AN ECHO OF GETTYSBURG

Complimentary Letter to Southern Veteran From a Northern Comrade.

The following letter, which was handed to us by a well-known citizen, speaks for itself, and will please the friends of the veteran to whom it is addressed:

COLONEL EDMUND BERKELEY,
Haymarket, Va.

MY DEAR BROTHER AND COMRADE:—I was sorry not to see you after the exercises but I was a little upset by stomach trouble and could not get about much until we left on Saturday morning. I want to thank you for the assistance that you gave us at the meeting. It was indeed the most unique performance on the program and gave the greatest satisfaction to the great congregation of at least five thousand people, every one of whom could hear you distinctly. You certainly are a marvel among old men and I hope you may live yet many years. Please send me a copy of the little poem as we want it published in our proceedings.

Always sincerely yours,
HORATIO C. KING.

FRANC'S MINSTRELS FINE

Large Audience Grooms Performers—Many Laughs Provoked—Rain Stops Second Show.

Franc's Minstrel Show gave a performance here on July 4th which was attended by a large and appreciative audience, taxing the seating capacity of the big tent. From the raise of the curtain to its final fall shouts of laughter resounded through the canvas theatre giving decided token that the crowd was very well pleased with what was being done for its amusement. The minstrels were good, the jokes not though eaten nor too ancient, and though some of the singers seemed afflicted with colds, they got away with it all right. Feats of legerdemain by Professor Drew were cleverly done and left the observer wondering if he really saw ducks, chickens and pigeons where there could be none without the aid of his satanic majesty. The acrobatic feats in the shape of barrel jumping were very good indeed.

The entire performance was one of clean fun and pleasure, and will be welcome here at any time.

Rain prevented the performance scheduled for Saturday night, and purchasers of tickets had their money refunded.

BIG MASS MEETING MONDAY

Information to be Given by Experts About Cost of Proposed Improvements—How it Can and Why it Should be Done—Conner's Hall, July 14, 7:30 P. M.

Arrangements have been perfected for a mass meeting on the subject of the bond issue, to be held in Conner's Hall on next Monday night, July 14, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. A chairman will be elected by the voters of those present, who will preside throughout the meeting.

Mr. Richard Messer, chief engineer of the State Board of Health, will speak on sanitation, the most important feature of life in town or country, and his remarks are bound to be interesting to every one of his hearers. He will be followed by Mr. Harry Stevens, the engineer who reported on the feasibility of the proposed plan, who will go into detail as to the figures concerning cost etc.

Perhaps the most important point in this whole question is whether or not the work can be satisfactorily completed for $75,000. Many men of experience in the affairs of life think and say that it cannot. It is right at this point that the knowledge of an engineer, experienced in such work will shed light on the subject. Mr. Stevens will be ready to prove the figures of his report by a plain statement of how the work can be done, how much each foot of excavation will cost, how much is now being paid elsewhere for the same brand of material to be used, and every specification about which discussion has been raised will be elucidated as freely as will be required. Everybody who has a single doubt about the advisability of this bond issue is urged to attend this meeting and to voice their objections, they will be freely and frankly met in the plainest and most earnest way by the men who should know most on the subject.

A letter from Engineer Messer, dated July 8th, states that Dr. Allen W. Freeman, Assistant Commissioner of the State Board of Health, is making his plans to attend this meeting. Dr. Freeman is the Board's expert on typhoid fever, and many Manassas citizens are acquainted with him through several lectures he has delivered here in recent years. Nobody can afford to miss this meeting; all the "main talk" will be by professional men who know their subjects and are able to "deliver the goods."

There will be a "question box" which ought to be filled to the brim and overflowing, followed by answers and a general discussion of the merits of the plan. Those who are in charge of this matter are desirous that every voter shall be present, whether for or against the proposition. It is believed by the friends of the plan that every objection to the installation of the three systems, water, light and sewerage, will be promptly met and fully answered. An especially urgent request to attend this meeting is made to the opponents of the plan; the talk will be along educational lines and everyone present will probably learn something he never knew before. There will be no "glittering generalities" but a plain statement of facts as they exist and a discussion of how best to meet the needs of the hour, both as to health requirements and economical administration of funds.

The fact that the meeting will be open to those for and against the issue of bonds is evidence that a fair discussion will be held. The committee desires to impress on every voter that every question will be fairly met and answered to the best of the ability of the experts present or the members of the committee themselves. These members are well aware of this opposition to the issue asked for, and it is their sincere desire that those opponents hear what is to be said by the friends of the measure.

