Editors and Editorials

Let's get this straight.

The editor of this newspaper has no occult sources of information. All that he knows, he reads in the newspapers. If he manages to know more than any reader, about anything, it is simply because his business requires him to read more newspapers than the average reader.

In all reading, about all subjects, it is highly important to understand that no newspaper prints all the news. The best intentioned editor can only print what he thinks is the most important news. Most editors try to be fair in their comment upon public matters but not all of them. Make it your business to discard sources of information that you know are tarnished by hatred, prejudice, self-interest and a mental incapacity to see anything but one side.

We have no illusions about editorial popularity. All that an editor has to do to be popular is to pick a side, become rabidly partisan and thus please his faction. It does not require intelligence.

Frankly, we appreciate very much the generous comment of readers who have been kind enough to record their appreciation of our efforts to fill the role of an editorial writer. We hope that our articles will be interesting, even to those who do not agree with what we think.

Moreover, the cardinal principle in our approach to the job of writing is that those who disagree with us may be right. Frankly, we do not think they are, or we would be writing as they think. We have to express our own views, such as they are, and such as they may be.

Again, it is always well for all of us to remember that there is so little absolute wisdom in the world that none of us have very much intelligence. It is a long road toward complete knowledge and if any human being becomes suddenly endowed with perfection, the rest of us would not recognize it.

In the course of life we sometimes realize that few things are as good or as bad as we often imagine they are. The future will well take care of itself and its problems. Our function is to do what we consider is the wisest and best thing to do today. We can safely leave to unborn generations the problems that will confront them.

Blocking Aid to Education

A news article in The New York Times recently intimated that Representative John Lesinski, of Michigan, chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor, in suddenly dissolving the special Federal-Aid-To-Education sub-committee, headed by Representative Graham A. Barden, of North Carolina, was attempting to produce a showdown on the school-aid bill by getting it to the floor of the House for a vote.

This is a far-fetched conclusion in view of the obstructionist tactics adopted by the chairman to prevent the full committee from meeting to consider the educational measures before it. Mr. Lesinski stubbornly refused to call a meeting of his committee and, even when a majority of the members "revolted" and called a meeting for action, he managed to keep a quorum from attending.

The position taken by the Michigan representative is essentially that espoused by Cardinal Spellman, of New York. Despite the fact that the Barden Bill is supported by Representative Andrew Jacobs, of Indiana, who, like the chairman, is a Catholic, and other Catholics, as well, Mr. Lesinski has taken the position that unless he gets what he wants, there will be no bill reported by the House committee.

Meanwhile, there seems to be no rush to sign the petition filed with the Clerk of the House, which, if it obtains the names of a majority of the members of the House, will force the education bill onto the floor. For some strange reason, the members of the House do not seem inclined to force a vote on the Federal-Aid-to-Education measure. Whether they are influenced by the leadership of both parties is a question raised by The Washington Post, which admits the suspicion that the leaders on both sides have reached agreement to keep the House "from ever having a chance to vote on the subject."

Explained

George Bernard Shaw keeps himself before the public by making silly statements that are unbecoming for any civilized man, such as his proposal that prisons be abolished and that "incorrigibly dangerous or mischievous human beings, sane or insane," be put to death like hungry tigers, fleas, lice, and locusts.—Charlotte Observer.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

What They Say Whether Right or Wrong

Norris E. Dodd, Director-General, United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization: "More than half the people of the world go to bed hungry."

Fairfield Osbourn, president, Conservation Foundation:

"It can be said that the road to peace and the road to plenty are one."

Vergil D. Reed research official:

"The dreaded buyers' strike has certainly not materialized. It would be dangerous to invite it."

Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Cooperation Administrator:

"British production is running fifty per cent above pre-war—which is a superb accomplishment."

P. A. Ongley, New Zealand doctor:

"That ninety per cent of the diviners sincere does not lessen the harm they do."

Alben W. Barkley, Vice-President:

"After all, I'm no different from you or anybody else."

Robert A. Taft, U. S. Senator from Ohio:

"We face today a struggle of ideas and not of arms."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, President, Columbia University:

"There are some who build out of catchwords and fallacies a testament of inescapable conflict within our economy."

