

An Elaborate Showing of Easter Frocks and Frills

We are now displaying a beautiful line of dress materials for spring and summer frocks. The tendency is toward the wide and flare skirt, which will require a material that has a good "body." Discriminating persons will be pleased with our line of Coverts, Palm Beach Cheviots, Shepperd Checks and Hand Finished Serges and Colored Linens. The ideal summer fabrics for "party" dresses are Flowered and Polka Dots in Organdies, Flowered Crepes and Crepe Soirees. Samples of any will be cheerfully given.

White Goods and Embroideries

Our line this year is better than ever and is exceptionally strong in the way of infants' wear. Dainty dimities and exquisite laces to make glad the heart of every mother.

POINTS FOR GARDENERS

Eighteen Important Facts Given As Summary in New Farmers' Bulletin No. 647.

The gardener in the South may well remember certain important facts which are summed up in the United States Department of Agriculture's new Farmers' Bulletin (No. 647) entitled "The Home Garden in the South." They are as follows:

1. In nearly all sections of the South there is a scarcity of fresh vegetables during a large part of the year.
2. A well-kept garden will yield a return eight to ten times as great as that from an equal area devoted to cotton or to other general farm crops.
3. The value of vegetables in the diet is a great deal more than the mere food or money value, as they furnish a large part of the essential salts which are necessary to the well being of the human system.
4. The location selected for the garden should be as near the house as possible. Practically any type of soil can be used for vegetables, but a sandy loam is to be preferred.
5. Good drainage is of prime importance. If the land has not good natural drainage, artificial drainage should be employed.
6. Where cultivation is to be done by means of horse tools the garden should be long and narrow, with the rows running the long way of the garden.
7. The garden should be laid off in straight rows for either horse or hand cultivation.
8. An area of one-fourth to one half acre in garden crops should be sufficient for a family of average size.
9. The garden should be occupied as large a part of the year as possible. As soon as one crop is removed, another should be planted so as to have a succession of crops coming on all the time.

10. A good system of rotation should be followed in the home garden, in order to keep diseases and insects in check and to keep the soil in good condition.

11. The soil for the garden should be thoroughly prepared before planting vegetables. A deep soil is desirable, but the depth should be increased gradually.

12. Barnyard or stable manure is the best fertilizer for vegetable growing, as it furnishes both plant food and humus. Where manure is not available, green crops such as cowpeas, soy beans, vetch or crimson clover, should be turned under to supply humus and part of the nitrogen. Commercial fertilizers can be employed to furnish most of the plant food, but without humus in the soil the fertilizer will be of little value.

13. For early crops of cabbage, cauliflower, tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, etc., the seed should be started in a hotbed or cold frame or in a box in the dwelling. In most sections of the South a cold frame will be satisfactory, but in the colder regions a hotbed should be used.

14. In order to secure good stocky plants with large root systems, the seedlings should be transplanted at least once before setting in the garden. The plants should be set 2 inches apart each way in a box, hotbed or cold frame.

15. Before setting plants in the open they should be hardened off to prevent a serious check to growth. This can be accomplished by exposing the plants to outside conditions during the day in mild weather and finally leaving them uncovered at night when there is no danger of frost.

16. Thoroughly soak the plant bed before removing the plants, so as to have as much soil adhere to the roots as possible.

17. In setting the plants in the garden, thoroughly pack the soil around the roots. When the soil is dry, it is advisable to apply a little water around the roots. As soon as the water has soaked in the moist soil should be covered with dry earth to prevent baking.

18. Give frequent shallow cultivation with small-tooth cultivators. A sweep or turnplow should not be used unless the land becomes so weedy that cultivators will not do the work.

This summary is taken from Farmer's Bulletin (No. 647) entitled "The Home Garden in the South," which can be had by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Woman's Auxiliary of Farmers' Institute.

After listening to Prof. Lyman Carrier in the morning session of the Northern Virginia Farmers' Institute and partaking of a delightful lunch prepared by the high school girls, a goodly number of ladies met to listen to reports from all the clubs that are a part of the work of the Woman's Auxiliary. It was delightful to listen to reports of neighborhood work in country communities and plans for future work.

The following officers held from February 1915 to February 1916: President, Mrs. Edith Sanders, Catharpin. Secretary, Mrs. Ella D. Shaw, Clifton. Treasurer, Mrs. Spies, Manassas. Vice-president at large, Mrs. Geo. Round.

Program committee: Mesdames Sanders, Shaw, Round and Dogan, and Miss Osborn.

