, has obviously overlooked the fact tilled crops drown quickly when the water level stands above their roots. In this it must be admitted that he author has one theory that does hold water—too much water.

The writer brings our attention that the vigorous growth of perennials in fence rows and woodlands are untouched by the plow. Conditions as found in fence rows and woodlands cannot be compared with those of fields of domestic, tilled crops. Plants protected by year's accumulations of mulch which favor their method of growth. The domestic, annual crops in tilled fields have younger, more delicate roots that are incapable of the soil penetration of woodland and fencerow plants as the oak, honeysuckle and the blackberry.

Chairman, Prince William County Chapter,
American Red Cross,
Manassas, Va.

My Dear Mrs. Lloyd:

We accepted a gift, in the form of a check, from the Bull Run Hunt Club in the same manner that we have accepted gifts from numerous other organizations. We were asked, very indirectly, if we would accept this money and our answer was we would but the only thing that could be said, in the advertising, was the proceeds would be given to the Red Cross. Evidently, the program had already been printed at the time we were contacted.

When our canteen was asked to take over the selling of the hot dogs, we did would be good experience for our canteen with the one idea in mind that it teen workers in mass feeding. The money we cleared was very negligible, but the experience we gained was invaluable.

We, as a part of the Red Cross, are very sorry that any unpleasantness was caused, or anything said that would hinder our work as a complete unit. I am sure the first thought of us is service to humanity.

With kindest regards, I am,

(Miss) Rebecca Glenn,

Naval Officer Becomes Hero

Spruance Wins Distinction in Fights With Japs; Greatest Sea Force.

WASHINGTON.—A naval officer who was unknown to the general public less than two years ago has emerged as one of the greatest of American sea heroes. He is Adm. Raymond Ames Spruance, commander of the Fifth fleet, which defeated a powerful Japanese force recently between the Philippines and the Marianas Islands.

This was the latest in a series of smashing victories led by Admiral Spruance, the first American admiral of four star rank to lead out a task force looking for a surface fight with an axis foe. He was the man who had command responsibility for the capture and occupation of Tarawa, Makin, Kwajalein, and Eniwetok and the campaign against Truk. Earlier he commanded one of the two task forces engaged in the historic battle of Midway.

Now only 57 years old, Spruance is the youngest full admiral in the navy. He was born July 3, 1886, in Baltimore, Md., but springs from an old Indiana family, and lists Indianapolis as his home town.

Relatives in Indianapolis recall that Raymond fell into a well when he was a small boy. He was pulled out by the family's Irish cook, who said after the rescue: "Look here, I've saved an admiral."

Tells Life in Three Lines.

At the naval academy his nickname was "Sprew." His classmates say he doesn't like to talk about himself or be talked about. His biography in the latest edition of "Who's Who in America" consists of only three lines — "promoted through grades to rank of rear admiral December, 1939."

But Spruance was a marked man early in his naval career. In 1922 he was appointed to the board on doctrine of aircraft in connection with fleet fire control, which probably marked the beginning of his understanding that airplanes had changed tactics in sea warfare.

Soon afterward came his promotion to vice admiral, and commander of the central Pacific force which carried out the Gilbert and Marshall Islands campaigns and later the attacks on Palau, Yap, and other enemy strongholds. Spruance personally led the strike at Palau, only 500 miles from the Philippines and 350 miles west of Tokyo, after he had won the four stars of a full admiral last February.

In June, 1942, he became chief of staff and aid to Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, just in time to take a leading part in the battle of Midway, for which he received the distinguished service medal.

"The entire Pacific ocean to the gates of Japan is its stamping ground."

With these words the navy revealed existence of Task Force 58, "most powerful and destructive naval unit in the history of sea warfare."

It was Task Force 58—alone—which met, routed and sent scurrying into hiding a Japanese fleet that dared to move east of the Philippines.

Makeup of the hard-hitting and gigantic task force is secret. But Rear Adm. Arthur W. Radford, deputy chief of naval operations for air, gave this hint of its size: "We can safely assume that most of the 22 big new carriers commissioned since Pearl Harbor have been operating as part of the vast Task Force 58."

Newest and swiftest of the fleet's battleships, cruisers and destroyers also are assigned to the mighty force, which carries its own supply train of ships to provide a constant source of fuel and materials.

For six months it has been battering the Japanese and, the navy says flatly, has "reversed the direction of traffic in the Pacific ocean"—turned it to a one-way run toward Japan.

Many of the German prisoners of war captured in Normandy have volunteered to help with the harvest in Great Britain.

Quite Clear: One of those actresses who gets by because of her face and figure and whose brains are feathers, was discussing her vacation which is due next month and was really quite excited about the matter since she had gathered together a wardrobe that would surely make every male eye bug out a couple of inches. Finally she interrupted her flow of eloquence, turned to Bert Lytell and asked him what he intended to do.

"Because of wartime conditions," replied Lytell, "my plans, even this late, are tentative."

"That's just too, too wonderful!" returned the dumb cluck. "I'm sure you will enjoy camping out more than anything else."

Ollie: Bob Hawk says success on Broadway depends on two things, luck and pluck—luck in finding someone to pluck . . . Garry Moore asserts that the old-fashioned man who had a good head for figures now has a grandson who has a great eye for them . . . Bob Burns insists that the only time you'll ever see a Broadwayite give his girl a ring is when he's in a telephone booth . . . Groucho Marx claims he doesn't like book ends—he uses a pair of midgets . . . William Bendix tells of a movie mogul whose head is exactly one foot long but never used as a rule . . . A musician in Xavier Cugat's orchestra was late for morning rehearsal and Cugat wanted to know why he had overslept, as he claimed . . . "There were eight of us in the house this morning," was the reply, "and the alarm was set for seven."

