SCRIPTURE SELECTION: "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace among men with whom he pleased."—Luke 2:14.

Text: Isaiah 9:2-7; 11:1-5 of the depths of Israel's est days in her national and nal history, a voice arose tell-of the coming of the redeemer, who would have the people their sins. The voice was that of Isaiah, the greatest prophet of Israelites.

The redeemer would be known by number of names. "Wonderful counselor," "The Mighty God," "Everlasting Father," "The of Peace." His reign would ernal and justice and judgwere to result from his au-ity and power. Such was the prophecy of this Israelite prom-more than seven hundred years of the coming of Jesus Christ arh.

The prophet foresaw an era of picturing a time when the and the lamb, the leopard and and calf and the young lion exist amicably in the same We, sheltered and unfamiliar with the dread of wild beasts hardly grasps the striking meaning of the picture used.

The world's thinking at the present time has been prepared by the growing influence of Christianity for consideration of peace on earth and good will to men but in Isaiah's day his idea of a warless world was revolutionary.

The world is suffering today because of the ravages and destruction during the two great world wars. Financial and material resources were recklessly expended in a non-productive rampage of death and destruction.

Beyond the material damage, the moral fiber of mankind suffered seriously as a result of the passions and hatreds stirred up during the contest. Sorrow and misery visited millions of homes. Should not all this impel mankind to the abolition of war?

The individual rational mind often questions the necessity for men to be enemies. Christianity for centuries has been advertising the blessings and necessities of human brotherhood. Why is it that nations and races cannot be mutually helpful rather than destructive?
Millions of individuals see the foolishness and wickedness of war but the political machinery of the world is beyond the power of these single units of humanity to reconstruct and control in the interest of their own welfare.

The function of war in civilization has been to settle disputes between nations. No other good purpose is served by such conflicts. As a method of deciding disputes, war favors the strong, regardless of right or merit.

Surely, it is reasonable to ask that justice and righteousness be the basis for adjusting international disputes. It is a fairer and better method not to mention the fact that it operates without waste of lives and treasure.

Christianity should exert itself to prevent war. To accomplish this we must provide peaceful machinery to perform the functions of war, that is, for the arbitration or judicial determination of international disputes.

The nations of the world are trying desperately to set up the machinery of lasting peace in the world through the medium of the United Nations. At times, it seems, their efforts will be vain because of the bickerings and spirit of an-tagonism exhibited between the member nations.

However, it is a part of the Christian's responsibility in our day to help keep the hope of international peace alive and to do everything possible to assist in the smooth functioning of any agency whose ultimate aim is world peace.

Neighborly Yours

By Maggi Marchand Brown

Every time I hear the beautiful Christmas hymn, "O Holy Night," I remember a strange little Christmas story.

A few years ago I went up to Berchtesgaden in the Bavarian Alps. My colleagues and I were heart-worn from the human hardred that festered amid the poverty-stricken ruins of Germany.
The trials at Nuremberg were suspended for the holidays, and we had that opportunity to rest ourselves among the lofty mountains.

Berchtesgaden is a story-book town, on a lake that is like a gleaming black pearl in a silver forest, as the clouds spread a frosting on every tree and bush.

Began to Feel Lonely
A woman from the mountains, I felt almost at home there. But the day before Christmas, while I was climbing down from the Obersalzberg Hills in deep snow, I began to feel like a lonely pilgrim on the earth. The great eve was coming. . . If I could have one gift, I told myself, it would be that glorious song, "O Holy Night."

CHRISTMAS RECIPES

Here is a recipe for Date and Walnut Cake that can be used very well in place of Fruit Cake. In fact many people prefer it to the convention fruit cake. It keeps well but does not have to be made as far in advance of the holidays. Also it is easier to make.

Date and Walnut Cake 1 lb. black walnut meats (chopped) 1 lb. dates with seeds removed 1 cup flour
1-2 tsp. salt
3 rounded tsp. baking powder 4 egg yolks
1 tsp. vanilla
4 egg whites

Sift dry ingredients together 3 times to mix them thoroughly. Mix dry ingredients thoroughly with dates and nut meats. Beat yolks of four eggs with one cup sugar, add one teaspoon vanilla. Mix with fruit mixture. Stir in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in paper lined pan for one and a half hours at 300 degrees F.