Various new work was suggested and discussed. The meeting then adjourned in favor of the Farmers' League.

THE POPULAR GIRL

Every girl has the perfectly natural desire to be popular with the other sex, and every girl is interested in knowing the secret of such popularity. Some girls have the idea that the way to have a good time is to break away from the recognized rules of social life. The free and easy, reckless type of girl may receive a good deal of attention of a certain kind, but it is safe to say that men do not really care for such a girl. Certainly they do not have any respect for her. They may enjoy a summer flirtation with her, but such a girl never enters seriously into their thoughts. The girl who is kind and thoughtful to her parents is the girl whom they admire. The girl who is disrespectful to her parents will not long retain the respect of others. Men know very well that a girl who deceives her mother cannot be trusted. A good daughter has in her the making of a good wife, and a man remembers this when he begins to think seriously of matrimony. —Leslie's Weekly.

Many a Manassas Reader Will Be Interested.

When people read about the cures made by a medicine endorsed from far away, is it surprising that they wonder if the statements are true? But when they read of cases right here at home, positive proof is within their reach, for close investigation is an easy matter. Read Manager's endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. M. E. Akers, E. Centre St., Manassas, Va., says: "I am willing at all times to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement. This excellent remedy completely cured one of my children of a bad case of kidney trouble of several years standing after everything else had failed. My advice to other kidney sufferers is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a fair trial."

The above statement must carry conviction to the mind of every reader. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the name that Mrs. Akers recommends — the remedy backed by home testimony in all states. WHY NOT BOY SCOUTS HERE?

Have you ever thought of how you were going to wisely provide an outlet for the "bottled-up" energy in that restless boy of yours? You know that it is only a part of his nature that he should be restless, active, continually wanting to be doing something. If your boy displays none of these common symptoms we advise you to consult a physician, for most assuredly there is something wrong. We must come to one conclusion: we have a natural condition which can not be properly handled by ignoring it.

Thorough organization is needed in handling boys. Every teacher will tell you that system and order are imperative if boys are to be handled properly. This has been worked out successfully in schools, but how about organized play? Just a minute, please. Some one may say that play is only a trivial matter and should demand little attention. Play is just as essential to a child's development as study. Without play the child's mind grows at the expense of its body and ill health is a natural consequence. But play to be effective must be organized and directed along useful lines. If a child learns lessons of order and obedience while getting outdoor recreation so much the better. It is killing two birds with one stone. These remarks are to preface an agitation for a boy scout organization in Manassas.

The boy scout movement is world-wide. It was worked successfully in many foreign countries before being introduced into America. Since its incorporation in this country in 1910 as "The Boy Scouts of America" it has made a wonderful growth. About 300,000 boys in our country are already reaching for this movement which has the backing of hundreds of prominent men and women throughout the land. We will not go into details, but can assure you that this movement is thoroughly organized, both as to states and the nation. Scouting means outdoor life, which is health and nature-education combined.

We have a curfew law which says that the boys must be off the streets after 8 o'clock in the evening. But why not give them some well-directed means of expending their energies in the daytime so that when evening comes they will be only too glad to seek "nature's sweet restorer?" Will not some one launch a movement for the organization of a boy scouts' troop in Manassas? This will afford a means for every boy to work off his surplus energy and at the same time to add to his stock of good health.

Remember that worthless boys were once as well equipped to make something of themselves as those who have succeeded. It has been only a difference in the direction of God-given energy. It is right and necessary that boys should play; it is also right and necessary that parents and other older persons should say how they are to play. Do not let this golden opportunity go to waste. We have the boys in our midst; let us do our best to make useful citizens of them. Later in life they will thank any and every one who stands their sponsor in this their pressing need of the hour.

THAT ANNUAL FEVER

Take a guess as to what fever we are referring to. Is it the spring fever or something more serious? If you should happen to say "Spanish fever" you have guessed it right. Isn't it strange how this fever grabbed you every springtime when you were a boy? And one curious thing about it, you never became immune to its attack. If it were not for business which requires your constant attention, this fever would be breaking out in your system right now. Why, we can feel it in our bones already. Just wait until those lazy spring days show themselves, and you will be crazy to stand up at the home plate and try to knock the "liver" off that ball. Remember how you used to fan the air with that old home-made bat? Oh, yes, we can very easily live those days over in memory, and great days they were, too. Who does not envy the boy in the springtime when baseball and fishing are so inviting?

