MANASSAS, VA., FRIDAY, APRIL 11, 1913.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

FACTS PLAINLY STATED

Another Effort to be Made for Restoration Diverted Portion District School Levy.

Manassas town and district has been unusually interested for the past two weeks in some developments which were brought to public notice at the recent Farmer's Institute. Complaint was made that the School levies asked for by the County and District School Board for the year 1912 had been refused in part and it became evident from statements made by Mr. Maphis and Mr. Westwood-Hutchinson, that we were in danger not only of losing the Agricultural High School, but also of having the terms of our graded schools and our rural schools shortened.

Supervisor Gulick admitted that the aggregate school taxes for 1912 had been reduced to 35 cents on the $100, while the aggregate road taxes had been increased to 47 1/2 cts. on the $100. We have made a careful examination of the school taxes since the advent, in 1906, of the Agricultural High School and ascertain that during the years 1908, 1909, 1910 and 1911 the school taxes, county and district, aggregated 40 cents on the $100 and the road taxes, county and district, aggregated 87 1/2 cents on the $100.

A year ago the Board of Supervisors cut off five cents from the school taxes and added ten cents to the road taxes.

The result was that the Farmers circulated a petition asking the Supervisors to allow the school levies certified by the School Board to be necessary. Supervisor Gulick stated at the meeting that if a petition of the taxpayers of his district, representing over one-half the taxable values thereof was presented to the board requesting that the five cents, diverted from the district school tax to the road tax last year be restored to the district school levy for the present year, he would insist that the Board grant the request. Notwithstanding the fact that such petition, which county treasurer, Leachman stated represented between one-half and two-thirds of the taxable values of said district, was presented the request of the petitioners was refused.

We understand that there are many who favor the restoration of the five cents diverted as aforesaid, who were not given the opportunity to sign the said petition and to such, an invitation is hereby extended to call on Mr. G. C. Leachman, at the National Bank of Manassas, and have their names recorded. We also understand that it is alleged that some persons signed the petition under a misapprehension. Such persons should, of course, call on Mr. Leachman and have their names stricken from the petition, as it is the intention of the people interested to again bring the matter before the Board of Supervisors.

At the request of many subscribers we publish below the names of petitioners for the granting of the request referred to.

THE SILVER TEA, IN M. I. C. TO SELL PRODUCE DIRECT

Good Attendance of Patrons to Augment U. D. C. Monument Fund Friday Night

Those who were present in the Chapter room of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in the M. I. C. building Friday night, will agree that, aside from aiding in the Chapter's laudable object to augment the Shiloh monument fund, the excellent program rendered afforded pleasure well worth the price of admission which was bare-sufficient to cover the cost of refreshments which were daintily served and greatly enjoyed.

The meeting was called to order by Rev. P. A. Arthur, of Trinity Episcopal church, who acted as Master of ceremonies. The program consisted of Southern airs, readings and recitations. "Night on Shiloh," a pathetic poem, portraying the awful carnage of one of the most noted battles of the war among the states, was excellently rendered by Miss Mildred Harrell, and an interesting story recalling the same event was read by Mr. C. A. Sinclair.

Among the war-time songs that were especially enjoyed, though they were deeply steeped in pathos, were: "Just Before the Battle Mother," "My Old Kentucky Home," "The Dearest Spot on Earth to Me" and "Dixie."

The climax of the evening's enjoyment came with Miss Sherla Lee Fisher's humorous impersonations. Her impersonation of the fault-finding, unsophisticated and mischievous little Miss was remarkably true-to-life and elicited prolonged applause. In response to the encore Miss Fisher gave another impersonation of the wakeful child, at two o'clock in the morning, propounding all kinds of perplexing questions to his drowsy and vexed papa.

A recitation by Miss Evelyn Chapman entitled: "What he lost at Shiloh" was, also, well rendered and greatly enjoyed.

The net proceeds of the evening were approximately $15.00.

TAXATION TO BE DISCUSSED

Conference at Richmond to Formulate Plans for Better Assessment Methods.

Plans looking to the improvement of administrative methods, especially with reference to assessment methods, now in practice regarding State taxation, will be formulated at the conference on taxation, which will be held in Richmond in connection with the conference for education in the South, which will meet there April 16th to 18th.