The feeling of civic pride is to be urged on everybody and the problem of how to carry this big undertaking to a successful finish will be solved by experts whose business it is to bring such things to a scientific conclusion as to economic and sanitary features. The members of the committee also desire to have it widely known that perfect fairness and impartiality will rule this meeting as far as they have any authority over it; that it is educational on its face and in its body; that the question of initial cost and annual maintenance will be given to the intelligent consideration of the voters, and that they hope and believe that the facts to be presented will lead to a change of heart in many of the present opponents, and carry enlightenment to everybody.

The Manassas Dramatic Club Band will furnish music at the meeting.

RELIC OF BATTLE FIELD

A Manassas Veteran Brings Home a Bible Found After The Battle of 1863.

While Mr. Jas. F. Gulick, of Manassas, was at Gettysburg, he got into conversation with a friend who casually informed him of the fact that a Philadelphia veteran then in the Pennsylvania camp had an interesting relic of the great battle. Mr. Gulick's curiosity was sufficiently aroused to cause him to call on the Philadelphia, who proved to be a general comrade, named George Flemming, and who told his new Southern friend that the relic mentioned was a bible, picked up on the Gettysburg field in 1863, and held by Mr. Flemming ever since. On the fly leaf in faint but legible pencil lines is the name, "G. O. Baines, 4th Geo. Regt. Inf., Pickett's Div. Underneath appears the name and address in Philadelphia of Mr. Flemming, followed by "J. F. Gulick, Received July 3, 1913." The latter inscription tells a story by itself and shows the persuasive eloquence of Mr. Gulick. He values the relic highly and expects to communicate with the proper people for information about the 4th Georgia regiment and the original owner of the bible.

MRS. LAMB IN ACCIDENT

Resulting in Broken Arm And Painful Cuts and Bruises—Narrow Escape From Death

Mrs. E. A. Lamb, a well known resident of Manassas, met with a painful and distressing accident on Tuesday morning and is lying at the residence of James F. Gulick, her brother-in-law, suffering from the effects. While driving on the Sudley road about a mile from town, on the way to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Gulick, the vehicle was upset by being driven over a raised portion of the road, and Mrs. Lamb was thrown out on her face. One arm is broken, several teeth knocked out and many cuts, bruises and abrasions are giving great pain to the sufferer. She was brought in to Mr. Gulick's residence on Centre street, where she will remain until her condition will admit of removal to her own home, or upon the return of her daughter, Miss Clara, from Harwood. Much sympathy is expressed for Mrs. Lamb, and she is the recipient of many tributes of affection from friends and neighbors.

A RECITAL BY MOONLIGHT

An Entertainment at Sudley Church Promising Much Pleasure to Everybody.

On Thursday evening, July 17th, at 8 o'clock, Miss Anne G. Craven, of Philadelphia, will give a Moonlight Recital at Sudley church. The musical part of the program will be rendered by the Sudley choir. One of the features of the evening's program will be a reading from Mr. Jeffery Farnol's delightful story, "The Money Moon."

Miss Craven, who is at present a guest of Mrs. J. D. Wheeler, of Wellington, is a graduate of the National School of Elocution and Oratory of Philadelphia, where she has acquired a reputation in artistic circles.

The price of admission is 25 cents, including ice cream and cake. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Missionary and Aid Societies. In case of inclement weather, the recital will be postponed until Friday, July 18th.

GREENWICH FIELD SPORTS

July 4th Celebrated with Ball Games and Races—Frothy Village has Big Crowd.

The Field Sports at Greenwich on July 4th were enjoyed by a large crowd of enthusiastic lovers of base ball and out-door games. The two games of ball scheduled with the Southern Express

Team were both won by the visitors, the first by a score of 6 to 7, the second by a score of 4 to 3, indicating that both games were well contested by the home boys. The catcher of the visiting team had his hand badly split in the first inning of the first game and was obliged to have a substitute. This was the only unpleasant feature of the day. The battery for the Greenwich team was Rivercomb and Russell, first game, and Giddings and Giddings in the second.

A race of 100 yards was won by two Manassas boys, Williams first and Lynch second.

The Southern Express team stopped at Ellis Brothers mill, on Broad Run, where they dressed for the game and where they took a swim on their way back to the city.

Refreshments were served on the grounds in a most abundant manner, and the visitors said they had never been treated better in their lives.

The affair was under the very efficient management of Messrs. J. Ellis, R. L. Ellis and J. F. Cockerille.

Rev. H. P. Myers to be Married.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wynn, of Warfield, Va., to the marriage of their daughter, Maude Manson, to the Rev. Horwood P. Myers, of Courtland, Southampton county. The ceremony will be performed on July 16th. Mr. Myers is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Myers, of this place.

—Mr. Johnson Manuel, who made his home with Mr. W. T. Allen, near Nokesville, was found dead in his bed on last Saturday morning. He was 82 years, 6 months and 11 day old and death was from natural causes. His funeral occurred on Sunday at 2 p. m., interment being made in the Manuel family lot.