Here are our favorite Christmas candy recipes—Date Loaf Candy and Christmas Mints.
Christmas Mints
Four three-fourths cup boiling water over one and a half cups sugar and one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar in a saucepan. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Do not stir again. Cover pan, while heating until steam has washed down any grains. Uncover and boil until it spins a thread (230 degrees on a candy thermometer, if you have one). Cool to room temperature.
Add 2 drops oil of peppermint, or more if desired. If peppermint extract is used in place of oil of peppermint, you will need more. Color if desired. Stir until creamy. Drop Trudging alone into the little town, I could think of nothing else until three small German children crossed my path and spoke to me.

"It's so cold!" one of them said, shivering. "Are you hungry and cold? Are you going to the Red Cross hut and eat those fat, sweet cakes with holes in them?"

Visits Red Cross

I did not know there was a Red Cross establishment in Berchtesgaden. "Doughnuts?" I looked at their eager, pinched faces. "Suppose you show me which way to go, and I'll see whether we can get cakes for all of us."

We followed their keen little noses, straight to the American Club. I went inside while the children pressed against the window, watching hopefully.
"I'll take coffee, please," I told the German girl at the counter.
"Put six doughnuts into a bag for me to take out to my friends."

Is Given Bouquet

She could see the youngsters staring, and she smiled. "For you, then, here is a little bouquet of snow flowers."

They were lovely tiny white bells with dark leaves that grow on the edge of the Alpine glaciers, and I put the cluster on the table while I drank my coffee.

About half a dozen American soldiers were in the big room, sitting with their thoughts of home at Christmas. A few of them talked in low tones, but the quiet there was like the hush before a religious service. I could not hurry away. . .
We Americans looked at each other with understanding silence. . . Now the evening was coming on, and there seemed to be nothing to say, but we all waited for a sign as shepherds of each other.

Desired Song Played

Then a young soldier got up and walked to the phonograph. He did not search out a particular record.
No. . . He picked up the handiest

Veterans News

Veterans Administration in a statement explains what is meant by a "change of course," in the light of its recent regulations requiring veterans to obtain advisement and guidance if the plan to change their GI Bill courses to new general fields of study.

Under the regulations — Instruction I-B to Public Law 266 — a veteran may make a change, without advisement and guidance, so long as his new course is in the same general field as his original objective or a normally related progressive objective.

Guidance Required

If he wants to change to a different general field, however the instruction requires that he undergo advisement and guidance to determine his aptitude for and need of the course to complete his educational or job objective.

A change of course, VA explained, means a change of a veteran's educational or vocational objective. It does not mean changes made within a course.

For example, a veteran may change one or more unit subjects of his over-all course of study, or he may drop a subject or add another —all without having to go to VA for approval.

Also May Specialize

Or, he may progress to a more advanced phase of his course, also without having to apply to VA.

As instances, he may go from pre-engineering to a specialized field of engineering; or he may go from pre-medical to dental, or from liberal arts to journalism.

On the other hand, VA pointed out, if the veteran wants to change his GI Bill course of study from medicine to engineering, or from carpentry to typewriter repair, for example, his case would fall under the provisions of Instruction I-B.

Changes Not New

VA stated that these definitions of "change of course" are not new.
They are being emphasized now to prevent any confusion on the part of GI Bill students or schools.

Q. What happens to the dividend of a National Service Life Insurance policy where the insured has been adjudged incompetent?

A. The NSLI dividend will be paid to the veteran's legal representative.

It might not be a bad idea to be orations in your home—you might

LOUISA'S LETTER

LET'S REMEMBER OTHERS AT CHRISTMAS

Christmas is almost here. Already mothers and fathers everywhere are visiting the toyshops and having bicycles and doll bugles put aside for the joyous arrival of old Santa Claus.

