Report Is Made On Progress of Highway Work

A review of the road work on the secondary highways of Prince William County by the State Highway Commission construction forces shows:

1. Twenty percent of the work started on the rebuilding of Kettle Run Bridge on a 8.17 mile project on Route 619 between Bristow and Route 234, near Independent Hill, has been completed despite the heavy rains during May. Grading on the road started June 1.

2. Between Catharpin and U. S. Route 15, on Secondary route 234, the last of the base stone preparatory to bituminous surfacing this summer is being placed. All the road widening, bituminous surfacing and bridge work between Catharpin and Stone House has been completed except for a small amount of rip rap work at Catharpin Creek Bridge and the surface treatment of the approaches to the bridge.

3. North of Buckland 90 percent of the grading of 5.6 miles of U. S. 15, and all bridge work has been completed. The subgrade and macadam surfacing is being put down. Route 15, north of Buckland, is not scheduled to be completed until 1951, but with good weather the macadam surface may be finished this year. An intersection, where Route 15 joins Route 211, is included in the work at a cost of $19,000. Forces from Construction Camp 26 are doing the work.

4. Two other Prince William County projects are to be started this month. These include hard surface for three additional miles on Secondary Routes 652 and 653, east and west of Nokesville.

Adjoining Prince William County near Catlett, old Route 233 between Catlett and Morrisville is being widened and resurfaced.

The Highway department has authorized a statewide survey to determine the long-range cost of bringing the state secondary highways system to standards adequate to meet the farm-to-market travel.

Hard surfacing all roads carrying 50 or more vehicles daily. All weather surfacing on roads carrying 10 to 50 vehicles. Light surfacing on roads carrying less than 10 vehicles.

Strengthening all bridges and culverts to a minimum capacity of 10 tons.

Eliminating all open fords.

Recently the highway department listed some 3,660 secondary bridges in the state with a less than 10 ton capacity. Bringing these up to standard poses the toughest problem faced in developing the secondary road system, highway officials commented.

While the County Health office was open this week and the clerk in charge during the week, Dr. Johnson, the health officer and his assistants were away in Roanoke on the official business incident to a conference on state health problems. Dr. Johnson will be at his office again on Monday.

There is an interesting story behind the production of these replicas of the famous Liberty Bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia. All are the product of America's copper industry. When Secretary of the Treasury Snyder last March announced the savings bond drive and the Liberty Bell as its symbol the copper industry volunteered to make all the copies of the Liberty Bell that would be necessary to give impetus to the drive.

Arthur L. Bigelow, one of America's foremost bellmasters, volunteered to design the duplicate bells.

Observe Wednesday, June 14, As Flag Day

1—When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States of America, the latter should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the flag of the United States should be hoisted first and lowered last.

2—When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States should be on the right (the flag's own right), and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

3—When used on a speaker's platform, whether indoors or out, the flag should never be reduced to the role of a mere decoration by being tied into knots or draped over the stand. For this purpose bunting should be used. The flag, if displayed, should be either on a staff or secured to the wall or back curtain behind the speaker with the union to the flag's right.

4—When flags of two or more nations are displayed together they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size.

5—When the flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left.

6—Whenever a number of flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are to be arranged in a group and displayed from staffs the latter should be placed at the center of that group and on a staff slightly higher than any of the others.

7—When the flag is displayed in the body of the church, it should be from a staff placed in the position of honor at the congregation's right as they face the clergyman. The service flag, the state flag or other flag should be at the left of the congregation. If in the chancel or on the platform, the flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation and the other flags at his left.

8—When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of a building, the union of the flag should go to the peak of the staff (unless the flag is to be displayed at half-staff).

9—Whenever the flag of the United States is carried in a procession in company with other flags, it should occupy a position in front of the center of the line of flags or on the right of the marching line.

Leona Kline Among Eight June Brides

Miss Leona Kline, widely known throughout Prince William County as the Home Demonstration agent, is to be married on Saturday at the Cannon Branch Church of the Brethren, by the Rev. Conrad Snively, to Ray Barloe, of Manassas, a brother of Mrs. Paul Espenshade and Mrs. Randall W. Champion.

