Journal Given Reprint Rights On Important Article on Pork

Because of the timely nature of the article and because of its importance to a community where much pork is grown for home consumption, The Manassas Journal has asked for and received permission to reprint in full the following article from the March issue of Reader's Digest. The article, entitled, "Must Our Pork Remain Unsafe?" was written by Laird S. Goldsborough.

In the pork which we Americans eat there too often lurk myriads of baffling and sinister parasites. They are minute spiral worms which scientists call Trichinella spiralis. If the worms are not killed by cooking the pork thoroughly, they transfer themselves from the eaten pork into the body of the pork consumer and multiply there with savage rapidity. A single serving of infective pork—even a single mouthful—can kill or cripple or condemn the victim to a lifetime of aches and pains.

For this unique disease, trichinosis, there is no cure. With no drug to stop them, the worms may spread throughout the muscular tissues of the entire human system. One of two things then happens, depending on the intensity of the infection. Either death ensues or a successful effort is made by nature to throw an enclosure, or cyst, around each of the teeming parasites, which then become dormant although they remain alive for years. Incredible as it may seem, 100 million or more trichinae may infest a single victim. London's eminent Sir James Paget, who discovered this parasite in 1835, wrote: "Fancy the body of a single individual supporting more separately existing creatures than the whole population of the world!"

Fortunately most American housewives know that thorough cooking of pork kills any trichinae which may be in it and enters the meat safe. It is vital to cook fresh pork until it has lost entirely its pinkish-red color and has turned gray. It will then have reached a temperature of 163 degrees Fahrenheit, strictly speaking, 137 degrees of heat will kill the trichinae. The difference of 26 degrees is the safety margin no good cook will ignore. When cooking a large chunk of pork, especially a ham, it is best to use a meat thermometer—one costs only about $1.50—and stick the point right down into the center of the meat. If no thermometer is handy, the rule-of-thumb for a thick cut of pork is to cook it 30 minutes to the pound.

Anyone can follow such rules, just as anyone can pasteurize milk, but the risk of death and disease calls for public and not merely private action. Americans would never think of going back to unpasteurized milk. Why not go forward to measures which will make American pork safe before it is purchased? Pork is a tasty, satisfying food. It is rich in protein, fat and Vitamin B1. Moreover, since "pigs will eat anything," pork is often a cheap and valuable end product of the garbage waste of which Americans are so prodigal. When pork is good is is very, very good—but well worth pondering is the often quoted statement by Dr. Maurice C. Hall, late Chief of the Division of Zoology of the U. S. Public Health Service: "It appears as a legitimate demand that when a man exchanges dollars for pork, he should not do it on the basis that he may be purchasing his death warrant. In a day when goods of all sorts are assumed to be, and quite generally are, safe and wholesome as marketed, no one has a right to ask that an exception be made for pork."

The raw, pork scraps commonly included in the garbage fed to hogs spread trichinosis among the animals. Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. Willard H. Wright, says: "The widely prevailing practice of disposing of garbage by feeding it to swine provides an important avenue of infection for human trichinosis."

We can take a dubious satisfaction in the knowledge that our modern streamlined packing methods tend to diffuse the meat of any one trichinosis hog among that of say a hundred healthy hogs. Thus there is what may be viewed as a dilution of the infection or a spreading, of the risk. It works out in practice that 20th-century man seldom dies of trichinosis, but very widely and especially in America either suffers from a light case of trichinosis cor-

Heavy Slash In Welfare Funds Seen

A sizeable cut in welfare activities in Prince William County in the coming fiscal year is expected following receipt of word here that approximately $1,000,000 has been slashed statewide from welfare funds.

Mrs. Elizabeth Painter, County Welfare Supervisor, told The Journal this week there is little hope of the county getting approval of the $90,000 budget asked of the state. Mrs. Painter did not make any estimate of the reduction that is likely to be ordered, but said she understood that "the biggest cuts will be made in the case of counties that presented adequate budgets—and ours was adequate."

When the reductions are directed Mrs. Painter predicted, the state will prescribe "proportionate reductions." This means that cuts will be made across the board, hitting more or less evenly the six categories of welfare: old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, foster home care, general relief, and hospitalization.

In the last-named category any reduction is expected to be all but crippling. Mrs. Painter said the county is now paying up to $16 a day for hospital care.

Definite action on the budget cannot come until word is received from Richmond concerning the state's position. It is expected that the budget will come up for tentative approval at the next regular Board of Supervisors meeting April 6.

The slogan "Never Eat Pink Pork!" is all to the good and cannot be too often repeated, but remember this: The prevention of trichinosis in man consists essentially in the elimination of this disease from hogs. Germany did it. In the latest normal period in the Reich, prior to war conditions, German hogs coming to market averaged less than 0.001 percent trichinosis. Yet less than a century ago Germany was grappling with an extremely grave trichinosis problem. Hogs coming to market in America average 1.5 percent trichinosis—an extremely high percentage—and this has gone on unchanged for over 50 years. That mythical individual "the average American" is conservatively estimated to eat three servings of trichinosis pork

More Housing For 'Q'; Post Pats Own Back

Increased housing facilities for Marines stationed at Quantico and living off the base came one step nearer this week with approval by a House committee in Washington of a $2,475,000 appropriation for 150 sets of quarters.

The Armed Services Committee voted the amount Tuesday during consideration of the public utility works bill.

The Washington Post, which had done a "muckraking" expose of conditions at Quantico several weeks earlier, triumphantly took credit for the appropriation in its Wednesday account of the House committee action. The report gave the Post another opportunity—where the paper took to heap abuse on the town of Quantico, and also an opportunity—which it neglected to take—to mention the fact that the Marine Base in recent years has grown up around the town, making residential expansion in Quantico Town impossible.

Cage Tourney Finals Slated Saturday

The Manassas Legion was knocked out of its own Annual Invitational Basketball Tournament Tuesday night in a heart-breaking opening men's game at Osbourn High School gymnasium.