Charles F. Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture:

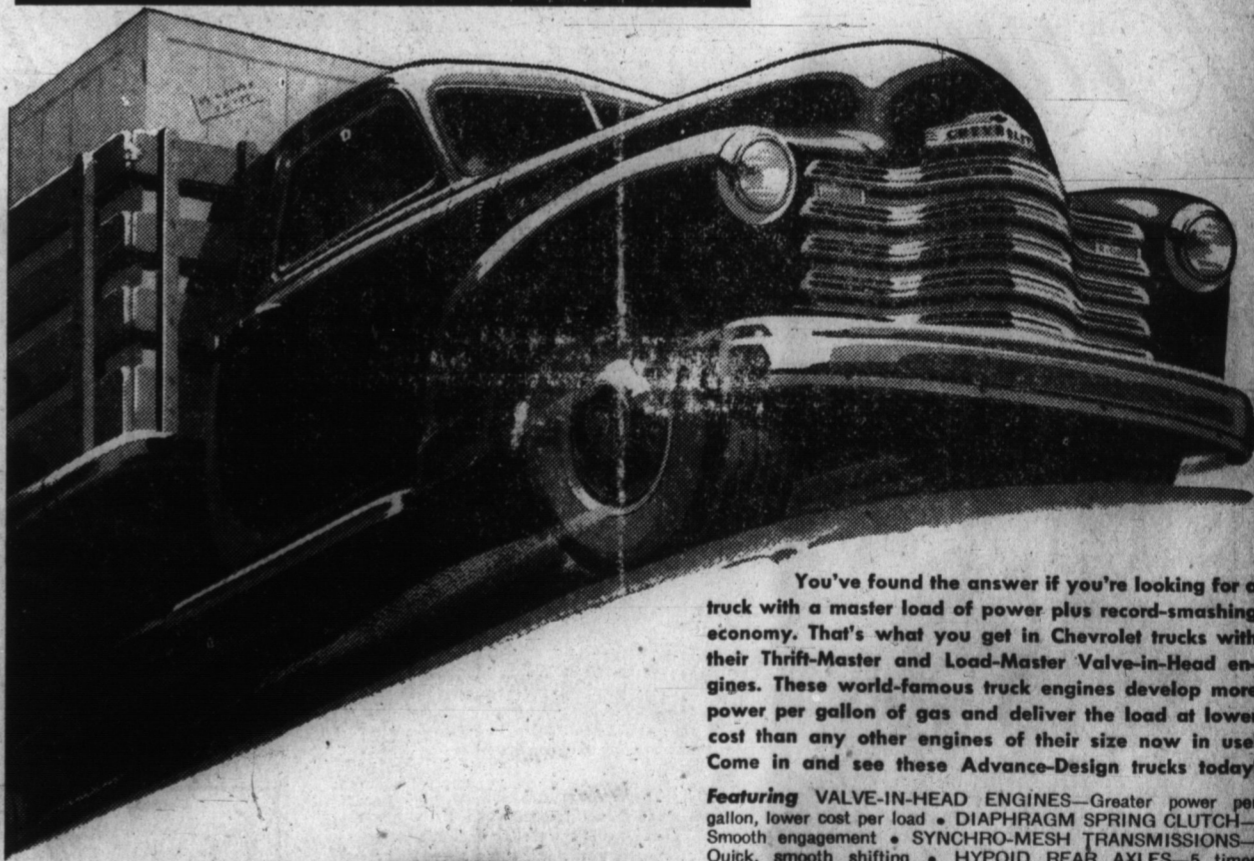

"Let workers and farmers unite in achieving a full employment, full production economy."

Marshal Tito, of Yugoslavia:

"I do not think there is a possibility of war in the world."

The world may be getting better but few people are making any effort to avoid the cash that is the root of evil.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa: I am a woman over 50 and my husband has been dead ten years. A very fine man who is several years older than I am has asked me to marry him. I have known him a long time as he was a friend of my husband's and he is comfortably fixed financially. We are very congenial, and I am sure we would be very companionable and happy.

But this is the problem. I have two married daughters and they tell me I am making a fool of myself to marry at my age and not to disgrace them and my grandchildren by acting so foolish. What do you think of this situation?

WIDOW, Ark.