HONOLULU.—Seabees formerly in the South Pacific paid natives only one shilling to climb trees to get them coconuts. But a machinist's mate second class, paid two shillings. The boy he hired said: "Me plenty smart. Go 'long mission school. One shilling for trip up, one shilling for trip down."

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Embarrassing Moment: On top of a Fifth avenue bus, two very shazily dressed young women were having quite a time for themselves discussing in French, evidently acquired at some fashionable finishing school, an oldish man seated directly in front of them. As the clumsy vehicle snailed its way uptown through dense mid-afternoon traffic, their remarks became more and more personal, one vying with the other in making wisecracks and with each remark, their merriment growing. At 59th street, the man arose, doffed his hat, bowed to the two misses and remarked: "Your accent is so atrocious, I had the greatest difficulty in understanding you." With that, he handed the nearest girl a neatly engraved card on which was a name followed by the line, "Teacher of French." Moral: In New York, when discussing a neighbor, it's best to speak English.

Under the Pacific in a U. S. submarine, Episcopal Chaplain William S. Brown, U. S. N. R., conducts his first undersea service. He was formerly rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Toledo, Ohio. Submarines usually do not have their own Chaplains, so when Chaplain Brown, passenger en route to a new station, suggested the service, the men consented eagerly. The Navy Department says this may well be the first official divine service ever held on one of America's fighting submarines. Cross and candles are on a small altar.

Jungle Terrors Called Hokum

Air Force Paper Belittles the Fear of Snakes, Tigers
And Crocodiles.

WASHINGTON. — Snakes, tarantulas, crocodiles, man-eating tigers and other terrors of the jungle are "strictly hokum," declares Air Force, official service journal of the army air forces, quoted by Science Service. And as for the dreadful heat of the tropics, "seasoned jungle travelers tell us that they have found Washington, D. C., in the summer much more oppressive than any jungle they've ever visited."

For the reassurance of young aviators about to go into the southwest Pacific fighting area, and especially for their anxious kinsfolk and friends who will be left behind, Air Force has rounded up the best information available, from numerous persons who have known the tropics at first hand.

Findings Reported.
Here are some of their findings: Poisonous snakes in the tropics are less numerous than they are right here in the safe old U. S. A. You may get to see about one snake a month, on the average, and it will probably be a harmless one. Pythons, boa-constrictors and other "crusher" snakes do not attack human beings.

Bites of the big tropical spiders (which, by the way, are not true tarantulas) rarely happen, and when they do they are not much worse than a wasp sting. The one spider known to be really dangerous is our own Black Widow, found in practically all parts of this country.

Crocodiles look terrible, but they are too small-brained and sluggish to be really formidable. Since they swallow their prey whole, only a "croc" more than 15 feet long would be likely to consider a man as a candidate for a meal. A slap from a crocodile's tail is more to be feared than its toothy jaws.

Lizard Good to Eat.
If you see a big lizard, don't shun him; grab him. He is as good to eat as chicken. There are no poisonous lizards in the tropics. The only known poisonous lizards, the gila monster and its next of kin, the bearded lizard, are natives of our own southwest and adjacent parts of Mexico.

Carnivorous animals need not be feared. There are tigers in Asia, leopards and lions in Africa, but there are not many of them and the few you are likely to run into will run away in one direction faster than you run in the other. The one exception is a female with cubs; females seem to be quite unreasonable in such matters.

Even the dreaded tropical leeches can be kept off with proper clothing. Or if they attach, they can be induced to loosen their grip with a little salt or alcohol, or the touch of the hot end of a cigarette.

The real perils of the jungle are the tiny things: insects and germs. Protect yourself against mosquitoes, see to it that your drinking water is either boiled or chemically sterilized, use an antiseptic on cuts, scratches and insect bites, and you will ward off the real perils of the jungle.

So They Can Eat

PART of Southern States' operating territory has suffered drought damage as bad as last year's. To help farmers when they need help most, Southern States has done these three things:

1. Reorganized its Hay Purchasing Program to provide emergency hay at lowest possible prices. The Government is not subsidizing hay this year.

2. Lowered price of Southern States dairy feeds and poultry mash. Manufacturing costs have been squeezed and Cooperative Service Agencies have voluntarily lowered handling margins. In some cases the protein content has been increased, which actually lowers ingredient costs. The result: Dairy feed has been reduced as much as $2 to $3 a ton, and the price of poultry mash lowered somewhat less.

3. Opened its doors to new patrons... for the first time in two years, Southern States is in a position to accept feed business from new patrons with the assurance of protecting them on their future needs.

Hard to say, isn't it?

In fact, you haven't given it much thought. Things are going well now. The job pays fine, and it looks as if it will last forever.

But suppose it doesn't? Suppose, in the years after the war, you find things slowing up. What then?

Sure... maybe a good man can always get a job. But isn't it a great thing to have a nice soft cushion to fall back on if and when things don't go right?

And right now, if you're in the Payroll Plan and tucking money away regularly, week after week, you're fashioning the best kind of cushion you can possibly have, a big wad of money invested in War Bonds.

Here's why:

War Bonds are the safest investment in the world.

War Bonds give you $4 back ten years from now for every $3 you invest.

War Bonds are your stake in the good things of tomorrow—security, independence, travel, a decent old age.

And today, War Bonds give you a chance to put your money into the fight—the best reason of all!

Think that over. And when you get your check... chuck a good portion of it into Bonds... even though you're buying them already. War Bonds—and hang onto them.