Leesburg defeated the Legion men, 50-46 after the Legion had come from far behind to hold victory in its grasp with but one minute to play. At the half, Leesburg led 27-11, and lengthened its lead to 40-23 at the three-quarter mark, when the Legion got its second wind and forged ahead 44-43 a minute before the game ended. In the final furious minute Leesburg scored seven points and Manassas Legion two to end the game 46-46 in Leesburg's favor.

Jim Leo, with three points in the first half and 19 in the second, led the Legionnaires in scoring, with Atkinson (15 points), Schneider (5) and Studer (4) contributing to the total. Fortuna, Vetter and Davis also played. Birch and McGaha, with 17 points each, tied for high-scoring honors for Leesburg.

The second half of the opening round was scheduled for Wednesday night, with semi-finals Thursday and the finals on Saturday at the Osbourn gym.

Sponsored by the Legion post here, the tournament is by now a fixture of the Prince William sports year. Nearly 300 persons attended the opener Tuesday, when the following games were also played:

MANASSAS HAWKS GIRLS, 37; LEGION GIRLS, 27. Libby Lloyd was top Hawk scorer with 18 points, and Edith Johnson's 12 were the high mark for the Legion. Other scorers and players for the Hawks were Blakemore (13), Haskins (6), Javenport, Tibbins, Fox, Pickrel, Robinson and Brown. For the Legion: Harne (9), Merchant (6), Fortuna, Lewis, Brown, Sinclair, and Saltar.

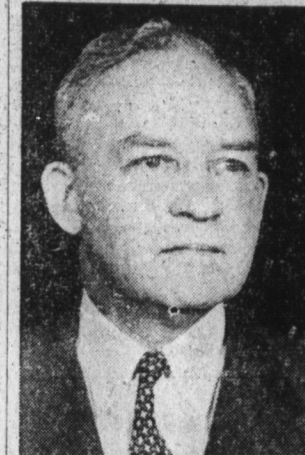

HAWKS 33, MIDDLEBURG 31. Players in this close game were Robinson (8), Witzel (7), Polen (7), Stu. Vetter (6), Swank (5), Kolb, Allen and Todd for the Hawks. Frislett, with 10 points, was high scorer for Middleburg.

UPPERVILLE A. C. GIRLS, 32; PURCELLVILLE 17. Doris Caylor's 14 points for the winners almost equaled the whole score of the losers. B. Davis, with 12 points, closely followed the top scorer on the Upperville squad, while B. Hatcher, scoring 13 points, hung up all but four of the Purcellville tallies.

The schedule for Wednesday night paired the Leesburg and Nokesville girls at 6:30; Purcellville and Haymarket boys at 7:30; Upperville Callahan and Middleburg girls at 8:30 and Upperville A. C. and Nokesville boys at 9:30.

Police Plan 'Juke Dances' In OHS Gym

Preliminary discussions between town police and school officials, aimed at providing supervised entertainment for teen-agers here, got under way this week.

Police Sergeant C. S. Sims and Officer J. A. Coiber, sparkplugs of the plan to organize a Police Boys Club, met with Principal Dan Kelso of Osbourn High School Tuesday evening to discuss the possibility of staging chaperoned Saturday night "juke box" dances in the Osbourn gym. Kelso told the police he would be better able to give them a decision after talking with Superintendent of Schools R. Worth Peters.

Peters, reached Tuesday night at his home, where he was suffering from a case of virus influenza, told your Manassas Journal that such dances had previously been held in the school gym under auspices of the P.T.A. He gave as his offhand reaction to the proposal the statement that he could see no objection to such dances.

Two Manassas clergymen, the Rev. E. Guthrie Brown and the Rev. L. J. Testa, expressed approval Wednesday of the policemen's plan. The police proposed the juke-box dances after it was noted last Saturday that, with the Pitts Theater closed because of fire, there was virtually no entertainment for youth in the town.

"It will be sixty days or more before the theater opens up again," Sergeant Sims said. "Meanwhile these boys and girls will have nothing in the line of worthwhile entertainment."

"We propose to rent a juke-box and a soft-drink machine, provide adequate chaperonage, and throw the gym open to the boys and girls on Saturday night."

Sims and Coiber said the juke box idea is feasible because no great amount of money is necessary in order to stage such a dance. The teen-agers themselves, they said, would "feed" nickels to the machine, thus providing good music for dancing.

Initial plans for the establishment of the Boys Club in the Conner Building have fallen through, according to the police.

200 Women Meet Here Wednesday

More than 200 women from eight cities and counties in Northern Virginia will be guests Wednesday of the Women's Clubs of Manassas when the Fifteenth Annual Institute of the Fourth District, Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs holds an all-day meeting at the Grace Methodist Church here.

Delegates from the cities of Alexandria and Fredericksburg and the counties of Arlington, Loudoun, Clarke, Prince William, Page and Orange will attend the session, which opens with registration at 9:30 a. m. Business meetings begin at 10 a. m. with a call to order by District President Leonie Alexander Gilbert.

Mrs. H. E. Head will sing the National Anthem; salute to the flag will be led by Mrs. T. J. Broadus, and the Rev. Herbert Hudgins, pastor of the church where the meeting will be held, will offer the invocation. Mrs. William Lloyd, president of the Manassas Senior Woman's Club, and Mrs. Turner Wheeling, representing the Junior Club, will greet the delegates, and Mrs. Paul Myatt of Arlington, president of the Lyon Village Woman's Club, will make the response for the guest delegates. Reports will be given by district officers and club presidents on the activities of the nominating and constitution committees, the outstanding achievements of the year, and the state of the Fourth District. Mrs. J. Frank Key, conservation chairman of the Virginia Federation, will speak on conservation.

After a luncheon served by the Woman's Society of Grace Church in the church dining room, business sessions will be resumed. Later in the afternoon the Woman's Club of Alexandria will present a playlet; activities of Junior clubs will be described by the district Junior president, Mrs. James Emerson, and awards will be made in the fields

Firebug Clue Is Definite, Pitts Says

Definite clues of firebug work have been uncovered in the Pitts Theater fire investigation, according to Ben Pitts, owner of the 30-theater chain of which the local playhouse is a part.