Questions relating to the proper apportionment and distribution of school taxes will occupy a large part of the discussion of the conference, which will be held in the State Corporation Commission room at the State Capitol on the afternoons of April 17th and 18th, at 2:30 o'clock. Governor Mann will preside over the meetings and Mr. Douglas Freeman will be the secretary of the conference.

Some of the important questions which will be considered are: "What can be done to secure a more complete return of property at nearer its full value without building a more expensive system of officials?" and "Should the Constitution of the States that now require the taxation of personal property under the general property tax, be so amended that they can be permitted to classify their tax assessments in order to encourage manufacturing and other forms of industry?"

NEW TELEPHONE COMPANY

Charter Granted to Herndon Corporation for System for Fairfax County.

The citizens of Herndon, Fairfax county, have organized the Farmers' Telephone and Telegraph Company with an authorized capital stock of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000. A charter has been granted the organization by the State Corporation Commission authorizing the construction of lines within the limits of Fairfax county. The officers, all of Herndon, are: President, William E. Miller; vice-president, M. T. Wilkins, and secretary-treasurer, W. M. McNair.

The company is planning to connect with the lines of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Company of Loudoun county, probably at Sterling, and with the exchange at Pleasant Valley, and these connections will be the first effected. Eventually the system will be extended to Chantilly, Centreville and Fairfax Court-house and to such other points in Fairfax county as may be deemed advisable through solicited service.

The new company will adopt the conventional method of mutual companies whereby subscribers buy and install their own telephone and keep it in repair, the company maintaining the lines and switchboards. It is stated, unofficially, that the service will be furnished subscribers for $6 to $8 per year.

O. F. A. WILL BANQUET

Prominent Speakers are Expected to be Present and an Enjoyable Evening Spent.

Bull Run Council No. 15, Order Fraternal Americans, will hold a banquet in their Council chamber in Masonic Temple on Center street, on the evening of April 18. A number of prominent speakers are expected to be present to respond to toasts on subjects pertinent to the order and it is presumed that there will be a feast of reason and a flow of soul.

The committee of arrangements will spare no pains to make this banquet one of the most enjoyable occasions within the history of Manassas functions and every member of the order is expected and earnestly requested to be present and bring a lady. Ticket and further information may be had of Messrs B. C. Cornwell, James M. Bell, S. W. Cooksey, W. N. Wenrich, D. P. Bell, Committee.

HAYMARKET CIVIC LEAGUE

The April meeting of the Civic League of Haymarket will meet at the usual hour at the school-house on the evening of the 16th. The program will consist of special music and talks on various health topics by our local physicians. These are scheduled as follows: "The House Fly," Dr. Tullos; "Fresh Air in the Home," Dr. Payne; "Adenoids in Children," Dr. Dwyer; "Epidemic and the School," Dr. Lewis.

Dr. Allen Freeman, of the State Board of Health of Richmond, is also expected. He is well known in this section as a speaker of unusual charm as well as force.

Among the musical attractions will be two young ladies from Manassas, Miss Dorothy Johnson, pianist, and Sarah Leachman, soprano.

Dr. C. F. Brower was in attendance upon the circuit court on business Wednesday.

CAR THIEVES TAKE NOTICE

"Uncle Sam" is Now Hunting You With a Heavy Fine or Imprisonment.

A bill introduced in Congress, by Representative Carlin, and which has become a law, provides the imposition of a minimum fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than ten years for any person convicted of unlawfully breaking into any railway car containing interstate or foreign shipments of freight or express, or of stealing or obtaining by fraud or deception from any car, depot, platform, vessel or wharf, any freight, express or baggage which constitutes or is a part of any interstate or foreign shipment.

While the Carlin bill, referred to, does not, in any way, infringe upon the jurisdiction of the state courts, it puts the whole power of the Federal Department of Justice behind the detection and prosecution of persons guilty of stealing from cars or depots, since it will be practically impossible for thieves to distinguish between interstate and intrastate shipments. It is confidently expected that this law will have a powerful effect in breaking up thefts of this character which not only involve a serious loss to the railways and cause great inconvenience to shippers and travelers but are a continual menace to railway and employees and the traveling public since it is, beyond a doubt, that car thieves do not hesitate to interfere with trains or resort to other means to accomplish their purpose, regardless of consequences.

