

TWO NOSTRUMS EXPOSED

"Wine of Cardui" and "Black Draught" Are Shown to Be Fraudulent Medicines.

[Journal American Medical Association]

In a recent issue of Harper's Weekly appears an article under the title "Cardui: The Story Of a Nostrum," announced as the first of three to appear on the subject of "Wine of Cardui" and "Black Draught," two nostrums put out by the Chattanooga Medicine Company. These articles are written by a Dr. Bicknell, who is said to have been in the employ of the Chattanooga Medicine Company for some years as their chemist. Certainly the details he gives indicate a familiarity with the business that could be expected only from one who had been employed in some such capacity. The current article traces the growth of the Wine of Cardui business, and illustrations are used to show the evolution of the nostrum label from "Nature's Great Emmenagogue" to "20 Per Cent Alcohol." While the author denies that the Chattanooga Medicine Company's nostrum will perform the many wonders claimed for it by its manufacturers, he says "there is one miracle that Cardui can perform—a miracle quite as wonderful, perhaps, as the regulation of the menstrual function; it can make money."

According to Bicknell, Wine of Cardui contains blessed thistle and an insignificant amount of black haw. "These herbs," says the author, "whatever their life-giving potentialities, are at least conveniently inexpensive." Then follows a computation of the cost of making and marketing a gallon of Wine of Cardui. This shows that the contents of each bottle "cost a trifle over 4 cents." For the bottle, corks, labels, carton, packing case, etc., he computes an amount that makes the cost of a bottle of Wine of Cardui, packed ready for shipment, total a little less than eleven cents. To this he adds the "patent medicine" maker's largest item of expense, advertising, bringing up the total gross cost of the nostrum to a trifle under 26 cents a bottle. It sells for $1.00 a bottle.

These statements prepare one for the claim made by Dr. Bicknell that during the past year "the net profit of the year's sale of Cardui amounted to $949,200.00!" These figures are enlightening. They help one to understand the lavish expenditure of money that followed the filing of the suits by the Chattanooga Medicine Company against The Journal of the American Medical Association and its editor. Those engaged in a business whose net profits were even one-half million dollars annually are not likely to be over particular in the methods of defending the business. The fact that the two and a half million dollars, representing the gross sales, based on the Bicknell figures, comes out of the pockets of those who can least afford it, is but an incident in a sordid business.

MANASSAS, VA., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1915.

IT'S FOR YOU, MR. FARMER

The farmers of Prince William have an opportunity awaiting them which was seldom presented their fathers. On Friday next, November 19, the farmers can, and are urged to take part in a corn and poultry show to be given at the old candy factory building, under the auspices of the Northern Virginia Farmers' Institute. Only of late years have the farmers of this section enjoyed to any extent the cooperative features now considered so essential to progressive farming. The science of agriculture, like that of medicine, engineering, etc., has grown tremendously during the last half-century (in fact agriculture as a science was all but unknown 50 years ago) and one of the strongly emphasized points is that of cooperation, everlasting cooperation, to the mutual benefit of each and every cooperator.

The good to be gotten out of the coming corn and poultry show will be directly in proportion to the amount of interest shown by exhibiting samples of corn and poultry. If you are interested enough to come to this show then be sure to bring with you ten sample ears of corn and a crate or two of your best poultry. Just because you think you have no chance of winning a ribbon do not forego bringing the exhibits; the other fellows may not have such extra fine corn or poultry as you are figuring on. Just because you will not make any money by taking part in the show do not stay out of it. If you come to the show empty-handed you will expect you neighbor to bring the exhibit. But he may be as indifferent and lacking in interest as you and the show may not then measure up to your expectations. If the show of next Friday is a good one (and such we expect it to be) it will be because the farmer of Prince William is awake to his opportunities and is willing to take a little trouble to make things interesting and helpful for himself and his neighbor.

NOT JUST AN ACCOMMODATION

Not long ago a man who had occasion to spend several months in Prince William, made a remark something like this: "When you get any service out of the telephone system of the county it seems to be more of an accommodation than a matter of business." This remark was directed against the defects raising from poor telephones, fallen and tangled wires and imperfect switchboards, not at all against the operators of the switchboards. We have felt that way ourselves on several occasions and concur with the gentleman in his remarks on the present unsatisfactory telephone service.