Following the wedding ceremony which will be at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon there will be a reception for the couple at the home of Mrs. Paul Espenshade. There has been no announcement of where the honeymoon will be passed.

While Miss Kline's wedding, because she is so widely known, has been the source of much interest there are a number of other weddings of popular Prince William County couples already announced for June, the traditional month for brides. Among these are the following:

Rapid Progress On Rebuilding Pitt's Theater

Reconstruction of the Pitt's Theater building is progressing rapidly and is expected to be completed soon after July 1, according to construction foremen on the job.

All heavy work, such as replacement of steel girders and wooden beams, is finished, leaving only the interior work such as installation of seats, erection of wooden paneling, re-plastering and painting yet to be done.

Paneling has already been delivered on the job. Workmen are expecting delivery of the comfortable seats with attractive upholstery. Only a delay in the arrival of the seats could hold up the opening of the Theater beyond July 1.

The forty-fourth Osborn high school commencement exercises were to be held tonight, Thursday, at 8:15 p. m. D.S.T. Names of the graduating seniors were printed in the issue of the Manassas Journal of May 25.

County Postmasters Going to Richmond For Convention

The bosses of the postman who isn't ringing twice any more are going to Richmond for three days, June 21, 22 and 23, to talk shop. It is the annual session of the Virginia Chapter, National Association of Postmasters. They meet at the John Marshall Hotel.

Postmistress Elizabeth Davies of Manassas in announcing the meeting in this area is urging every postmaster in Prince William County to attend because, she says, she is confident that the information they glean from the three-day sessions will make them better postmasters and in addition they can expect to have a good time.

Twenty-three counties in Virginia have 100 percent membership in the association and it is anticipated that there will be 1200 persons present at the session this year.

Departmental officials from Washington and regional representatives of the civil service will be present to advise the postmaster on how to keep the mail moving, sell stamps, and write your money orders and get that parcel post to you in spite of rain and hail, sleet or snow or dead of night, or a postoffice motto to that effect.

Alcoholics Anonymous Group in Manassas Recount Experiences in Fighting of Liquor

Steps toward the formation of a permanent Alcoholics Anonymous group in Manassas were taken Monday night at Town Hall when 39 persons, many of them confirmed drunkards from elsewhere along with people from Manassas proper, met in the second such gathering to be held here.

An initial AA meeting was held about a month ago at Stonewall Jackson Hotel.

An alcoholic—members of AA hold that alcoholism is a permanent affliction and never refer to themselves as "reformed" or "former" alcoholics—from Quantico presided. Groups from Alexandria, Vienna and Warrenton also attended.

Plans were made for another meeting next Monday, also at Town Hall, at 8:30 p. m., Eastern Daylight Time.

Several of the persons who attended were manifestly not of the drinking fraternity. One such was a woman who had brought her husband to the meeting in the hope that he would become interested in the movement.

The crowd of 39, which nearly filled the town hall council room, was the largest to have occupied that chamber in many a month.

The comparatively large crowd indicated the interest there is in the subject of alcoholism; a group of 37 in Manassas is the equivalent of a crowd of about 18,000 in Washington or over 100,000 in New York.

Alcoholics Anonymous strives—as the name implies—to preserve the anonymity of its members. In cooperation with the newly-formed Manassas group, therefore, only first names are being used in this story, and those first names are not real. The people referred to, however, are.

Jimmy, the chairman, introduced Sam, from Alexandria, who told of two attempts to swear off liquor the Alcoholics Anonymous way. The first time, Sam said, he stopped drinking "because I thought I should." It didn't take, he said. "Then I stopped because I knew I couldn't drink."

"The only difference between me and a drunk right now," Sam said, "is one drink. I am staying away from that one."

Speakers at the meeting emphasized that sobriety is a day-by-day proposition. Jimmy, the Chairman.

YOU'LL FEEL THE DIFFERENCE!

The ten tankers that crossed Virginia...

A CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM of 10 supertankers for the Esso world-wide fleet has been carried out at Newport News. Each 26,800 deadweight-tons vessel will carry her 9 1/2-million gallons oil cargo across the oceans of the world at a steady 16-knot clip... each is a tribute to the ability of Virginia's industry, and the skill of her workers.