But have these parents noticed as they went on their busy way the shabbily dressed children who looked longingly into the shop windows? Some of these little ones still have a faint hope that old St. Nicholas will find his way into their poor homes but most of them know, from sad experience, that if he visits them at all, it will be only to bring a few cheap knock-knacks.

This season which should be one of joyousness and happiness to children everywhere will mean heartbreak to untold thousands. Think of the children whose fathers are out of work—who find it hard to get food to eat. Most of these have never experienced want before and will find it a hard lot. Indeed, think of the children whose fathers are drunkards, who think more of a vicious appetite than they do of their children's physical and spiritual welfare.

Think of the children whose parents have died and left them helpless on the charity institutions of the state. These poor little ones know very little of either gifts or love.

Poor little frightened, undernourished wistful army of children! Isn't it terrible to think that a country as rich as this one will allow even one of these children, through no fault of their own, to suffer such misery and unhappiness on the birthday of Christ, who said that "even as ye have done unto the least of these ye did it unto me."

Instead of saving on Bobby's and Susan's presents this year and keeping the extra money in the bank why not resolve to take a good part of it to make some other child happy?

A warm sweater or suit, a box of socks, etc., will probably mean

NEWS OF HOLLYWOOD

Well, we hear that Clifton Webb will play an angel next. He's to play an angel to an unborn child in a yarn written by Harry Segall, author of "Here Comes Mr. Jordan." The title of his latest epic is unknown at the present writing.

Joan Fontaine has signed for three pictures at Paramount, the first being her co-starring role with Ray Milland in "Mr. and Mrs. Anonymous," with George Stevens directing.

David Niven's first picture for MGM will be with Kathryn Grayson and Mario Lanza in "Kiss of Fire." He is to play Kathryn's manager in the film.

Believe it or not, but Lana Turner and her husband, Bob Topping, haven't been to a night club since they dropped by a Sunset Strip spot after a premiere a couple of months ago. They're getting to be real home bodies, and, what's more to the point, they both declare they like the idea.

Another newcomer who seems to be going places is Keefe Brasell, who scored a big hit in Ida Lupino's "Not Wanted," and now has a top role in the new George Stevens production at Paramount, "A Place in the Sun."

Joan Crawford predicts that "in two years, David Brian will be bigger than any male star except Cagney—and may even stand on a par with the king himself." Brian, by the way, used to be a ticket taker at New York's Roxy.

Jean Crain declares that the most important item for movie success is not beauty—it's brains. While she admits that an actress with a pretty face stands a better chance of being noticed, she says that if much more to the shabby child around the corner than several more expensive toys added to the list for your own child.

And, for goodness sake, if you do open your heart, forget to shout it from the housetops and don't let your children humiliate the one who receives your gift by pointing it out as a gift every time they catch sight of it.

VIRGINIA JUNIOR VEGETABLE GROWER WINS AWARD IN NATIONAL CONTEST

A young Virginian was named winner of a state award in the 1949 Production-Marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association as the organization concluded its fifteenth annual four-day convention at Washington, D. C., today.

Darrell Large, 16-year-old son of Hiram Large of Coeburn, Dickenson County won the state award. He was presented with a cash award from the $6,000 scholarship fund provided each year by A & P Food Stores to encourage better production and marketing of vegetables by farm youths. Other results announced by Prof. Grant H. Snyder of the University of Massachusetts, adult advisor to the association, included the awarding of the national championship and the top $500 scholarship to Russell L. Seitz, Jr., 20-year-old grower of Cummington, Mass.

Darrell cultivated one acre of ground on his father's 18-acre farm, producing 16 varieties of vegetables. He hauled his produce to a nearby coal camp and sold them for a total income of almost $300. After expenses, such as seed, fertilizer, equipment, etc., were deducted, his net profit amounted to more than $100. He is in the 10th grade and is president of his class. He is active in 4-H Club work and FFA. Young Large won an award from the Virginia Bankers Association and won an additional first prize in Dickenson County.

Only employees of business or industrial concerns are covered under the Social Security Act. Here's Help from Santa Claus . . .