THE FARMER AN EXPERIMENTER

Some farmers would not consider it at all complimentary should you call them experimenters, but experimenters indeed are all wide-awake farmers of the present day. The man to whom present conditions are satisfying, who feels that his farm is as productive and as paying as he cares to have it, need not bother himself about experimentation for he would not go about it in the proper spirit and hence he could not expect any appreciable results. But to the farmer who feels that he is not getting all out of his farm that he should, who wishes to get himself somewhere, agriculturally speaking, to this type of man experimentation offers great opportunities.

The United States Department of Agriculture and the various state experiment stations are constantly giving many valuable pointers to farmers the country over. These agencies, however, can lay down only the general experimental facts adaptable to your territory. For instance, the Virginia Experimental Station can tell you the best districts in which to grow certain crops. It can tell you the best insecticides to use in your fight against some ravaging insect, but when it comes to telling you what crops are going to pay you best on your particular farm, the experiment station admits it does not know. If the experiment station could conduct a series of experiments on that farm of yours it could tell you, but then these experiments would be of little value to other farmers; hence, the experiment station can assist you in your experimental work, but it can never entirely take it over.

Now, when you hear of some wonderful new grain which promises big yields, lay off a little plot and give it a trial. Do not be risky enough to sow a forty or sixty-acre field to a crop, the adaptability of which to your particular soil has never been determined. You might win by sowing a large acreage but you are taking a gambling chance, and of all people the farmer can least afford to take any of these gambling chances. Keep a few experimental plots going all the time; they will prove to be invaluable as guides to your farming in the future.

Of course, experimentation does not confine itself to crops, or breeds of live stock, or any other single phase of agriculture. To successfully carry on the pursuit of agricultural experimentation must be a part of the program. This is no new gospel, but it is one which cannot be emphasized too strongly. Farmers say that they do not know what their soil lacks, what it needs to make it productive. Well, each farmer must be his own diagnostician. He must determine by experiments what his soil needs, and then he must religiously follow what he has proven to be the right course. Once you get the stride in experimentation nothing in connection with your farm life will appear more interesting, and certainly nothing will guarantee you greater returns for years to come.

POOR PLAGUE-STRICKEN SERBIA

Horror upon horror seems to follow in the wake of the fighting armies of Europe with such rapid succession that our senses soon become somewhat benumbed to the deplorable condition in which many districts are left. At the beginning of the war our hearts went out to the poor, homeless Belgians who were, and are yet, staring starvation in the face. The response of America to appeals for Belgian relief work was highly pleasing to the relief workers. Now a still more heart-rending appeal comes from Serbia; may we meet this appeal as is characteristic of our people.

Cholera, typhus and typhoid fever have become epidemic in little Serbia. The population is threatened with a terrific decimation if relief measures are not soon forthcoming. Typhus fever, also known as "jail fever," seems to be working the greatest destruction among the Serbians. This disease is one of the "filthy" diseases of humanity. Where strict sanitation exists we do not have typhus fever. Hence sanitary methods must be put in practice if the disease is to be eradicated. All clothing that comes in contact with typhus victims must be burned if the disease is to be stamped out. So this leads up to the great need of the Serbians, i. e., clothing.

Of course, like all the desolate European countries, Serbia needs food supplies, but her one great need now is clothing. The American Red Cross Society and the Rockefeller Foundation are jointly sending a sanitary commission to the plague-stricken area. But this commission will need clothing to hand out to the unfortunates and it will need a great quantity of it too, if all reports be true. America, ever generous, is again looked to in this emergency. It is to be hoped we will, in a generous measure, come to the succor of our most unfortunate brother across the seas.

ECHOES FROM CONFERENCE

Wilson and Daniels Speak Before M.E. Church Conference in Washington Last Week.

(Washington Star.)

The need of college-trained men in the ministry as well as in other walks of life was brought out in an address by Rev. Dr. R. H. Bennett, director of the correspondence school of the Methodist Episcopal church South Friday morning at the 131st session of the Baltimore annual conference, meeting in the auditorium of the Mount Vernon Place church.

Dr. Bennett's vivid appeal—following, as it did, the keynote of the conference, struck at the opening session Wednesday, when the educational opportunity confronting the church in the building up of two great universities at Atlanta and Dallas, was brought out by speakers—reinforced and brought home the argument that education is one of the great means of salvation of the church as well as of the state.

"We cannot blink the fact, seen plainly everywhere, that a college education is well nigh indispensable, except in the rare cases of those men who seem to educate themselves," declared Dr. Bennett. Applying the situation to the ministry, he said: "There are a great many people who think of a preacher as an animated smile in a white cravat going around kissing babies and smiling at the sisters. This condition must be met."