MANASSAS HORSE SHOW

A Most Attractive Exhibit Being Arranged—Thrilling Acrobatic Assurances.

The hustling spirit of the Manassas Horse Show management is shown in the progress made in the repairs and improvements now nearly completed at the grounds of the Association. All the stables are completed and the track and exhibiting ring in fine shape, with the enclosing fences in perfect order. The pumps have been overhauled and an ample supply of water is assured. The grand stand and other buildings are undergoing thorough inspection and all necessary improvements are being rushed to a finish, and by the middle of next week the white washing will be completed and the grounds, generally, will look as well, or better than at any time since the organization of the Association.

Entries are being received daily and the prospect for the best show ever held here is extremely encouraging. Arrangements are being made for the ascension of an aeroplane by a well known aviator, and the secretary, C. J. Meetez, is using his best endeavors towards a most attractive exhibit.

SIGNALS ARE WIGWAGGED

Lieutenant Geo. C. Round Reports In 1913, His Peace Signals of 1865.

The New York Herald of July 5th has this to say about an incident of the Gettysburg celebration:

"The sun was barely high at Gettysburg yesterday when the United States Signal Corps Association gave an exhibition of the flag work during the civil war, on Seminary Ridge, at the spot where Lee witnessed the progress of Pickett's division as it crossed the swale between himself and General Meade, one station was established, with First Lieutenant George Carr Round, of Manassas, Va., in charge. On Little Round Top was established the other, with Charles Dwight Marcy, of Boston, Mass., to marshal the "wig-wagging." The following signals were sent:—
From Round Top:—
"Peace on Earth and good will to men."
Response from Seminary Ridge:—
"Glory to God in the Highest."
From Round Top:—
"Let us have peace."—Grant.
Response from Seminary Ridge:—
"Duty, the sublimest word in our language."—Lee.
The chorus of a patriotic song then was divided and flagged between the stations.

The Philadelphia Press of the same date has a story of this event which winds up with the following paragraph:

Lieutenant George Carr Round, formerly of Pennsylvania, but now living at Manassas, Va., had charge of the signalling on the ridge. After rehearsing the signals of the two armies, Lieutenant Round gave the words of peace he passed to the Southern army at Raleigh, N. C., when he was a member of Scofield's signal unit in 1862. He said he had never the first time since the war that this message has been reproduced in public."

WEDDED IN WASHINGTON

Marriage of a Popular Young Couple of Prince William County, on Monday.

A wedding of interest to many people of this county occurred in Washington on Monday, July 7th, when Miss Genevieve H. Free, of Nokesville, became the wife of Mr. Hunter C. Allen. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Van Fossen at 1 o'clock in the afternoon in Trinity church in the presence of a few intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. W. Raymond Free, a well known resident of Nokesville, and is a charming young lady. The groom is a son of Mr. William Allen, of near Nokesville, engaged in business in Washington, and is a brother of Mr. Guy Allen, of Manassas. The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for a visit to relatives in Mt. Jackson, Va., and their future home will be in Washington.

DEATH OF MRS. BALDWIN

Former Resident of Manassas Died at Battle Creek, Michigan, After Long Illness.

Mrs. Wilma E. Baldwin, widow of Isaac P. Baldwin, died in Battle Creek, Michigan, on June 29th, after several years of ill health. She was the daughter of the late Jonas Greene, and spent her early years at "Birmingham," the beautiful home of her father just outside of Manassas. Her marriage with Mr. Baldwin took place in 1862 and their home for some years was what is now the central house of Eastern College's group of buildings and which, with the grounds of that college, was turned over to the proper authorities in return for an annuity which ended with Mrs. Baldwin's death.

Her health becoming frail, Mrs. Baldwin entered a sanatorium at Battle Creek, and later with her husband made a home in that city where Mr. Baldwin died in February, 1912.
Mrs. Baldwin's body was cremated and the ashes taken to Alexandria and placed in the grave of her mother. She is survived by three sisters and several nephews and nieces.

Appreciates Home Ties

CHICAGO, ILL., June 28, 1913.

THE MANASSAS JOURNAL, MANASSAS, VIRGINIA.

Dear Sir: Please change the Manassas Journal address to J. F. Gulick, University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill., to the address given below.

I thank you very much for changing my address from time to time, but the fact is, I like to have THE JOURNAL follow me if possible when I am away from Manassas. Chicago is a great place, and the University here is a little world in itself, yet I like to keep in touch with Manassas, which some people regard as the centre of the world, and I expect they are about right.

Yours very truly,

J. F. GULICK.

THE STRIFE ENDED

With arms entwined, or hand in hand,
They speak of days long, long ago;
Of where the Grays made their last stand,
Of where the Blues struck their last blow.