In the first place the telephone companies doing business in Prince William should overhaul their lines, making many needed repairs on poles, wires and exchanges. While it is true that the telephone companies of the county are not rich it must be remembered that these companies are annually collecting fees for service from telephone users. It is perhaps true that this fee is insufficient to insure good service; if it is, why more should be given in the way of service and then more charged in the way of a fee. What is demanded now is service, even if it should cost a little more.

In the second place the rules and regulations of the telephone companies of the county should be brought more clearly before the public. Every phone owner should be furnished with a copy of rules in which it is stated how long one is allowed to talk at one time, hours of service of the various exchanges, charges for foreign connections, penalty for mutilation of the property of any of the companies and other matters of general interest to users of the service. Some such method of emphasizing the importance of business efficiency would bring about a big improvement in the telephone service of the county, and none can deny that an improvement is badly needed.

The man who overleaps is often the man who sleeps over his job.

The dog that barks does not always bite, neither does the cow that moos always give milk.

From the way some football players can drop-kick one would judge their head and feet are of equal value while in college.

GIVE IT YOUR SUPPORT

Few of us are too old or too poor in memory to forget the great exhilaration we used to get from our play when school children. Well do we remember the tonic effect of playing "prisoner's base," "blackman," "pussy wants a corner," etc. Carry yourself back then to those days and out of your present day knowledge of the so-called "incorrigibility of youth" see if the beneficial effects of play should not bear great emphasis in the school of today.

Educators all over the world are agreed that a sound body (one in which a wholesome and well-directed play is given to the animal instincts) is the proper basis for a sound and keenly receptive mind, a mind in which morality and clean living are held in high regard. Play is necessary for boys and girls of all times; the suppression of this nature-given desire to romp and develop is inevitably fraught with dire consequences. Should we of Manassas and Prince William not give the play of the school children some consideration?

The question of a playground for the Manassas High School especially is being agitated now. The need of the boys in this line is a pressing one. With the disbandment of the football team early in the season, because of lack of interest in, and encouragement given the sport, the faculty was left in a quandry as to how the boys were to get pleasing exercise and wholesome outdoor amusement between seasons, as it were. This problem still confronts the faculty but towards its solution a plain, simple, inexpensive playground would contribute largely.

Until the opening of spring, when the baseball fever will descend overnight, no organized outdoor sport for the high school boys can be gotten under way (unless you consider basketball, which is never satisfactory when played outdoors.) The older boys stand strongly in need of a few pieces of apparatus, (which can be constructed by a blacksmith at little cost) that they can use, particularly at recess periods, on good days throughout most of the year. The surplus energy of a high school boy must be taken care of the year round, not just during a football or baseball season, if you wish to make out of him a man, strong physically and morally.

On Friday next, November 19th, the Manassas Patrons' League, will have a speaker on playground work address the body. This will be an opportunity for anyone not acquainted with what is being done in playground work throughout the country to learn the why and wherefore of this important work in caring for a child's physical and moral make-up. Every patron of the local high and graded schools, every patron of any and all the schools of the county, should hear this speaker.

In fact anyone interested in education in its broader and fuller sense should not miss hearing this address. Another way in which the playground work is to be furthered is by a dinner to be given by the patrons of the local schools. This dinner, for which a nominal charge will be made, is to take the place of the regular domestic science class dinner usually served at the farmers' institutes. Every visitor to the corn and poultry show, every patron of the Manassas schools and the townspeople in general should help the work along by taking dinner with the good ladies of the league on Friday next.

By showing your active interest in the proposed playground work you will enable the high school to gain a much needed improvement. This improvement is to be an economical one and one which will pay great returns on the investment. The boys are going to be active in one way or another, why not see that their activities are directed along wholesome lines? Let us help the high school boys by giving them a means of occupying pleasantly and profitably their spare time. Thus will we contribute materially to their future physical and moral welfare and also to community betterment.