PRESIDENT WILSON SPEAKS

The banner event of the Baltimore conference proved to be the visit and address of President Wilson Thursday night, Mar. 25.

The President said, in part: "I have the feeling, as I look upon you, that I have had in many other church conferences—that I am looking in the faces of men and women who are not interested in the temporary things, but are interested in the permanent things; who give very little thought, I hope and believe, to the things that separate us and give a great deal of thought to the things that unite us—things that are good for the healing of this nation not only, but for the healing of all the nations."

"I value the churches of this country as I would value every thing else that makes for the stability of our moral processes. There are a great many people—not so many that they give me any particular concern—but nevertheless, a great many people who, in the language of the day, are trying hard 'to rock the boat.' The boat is too big for them to rock. They are of such light material that they cannot rock it very much, but they are rocking through the motions, and it is just as well for them to look around once in a while and see the great, steadfast body of self-possessed Americans not to be hurried into an unconsidered line of action, sure that when you are right you can be calm, sure that when the quarrel is none of yours, you can be impartial; sure that the men who spend their passion most will move the body politic the least, and that the reaction will not be upon the great body of American citizens, but upon themselves."

SECRETARY DANIELS' ADDRESS

Secretary Daniels of the Navy was on the platform and was called upon by Bishop Candier for an address, following the retirement of the presidential party.

"I was born in a Methodist home," the Secretary said, "rocked in a Methodist cradle, and if there is anything in me I owe it to my Methodist mother and my Methodist training. We may adopt new methods to meet new conditions, but we must not depart from the old creeds and teachings of the good old Methodist faith. Let us hold fast to the old faith and to the old creeds and seek inspiration at the old altars."

NEXT MEETING

Choosing Alexandria as the place for holding its next meeting, the 131st session of the Baltimore annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South adjourned early Monday afternoon.

To the Voters of Prince William County:
I hereby respectfully announce myself a candidate for the office of sheriff of said county, subject to the democratic primary to be held this year. I respectfully solicit your assistance, and pledge myself to discharge the duties of said office to the best of my ability, if reelected, fearlessly, faithfully and impartially as in the past.
Mr. John M. Hooe will continue as my deputy above the Hon. and Mr. J. Ashby as jailer.
Respectfully,
CHAS. A. BARBER

Sheriff
To the Voters of Prince William County:
At the request of many friends throughout the county, I have concluded to announce my candidacy for the office of sheriff of said county, subject to a democratic primary to be determined upon by the County Committee.
Should I be honored with the office, it is my purpose to select an acceptable deputy resident in the lower part of our county, and if the present jailer will accept the position he now holds, it is my purpose to retain him in that position.
I take this opportunity, in the event I should fail to see all the voters, to pledge my best abilities to a faithful and impartial discharge of the duties of the office as provided by law.
Respectfully,
D. J. ALEXANDER

Supervisor
To the Voters of Brentsville District:
I hereby respectfully announce myself a candidate for the office of supervisor in Brentsville District, subject to the democratic primary this year. I earnestly solicit your support and should I be elected, I pledge myself to discharge the duties of said office impartially, giving to each part of the district its proportionate share of the funds.
Respectfully,

NOTICE
On Saturday, April 10, 1915, at Nightsville, Va., beginning at 10 a. m. I will call to the highest bidder for cash, all the wheelwright tools, a lot of spades, rakes, hoes and many other articles, some being the property of the late A. J. Bradley.
K. D. MELLON, Auctioneer.

It has been our custom for a number of years to advise our trade to build and improve at such times as they can secure the greatest value for each dollar spent, and we believe that to-day the opportunity to secure building material and labor cheaply is greater than for many years past.

You will find that the best managers are going to take advantage of the present conditions and invest their money in buildings and improvements, and these same good managers are going to consider carefully where they can get the greatest value for their money in Lumber, Mill Work and Building Materials.

In this connection we are asking for our line of Lumber, Mill Work and Building Material a careful comparison as to grades and prices, as we are carrying only the very best of each grade that you can buy, and we rarely ever lose an order when our customer will examine our material when considering our prices.

We have splendid values in both the higher and lower priced grades and you can be assured that we ship you the best of any grade that we may sell.

OPENING OF A
New Meat Market

I have opened a meat market in part of the building formerly occupied by C. E. Fisher & Son.

My line will include all kinds of fresh and salt meats, oysters, fish and dressed poultry.

The meat market and J. L. Bushong's grocery occupy the same building, so you can phone for your meat and groceries at the same time.

I respectfully solicit the trade of my former patrons, also the patronage of those to whom I am new.
