NSLI Checks Speeded Up

The veterans administration may start paying the $2,800,000,000 GI insurance dividend before Christmas—at the rate of a million checks a week it was reported today.

As soon as the bulk of those payments is out of the way the agency will get to work on a second special dividend, the size of which has not yet been determined.

Veterans administrator Carl R. Gray, Jr. has ordered completion of the first dividend payment, to some 16,000,000 World War II veterans, by next June 30 if possible.

The VA insurance section had expected to start the payments in January, on a 200,000-checks-a-day basis. But a spokesman told a reporter:

"There is a possibility that we might start them before the first of the year.

"We will go just as fast as we can, and if we can beat the January deadline we will."

About 12,000,000 veterans have applied for the dividend since application blanks became available Aug. 29.

Will Find Practice Of Other Towns In Like Situation

At the Town Council meeting continued Monday, Town Manager James W. Ritter, Jr., reported to the Council that the sewer amendment which he was authorized to draw up was not feasible. Needs More Consideration

Mr. Ritter made this announcement, after considering the matter with Arthur Sinclair, city attorney. Both said that the matter should have thorough discussion before action. Mr. Ritter said that he will attend the meeting October 9-11th of the League of Virginia Municipalities and that he would find out the practice of other towns in similar situations.

Prominent Inventor Makes Home Here

Driving through Manassas two days ago, Dr. Vernon M. Bugg, eminent and well-known American inventor, decided that this was the kind of town he would like to live in.

People were not in such a rush here as they were in New Jersey. There were many fine churches, good schools and nice stores. All were in a community where there was a "good morning" to everyone.

Buys Home

Dr. Bugg bought a small place which needed a great deal of repair. It was just what he needed, it gives him an outlet for the work which he loves. By rebuilding his home, little by little, Dr. Bugg is able to soothe his mind from the complicated machines which he works on and invents, unlike when he was living in his 20-room home at Little Silver, N. J., where he has two acres lawn and where there is little room to do.

Dr. Bugg, who can trace his lineage back to the fourth oldest family in Virginia, has had some part in the development of many of the machines produced by International Business Machines, the Stank Corporation, the Compu Corporation, the International Banking Machine and many other companies and corporations.

Builds Voting Machine

He is the inventor and builder of the first American voting machine, the copy-type machine, the automatic telephone switchboard, the ribbon bow-tieing machine, the stage electric galvanometer, the tooth brush, the power paper cutter, and innumerable other diverse inventions which include an automatic stock recorder, an automatic announcement system, and a ground wave detector.

Altogether, Dr. Bugg has more than 100 patents listed in the United States Patent office than any other man with the exception of Edison, and he is familiarly known in that office.

Recently, Dr. Bugg moved his laboratories to Washington. He brought with him one of his latest machines which has been in the process of development for three years—it is the automatic searching machine, designed for large governmental departments and large businesses, which will instantly select any one sheet out of 100,000 by the use of a dial. Dr. Bugg also brought a banking machine suitable for postal money order work.

Dr. Bugg, who received an honorary doctorate degree from the University of Virginia, is president of the World Scientific Council, the International Automatic Machine Corporation, and is founder of the proposed Helen M. Marsh laboratories, an institution to be set up for the development of devices to be used in medical diagnostic service so that physicians may take patients with unknown illnesses and had the use of instruments and devices never heard of before by the physician.

Must Work Together

Dr. Bugg says that the modern medical doctor has at hand every known device in his art but that if the physician could work along side of the creator and scientist, there would be new things that could be worked out from actual exchanges of information and these devices could be used and study of the condition in which improved.

Although Dr. Bugg is a very busy man with all his activities, it is possible to see him at his new home, located at 406 Main St., busily improving it "little by little" and relaxing from the strain which he has constantly been under for 30 years and which he "can't quit now."

Sgt. C. S. Simms Cited For Work On Herndon Case

Sgt. C. S. Simms, of the Manassas police force, was cited for commendable work in a letter from Carl R. McIntosh, chief of police of Fairfax County, which was read at Monday's meeting of the Town Council.

In his letter, Mr. McIntosh stated that had "it not been for the splendid and intelligent work of Sgt. C. S. Simms," a case at Herndon involving 9 felony crimes would remain unsolved.

Mr. McIntosh also expressed his appreciation to the town of Manassas for the fine work done on the case.