No animus disturbs these friends
Who once were foes on fields of death;
Peace hovers o'er them now, and blends
A word of love with every breath.

So, hand in hand, with tender mien,
These age-bent men discuss the fight;
But where, once, deadly strife was seen
Now gleams the Lamp of Love,—alight.

GO TO THE MASS MEETING.

It is to be hoped that a large number of the people of Manassas, including every voter, will attend the mass meeting in Conner's Hall on next Monday night. The question of issuing $75,000 in bonds of the town interests every citizen whether in favor of or opposed to such an act. Light on the subject is a desirable thing, and our minds, no doubt will be illumined by the talk of experts on this line. The strongest ammunition of the opponents to the plan seems to be the doubt that the three plans can be established for the sum mentioned.

It would seem that people who make a business of this sort of thing, and who stand high in their professions, are in a position to speak in "a language understood of the people," and to give points that are not known by the average layman. Everybody should be open to conviction, and it is squarely up to the gentlemen in charge to bring about a change of feeling in the opponents of the measure. Some may be changed from opponents to friends, some from friends to opponents; but whatever the result may be there will certainly be a fund of information of a valuable kind in everybody's possession, and to that and it behooves every voter to be present and hear the argument, pro and con.

OUR STINGY GOVERNMENT.

A news item in the daily papers states that the publishing firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., of which Walter H. Page, the present Ambassador to England, is a member, has decided to continue Mr. Page's salary of $35,000 a year during his term of office, and that it was this generous act on the part of his firm that enabled him to accept the office, which carries a salary of $17,500 and has expenses attached which eat up all of that sum and much more besides. It should give our congressional solons a bad quarter of an hour to read that piece of news; for many years an effort has been made to increase the pay of foreign representatives of this country in order that they might do justice to the prestige the United States holds among the World powers, but a spirit of niggardly economy, so-called, has invariably upset such effort. Now that it has reached the point where private firms contribute twice as much as the government does to induce an able man of small means to go abroad as our representative, Congress will doubtless feel very much ashamed of itself and arrange the salary of Ambassadors and Ministers on a more equitable footing. Certainly these men should be paid enough to keep them from losing money by accepting office. And the United States is too big to ask for charity from private concerns that public business may be adequately performed.

President Wilson's brother, who was refused an appointment to a Federal office, has been put in charge of a responsible department of the Fidelity Trust Company of Baltimore, where he may have to pass on the surety bonds of some of his brother's officials. What a chance for revenge—except that this Wilson is an old editor, and therefore guileless.

The Loudoun Mirror, which recently passed into the possession of Mr. Joel Chandler Harris, has changed the form of its local pages very much for the better, and announces that further changes will be made from time to time as they become necessary. This well-known sheet serves a very large clientele, and we welcome it to our exchange table at the rate of one dollar every week.

HOW 'BOUT OUR TOWN?

In every town some folks keep a houn' aroun'
And every time strangers come to town—
Some folks go to kicking the town aroun'.
It's even worse'n kickin' a houn' aroun'.
Stop your kickin', be hopeful and profoun';
It's a mighty poor way to build up a town—
To keep kickin' public interest aroun'.
But, like others, we have a few old houns
Who get at the stranger that comes to town—
Says the town's a houn', and kicks it aroun'.
If a houn' is a houn', then a town's a town,
And can't build up if kicked aroun' and aroun'.
You have a right to kick your own houn',
But it hurts us all if you kick your town.
Now let's pull together for the good home town,
And stop kickin' our town aroun'.
Who's the town, if a myth, 'll make no soun',
If you don't stop kickin' we'll get no strangers in town. —Ex.

WE WIN EITHER WAY

The entrance of Mr. C. A. Sinclair into the fight for the nomination as delegate to the General Assembly—if he does enter it—assures the citizens of Prince William county of being well represented in Richmond whichever head is crowned with victory. Mr. Meetze is a very popular man and is proud of the record he has made in the legislature; if he is returned there by his constituents there is every reason to believe that his record will not only be equalled but surpassed. His possible opponent is an accomplished and cultivated man, a lawyer, and one who has always justified the faith of his friends. Therefore, it looks as if Prince William will be very much to the good no matter how the primary goes; it gives a feeling of elation to think that every vote cast in that primary will be for a good man.

BOOST MANASSAS

Manassas might be advertised as a summer resort without any strain upon the imagination of her boosters. The lovely homes on the beautifully shaded streets, the fine pavements and good roadways added to the clean, sweet and wholesome air make a place whose attractions once seen will be appreciated and remembered. Our town needs blessings she does not now possess, as do many other towns not so bountifully favored by nature and improved by man; but aside from that, the advantages Manassas presents to those looking for a place in which to comfortably spend the hot months are not to be ignored. The old saying that "God made the country and man made the town" loses nothing of its truth here, for God made a beautiful country hereabouts and man has made a beautiful town out of material ready to hand. Boost Manassas; it will not be hard to do.