Estimating the probable replacement cost of damaged equipment at about $25,000, Pitts told The Journal that all other explanations of the fire except arson do not hold water.

The arson angle was reported exclusively last week by The Journal.

"The furnace did not explode," Pitts said Monday after an inspection of the theater ruins. "Neither did the fire start in the projection room, which was undamaged."

Taking The Journal reporter into the fire-blackened auditorium of the showhouse, Pitts pointed out that the area where the blaze centered was well defined. The fire apparently began about 15 rows back from the screen, on the left-hand side of the auditorium. The metal skeletons of the seats in that area are fire-warped, and all inflammable material has been consumed by flame. Adjacent parts of the seating area also show evidence of exposure to terrific heat, but at the extreme front and rear of the auditorium, and in the right hand side, damage to the seats is comparatively light. Cotton padding on seats ten or fifteen rows removed from the center of damage was not even singed by the fire.

There was nothing in that area of the theater that could normally have taken fire, Pitts said. There was no sign of fire at 11:05 p. m. March 13, when Manager Henry Marple and Projectionist Louis Wade made a final inspection of the theater, locked all doors and adjourned to Coker's Pharmacy, he added.

Yet twenty minutes later—at 11:25 p. m., a great gust of explosive gases blew off the roof of the theater and started the greatest fire seen in this town in 45 years, Pitts continued.

The theater owner sees a definite link between the facts that the fire started in one of the supposedly safest places in the theater; that 10,000 feet of technicolor film worth about $2,000 is missing; and that the fire burned with such a fury that it all but melted the metal parts of theater chairs.

"Film of that type," Pitts said, "is made of gelatin and glycerin; it's about as inflammable as anything in the world. When it burns it generates gases that are highly explosive."

The Fredericksburg theater operator confirmed that fire, police and insurance investigators are following the firebug lead. Town Manager James Ritter said the local authorities are still working on an arson angle, but have uncovered no new evidence, and have no list of suspects.

Meanwhile, builders for the Pitts chain were preparing to refinish the damaged structure. Except for a few courses of brick at the top of one wall, the shell of the movie house is undamaged. However, every seat in the theater will have to be replaced and a complete redecoration job done after the roof is installed.

Pitts' estimate of 60 days, which he gave The Journal last week as probable time before reopening, still stands, according to the theater man.

Lower County Tops Red Cross Returns

Dumfries District topped all others in Prince William County from a percentage standpoint in reports on Red Cross collections this week.

With $1,608 of the county's $3,000 goal reported in as of Wednesday, Red Cross records showed that 76 percent, or $378, of Dumfries District's goal of $500 had been obtained. Brentsville District showed 67 percent collections, with $200 of the $300 goal already pledged, and Manassas District had 55 percent, or $324 of its quota of $1,500. Occoquan and Gainesville District, with 33 percent each, had collected $100 of their respective $300 quotas, while slow collections in Coles District gave that subdivision of the county drive only 6 percent, or $6 of the $100 goal.

The drive continues through this month.

Although not all remodeling will be done at this time, Jordan said, sufficient progress will have been made in the next 30 days to allow the post to move in by the latter part of April. Facilities immediately available will be an assembly room, a library and trophy room, and a meeting hall for the VFW ladies auxiliary.

Jordan said it is planned that meeting rooms will be available to other organizations.

In case $1,000,000 is a little steep, the notes also come in $1,000 and five-, ten- and hundred-thousand dollar denominations and bear 1 1/2 per cent until maturity March 15, 1955.

The Plymouth people have sent us a handout on how to save on gasoline. "By driving at 50 miles an hour instead of 70 on the open highway," the release says, "a driver can save one gallon of gas or more out of every four." He can also save himself some time in the big, our friends in the grey-and-blue Virginia State Police car tell us.

The Presbyterian Church Session will meet Tuesday at the church at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, former Nokesvillians, have returned from a two week's vacation in Florida. They said "Hello" to the M. J. Shepherds in Sebring on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Seese of Falls Church spent Sunday evening with the Shepherd relatives here, after being dinner guests, along with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Herring also of Falls Church, of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Carter.

The Fred T. Shepherds returned home on Saturday evening from a visit with Fred's folks in Sebring, Florida, where they got their first experience of life in a trailer. The folks of Sebring are unusually friendly. We visited with the Hitches of Beaton, Mr. Saylor Diehl, Mrs. Nettie Somers, Mrs. Harley, and enjoyed day with Mrs. Mary Miller and the J. W. Fiddlers. We also met dozens of folks who "knew someone we knew."

We're glad we can write that Cleveland Flory, who has been ill, for several weeks will be able to go back to work at Vint Hill this week.

Mr. B. R. King and Mr. Layton Laws of Manassas have purchased a large dairy farm near Metz and have already begun operating it.

Mr. J. C. Reading has started to build a new house near his place of business near Yorkshir. Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Zirkle have bought the Reading home here in Nokesville.

Pork

each year and thus it is not surprising that, according to U. S. Public Health experts, at least 16 percent of all Americans harbor some degree of trichinosis infection.

Victory against sale of unsafe pork has been won in Germany, France, Switzerland, Scandinavia and, more recently, in England. It is time that we in America win it also, and we have plenty of choice as to method.

Experts are agreed that pork can be made safe for human consumption, no matter how it is cooked, by these methods: (1) microscopic inspection of all pork coming to market, with destruction of all found to be infective; (2) compulsory cooking of garbage before it is fed to hogs—this destroys the trichinae in scraps of meat in the garbage and prevents infection of the hogs with trichinosis; (3) processing of pork by freezing and other approved methods any of which destroy the parasite.

Our chances to purge ourselves of this historic scourge are in the nature of success guaranteed as soon as we enact and enforce regulations. It will cost sums comparable to what we now spend on pasteurization of milk. The refrigeration method of assuring us safe pork—probably the most effective—would, if it were applied tomorrow by too rash legislation, tie up the entire refrigeration facilities of America. Steps toward refrigeration of pork would have to be taken slowly.