Answer: If the man is, the kind you say he is, I think you would be foolish not to marry him. You have many years ahead of you, and they will be much more pleasant if you have a home of your own and a congenial companion to spend them with.

I could understand your daughters' attitude if you were marrying a young ne'er-do-well who might be interested in what property you have, but to object to your marriage to a fine man of about your own age is selfish, to put it mildly. Of course, you may not be as available to take care of the grandchildren after you are wed, but after all, infant society pulls on one if they have an over-dose of it. Go ahead and marry your suitor, and good luck to you!

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa: I have a husband who likes to buy me things which is all very nice. The only trouble is that he never bothers to find out what I like but just jumps in and buys things that appeal to him.

For instance, I needed a nice leather bag this year but hesitated over the price. My husband gave me quite a surprise by bringing me a most expensive one. It cost a lot more than we could afford—and it was not only the wrong color, but was a very large bag and I am a very small person. He also surprised me with a rug for the living room which crashes with every other thing in it. I hate to hurt his feelings, but what am I to do?

G. B. Ohio.

Answer: Why not ask him if he would mind your exchanging the bag for one that will go with your clothes as you cannot buy a whole new outfit to go with the bag. Tell him that the rug is beautiful, but that unfortunately it does not harmonize with the rest

U. S. Navy Family at Home in Nippon

Two Japanese housegirls are shown serving breakfast to a Navy chief petty officer and his family in Japan. There is no talk about the high cost of living among the more than one hundred Navy families at the Headquarters of the Commander, Fleet Activities, Yokosuka. For twenty-seven dollars a month they occupy from five to seven rooms furnished complete with electric ranges, telephones, refrigerators and houseboys. Features of the Navy community, known as the Griffin Park Housing Area, include schools, a modern department store, a well-stocked commissary and a beauty salon. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph)

The dress and coat ensemble in wool is back again. The knee length coat with dress of the same material seems to be in favor.

Happenings In Nokesville

County Fairs have always, to me, been one of the most fascinating events of the year. Prince William County used to have fairs until about 15 years ago. Nokesville has its own yearly fair for good many years. We, as do others of our county folk, hoping that the first annual Prince William County 4-H and F. A. Dairy Show which was held at the farm of J. F. Hale and son at here in Nokesville on Saturday, will, in a few years, grow to be a large County Fair, worthy the effort and talent of many of our capable Prince William citizens.

To say that the show on Saturday was a real success is putting it mildly. Because we are always "community conscious" we planned to attend—may be for one-half hour, when we went at noon. The clock came and we were still there in the hot fall sun, roughly enjoying every minute of the judging and showing of the animals—and weren't, by any means, bored for more than 200 minutes. The show was well attended and everyone seemed to be really interested in the proceedings.

Of course we were very glad to see all the interest and work shown by all the boys but, especially, we were proud of our own local winners. Congratulations to our own F. A. teacher, Philip Reading, in turn is so proud of his F. A. boys who made such a showing—receiving three of the prizes—helping out of the given. Those boys from Nokesville 4-H Club and F. A. did so well showing calves were Garman, L. R. Cowne, Jr., Harry Caton, Harry Miller, Jr., Robert Wood, Bobby Manuel, Michael, Roger Huff, Ransdell, Gough, Lee and Leonard, Terry and Billy Mauck, Harold Hopkins, Lester Parsons, Robert Wood, William Davis, and Ralph Gough.

To show an animal in a show is lots of time, work and patience. The boys who won were rewarded financially but we learned a lot through this experience that they'll long remember. Elsewhere in the paper will be a report by our County agent about all the entries, winners, etc., but we felt we should say our own support in the hope these few words will help a little to say "thanks" to those men who worked so hard that this show was staged—Philip Reading, Harry Swann and his Veterans' cultural class of the County. Mr. Fishpaw and Frank Cox and all who gave so willingly toward awards.

The members of the Nokesville 4-H Club did themselves up and last Wednesday night when they entertained their "ladies" at annual Ladies Night. From beginning when Mrs. Grover Brown was the lady with money in her hand to give to the 15th girl to shake the right person's hand—to the end of Grover Brown's thrilling account of his trip to the British Isles in Holland—complete with colored slides he had taken—every minute was thoroughly enjoyed by about 75 folks who were present.