THE crop of corn is of more interest to farmers just now than the crop of candidates.

THE grower of one-pound onions has no cause for tears—unless he slices the onions.

THIS country can now be called the Re-united States without contradiction from anybody but tariff tinkers.

IF a man is worthy of election to public office it follows that he is worthy to be trusted with the affairs of that office.

TWO healthy and wholesome old Michiganders are over in Loudoun this week on Goose Creek, looking at the places where they used to duck the minie balls.

BECAUSE two new Pages have been sent abroad as Ambassadors it does not necessarily follow that this government intends to turn over a new leaf as to diplomatic offices.

A MAN who fails to attend the mass meeting on Monday night will find himself in a position where argument on the bond issue will be a difficult undertaking. There he will get a knowledge of facts from the lips of experts, and will be better equipped to fight either for or against the proposition.

MANASSAS has been proud of her horse show from the day of its incipency to date, and with reason. The naturally fine grounds with their improvements of a pony kind, added to the convenient railroad facilities, make it a very choice spot for exhibitors. The management seems to be using every means available to make the exhibition this year the banner one in its history, and the lovers of horse perfection and good, clean sport will meet with entire satisfaction. Extra attractions are being engaged just now which promise to bring larger quantities of sight-seers than ever. The present management appear to have the laudable desire of making the Association prosper, like a green bay tree.

AN ORDINANCE to authorize the issuance of bonds by the town of Manassas, for the purpose of providing the said town with an adequate water, sewerage and lighting system, and to ascertain the sense of the qualified voters of said town in respect thereto.

WHEREAS, the Town Council of the town of Manassas realizes the necessity for the establishment and equipment of an adequate water, sewerage and lighting system for the said town, and has had the questions involved under consideration from time to time for several years past; and

WHEREAS, as the result of this examination and consideration, it is manifest to the Council that the said water, sewerage and lighting system should be established at once, and as a single enterprise and undertaking, and that the same can be more advantageously so provided and operated as a single enterprise; and

WHEREAS, it appears from the report of Harry Stevens, the consulting engineer employed by the town of Manassas, dated April 14, 1913, and a supplemental report dated April 22, 1913, that the said water, sewerage and lighting system can be instituted most advantageously and operated as a single and combined enterprise and be made a source of revenue to the town, and made self-sustaining within a period not exceeding five years, after providing for the costs of administration, including the interest on the bonds issued therefor, and cost of insurance against loss or injury to persons or property, likely to result therefrom, and an amount to be covered into a sinking fund sufficient to pay at or before maturity all bonds issued on account of said undertaking, and that the same can be installed at an aggregate sum not exceeding seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000.00); and

WHEREAS, the town of Manassas at present has no outstanding bonds or other interest bearing obligations, except $500.00 for fire engine, and

WHEREAS, the assessed valuation of the real estate in the said town, subject to taxation, as shown by the last preceding assessment for taxes, amounts to the sum of $208,700.00; and

WHEREAS, it is the desire of the Town Council, subject to the approval of the qualified voters of the town of Manassas, to borrow money and issue bonds therefor, in conformity with the provisions of clause B of Section 127 of the Constitution of Virginia, the Acts of the General Assembly of Virginia, 1908, page 577, etc., and in conformity with the provision of Section 19 of the Charter of the town of Manassas, as the same was amended by an Act of the General Assembly of Virginia, entitled "An act to amend and re-enact Section 20 of the Charter of the town of Manassas, Virginia," approved March 11, 1912, to the amount of seventy-five thousand ($75,000.00) dollars, for the purpose of providing said town with an adequate water, sewerage and lighting system.

WHEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL of the town of Manassas, that subject to the approval of the majority of the qualified voters of the town of Manassas, voting upon the question of their issuance in the manner provided by law, that the town of Manassas shall issue bonds either registered or coupon to the amount of seventy-five thousand ($75,000.00) dollars, to run for a period not exceeding forty years, and to bear interest at the rate of not less than 4 per cent, and not more than 6 per cent, per annum, said interest to be payable semi-annually. Said bonds hereby authorized shall bear date on the first day of November, 1913, shall be denominated as "water, sewerage and lighting bonds" of the town of Manassas, shall be numbered consecutively from one to seven hundred and fifty, and shall be in denominations of $500.00 each, and shall be sold for not less than par and accrued interest. They shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of the town of Manassas, at maturity. The credit of the town of Manassas shall be pledged to their payment, in accordance with the terms herein specified, and they shall be signed in the name of the town of Manassas by the Mayor for the time being, and shall have the corporate seal of the said town affixed thereto, attested by the Clerk or Recorder of the said town. The said bonds and coupons thereon attached shall be made payable to bearer, but shall contain a provision by which the holder of any bond may have the same registered by presenting the same to the Clerk or Recorder of the town of Manassas, and requesting that the same be registered as to the principal, the effect of which shall be to suspend the negotiability of the principal of such bonds until the same shall be released from such registry, at the request of the holder thereof. The proceeds of said bonds when sold or negotiated shall be used under the direction of the Council of the town of Manassas, and for no other purpose, and the Mayor and Recorder, or either of them, are authorized to execute any instrument for the purpose of providing said town with an adequate water, sewerage and lighting system, and for no other purpose, provided, however, that none of the said bonds shall be valid nor negotiable nor contracted for until and unless the bond issue hereby provided for is approved and authorized by the majority of the qualified voters of the town of Manassas, voting upon their sense at a special election to be held for that purpose as provided by law, and the period of five years from the date of said election is hereby designated as the period within which the said system, or systems, shall provide a net revenue sufficient to pay for all cost of operation and administration and provide an annual sinking fund sufficient to pay to an authorized depository all bonds issued on account of said undertaking, as provided in clause B of Section 127 of the Constitution of Virginia.

And be it further ordained, that a certified copy of this Ordinance, when the same shall have been duly adopted in a manner required by law, and by the Charter of the town of Manassas, be transmitted forthwith by the Mayor to the Circuit Court of Prince William County, or to the Judge thereof, in vacation, to the end that he may direct and authorize the proper election officers of the said town to take such steps as may be necessary to cause the same to be put to a vote of the qualified voters of the town of Manassas, and to be held on the 12th day of August, 1913, at 2 o'clock, p. m., for the election of officers and directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

AT THE ROAD'S END

Young Teacher and Her Pupils Softened the Heart of an Irascible Old Bachelor.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.
"A cross-country walk," announced Miss Molly Dale to her assembled pupils. "How many children would like to go with me?"

Fourteen hands fanned, the air vigorously while the remaining hands in the room wanted to wave assent also, but Saturday morning brought household tasks, chores for the boys and music lessons for many.

"Very well. Those who would like to go with me can meet me here at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. You must be on time for I have an engagement after dinner and must be home at noon. School is dismissed."

Saturday morning found the eager fourteen at the schoolhouse warmly equipped for a tramp across the snowy fields. When Miss Dale appeared they set up a shout of welcome for the teacher who was a pretty sight in her short blue skirt and sweater with crimson tam o' shanter that matched the red of her lips. Color warmed her cheeks and her dark eyes shone softly. She looked like a little girl.

"Now, we are ready. I shall go ahead and lead the way. Four boys next—then the girls—and the rest of the boys to bring up the rear. Remember, boys, you are to look out for the girls and help them over the rough places."

The boys grinned sheepishly and the little girls giggled together until the group straightened out into a long line across the schoolyard.

It was only a light snow that had fallen and with every thump of their shod feet the pedestrians struck the frozen ground beneath. In the woods the trees creaked in the light wind and soft powdery whiteness down to sting their faces.

Now and then a rabbit scurried across the snow or a squirrel pecked bright eyes out of some safe retreat in places where the snow-streaked twigs could glimpse trails of green and dots of red where the partridge berries grew.

Presently Molly turned into an old wood road that led no one remembered where. It is great fun to explore unknown roads and all the children skipped joyfully. Undoubtedly they would come out into some snowy field and that meant a tramp through the untracked whiteness—perhaps starting a flock of quail—over fences or under them.

A barbed wire fence snarled across their way and they got over it and under it somehow, and found that they had lost the wood road. This was all the better.

Suddenly a laurel hedge loomed before them and with a wild whoop the group separated and broke through. Miss Molly smiled and trailed after them.

When she looked around for her pupils she saw to her dismay that they were romping and racing about the grounds of a handsome house.

Surely she had seen that house before—from a different angle.

Suddenly she gasped for breath. Now she knew!

It was the home of Mr. Jared Smithers—irascible old bachelor and one of the trustees of the school.

Beyond the rolling snow-covered lawns, through the trunks of the noble trees, Molly could see the high, prim gables of the hedge that shut the house from the village street.

Somehow she had blundered. This escapade meant farewell to another year's teaching in the Glen Hollow school and Molly did like her position so much.

Desperately she darted down past the house in a mad desire to gather her shouting flock and rush them out of the yard. As she saw past a trim little cottage house a long arm shot out of the door and caught her arm.