It has been the practice, for some time back, for thieves to enter and secrete themselves in merchandise cars while being loaded in Alexandria, and when the train had reached a few miles out of town to throw out such goods as they desired to steal, leave the car at the next station and walk back to their loot and make off with it. It was this frequent occurrence on the Southern, perhaps, that induced Mr. Carlin to enact into Federal law this most important bill.

NEAL DOW DAY OBSERVED

The W. C. T. U. and L. T. L. Societies Pay Tribute to "Father of Prohibition."

The W. C. T. U. and L. T. L. societies of Manassas observed the birthday anniversary of Gen. Neal Dow, who is styled the "Father of Prohibition," in the Presbyterian church in this place Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large congregation.

The exercises were opened with a temperance hymn in which the congregation joined, after which Rev. Dr. H. I. Quarles, pastor of the Manassas Baptist church, read a scriptural lesson followed by prayer. A prohibition song by the L. T. L. was sung as the children marched to their seats carrying flags upon which were inscribed: "Prohibition" and "Total Abstinence." This was followed by a very pretty flag song by the children.

Several ladies of the W. C. T. U. presented very interesting and instructive addresses in the line of temperance work of Gen. Dow.

Three very interesting and enjoyable features of the program were recitations by little Misses Beulah Baker and Mary Bell, and a solo by Mrs. B. T. Hodge.

Dr. Dexter, pastor of the church, delivered a very interesting and instructive address which was followed by the W. C. T. U. crusade song and benediction by Rev. Chas. L. De Long, the retiring pastor of Grace M. E. church.

RECALLS BATTLE SHILOH

President Red Cross Society, State of New York, Relates Incident Reviving Poem.

The following story, reviving the poem, "Night on Shiloh," and which was excellently recited by Mr. C. A. Sinclair at the "Silver Tea" entertainment given by the Manassas Chapter, U. D. C., Friday night, will be read with interest by those who have some knowledge of that gory struggle which took such heavy toll of lives from both contending armies.

The special train, homeward bound from the Grand Army of the Republic encampment at Buffalo, was speeding along one August morning through the scenic beauty of the lake region of New York. All the passengers appeared to be in good humor, and the conversation on all sides seemed teeming with interest. Presently the train slowed down as it was about to stop, but apparently regaining more power moved on though at a slow rate. Suddenly a "head on collision" occurred, smashing both engines, derailing the trains and injuring several persons though none seriously. With the physicians who arrived at the wreck was Miss Francis, the president of the Red Cross Society for the state of New York. She was a valuable assistant to the doctors and seemed to think of everything that ought to be done for the comfort of the unfortunate ones. She fitted here and there, giving helpful suggestions and showing the slightly injured passengers what they could do to help their less fortunate fellow travelers.

While Miss Francis was bandaging the wounded right arm of an old gentleman whose left was off at the shoulder, she asked: "Am I bandaging it too tightly?" "No, it is all right, thank you," spoke he, as he watched her deft fingers. "I lost my left arm at Shiloh in defense of my country," said the man, "and I'd hate to lose my right one to no purpose except by some man's carelessness."

"Ah, Shiloh was a bloody battle, and after it had ended all over the field the soldiers lay. It was an awful sight and only those who were there can ever imagine how terrible it was."

"I have taken more interest in and studied more about that battle than any other," remarked Miss Francis as she finished the bandaging, "and your statement 'all over the field the soldiers lay' brings back an experience of my own concerning a recitation entitled 'Night on Shiloh' in which those words appear."

"Won't you tell it to me?" "Yes, I will be glad to do so, and as everybody seems to have been cared for now I have nothing to demand my attention." Drawing up her chair by the side of the cot where the soldier lay she told the following story:

"A state grand encampment was being held in a beautiful grove near my home town and I was invited to recite the poem 'Night on Shiloh' at a campfire one night. Father took me to the camp and I felt quite proud of the honor of reciting for so many hundreds of soldiers and so donned my prettiest dress for the occasion. The poem is pathetic, with an old-fashioned hymn near its close, and when I had finished there was a hush and some of them long and loud applause. During the cheering I escaped to my father and we were soon on our way home.