DO SOMETHING BESIDES TALK

Theoretically, all of us are great boosters for civic improvement; practically, few of us are willing to so much as walk around the corner to help in community advancement. This conclusion is drawn from the way in which many of Manassas' citizens have lined up on the matter of keeping an active civic league in the community. It has been a case of any amount of talk about what ought to be done, about what the individual citizen can accomplish by doing his or her share in community work, but very little actual work on the part of those from whom we should expect much. There is time yet to put into practice some of the enthusiastic preaching and words of advice. Come to the meeting of the Manassas Civic League on Monday evening to show that your interest lies as much in bringing about accomplishments as in telling others how to bring them about.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of Davis Tomas Hanback who departed this life Sunday night, October 24, 1915. He has gone to that sweet heavenly home to live with Jesus.

The little carriage is empty now,
The little clothes laid by;
A mother's hope, a father's joy,
In death's cold arms doth lie.

Go little pilgrim to thy home,
On yonder blissful shore;
We miss thee here, but soon will come
Where thou hast gone before.

Davis, oh! darling little treasure,
Ushered from our arms so soon;
Too pure a bud for this world,
He has gone to heaven to bloom.

Gone is all sunshine from our hearts,
Dark and empty is our home,
Another angel has joined that band,
That sings so softly round the throne.

Here with friends you could not stay,
To that heavenly home you've gone,
To live with Jesus for evermore—
Care and suffering are there unknown.

How we miss little Davis,
In our sad and desolate home;
Nevermore to see those lovely eyes,
See no more on earth thy form.

BY A FRIEND.

DR. HALL HEARD TWICE

Lectured at Grace M. E. Church, South, Sunday and at Eastern College Monday.

One of Dr. Hall's favorite themes is education. He stated that an education did not consist in ramming down a lot of facts, memorizing a lot of dates, and in getting a diploma. Education, from the root of the word, means a leading out, an unfolding. Errors are made in education as elsewhere. Many a man has read the letters G. P. in the clouds and started preaching whereas the letters for him meant "go plow."

Girls should be taught to paint on canvas, not on their cheeks. Girls should be taught to sing—but not to throw themselves into congestive chills by their incessant thrilling and trembling. Girls should be taught to live normal and rational lives just as other members of their families; as their hard-working mothers for example. Girls should be modest and good and plan for lives of usefulness in this world.

A pretty picture running throughout the lecture was the gradual unfolding of the Christian character. He showed how the little girl began by saying "Our Father" and how the greatest men of our Nation and of all nations have never been able to improve upon the simple trust of the little child. Later in life the child gradually absorbs portion after portion of the Lord's Prayer into its life until at old age the whole prayer, in all its deep significance and meaningfulness, shines forth as a guiding star and crowns every act of God as blessed. Dr. Hall took long enough to pay a warm tribute to that greatest of all generals, he said, Gen. Robert E. Lee, who was as great a Christian as a general.

Dr. Hall brought out an important point when he said that no human being ever solved the problem of happiness by the get-and-get plan; it can only be solved by the give-and-give plan. His address had a good moral tone throughout and should be of benefit to all of the audience. What it lacked in the way of coherence was made up in the inimitable manner in which he, by comic jestures and appropriate wit, captivated his hearers from the beginning.

MARK DIPHTHERIA SWABS

State Board of Health Sends Out Warning to Physicians.
With 656 specimens for diphtheria received at the laboratory of the State Board of Health during the two weeks from October 22 to November 5, the board Wednesday sent out a special warning to physicians, in which it stated that many specimens were being received without any identification marks and could not, of course, be reported on.

In one instance, to the amazement of the examining bacteriologist, two specimens were found in one tube. Examination of the container showed that although the two specimens were so placed that they rubbed against each other, they were from different cases and separate reports were expected.

It is pointed out that where the prompt administration of anti-toxin is necessary to insure recovery in cases of diphtheria, and where specimens are taken to establish the diagnosis before anti-toxin is given, failure to take the specimen correctly and to mark it legibly with the name of the sender may mean that the life of the patient is endangered by delay or mistaken diagnosis.

Suffrage leaders of Greater New York, at a recent meeting, raised $100,000 in cash and pledges with which to continue the battle for the ballot. Leaders declared the meeting was the beginning of the 1916 campaign.

HOSPITAL REPORT GOOD

University of Virginia Hospital Makes Report New Wing Being Constructed.