The Methodist ladies had a supper served so very inviting with lovely Dutch girl and boy in keeping with Dr. Brown's later in the evening.

Rev. D. D. Fleishman gave the location. The president, W. F. Hale, had charge of the business meeting. Philip Reading, local F. A. teacher, talked about the need for showers for the boys and girls at school and the progress being made to build them. The club voted to give $25.00 toward the prizes for the coming F. A. 4-H Club Dairy Show.

Rev. Brittingham spoke at length and very enthusiastically about the great need for a doctor and drug store at Nokesville. T. B. Flickenger, Ewing House and Stuart McMichael were appointed to assist Rev. Brittingham in any way possible.

Four members of the Bealton Remington Club were present—Don Early, Charles Crockett, Frank O'Keefe, John Hill.

Dr. Brown's account of his recent trip abroad was just "tops" but we think the most interesting probably was when he told us about meeting the Duke of Gloucester, brother of the King of England, who is quite a family enthusiast. Seeing all the pictures made us realize that farmers over the world have common problems but it's very interesting to see the difference in the solving of them.

The P. T. A. sponsored Band Supper is being planned for Friday evening, October 14, in the school gym. The Charles Miller Music Company in Washington will provide music through the evening—along with our own band. Mrs. L. J. Bowman is general chairman with Mrs. Howard Marshall, Mrs. Willard Wilkins and Mrs. Harold Neff, assisting Mrs. Grover Brown will be in charge of the tables. Mrs. N. N. Free has consented to serve real home-made biscuits to "top off" a typical home-prepared dinner—all for $1.00 a plate for adults and 50c for children.

Miss Alma Watts of Covington, and Miss Barbara Ware of Sandridge, both local teachers are making their home now with the Grover Browns.

Sunday guests of the Clifford Doves were friends they had made when they lived in Indian Head, Maryland, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Wheeler and son, Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer Scott and daughter, Charlotte, all of Marbury, Maryland.

Tiny Miss Tamea Smith is spending two weeks with the Ray Smiths while her mother and daddy, the Harry Smiths are on a trip to California. Helping out with the two little girls are the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith who have come up from their home in Manassas for two weeks.

Mrs. Estelle Buckley, Billy Jr., Joan and Peggy of Washington spent the weekend with the Fearnoughs.

Weekend guests of the George Sonafrank and Roscoe Croushorn families were Misses Helen Russell and Mary Marsh of Flemington, N. J.

The Methodist folks and their friends had a wonderful time at the all-day meeting at the Woodlawn Church on Sunday. Dr. Robertson, District Superintendent, was the guest speaker with lovely instrumental music and a picnic dinner for all, making the day complete.

L. R. Cowne, Jr., Jay Garman, Harry Miller, Jr., and Charles Caton will show their cattle at the Dairy Show in Warrenton on Saturday.

The Quarterly "birthday" dinner served by the Ladies Aid of the Church of the Brethren will be held next Wednesday at noon in the church basement. There will be a read dinner for just 50c-25c for children. These luncheons have become a traditional part of Nokesville and are always well attended. Be sure to come and eat your dinner that day.

The Berkley Crummitts have a little son—William Berkley, born on Sunday.

The Fred Whetzel moved into their brand new home on Monday. Mrs. Carey Crismond came home from Mary Washington Hospital and is now resting at the Trenis home. The tiny girls are doing very satisfactorily in their incubator home at the hospital.

The local P. F. A. boys along with their instructor, Philip Reading, attended the Maryland State Fair at Timonium on Thursday. Those attending were Jay Garman, Junior Cowne, Herbert Wood, Harry Miller, Jr., Charles Caton, Bobby Wood, Donald Hopkins, Lester Parsons, Jr., Lloyd Green, Maurice Fitzgerald, Leonard Yankey, Jimmy Flickenger, Joe Spittle, Rudolph and Ransdell Gough, William Davis, Harold Wright and Ted Nelson and Elmer Spittle who took their cars.