"Next day when father came he said, 'Daughter the old soldiers sent a committee to me this morning to ask if you would repeat that poem this afternoon.'" "Tell them that while I appreciate the compliment I could not think of reciting it again," responded I.

"Well, I told them as much but they insisted that they must hear it again, so I promised to bring you."

"Later in the day, about 3 o'clock, three of my girl friends drove up in a surry and asked me to take a drive. I ran to my room and donned a buff and blue gingham dress just fresh from the laundry. When I appeared before my mother she told me the dress was entirely too much shortened in the skirt by shrinkage and that I had better make a change. The girls were hurrying me and I begged off, promising mother not to get out of the carriage. After driving about the town one of the girls proposed that we go to the encampment grounds. I demurred, reminding them of my promise. I was overruled, but they said they would only drive to the outskirts of the camp to get a general view and would not leave the carriage.

"As we drove up to the camp there was a loud hurrah and in our excitement we went nearer the crowd and the speaker's stand than we had intended. As our horse stopped Col. Farnsworth and Maj. Stone were standing by the carriage and before we could inquire the cause of the sudden outburst Col. Farnsworth said, 'Just see what an ovation you are getting, little girl; those cheers are all for you. We spied you as you were driving up and are delighted that you will recite that wonderful poem again.' I sat perfectly still and replied, 'I am not going to recite. I did not come for that purpose. I cannot do so to-day, somewhat dazed at the idea of so much applause for me.

"Why, you've not forgotten the poem overnight, have you?" inquired the colonel.

"Oh, no, but I have on a dress that is two short and I promised mother that I would not get out of the carriage."

"Well, little girl, if that is all the hindrance I can remedy that, and before I had time to reply or even think he had lifted me in his arms, perched me upon his shoulder, carried me to the platform and stood me upon a table and was trying to take off my hat. I was remonstrating, very much excited and the applause almost deafened me. I felt like bursting into tears, for I had forgotten every line of the poem save one, which ran, 'All over the field the soldiers lay.'

"The colonel, taking in the situation, waved his hands to the large audience and asked them to cease cheering, and said, 'Be patient; our little friend was not intending to recite for us, but you see I am forcing her to do so and in a few moments she will be ready to give us the poem we all want to hear.'

"By this time some one had taken off my hat and the colonel said, 'Here, general, hold it,' and then, in a flash, all the words came back to me and I rendered as never before, never with so much feeling, never with such fine effect, that poem entitled 'Night on Shiloh.'"

"Why not repeat it for me now?" asked the wounded soldier.

For reply Miss Francis repeated the lines of the poem and then resumed: "When I finished that day at the encampment there was no applause, only a hush; a sob seemed to come in a great wave from that vast concourse of old soldiers. To break the tension the colonel asked the men to take a repose while they came to shake hundreds of soldiers came, tears coursing down their cheeks and with trembling lips and thanked me for the recitation, each saying something about being at Shiloh. Some said, 'I lost my arm,' others, 'I lost my leg,' and many said, 'I was wounded at Shiloh that day.'

"Other experiences and honors have come to me since that day, but never again has such a surge of feeling swept over me at having touched the hearts and souls of so many men as did that August afternoon."

As Miss Francis finished the narrative the old soldier, looking up into her face, tears coursing down his cheeks, said: "I thought your face was familiar. I am the general who held your hat on that never-to-be-forgotten day. I have cherished tender thoughts of that scene and have often wondered what became of the little reciter for I felt that she had a mission in this world. I forgot her name but not the recitation, and I can see that now as the president of the Red Cross Society of your great state you have but verified my prophecy and followed out that breadth and tenderness of soul which you evinced that day when you were forced to recite 'Night on Shiloh.'"

IN MEMORIAM.

I bring to-day a wreath of white roses, entwined with laurels and lay them as the last tribute of respect to the memory of Mrs. Louise Fletcher Bailey, who departed this life on the evening of March 4, 1913, at her home, near Auburn, Fauquier county, Va., in the 70th year of her age. No flower other than the rose could so speak the gentle characteristics of this noble hearted lady and surely none more worthy to wear the laurel.