There have been loud wails against the cooking of garbage. It is claimed by interests opposed to this health measure that hogs do not like or will not eat cooked garbage. Yet it is demonstrated every day in Canada and in England—where such cooking is required by law—that hogs do eat cooked garbage and thrive on it.

In the flesh of a pig the trichinae are often so minute and so nearly transparent that to find them, even with a microscope, is a task for expert scientific inspectors. At one time during the finally successful German campaign against trichinosis pork the Reich had an army of inspectors larger than the then U. S. Army (28,000 in 1895). Wages in America are so high that it would indeed cost hugely to apply the individual microscopic inspection method which Germany used. Our packers also claim that individual inspection would slow down their streamlined methods. But our scientists report that individual inspection is no longer necessary: they can build high-speed photo-projecto-trichoscopes which will put undreamed-of zip and accuracy into pork inspection.

Remember this: When you see stamped on a pork product the words "U. S. Government Inspected and Passed" those words do not mean that any official inspection whatever has been made as to whether this pork is trichinosis or not. It has merely passed the routine inspection given meat in general.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture does enforce a few regulations tending to foster trichinae-killing methods of processing certain of our pork products. But at least 30 percent of American pork coming to market escapes these regulations. Small-scale local pork butchers are grossly lax.

We continue to be the most trichinosis people in the world. Great numbers of us suffer untold pains and twinges caused by minute trichinosis infections and our whole diagnostic picture is somewhat blurred by this worm. Yet trichinosis could probably be wiped out within a decade. As a people we are wealthy, resourceful, energetic and wise enough to take the necessary steps toward the new era in public health represented by Safe Pork. We must insist that our pork come from safe, trichinosis-free animals, or be adequately inspected or processed to protect our health.

Greenwich

The Presbyterians had an all-day meeting on Sunday, with lunch served in the Sunday School building. At the congregational meeting in the afternoon, this church's representatives on the Parish Council were elected. Also three new deacons and two new elders were elected. The budget for the coming church year was also passed by the congregation.

Kenneth Lee Hopkins and his mother came home from the hospital last Thursday. She is glad to be able to write the news again, and he seems to enjoy just eating, sleeping and exercising his lungs. Miss Hazel Saunders, religious education teacher in the county, gave a talk at the Presbyterian workers conference last Monday evening. She emphasized the responsibility of teaching children.

Cloe Named County Choice As Director

C. C. Cloe, Triangle automobile dealer and civic leader, was endorsed unanimously Tuesday as the Chamber of Commerce's choice as a member of the board of directors of the state chamber.

Stanley Owens placed Cloe's name before the county chamber following receipt of a letter from the state chamber, asking for nominations. No other names were put forward at the Tuesday meeting.

Other action at the weekly luncheon meeting of the chamber: Owens reported that the State Director of Safety Engineering had agreed to conduct a survey on grade-crossing elimination in the center of Manassas.

Frank Cox read a letter from the State Board of Agriculture inviting Prince William County representatives to attend hearings April 19 and 20 on the subject of a state animal diagnostic laboratory in this area. Cox said Orange was the only county that had put its name forward recently as a possible site, and urged a Prince William delegation to attend the request consideration of this county.

The annual convention of the State Chambers of Commerce, at the John Marshall hotel April 13 and 14, was announced.

Cloe told the chamber he had learned that the Highway Department has plans to transform U. S. Highway 1 in the lower county area from a four-lane undivided highway to a park-divided thoroughfare like U. S. 29-211 north of Centreville. The work, he indicated, is just in the planning stage, although the state is urging property owners not to build close to the present road lines, since this would result in added expense at the time the road widening project begins. The Road committee was directed to study the question of county zoning.

Town Manager James Ritter reported that cover maps have been ordered by the town from the Geographic Survey as the first step in a study leading toward annexation of additional territory.

$190,000 - $700,000 in 13 Years is Auto Dealer's Record

Martin, Chevrolet dealer in Manassas, is celebrating his 13th anniversary this week. That fact is being celebrated elsewhere by advertising columns of your Journal.

There is an interesting story about J. Martin which the columns do not tell. It is the development of his Chevrolet business from a gross of $190,000 to a gross of $700,000 last year.

Martin was in the automobile business in Manassas when the people asked him 13 years ago to have the Chevrolet in the Triangle. The injury was done one day and the next day Martin bought it. From that day forward it has been a story of expansion.

In his office this week with a Journal representative, Martin was enthusiastic about the future of lower Prince George County. "It is the fastest continue his investment while away with the Navy so Mr. Martin bought him out. Later after the war, Battelle returned, but this time as an employee. However, within a short time Battelle again joined Mr. Martin as a partner.

One has to get Mr. Martin intensely interested in a subject like Chevrolet or General Motors to hold his complete attention because he is ever the salesman. His glass enclosed office is situated so that he can command a view of his entire sales establishment. The interviewer is well aware that Mr. Martin's heart is with a customer on the sales floor even when he expounds upon the satisfaction of doing business with the General Motors organization with which he has been associated in some way or other since 1934.

Apparently General Motors and Chevrolet think as much of Mr. Martin as Mr. Martin thinks of it. There are ten plaques adorning the walls of Mr. Martin's office in which General Motors in various forms has expressed meritorious comment concerning its Triangle representative.

Aid Available For Cripples

By G. Wallace Hook

If there is a crippled child or a handicapped adult in your family, the Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults wants to know about it.

The services of the Society are available to crippled persons and that the Society is eager to give assistance where it is most needed to bring health and strength to either child or adult who needs aid in the battle for a normal life.

We shall never feel that we have fulfilled our purpose until we are giving full aid to every crippled child and adult who needs us. This is why we hope to enlarge our funds this year in order to expand our services.

Funds are being raised during this Easter Seal month from the citizens of this Prince William County to help those who are less fortunate. Facilities of our Society are maintained by this community participation in the Easter Seal Drive. We want to see these services extended to as many crippled children as possible who need crutches or therapeutic treatment, as well as adults who need help to overcome their handicaps. We cannot do this, however, unless we have the funds to work with, for services to the crippled are expensive since they require highly trained professional personnel.