BUT CROSSING THE STATE OF VIRGINIA?

YES! With their 81,000 tons of materials, parts and equipment... built with millions of dollars worth of the products and services of numerous Virginia companies, large and small... these modern ships have helped to pay wages and stimulate business activity in transportation, mining, manufacturing and farming RIGHT ACROSS THE STATE!

THE BUILDING of these supertankers for our affiliate, Esso Shipping Company, is only one example of this business activity in Virginia. With local offices and bulk plants throughout the State, the distribution and sale of hundreds of Esso Products—for home and farm and factory, for plane and train and car—have also helped to create employment and other benefits from the seashore to the mountains.

ALONG VIRGINIA'S ROADS and highways, too—in every corner of the Old Dominion—local independent merchants are selling motoring products at the Esso Sign, employing local people to man their stations.

AND WHEREVER there are regular pay envelopes, there you will find good citizens, good taxpayers, solid community supporters. Esso is proud of the part it plays in Virginia's economy, and its contribution to the progress and the welfare of the Commonwealth!

Interest in the steps to maintain a desirable stand of trees is attributed to the vocational training program carried on in schools. The contest will end December 31 and is open to members of organized veterans classes in vocational agriculture.

Following The Macs

The Nokesville Bluebirds moved into the Northern Virginia League lead last Sunday with a 6-5 twelfth inning win over the Manassas Macs at Nokesville.

Led by Billy Reid, who got three hits, and veteran Fred Shepherd, whose two hits left his season batting mark at an even .500, the Nokesvillians pounded out 13 hits, including three successive singles in the last half of the twelfth which drove in Welch with the winning run.

Losing pitcher was Russell Polen. Billy Brown, who gave up 10 hits, was the winning hurler. Both struck out three batters and Brown gave five bases on balls, while Polen walked two.

Squirrel Peers Into Journal Office and Retreats Atop Pole

Torn between a natural desire for his favorite article of diet and a natural fear of the man-made confusion of Center Street, a husky grey squirrel perched atop a light pole near The Journal office last Monday afternoon.

The squirrel occasionally cast hungry glances at the front door of The Journal, where the editor, circulation manager and two printers were busy pursuing their nuttiest of trades.

Stealthily he crept a foot or two down from the top of the pole. Then he stopped and looked around, seemingly asking himself if the game was worth the candle. When a Towla policeman sauntered by, temptation overcame caution and he advanced three feet farther down the pole.

A zoologist who prefers to remain as anonymous as he is ridiculous, solved the mystery of the squirrel on the light pole. The animal was waiting, the pseudo-scientist explained, for a chance to steal some nuts out of a bin in the Manassas Hardware Co. store nearby.

Five 4-H Youths in Chain Breeding Plan With Registered Stock

Charles Young, Roy Bean, Bobby Michael, Emory Mayhugh, Jr., and Delbert O'Meara, all of the Manassas 4-H Club, have each been sent a choice gilt from the VPI registered Hampshire swine herd and within a few days a young unrelated registered Hampshire boar will be shipped to one of the boys to begin a chain breeding plan sponsored by the Manassas Kiwanis Club.

Each of the boys, under the breeding plan, are to return a choice registered gilt to VPI from the first litter of pigs farrowed and this will be placed with another 4-H member by County Agent Frank Cox next spring.

In addition each boy agrees to keep his original Hampshire sow until at least one additional litter of registered pigs is farrowed. The boys receiving the registered boar are required to furnish breeding services for the other boys.

The boys who do the best work with their animals will receive cash awards totalling $100 to aid them in purchasing additional breeding stock.

At Lorton on June 13 and at Centreville on June 23 meetings will be held to study the Fairfax County government based upon a proposal for a county manager.

The meetings are being held under the supervision of a commission appointed by the Board of Supervisors to inform the voters of all the problems involved in a change of form of government.

man, found fault with that type of pledges—which some sponsor—because they make you feel so holy." On one occasion, Jimmy said, he signed a pledge and after about three weeks "I felt like a little angel sprouting wings. In reality, I was just building myself up for a big let down."

Stressing the day-to-day aspects of AA, another speaker declared that although he had not had a drink for several years, all he knew "on cared about is that I've been sober for the last 24 hours and won't take another drink for 24 hours more."