She was a kind, affectionate mother, good neighbor and true friend and noted for true old Virginia hospitality.

Mrs. Bailey, before her marriage, was Miss Louise Fletcher, daughter of James and Amy Fletcher, of Fauquier county, Va., sister of Moses and Lemuel Fletcher, of Elk Run, Va., and first cousin of Messrs. T. N. and Albert Fletcher, of Warrenton, Va. After the close of the civil war, she united in marriage to William Horner Bailey, who was a descendant from one of the oldest families of Virginia, being a nephew of William Horner, who, before the civil war, was one of the most famous lawyers of Warrenton, Va., and grandson of Dr. Claggett, who was a surgeon in the war of 1812.

To this union five children were born—four sons and one daughter, the four sons surviving her—James, of Nokesville, Va.; William, of Washington, D. C.; and George and John, of Auburn, Va. Cora, the daughter, passed over to the "great beyond" in her childhood.

About twenty-five years ago Mrs. Bailey was baptized and received in the Oak Dale Baptist church by the Rev. B. T. Dulin, where, on the 7th of March her funeral was preached and interment made in the Oak Dale cemetery. "I am going at sundown" were nearly her last words and as the sun sank low in the horizon on that bright spring evening a beautiful life was ended.

Mrs. Bailey was an aunt of Mrs. Anderson Mammel and Mrs. A. N. King, of Nokesville, Va., and also of Messrs. Wellington and Samuel Bailey, of Woodlawn.

'Tis a calm, a heavenly sleep That bovers o'er her brow; Then why should friends or kindred weep When she is happy now. I. F. M. (Fauquier papers please copy.)

FEATURES OF THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

The following is the epitome of the new tariff bill now pending before congress and likely to be enacted into law: An estimated net reduction of $30,000,000 in revenue customs. A tax on incomes in excess of $4,000 a year, estimated to yield with a tax on net earnings of corporations, $100,000,000 a year. General reduction of duties on articles of food or clothing classed as necessities, many of which are placed on the free list. Sugar to be exempt from duty three years after enactment of law. Raw wool placed on free list and duties on woolen products greatly reduced. Lumber, leather, iron ore, steel rails, farming implements, sewing machines, boots and shoes, coal and fence wire included in the free list. The President authorized to make reductions in rates through special arrangements with other countries. This looks like getting down to true Democratic principles and all through a President who has the moral courage to stand by the promises upon which he was elected to the office of the nation's chief executive.

BIRTH AND DEATH REGISTRATIONS.

There are few who stop to consider the practical value of birth and death registrations. Some states have no provision for such registrations and many complications arise in the courts in consequence thereof.

A recent criminal trial in North Carolina shows the importance of such records. In a certain case the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused depended on whether the victim of perjury was of a certain age. How was this point to be proven? The family bible could not be found; no record of the prosecutrix's entrance into the public school at the required school age nor the monthly school reports of her standing in her studies could be found. But for the testimony of the "black mammy," who remembered the child's age by a certain incident in her own life, the accused would have escaped just punishment. North Carolina has at last awakened to the importance of birth and death registration and her legislature has just passed the model bill providing for same.

Equal importance attaches to the registration of deaths, for inheritance of property and many other important results hinge upon mortuary certificates, and without them great trouble and danger of serious hindrance to property and personal rights are quite likely to follow.

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF BILL LAUNCHED.

President Wilson has taken the initiative in redeeming one of the most important pledges of the Democratic platform, by appearing before Congress to deliver, in person, his message to that body on the subject of tariff reform.

No matter if the proceeding is regarded as an innovation, and without precedent during the past century, Mr. Wilson feels that he has a solemn duty to perform and in performing that duty he has thrown aside all thoughts of precedent, ancient or modern, and with the courage of his convictions he stands ready to carry out the will of the majority rather than that of a chosen few.

In the revision work his hand has guided the pen that made a distinction between the necessities and the luxuries of life, causing the latter to bear the greater burden of taxation, as they properly should.