All but a small percentage of the funds raised during the Easter Seal Drive are used right here in this state, with considerably less than ten per cent going to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, in Chicago, to finance a program of research and education and a national program to aid the cerebral palsied.

D.A.R. Meets, Plans Dinner

Mrs. J. L. Dawson of Occoquan and Miss Etta Davis, of Coral Gables, Florida, were hostesses at the March meeting of the D. A. R. held last week at the apartment of Mrs. E. Arnold Service, Jr. Although Miss Davis could not be present she sent greetings to the chapter.

Mrs. C. C. Lynn, regent, presided at the meeting and presented to the chapter a golden badge sent by the National Chairman of the Building Committee designating the Elizabeth McIntosh Hammill Chapter as a member of the Star Honor Roll. This local chapter gave over $200 toward the construction of the addition to Constitution Hall in Washington.

The annual Virginia Dinner in conjunction with the National Congress will be held at the Willard Hotel on April 18. Several chapter members plan to attend. Jane Service has been invited to serve as a page at the convention again this year.

Mrs. Service read from the D. A. R. Magazine the National President's message and a poem, "Our Mission."

Mrs. Robert M. Bailey Sr., of Kinsale, who is delegate to the State Convention to be held in Staunton from March 17 to 20, was present. She read an interesting article, "Fredericksburg and Battlefields Around Fredericksburg" from the magazine "Historical Virginia."

The fifteen members present enjoyed a social hour after the meeting when refreshments were served.

MRS. FANNIE COLE SHACKELFORD

Mrs. Fannie Cole Shackelford, 81, died March 16 and was buried March 19 in Greenwood cemetery, at Minnieville, following funeral services at Hall's Funeral Home, Occoquan, with the Rev. Murray Taylor officiating.

Mrs. Shackelford was born July 13, 1869, the daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth Carter Cole, for whose family Coles Magisterial District was named. She was the youngest of seven children, the others being Marion, Boliver, Harriet, Henry, Benjamin, Jr., and Elizabeth.

Mrs. Shackelford married John Clark of Minnieville, and several years after his death she married E. D. Shackelford of Marshall. They had one child, Carleton Lee, who survives his mother.

Other survivors include two grandchildren, Margaret Ann and Carleton Lee Shackelford of Middleburg; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Ashby of Manassas, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Hattie Demory of Haymarket and Mrs. Katie Buckley of Olney, Md.

Pallbearers for Mrs. Shackelford were W. E. Hall, Edward Allison, John Clark, Sr., John Clark, Jr., J. Frank Taylor and Burton Kidwell.

ELIZABETH JACKSON

Elizabeth Jackson, 77, died at Fursellville, Va., March 12 after a brief illness. She was buried March 14 at Lincoln, Va., the Rev. Jasper of the Methodist Church there officiating.

Mrs. Jackson was the mother of Mrs. John Chapman of Manassas. Other survivors include three children, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

HATTIE WEBSTER

Hattie Webster of Lucasville died March 10 after a long illness at her home in Lucasville. She was in her seventies. Burial services took place March 14 in the Rose Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Webster, mother of 10 living children, was also survived by A. Roy, Charlie Roy and John Roy, of Manassas, Ed Roy of Pittsburgh, Pa., brothers, and Charlotte Brown of Manassas, a sister.

Quantico

At the regular meeting of the Dumfries PTA the discussion on the grading system was cancelled due to the low attendance caused by snow and so many cases of flu in the vicinity. The discussion will be held at the next meeting April 10.

Mrs. Ralph Wilson of Mechanicsburg, Pa., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Radcliffe. Mrs. Wilson is Mrs. Radcliffe's sister.

The Saturday night foursome met at the home of Mrs. Alice Kelley. High scorer was Mrs. Hugh Ashby. Also playing were Mrs. Irene Gnad and Mrs. B. E. Sisson.

Those on the flu sick list the last week were Mr. and Mrs. James Dent, Mrs. Pearl Campbell and daughter, Betty Elaine, Mrs. Betty Godsey, Nick Kasteralis and Betty Moncure.

The Ole Time Minstrel show to be given Friday by the VFW will be without the familiar face of Ab Saylor due to doctor's orders. As you know, Ab has a bad case of heart trouble. However a good replacement has been found in Crossen Willis. The talent is something just a little short of terrific so make plans to be there.

Mrs. June Bombshang was the guest of her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Abel during the last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete spent the week end in Maryland visiting with Mrs. Sarah Rawlings, Pete's mother.

More Brevities

Two Washington names of notes showed up this week on the deed records of Prince William County. Hutton W. Sumers, former Texas Congressman, and one-time head of the House Judiciary Committee, sold his half-interest in a 372-acre tract in Prince William and Loudoun Counties to Congressman Howard W. Smith, this district's representative. The two bought the parcel in 1937.

The Manassas Journal SHOPPERS' & BUYERS GUIDE

Covering Quantico, Triangle, Occoquan, Dumfries and Woodbridge Areas

By MR. AND MRS. LEE ROY PETERS

In this week as in the past we bring to the readers of Buyers' Guide items of interest to bargain hunters. That means any buyer who wants to get the most for his money. Here are some of the items that we have for your reading pleasure.

It is truly a night of entertainment in an "Ole Fashion Minstrel" show, given by the Goettge Post, a music, singing, an orchestra, and a comedy show. The Jumpy Three and those who go with them are local. If you read last week's article you know what to expect. If you would like to see the show, plan to be there.

Now want to write about our electric dealer in this area. Fred's Electric Shop. Here you can find all of the things that go into the modern home as well as the more enjoyable. Fred also has a repair shop for all of your electrical needs.

The Paris Auto Service, we are anything that your car may need. engine repairs (major or minor), body repairs and painting, washing, lubrication, parts and accessories for Pontiac and Studebaker automobiles, of course they have new cars. If you are in the area drop in and see that new Catalina which is on display.