Molly screamed in surprise and when she saw her captor she became quite limp in his strong grasp.

It was Mr. Smithers, peering near-sightedly at her. He wore a house coat and thin slippers and his thick brown hair was tossed wildly about his head.

"Little girl," he roared crossly, "what are you doing in my yard—eh?"

"I—I don't know," stammered Molly feebly. She squirmed under his clutch. "You are bustling my arm, sir," she added.

"I beg your pardon," he said gruffly. He released her at once but still he glared down at her drooping little figure. "What are you doing here—and those others? Are they your brothers and sisters?"

Molly stared aghast at the fourteen and then a smile crept over her lips.

"No, sir," she said demurely. "These are my children."

"What? Tut—tut—what do you mean? Ah, I see, you are playing a trick upon me—well, clear out, all of you right now!"

"I am afraid that you do not recognize me," said Mr. Smithers. "Why—why—" he bent down testily and looked at her through his glasses. "What little girl was that that spoke in such a grown-up way? Who are you?"

"I am Miss Dale—teacher of the fourth grade," admitted Molly with a sinking heart.

Mr. Smithers stared at her. That he is stared until he happened to see the crinkly smile that still trembled on her lips.

One could not say that he smiled in return. But his lips did relax their grim lines and a queer look came into his blue eyes.

"Miss Dale, eh? Well, what's all this?"

Molly told him with a sweet little dignity that somehow melted a hard, knotty place in his heart.

"We did not mean to trespass—we will go at once, Mr. Smithers," she concluded, moving away from him.

"Wait," he commanded, and then, grinning in rather a shame-faced way, he went on: "I'm afraid I frightened you and if you're out for a good time, why, let the youngsters slide there on the ice if they want to. I'll have Mrs. Powell, my housekeeper, hurry dinner along and they can stay. Perhaps you'd like to come in and see my pictures and books?"

Molly's heart was dancing wildly, but she put on a little prim, school-ma'am air and shook her head.

"Thank you, Mr. Smithers, I will come in by and by with pleasure, but for the present I will remain with the children and see that they do no harm to your lovely grounds."

Mr. Smithers assented reluctantly and went into the house while Molly hastened to the wondering children and told them the startling news. At first there was an inclination for wild flight, but when Mr. Smithers and his hired man appeared with two old bobolinks that had been found in the barn, they changed their minds. They also changed their opinion of the gruffness of Mr. Smithers, for now, clad in thick boots and warm sweater, he coated with them down the steep hill back of the house and quite forgot that he was a school trustee and a woman hater.

Molly grew pinker and prettier and happier every moment and after they had eaten a delicious dinner in the big dining room they all trooped into the library, where Mr. Smithers wound up the talking machine and they had a feast of fun and rage music.

It was almost dusk when they bade their host good-bye and they stood before the house and gave three lusty cheers and he waved his hat frantically in response. Somehow, that day, Jared Smithers had found his lost youth.

In spite of this day of pleasure and many others that fell to the little school teacher, Molly Dale did not come back to teach in the Glen Hollow school, for when June came she had promised Jared Smithers that when her wedding clothes were made she would return to Glen Hollow as his wife.

LEFT THE DRUGGIST GASPING

Youth Drove Sharp Bargain, but According to Agreement, He Was Entitled to a Guess.

Nicholas J. Pisagno, superintendent of the Southward postal station, in telling how he was called to the phone in the middle of the night some time ago and effectively thanked for the receipt of a letter, said that his emotions for a minute or two were similar to those recently experienced by a druggist friend of his.

The druggist, in order to stimulate trade, according to Mr. Pisagno, placed a jar of beans in his show window, together with a card announcing that every purchaser would be entitled to a guess as to how many beans the jar contained, and that a handsome prize would be given the party nearest correct.

One afternoon a young man, evidently from the country, happened along, glanced in the show window, and then entered the store.

"I see you are giving away a prize for guessing the number of beans," he remarked to the proprietor. "Can I get a guess with any kind of purchase?"

"Oh, yes," was the smiling reply of the druggist. "We don't make any discrimination in the article you buy."

"All right, then," was the prompt response of the youth, "there's the jar about 1,342 beans in that jar. Gimme a 2-cent postage stamp."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

"Fierce."

A Cleveland man who makes a practice of choosing his words with care, practice which he has endeavored to instill into the family circle, made a memorandum of the misused words uttered by his son and daughter during a recent breakfast. Here is the list:

"Dandy six times.
Fierce, four times.
Great, two times.
When the meal was over the head of the household called the family around him in the library and gravely read the totals to them.

"O-o-o, that's fierce," said the son. "Isn't it awful," said the daughter.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FROM TWO VIEW POINTS

How Gettysburg Impressed a Veteran and An Aide to the Governor of Virginia.