A satisfactory revision of the tax schedule, to all classes and conditions is, and has, for ages been, one of the most difficult problems that has confronted our National law-makers, but when, here rich, richer, and the poor, poorer. It was the hope of the masses to be freed from the iron grasp of monopoly, and put the necessities of life upon the basis of supply and demand, that started Woodrow Wilson to the presidency. The overwhelming vote which he received from all political quarters, by those anxious to voice their indignation and disapproval of the selfish administration of the Republicans, was a cry for deliverance from the throttle of that iron grasp.

MUZZLE THE DANGEROUS CANINES.

The mad dog problem in Virginia is becoming so acute as to give the officials of the State health department considerable concern. The deaths from hydrophobia in Alexandria and Fredericksburg during the past few months, has given fresh impetus to the war against the running at large of promiscuous worthless dogs. After one of these dangerous canines has put in his dreadful work, robbing some home of a loved one, it is then too late to remedy the damage already done to that family. The proper thing to do is to apply the remedy before the deadly work is already accomplished.

There are numerous dogs roaming around through the streets of Manassas, which are liable to become at this season of the year, instruments of serious damage to our citizens and the matter can only be remedied by requiring that they be muzzled.

An ounce of preventive is worth a pound of remedy in the case of hydrophobia, and that preventive should be promptly applied. According to an official of the State department of health, made to the editor of this paper, rabies is steadily on the increase in Virginia, nor is it confined to any particular season of the year. The department has, already many patients under treatment and almost daily receives new ones. The remedy is to kill the mongrel dogs wherever found and muzzle the rest.

A State-wide law to carry the State Board of Health's suggestion is sorely needed and is one that should be enacted without delay.

DIRECT ELECTION OF SENATORS.

With the ratification by the legislature of the state of Connecticut Tuesday of the direct election amendment, swelling the list of states which have ratified the amendment to thirty-six, the necessary three-fourths requirement, the death knell of the old methods of electing senators of the United States by the legislatures has been sounded. It now remains for necessary formalities, as to proclamation by the President, to make the measure a part of the Constitution.

We regard the measure as a wise one, doing away with political trickery and giving the people the opportunity to express their choice of their respective representatives in the United States Senate through the ballot box.

There are more converts to the innovation of the Initiative, Referendum and Recall, in Manassas at present, than ever known before.

"If you want anything done send your servant, but if you want it well done go yourself," for it is often the case, nowadays, that the servant's desire is supreme to his master's wishes.

WEDNESDAY, April 9th, was the forty-eighth anniversary of the surrender of General Robert E. Lee in the home of Major Wilmer McLean, a subsequent resident and Justice of the Peace of Manassas.

DAYTON, Ohio, alone, wants to borrow $40,000,000 for rebuilding purposes and other sections of the Middle West will need many millions more. Now, Wall Street will not have to puzzle its brains much to know what to do with that Chinese loan money.

THE Virginia Military Institute claims to have in its possession the only correct flag of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Upon this flag is stamped the Great Seal of Virginia which was stolen from the State Capital under the Pierpont military reconstruction regime.

WOMAN suffrage was again defeated in Michigan on Monday last, when a majority estimated at 25,000 was rolled up against it. This is a much greater vote against this question than that of the last election, when the women were much encouraged by the small majority then cast against it.

FROM all sections of the state comes the cry "abolish capital punishment." The prospective or the avowed candidates for the legislature will now be asked how he stands upon the question of maintaining or abolishing the instrument of death in the state penitentiary. "Brother Chris," how do you stand?

FREDERICK LOUIS Chairman, of Leesburg, is protesting against what he considers a waste of government funds in the erection of a $55,000 postoffice for Leesburg, and claims that his views upon the subject are voiced by many representative patrons of the Leesburg office. He expresses the hope that Representative Carlin will exercise restraint should he have the decision as to the amount actually needed for a more up-to-date postoffice for Leesburg than is now in use.

The Agricultural High School has a fine colored print of an ideal Jersey cow which was presented to the school by the American Jersey Cattle Club. This is not an exact picture of any one animal, but is a composite of the good features of several, combined by an artist into an ideal dairy cow. In the eagerness to get a large quantity of milk the dairyman is apt to lose sight of the Jersey which produces the richest milk of all cattle and gives a uniform quantity for nearly the entire year. For butter making and for a general family cow the Jersey has few equals and no superiors, says Prof. Button, of the Manassas A. H. S.