Beginning the first of January, 1950, we are increasing the interest paid to savings account depositors from 1 per cent to 2 per cent. We are doing this in consideration of the patronage we have enjoyed from people of this area for the past many years, and also to keep in line with other progressive financial institutions of this area.

If you do not already have a savings account with us, we cordially extend an invitation for you to open an account now at the turning point of a new year.

We take this opportunity to thank everyone for their patronage during 1949, and wish each one a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

From the Pastor's Study

Editor's Note: Recently, a group of eight ministers of the Prince William Ministerial Association agreed to write a weekly message for The Journal. The Rev. L. J. Tests, pastor of the Manassas Presbyterian Church, begins the series in this issue with his timely message, "The Beauty of Christmas." Next week's message will be by the Rev. Conrad Snavely, pastor of the Cannon Branch Church of the Brethren.

'THE BEAUTY OF CHRISTMAS'

By the Rev. L. J. Tests, Pastor, Manassas Presbyterian Church

From the beginning of December until the present time, most of us have been caught up in an ever-increasing pace of life.

Along with our neighbors and friends, we seem to move about more quickly on the streets. Shopping tours have become the most important item of our daily business, and the various members of our families secretly hide packages around the house in closets and drawers. Children begin to envision a pump little man who dresses in a red suit trimmed with white. Generally, there has been an increasing holiday mood of expectancy and happiness and good will until today, when we stand at what is probably the peak of the so-called Christmas "rush." In other words, the Christmas spirit permeates all of life around us.

Expressed in Many Ways

Because of the nature of this spirit, men have had to express it; and they have done so in many ways over a period of many, many years.

The giving of gifts and the sending of cards along with the decorating of homes and schools and churches are merely suggestions of the traditional customs handed down to us. Christmas plays, parties, entertainments, caroling, and worship services represent only a part of the activities of the season.

Some men have expressed the spirit of the time through the painting of scenes which have been recognized as great art, while others have chosen the more homely medium of Christmas cards.

Literature Is Channel

Literature as well has become a channel for the expression of the glorious spirit of Christmas. The Christian message of love expressed by Tiny Tim in Dickens' "Christmas Carol," and the conversion of Scrooge, and the humanitarian philosophy of Scrooge's nephew all express universal views of the season.

The height of Christmas literature though was reached in the simple Gospel account that the Living God came to earth in person in the form of man to redeem mankind by conquering sin and restoring the glorious fellowship of God with man.

Music, too, has added its talents to the expression of the Christmas spirit through oratorio and carol and lullaby.

Thus, when we view this mass of human production, we become aware of a beauty that has grown out of the most profound human experiences.

Beauty Resides in Jesus

However, admitting that all of these elements of human experience convey a certain beauty of the Christmas-tide, we ought also to recognize that the fundamental beauty of Christmas resides solely in the Person of God Incarnate, namely, the baby Jesus. Through Him God's love, and righteousness and justice and mercy are revealed for all men to see, and it is in this vision or experience of God that our minds and hearts are opened to the true beauty, not only of the season, but of life itself.

Whenever man has felt secure in the salvation of Jesus Christ, he has seen the real beauty of Christmas and has tried to reflect that beauty in one of the arts.

It is easy for a community to enjoy only the surface delights of Christmas. And so, though it may be almost true, I would call all of us to visit the manger as well as the department store and the art gallery, and there worship God in the true beauty of Christmas.

H. D. Schedule

TUESDAY—The Nokesville Junior H. D. Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Virginia Wilkins at 2:00. This will be a Christmas party.

FRIDAY—The Bethel H. D. Club will meet at 1:00, the place to be announced later.

Marriage Licenses

Peter Calomiris and Miss Pauline Chipouras, both of Washington, D. C., applied for a marriage license on December 15.

William D. Bassett, Jr., Quantico, and Miss Florentina Carter, Quantico, applied for a marriage license on December 17.

Lloyd Gilmer Holton, Arlington Hall, and Miss Jane C. Patton, Manassas, applied for a marriage license on December 17.