Stevens store of Quantico has the Easter candies and gifts that make Easter so special. Here they also have the popular drug items for cold and flu. The store features the most complete line of any occasion, especially ones for mother, father and dear ones.

At the advertisement of the Home Supply of Occoquan, by Frank Hornbaker and his popular Store Manager, Ashton Powell. If you are in the area after work, drop in and see that new Catalina which is on display.

at only 37c a pound and the ham run from 4 to 6 pounds. They have the finest selection of seafoods and Mr. Borne, the owner, is a buyer of only the fresh and best grade seafoods. He will deliver your groceries right to your door if you so wish. You can find that freshly dressed chicken for a Southern Sunday dinner.

The Dixie Grill, Monday through Friday, features a luncheon special, truly a meal fit for a king and only for 50c. I don't think that you can afford to pack a lunch for your husband in competition with that price. Mr. Williams also bakes all of his pastry daily at the restaurant.

The Quantico Pharmacy, operated by Julius and Tony Ferlazzo, announces proudly that it has this week received a full line of Easter candies and baskets (made up or empty) for your choice and selection. Without any extra charge they will wrap your basket for mailing. They also have a wide variety of books to choose from.

Announcing their Spring line of clothes for the ladies is, Liming's Department Store. This store dates back to 1924 when it was operated by Mr. J. W. Liming. Since 1945 it has been operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ruby and Gene Davidson. At the store you can find the latest in Easter fashions and very moderately priced to fit your pocketbook. For your convenience they have a lay-a-way plan to hold any purchase in the store. These include articles for the man, women and child as well as home furnishings.

To the users of the RCA Victor No. 78 record player comes a real bargain offered by Victor's Radio and Appliance Store. This week you can purchase all 78 RPM records at a 20 per cent discount. If you are one who wishes to install your own television set you can buy all of the necessary parts for the installation at Victor's. They also sell radios, televisions and offer repairs on the same. Remember Vicks for the next purchase of RCA Victor.

Last but not least we come to the Stephens Drug Store of Triangle. Frank Stephens, Druggist and owner, fills any prescription promptly and efficiently. While in the store you will find those famous makes of cosmetics such as Yardley, Coty, and Old Spice, a full line of magazines, a complete soda fountain where lunch may be had, and a complete line of Easter candies.

Well, readers that is it for this week, hope that you enjoy your shopping tour at our advertisers.

DON'T GET HYSTERICAL

An old friend of the editors, Colonel John Fye, has just written us a surprising letter. John is the information chief (i.e., boss press agent) for the Second Army at Fort Meade, Md., which claims some sort of military jurisdiction over the Commonwealth of Virginia.

His letter explains that a tank maneuver is taking place at A. P. Hill Military Reservation, some miles from here down Fredericksburg way, and that there is going to be a great deal of realism injected into the war games. Well, fine. As Napoleon or Marshal Ney or somebody said, it's impossible to make an omelet without breaking eggs, and the more realism the merrier.

Then John goes on to say that we ought to publish the release about the maneuver. He explains, "... we feel the publication of this release will tend to offset any hysteria which might develop among the civilian population of the A. P. Hill area."

We aren't especially worried about our readers in the Lower County, around Quantico, getting hysterical. The Marines have the situation well in hand. Up around Woodbridge and Occoquan they are close enough to Fort Belvoir not to be scared by a soldier. We hope the tankers don't stop over into the region around Gainesville and Greenwich where there aren't so many soldiers except those passing through to or from (ssh!) Vint Hill Farms station. But there are some good garages there that could probably fix their tanks for them.

As for Manassas, who's excited? Battles and Manassas are practically synonymous to even the most superficial student of military history. The National War College takes its students out to Bristow to start a tour of the battlefield that is a required part of the knowledge, top brass must have. We are pretty well acquainted with soldiers and war. Nobody in Manassas is going to get hysterical.

Tell you what we'll do, John. If any of your boys come this far out of bounds, we'll turn them around and run back to you, the way we did nearly ninety years ago.

We have been selling and servicing typewriters and adding machines in this territory since 1932. During the past 18 years we have seen a lot of fellows come and go in this business. For one reason or another they are not on the job any more—we are.

Call or write us whenever you need supplies or service, or want our prices on a new or reconditioned typewriter or adding machine. We also rent machines. Our representatives are in Manassas and Prince William County each week.

From the Pastor's Study

By Conrad L. Snavely

The insanity and the confusion of our civilization, its paganism, its colossal cruelties, are all, I think, partially explained by the fact that we have betrayed our stewardship with the earth. "Consider the Lilies," says Jesus, but modern man hears these words with contempt. Because this is my Father's world and because he created the earth as he created man I cannot ignore the earth nor use it coldly as if it was a thing without life.

I stand therefore in awe before every blossoming bush and the wind tossed wheat field, and the hills rejoicing on every side. And sorrow comes and almost overwhelms me. I lean not only upon my Father and upon my brethren but also upon the peace of the stars and trees and running waters and singing birds. I know that Sidney Lanier tells the truth when he says: "Into the woods my Master went, Clean forspent, forspent; Into the woods my Master came, Forspent with love and shame. But the olives they were not blind to him. The little gray leaves were kind to him."

The thorn tree had a mind to Him. When into the woods He came." Our God and Father moves with amazing patience and power in this present world. He is mighty enough to create an universal brotherhood of free men bound to one another by their love to a common Father. But because we are free and foolish we still will not be brothers, preferring to be beasts; we will not be sons of the Father thinking it smarter to be sons His World. I think there is not bright laughter in His eyes but a gray sorrow and a deep pain. So very long He has yearned over His wayward children and He knows the father's disappointment and a father's pity for his children.

As some one has said, "He has taken us upon the wings of the wind, and from the clouds we scatter a brutal, all-consuming fire. He has shared with us the secrets of his lightning and with ugly cunning we hurl bolts through water and air to cover sea and earth with desolation. He has given us language and music and art so that we might understand and enjoy one another, and we in every way, every divine gift to hurting and maiming and killing one another."