Mr. Westwood Hutchison, who went to the great Jubilee at Gettysburg as the commander of Ewell Camp of Confederate Veterans, has impressions of the big camp which will last him, he says, the rest of his life. Through the kindly consideration of Mr. Geo. C. Round, who went there ahead of the other Manassas men, with a letter from Mr. Hutchison to Quarter-master Normoyle, the finest location on the field was reserved for Ewell Camp; it was close by a grove of trees which cast a grateful shade upon the old soldiers during the heated part of the afternoon. Mr. Round had placards put on these tents stating they were held for the Manassas veterans and this was only a sample of the courtesy extended by this loyal friend of the Southern soldier, and the officers in charge of the arrangements. Mr. Hutchison was greatly impressed with the care exercised for the physical comfort of the visitors, and says nothing was left undone that was possible of accomplishment to make these old fellows happy and contented. Harmony and affection were the prime factors, and a spirit of hospitality and cordiality pervaded the entire force of officials and guests. The visit of Mr. Hutchison to the place where General Armistead fell, after Pickett's charge, was in company with some of the participants in that famous affair, and the memories brought to life were sad but tender. Col. Robt. A. Hutchison, who was at Gettysburg as a member of Governor Mann's staff, says he was most impressed by the absolute perfection of the camp arrangements in every detail. 40,000 veterans were expected but many thousand more were there, yet there was no hitch in the arrangements. The tents looked like a magnificent canvas city, and the streets were as straight as though laid out with a straight-edge. Splendid sanitary arrangements and an abundant water supply were also conspicuous. A hydrant could be found at every corner and sanitary drinking fountains were placed at frequent intervals. All waste matter was burned up day and night, thus keeping the grounds in perfect condition. The cordiality, says Colonel Hutchison, was not confined to the old soldiers; people from every section of the country, whether soldiers or not, gave the "glad hand" to every body else; there were no introductions necessary, only a slap on the back and a "Hello, Bill!" was needed to make you the friend of your neighbor. Pennsylvania's hospitality continued Colonel Hutchison, was beyond the praise of anybody. Governor Mann and his staff were the specially invited guests of the Key-stone state, as were the children and grand children of Meade, Longstreet and Pickett, and nothing was left undone for their comfort and pleasure. Another evidence of Pennsylvania's generosity is shown in Governor Tener's order that if the transportation papers of any veteran should be lost the price would be given that veteran and all trouble thereby taken from him. Colonel Hutchison also says that the merchants of Gettysburg were filled with the same spirit animating the camp officials; no advance in prices was made on their merchandise, and they went out of their way to show courtesy to the visitors. These two gentlemen, the Messrs. Hutchison, saw this historical event from different angles: one was with his veteran comrades all the time, and the other was with the official family, but while these are two points of view the verdict is the same. So no sick or disabled members in the contingent from Manassas, and the occasion will go down in local memories as the biggest celebration of fraternal affection ever seen.

Funeral of Thos. N. Larkin (from the Lynchburg News of June 28.)

The funeral of Mr. T. N. Larkin was held yesterday afternoon at his late home, the residence of Mrs. Sallie D. Larkin, and the services were conducted by Dr. J. N. Latham and Dr. Jos. B. Dunn.

At the house a male quartette sang "Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light," and at the grave, "The Christian's Good Night." A CARD.

To the voters and citizens of Prince William County: I hereby give notice to the people of Prince William County that I shall be a candidate to succeed myself in the next house of delegates of Virginia. I desire my conduct in the last session warrants this. I ask you to examine the records as kept in the Journal of the House of 1912 to one where I stood and how I voted on all matters. Thanking you for the honor which you have already conferred upon me and the confidence reposed, and with the promise to serve you in the future with all of the power and energy I can command, I am very sincerely and truly yours.

TWO VETERAN VISITORS

All the Way From Michigan to Take a Trip Over War-Time Scenes.

On Monday, two old soldiers arrived at the hotel in Manassas and spent the day on the battlefield of Bull Run. They were both members of the 6th. Ohio cavalry, under command of Gen. Kirkpatrick, and participated in the second battle in 1862. They are going over the various points in Virginia of special interest to them, and came here from Warrenton.

These two gentlemen are John Parke and N. W. King, of Cheboygan county, Michigan. They went from here to the places in Loudoun and adjacent counties where "Mosby kept us awful busy," as Mr. Parke expressed it. These two veterans have many friendly words for the generous way in which they have been treated while in Virginia, and they say that the affection shown for each other by the blue and gray while at Gettysburg is bound to be a lasting peace pact. Both veterans answer readily to the name of "Yank," but Mr. Parke says that as he was born in Ireland he thinks it a misnomer as far as he is concerned.