They Keep 'em Flying

Within a few minutes after these U. S. Air Force mechanics make any necessary repairs to this plane, a pilot may be streaking across the sky at hundreds of miles an hour, confident in the top-notch performance of his aircraft. It is on the flight line that young airmen put to practical use the technical knowledge gained in Air Force schools which are among the best equipped in the world.

Haymarket

By Mrs. A. H. Meyer

The regular meeting of the Home Demonstration Club was held last Friday in the home of Mrs. Macon Piercy. A most enjoyable time was had making Christmas candies by those who attended.

Miss Mary Tyler, who is a nurse at the Chevy Chase Junior College, is spending the Christmas holidays at her home here and will return to the college on January 4.

Miss Betty Ann Meyer spent the week end in Washington where she attended her office division formal Christmas dance held at Cheverly Lodge, on Saturday night, and also attended the wedding of Bernice Stephenson to Richard Hegarty, which took place in St. Ann's Catholic Church in Arlington on Sunday.

Don't forget the Christmas dance from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. Friday, December 30, at the Haymarket School auditorium. Music will be furnished by Billy Marvel and his 10-piece orchestra. The dance is being sponsored by the P-T.A. Come one, come all, and have a good time. Two dollars drag or stag.

THIEF NEEDS $126

DAYTON, Ohio.—Missing from the box in which Julian Tangeman kept valuables was $126. In its place was a note: "Will pay you back as soon as possible." Evidently the thief needed only $126, for an additional $98 in the box was untouched.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

In FASHION now

Dresses of pale-colored taffeta in the new short dinner length are smart.

More dramatic are the bare-shouldered short, full skirted dresses in jewel tones of satin and velvet. Dangling earbobs and paste jewels are in favor.

After carefully perusing the writings of a number of political prognosticators, we have come to the conclusion that most of them write what they agitate rather than what is happening.

REAL NEIGHBORS
WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio.—The Christmas holiday season looked pretty bleak to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Riley and their 16-year-old son, when fire destroyed their home and all of their possessions. However, their neighbors decided to do something about the situation and held a "shower" for them. Two hundred came, all bearing gifts—canned food, kitchenware, linens, a set of silver, and much-needed cash.

Landing a C-47 With the Help of Radio

In recent flight over Long Island Sound, N. Y., this radio operator on a U. S. Air Force C-47 transport was photographed in his compact, but complete, radio compartment as he tuned in landing instructions from a base control tower. The young airman was trained for this highly technical job at an Air Force school.

Navy, is visiting his sister, Mrs.
Margaret Menefee.

bia Hospital. Also on the sick list is Mrs. Mildred Cobb. Mrs. Milton France is very much improved. She has left George Washington Hospital and is spending some time in Alexandria with her brother, who is a doctor. She expects to be home after the holidays.

Mrs. Nora Good spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. Theima Allison in Arlington.

BOY LOCKS SELF IN VAULT

WASHINGTON.—Jehnnie Arnold, 11, fled from teasing friends into an abandoned vault in the locker room of the Stagecrafters Club pulled the door shut and it locked.
When his playmates could not release him, firemen were called. They used an acetylene torch to cut a small hole into the vault so the boy could breathe and then out other large enough for him to crawl through. A tear-stained but smiling boy emerged.

On the SCREEN

"Christopher Columbus."

With Frederic March in the title role, this excellent Technicolor film retells the great story of Columbus, staying close to authentic details.
It tells of his long wait while Queen Isabella debates whether to finance the expedition, his trials and his fear while sailing, his triumph and his final repudiation.
With March is his wife, Florence Eldridge.

"Finky"

After spending fifteen years in the North, a white-skinned Negro girl (played by Jeanne Crain), returns to her humble home in the South where she finds she can no longer pass as a white person.
Plenty of emotional conflict is generated when she is sometimes cruelly treated and when, seeing the great need for work to be done among her own people, she decides to stay with them.
Ethel Barrymore and Ethel Waters give able assistance.

There are men who are very careful about the oil they put into their automobile engines but rather careless about what they put into their stomachs.