"He has made rich the soil with good things so that every man and child might be content and secure, and we fill the world with lamentations of the hungry and the feeble cries of the starving. He has sent among us a Man full of grace and truth, so that we may see clearly the way of brotherhood and peace and we debate ourselves again and again in the ultimate sin of war." But this the Father revealed by Jesus that he even now yearns for His children, still believing in them, trusting them, caring for them with a strong and marvelous love. Thus all our sins are at last laid before him. He is wounded for our transgressions and brushed for our iniquities. And as incredible as it might seem he still continues to believe in us, sinners like we are.

As the world begins to know more fully the matchless Son of God it will leave the far country and come home to pardon and peace. Then there will be great laughter and rejoicing in the Father's eyes and heaven will ring with songs of joy. Lord let this come to pass in me and in my time.

The committee included the following: Luther C. McRae, Chairman, High School Counselor, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg; Dr. A. G. Macklin, High School Counselor, Virginia State College, Petersburg; W. Leigh Taylor, District Supervisor, Woodrow Wilson Regional Consultation Service, Fishersville; C. W. Cancer Drive Seeks $2,500

The 1950 Cancer Crusade will seek to raise $2,500 in this county to finance expanded programs of local service and education, and research on a nationwide scale. The Junior Woman's Club, local campaign crusaders of the American Cancer Society, pointed out that the national goal this year is $14,565,000.

"We must make an extra effort this year to raise our share of this money; efforts of past years must be exceeded to maintain the progress we have made toward controlling Cancer," said Mrs. Turner Wheeling, county chairman of the drive. Some of the nation's foremost scientists have found new clues to cancer, which open up avenues of attack previously closed to cancer researchers. Mrs. Wheeling said there is now hope in scientific circles that new and successful means of treating cancer with chemical compounds will be developed.

But even without new scientific discoveries, she pointed out, "It is now possible through early detection and prompt treatment, to save at least a third of the 200,000 who are dying from cancer each year. One out of five persons now living will have cancer. One out of eight will die of it. That is too many."

of eight will die of it. That is too many. "About 67,000 Americans are being cured of cancer yearly," the chairman said, "An equal number of lives could be saved if enough people learn the cancer danger signals and see their doctors promptly when cancer symptoms appear. This calls for intensive education and for that we need generous financial support. "We also will need more money next year to expand our service programs to aid patients right here. The drive opens here April 1 and will continue to April 30."

At the regular meeting of the Back Keyes Post No. 28, Quantico, the coming season for Junior Baseball was the main topic of discussion, the outcome being that the Legion will sponsor a ball club. It was approved that certain members should contact local merchants for cooperation in helping to back this team. The uniforms the Legion have will go on sale for $30 apiece, and the merchant-backer will have his name on the back of the suit. Most of the Legion's games will probably be played on the Marine diamond. It was brought out that most of last year's team will be eligible to play again this year so that a championship is almost forthcoming to the area in Junior American Legion Baseball.

The Quantico Indians held their first practice on Sunday at the Marine Base Gym. About 15 candidates answered the call. Most of them were new faces; young and very promising ball players. From the prospects of Sunday's practice the team will be a very fast outfit, with plenty of potentialities.

The Quantico Post High school is holding practice daily in the gym of the Post. Holdovers from last year include: D. Rawlings, W. Sprague, T. Kilday, J. Humphries, Cy Waldrop, G. Brower, Ken and Pete Schrider, and C. Wynnaught. Coach L. Biskup is having quite a time trying to fill the shoes of "Spec" Savage, who transferred to Falmouth last year.

At Occoquan District High school the baseball picture is quite heartening. There are, in many instances, players from last year's squad competing for their positions harder than they did last year. Occoquan will find itself two deep in almost all positions. Coach Joe Crain predicts a successful season in store for Occoquan.

ball team for this coming season. If the business manager will drop me a line, or call, I will be more than willing to let the readers know of their plans for the coming season.

Giddy Gussie: Here is a girl who likes nice things, and prefers them by the dozen. Furs, perfumes, trinkets, baubles—Gussie buys 'em by the closetful. It's a good thing her modeling job pays good money.

Gussie thinks it's no use worrying about the future because she plans to marry some man who is rich and handsome. (If Gussie were as bright as she is beautiful, she'd be putting some money into U. S. Savings Bonds every month—just in case Prince Charming got sidetracked or something.)

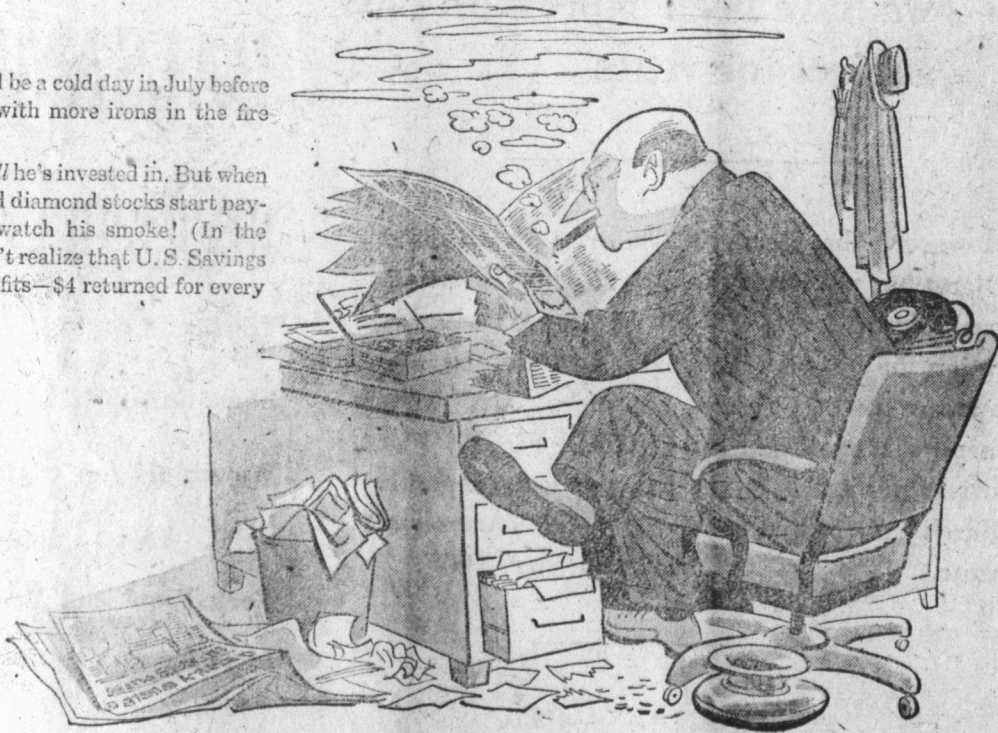

Prince Hal: Every fellow at The Owl and Bottle will tell you that Hal is a Prince. Darn good spender. Great sense of humor too.