The grinder, is intended mainly for chopping cabbage when making sauerkraut, but it is also of much service in grinding vegetables and roots to be cooked for poultry, says the Popular Mechanic.

The base, A, is made of a plank at least one foot wide and four feet long, with a nine and one-fourth by nine and one-half inch cut in the center. The grinding part, or cylinder is made of wood three inches in diameter and nine inches long, with eight-penny nails, spaced three-sixteenths inches apart, driven partly into it and then cut off so as to leave one-fourth inch projecting. The cylinder is turned by means of a crank attached to the end of the shaft.

A hopper, B, is constructed four by nine and one-half inches inside measurement at the bottom and as large as necessary at the top. A space is provided at the bottom as shown to receive the concave C, which consists of a one-inch board, three to four inches wide and nine inches long, with nails driven in and cut off as described in the cylinder.

The hopper is securely fastened on the top of the baseboard and over the cylinder. The concave is slipped into place and held with wedges or by driving two nails in just far enough to fasten it temporarily. The concave can be adjusted for grinding the different vegetable products, or replaced at any time with a new one.

The ends of the base are supported on boxes, or legs may be provided if desired. When grinding cabbage, cut the heads into quarters and remove the hearts. Press the cabbage on the cylinder and turn the crank. Fine bits of cabbage, suitable for sauer kraut will be the result.

SUCCESS IN RAISING TURKEYS

First Consideration is Desirable Location and Suitable Range—Few Other Essentials.

What do I consider the most important essentials to be a successful turkey raiser? First important consideration desirable location and good range; next, sound, healthy fowls of standard breed to begin with, for no one can succeed without sound, healthy birds to start with. Third, careful feeding. Fourth, keep free from lice. Last, but not least, dry roomy coop so they can be kept out of sudden showers. These equipments, coupled with sound judgment and proper care of points, should make anyone successful in raising turkeys, says a writer in an exchange.

The way I manage mine after years of experience. I gather the eggs daily, keep in a place neither too cool nor too hot; turn eggs ever day. When the hen gets ready to set make a coop in some dry place, placing 15 or 16 eggs in nest; bring hen up late in evening, place on nest, keep fastened up two or three days, turn out so she can get something to eat and drink. Watch to see if she goes on same nest. When eggs hatch leave pen in nest 36 hours. Move hen and pen to large, roomy coop inclosed in pen to keep anything from ransing over them. Dust hen and little ones with some good insect powder to kill lice. Feed them plenty of fresh water. When they are a few days old give them lettuce and onion tops chopped fine with bread crumbs. Also give them a little chicken feed consisting of grain, small seeds, grit and oyster shells. Keep fastened in coop until strong enough to keep up with hen, turn out to the morning, but not later than they come home at night to roost. Sprinkle a little black pepper occasionally in their food, but be sure not to overdo, as it brings trouble and disaster in its train.

It is urged that all farmers and poultry raisers in this section, who are following a business plan, should keep the following rules in mind: 1. Keep the pen clean; provide saw-dust for every four hens. 2. Gather the eggs twice daily. 3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar. 4. Mark the eggs at least twice a week. 5. Sell, kill or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over. Cleanliness is Profitable. Cleanliness in the poultry pen puts many dollars into the pockets of the poultryman.

ACKNOWLEDGE IT

Manassas Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Manassas given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which proved so beneficial years ago with the kidneys, can naturally be expected to perform the same work in similar cases. Read this:

Mrs. Annetie Bettis, Maple St., Manassas, Va., says: "I was annoyed by a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back, and nothing seemed to give me any permanent relief. I heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and finally got a box. They helped me from the first. They are the best kidney medicine I know of."

The above was the substance of Mrs. Bettis' testimonial, given in November, 1910. When she was interviewed by one of our representatives on April 1, 1913, she said: "I can't say my friend told me to get Doan's Kidney Pills as I was when I previously recommended them. I still take this remedy and it keeps me well."

For sale by all druggists. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.