Zulus Play Host to U. S. Sailors

Natives in Africa give crew members of the cruiser USS Huntington and the destroyer USS Douglas H. Fox a lesson in basket weaving. With but a short four-day sojourn in Durban, South Africa, thirty U. S. Navy camera enthusiasts and adventurers made a tour into the interior to visit African tribes. Even the depths of the Dark Continent are no stranger to the contact of America established through the calls of U. S. Naval vessels to African ports. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph) armed with faith, came over to this country from France to establish an abbey for Benedictine nuns of the Strict Observance which is situated on a hill near Warterbury, Conn. This film stems, partly from the experience of these two indomitable Catholic sisters. Before adequate help arrives, these two Sisters have charmed a racketeer to the point where he releases a valuable piece of real estate as a site for their proposed children's hospital, a song-writer who kicks in with some money and the local bishop who has not altogether approved the idea. There is a lot of fun in the film, some of which is supplied by Elsa Lanchester, an artist, who is painting in the state.

Loretta Young and Celeste Holm have the roles of the Sisters, Thomas Gomez impersonates the sentimental gangster and Hugh Harlow, the composer of Tin Pan Alley lyrics.

Abbott and Costello Meet The Killer, Boris Karloff
Impersonating a hotel detective and bellhop, respectively, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are funnier than usual in this piece of Hollywood malarkey which is a slapstick version of a conventional murder story. Their business is to dispose of several bodies of fellows who have been done in, and in the doing of it, they manage to be pretty amusing. Karloff appears as hypnotist with a warped mind and when he puts Costello under a spell, you can imagine what happens.

COSTLY "WEEDS"
Hagerstown, Md. — City laborers, under authority of an ordinance, cut down dense growth on Henry Holzapfel, Jr.'s lot and the city sent him a bill for $80. It was returned unpaid, accompanied by a bill from Hczafel for $165. Those "weeds," he said, were valuable peony plants.

To The Homemaker

By Virginia Post, Home Economist

Wiring and Lighting the Home Workshop

Adequate wiring and plenty of light are essential in the home workshop. Just as in the modern factory, they are basic to smooth production and skilled craftsmanship. If there are enough circuits of proper size, power tools operate at peak efficiency. Adequate circuits eliminate voltage drop. Thus, motors start instantly and give top performance. Heating appliances are likewise affected. They reach proper temperature quickly and consume a minimum of current.

Good lighting also plays a major role in precision work. It assures speed and accuracy, reduces accidents, does away with eyestrain and resultant fatigue.

To make the home workshop a vest pocket edition of its industrial brother, install a 20-ampere circuit. It will provide ample current for all power tools, soldering iron, etc.

Tips For Efficient Lighting
For plenty of light, provide one two-lamp fluorescent fixture three feet above the work area. The lamps should be bright enough to give 40-foot candles of light. This means that each lamp should be at least 40 watts. If the fixture is placed as high as five feet above the work bench, then two units should be installed parallel to one another.

It is important also to have general illumination in the room. It will eliminate harsh shadows and strong contrasts between light and dark.

An additional lamp over a machine with moving parts is recommended by lighting experts. The lamp holder can be simple in design with a clamp attachment and swivel socket of the kind used by photographers. This type of unit is handy since it can be clamped to rafters or beams and moved from one spot to another. A reflector flood lamp should be used in such a holder.

How To Plan Outlets
Several duplex conveniences also should be installed near the work area at elbow height. You can determine the proper number of outlets by the maximum number of electric tools that will be used in several related operations.

The following list may prove helpful in estimating the plug-in spots you'll need for now and the future. Common wood-working tools include the buzz saw, motorized jig saw, hand saw, lathes, drill press, sander, portable drill, jointer and shaper. Common metal working tools include a screw-outting lathe, drill press, grinder, milling machine, electric welder and soldering iron. Outlets also should be

Dental Authority Says Teeth Are Vital

Saving your teeth is of vital importance to a comfortable old age, according to The Journal of the American Dental Association.

Theories about older men and women not requiring much food have long been debunked.

The fact is that through lack of teeth or ill-fitting dentures the aged often are forced to acquire different eating habits.

Either they swallow their food in unchewed lumps, resort to soft food diets, or just cut down their normal consumption, all of which contribute to either bad health of the aging process.

Now that science has added years to the human life expectancy, it is more important than ever before that people plan on making their increased time span both valuable and enjoyable.

One of the most effective ways that can be done is to have regular dental attention throughout life.