It's a shriek when he tells about how his wife nags at him to save some of his salary. (They'd both have more peace of mind if he'd join the Payroll Savings Plan and save money automatically!)

Crafty Jim: Oh, it'll be a cold day in July before you'll find a man with more irons in the fire than Jim.

He's not telling all he's invested in. But when those gold mine and diamond stocks start paying off—brother, watch his smoke! (In the meantime he doesn't realize that U. S. Savings Bonds pay sure profits—$4 returned for every $3 invested.)

Cheerful Charles: You can hear him whistling on his way home every night. And what a swell little home it is too. Nice neighborhood. Nice garden. A pair of wonderful looking kids.

Another reason Charlie's cheery—he hasn't a money worry in the world.

You see, every payday he buys a U. S. Savings Bond through his office's Payroll Savings Plan. Says it's a safe, sane, sure, painless way of saving. And he's right!

Which said 'You cannot stay.' They saw a hand we could not see. That beckoned them away. Hale Renamed Dairy Head

The recently approved brucellosis control program, under which all female cattle from four to eight months old will be taken care of by the State, was explained in detail by Dr. John M. Waters and Dr. M. C. Robbins at the All-Day Dairy Meeting held at the Manassas Town Hall Friday.

General dairy topics were discussed by R. G. Connolly, V. P. I. Extension Dairyman, while an analysis of the production of herds in the Prince William County Dairy and Improvement Association was presented by Glen R. Purley, State Dairy Analyst. The summary by Mr. Purley showed a 1949 production per cow of herds in the local association varying from 212.6 pounds of milk to 2,517 pounds of milk, and an average production of 1,000 pounds of milk per cow.

A meeting of the Executive Board was called for Saturday afternoon, March 25, at 1:30 o'clock at the County Agent's office by Mr. Hale. The possibility of organizing a second full-time DHIA to take care of new dairymen and present members whose herds are being tested by Fauquier and Fairfax Supervisors was considered and local dairymen were assigned to contact prospective members and report before the Executive Board Meeting to be held Saturday.

Upon motion and following discussion from the floor, the group voted an Assistant County Agent beginning on July 1.

Churches Set Meeting For Mid-Century

The Virginia Council of Churches is promoting a Mid-Century Advancement in the area of Cooperative Christianity. Basic principles which support this advance movement are as follows:

1. A casual study of general conditions affecting family and community life suggest the need that Christian principles be advanced.
2. Greater progress can be made in advancing the Christian religion when people of different denominations are willing to plan and work together in the community.
3. Cooperative Christian advance depends upon the establishment of an effective agency through which people of different denominations may work together in the local community.

During the next two months, the Virginia Council of Churches will inaugurate the Mid-Century Movement in a series of one day conferences to be held in different sections of the state.

A conference for the general Arlington area will be held at the Arlington Methodist Church, South Glebe Road and 8th Street, on Wednesday, March 29. Ministers, laymen and church women from the local churches of Arlington and Warrenton and the counties of Fairfax, Fauquier, Loudoun and Prince William have been invited.

The Rt. Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, president of the Virginia Council of Churches, will speak on the theme "The Need for Christian Advancement" and the Rev. Dr. C. Fred Williams on "Advancing Together." Rev. William Archer Wright, Jr., of Merrifield, will preside and Rev. Harry W. Backus, III will conduct the worship.

The holding of this conference will provide an excellent opportunity for church workers of the general Arlington area to talk things over. It appears that such a movement deserves the support of church workers of every denomination.

More Brevities

More money lying around for juniors to pick up. There is a dress-making contest being sponsored nationally for 4-H girls, and the annual $6,000 contest for junior vegetable growers, also under 4-H sponsorship, was opened last week. A & P stores are offering the big-money prizes in this contest.

1950 ACP Allotments have been approved by the County Committee for individual farms in the county and purchase orders for lime and fertilizer are now being issued. Allotment notices are being mailed to the farmers this week. If for any reason, the PMA office here says, you do not wish to earn the allotment as approved for your farm, contact the county office at an early date.

Two editions of The Journal were published last week, one with twelve pages and one with fourteen (two blank). The 14-page edition contained an explanation of the blank space which, in the first edition, carried the news that 8.17 miles of paving and a concrete bridge on Route 619 between Independent Hill and Bristow would begin shortly.

The Fauquier Duplicate Bridge Club will stage a tournament at the Warren Green Hotel, Warrenton, April 1 and 2. Anyone interested in entering the tournament, which is restricted to members of the American Contract Bridge League, should write W. D. Snyder, Box 982, Warrenton, for details.

Sometimes we can't resist printing a press agent's dream, such as this from General Electric: A dairy farmer bought a new radio (G. E., of course) and when the delivery man came with it, the farmer asked him if he would buy the old one (also G. E.). The radio man said, "I'll give you $4 for it. I sell 'em for $5 as cow radios—you know, for out in the barns in the morning. Farmer gets the early market reports and bossy gets some nice music. Makes 'em stand still for milking in the morning." The waterfowl population, the decline, according to the Commission of Game and Fisheries. Reminds one of the showed a reporter a flock of 18,254 ducks in that marsh. "Well, see, that big gang over there are about 10,000 ducks. And that one a little smaller got about 8,000 in it. That bitty flock yonder has about three-four. See how simple