Tommy, an Alexandria alcoholic who told a story of utter degradation and eventual rescue, was interrupted early in his tale by the passing of a freight train along the tracks behind the town hall. After silence was restored, Tommy said, "I'd move away from that railroad track right now if I was a practicing alcoholic."

Chairman Jimmy explained after

Tommy's talk that one part of the AA program is to "share each other's experiences."

"We know what the other fellow went through; we know what headaches and jitters are. When Tommy told of the time he had been in jail, I could sympathize. I never made jail myself, but that was because I knew some politicians. I came darn close to it sometimes, though."

Pete introduced himself, as AA speakers do, by saying that he was an alcoholic. He added, "I guess I can qualify as an alcoholic—if two fifths a day makes a man an alcoholic I am one."

After a long siege with the bottle, Pete said, he finally stopped by application of AA principles and by recognizing his problem as being staying on the water wagon for 24 hours at a time.

"I'm not opposed to whiskey," Pete said. "Not one bit in the world. I just couldn't handle it, that's all. I'm just like the boy who eats too many green apples; he doesn't go out and chop the tree down."

"No, I don't hate whiskey. But I'll tell you something—you can't enjoy life till you've been drunk about 10 or 15 years."

An attractive, elderly Alexandria woman, Christine, was the evening's final speaker, and the only one who spoke in the third person instead of the first. She told the story of a well-bred woman who became addicted to whiskey and dissipated first her bank account, then her small belongings, later her furniture and finally her home. It became apparent as she told the story that it was her own story after all.

Despised by her neighbors, deserted by her family, the old woman at last committed suicide in the Cotomac.

"That woman," Christine said, "was me."

"That's an exaggeration, of course. I wasn't that kind of a drunk; I was a party drunk—a few cocktails and I'd get high—probably higher than most of you would on a quart."

"But I was gripped always by an agonizing fear. The story I have just told you was the story of my fear. I felt that I might become that old woman, driven finally to destroying herself."

"So I decided to show myself—to allay my fear. I'd buy a pint and force myself to take a drink—one drink—before dinner each day. I'd make that bottle last a week or ten days. I didn't want that drink, but I'd make myself take it."

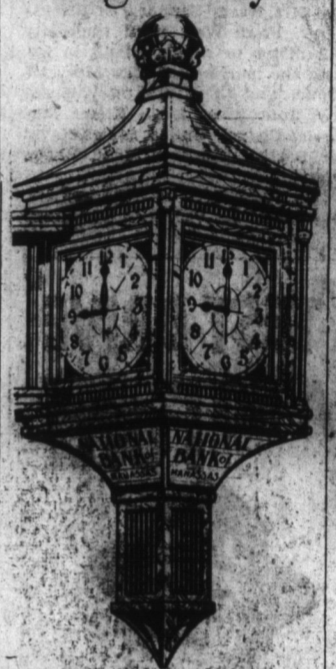

"After three or four days, I'd finish the bottle off in one night. I couldn't stay away from it."

"It was then I realized that I was an alcoholic—and the biggest fool of an alcoholic you ever saw because I didn't want to drink. I'd throw parties, and I'd never toss an empty whiskey bottle into a trash can but what I would say, 'Thank God that one's empty.'"

On her own at first, and later with AA help, Christine got onto a day-by-day schedule of abstinence. By application of AA rules, she said, "I will come finally to the time that I can drink every minute of the day because I will not be drinking whiskey but I'll be drinking the wine and eating the bread of Life."

Dollar for Dollar- you can't beat a PONTIAC

A Wonderful Performer —at a Wonderful Price!

Almost everybody has a good word for the immensely popular Pontiac.
The most enthusiastic spokesmen are those who own this great car.
The facts behind this admiration of Pontiac are very simple—

Pontiac is America's lowest-priced Straight Eight. Pontiac is the lowest-priced car with GM Hydra-Matic Drive. Pontiac is the most beautiful thing on wheels.

And Pontiac is famed everywhere for its dependability and economy.

Those are the facts, and they are impressive. But they are a lot more impressive to the person behind the wheel of a Pontiac. He knows for sure that dollar for dollar, you can't beat a Pontiac!