[U. Va. News Bulletin]

The annual report of the University Hospital, just presented to President Alderman and the Board of Visitors, by Dr. Stephen H. Watts, the director, shows marked increase in the work done by the institution, and reduced revenues from the pay and part-pay patients, so that there is a deficit for the current year of $11,494.93. In his report, Dr. Watts says:

"The total expenditures of the University Hospital for the year 1914-15 were $56,480.50 as compared with $42,579.21 for the previous year, or an increase of $13,881.29.

"A large part of this increase can be accounted for by the increase in patients, the furnishing and equipping of the nurses' home, an outbreak of smallpox at the hospital, the enlargement of the hospital staff and the increased cost of supplies.

"Two thousand three hundred and thirteen patients were admitted in the year 1914-15, whereas 2,133 were admitted the previous year, an increase of 180. You will notice that in the year 1914-15 there were 1,348 purely charity patients, representing 33,206 days hospital treatment, whereas in the previous year there were 982 purely charity patients, representing 24,044 hospital days or an increase of 9,162 days of treatment for charity cases.

"The per diem cost for a patient in 1913-14 was $1.03, whereas in 1914-15 it was $1.21; the per diem cost at the John Hopkins Hospital for the year 1913-14 was $3.41.

"The outbreak of smallpox at the hospital, due to the development of the disease in a surgical case, admitted from one of the railroad construction camps, necessitated the purchase of tents, the employment of special nurses, etc., and is roughly estimated to have cost the hospital $1,000.00."

A new wing to the hospital is in process of construction and will materially enlarge its capacity. It is the desire of Dr. Watts and President Alderman, however, that there may be added in the near future three additional wings. One would be for colored patients, one for isolated cases, and the other for a nurses' home. At the present time, if a quarantined case is in the hospital, tents have to be provided, or a whole ward cleared out.

While the eleven thousand dollar deficit is greatly regretted by the university and hospital authorities, they are glad that it can be attributed, in large part, to an increase of 366 charity patients, representing an increase of 9,162 hospital days of treatment. It is a matter of great satisfaction to the authorities that they are able to keep the cost of treatment per patient so low.

Danger Signals of Tuberculosis

In a previous article, it was stated that nearly everybody has tuberculosis at some time or other during his lifetime. Autopsies on people have shown that hardly a single human being reaches mature life without a scar on his lungs or elsewhere showing where tuberculosis had attacked him, and he, by his normal resistance and vitality, had warded off the continuation of the attack.

Because tuberculosis is so widespread, every man, woman and child should give the most careful attention to those signs of the disease which point out danger. The treacherous disease germs may enter the body in early childhood and may not cause any serious trouble for ten or fifteen years. Then, all of a sudden, when the body is weakened by overwork, worry, sickness, or bad living and working conditions, these sleeping germs wake up and become active in the destruction of the lungs or other organs. The working man or woman, therefore, cannot be too careful in the safeguarding of health and in watching out for those symptoms which indicate that the disease of tuberculosis is actually present. What, then, are some of the danger signals and what should be done about them?

(1) First of all, there is a cough that hangs on and will not clear up. If it lasts for a month or longer, it is a red light, a danger signal, which you cannot afford to ignore. It may start with wet feet or some other insignificant circumstance, but no matter how the cough started, if it does not go away, see your doctor at once. Colds frequently weaken the bodily tone and resistance, so that it is easy for the lurking germs to get a foothold.

(2) Loss of weight, accompanied by a loss of appetite, and a certain amount of "stomach trouble" is another danger signal, which you must not pass unheeded. Sometimes loss of weight may come from some other cause than tuberculosis, but it pays to be on your guard. You may not have a cough, and you may experience very little trouble except a sort of chronic weariness. You ought to know what your normal weight should be. If you begin to lose five, ten or more pounds without any apparent reason, look for sound medical advice at once. Sometimes with loss of weight goes a loss of appetite, and trouble with bowels and stomach, even running to diarrhea. Whether you are losing much weight or not, look out for this danger signal. It is a warning that something is wrong.

(3) Then there is that run-down, all-the-time-tired feeling. Most people have days when they feel unusually tired, for some reason or other. Such an occasional period of "spring fever" or "lazy liver" may not be at all dangerous, but when every day for two or three weeks you hate to get up and dread to do anything but lie around and be lazy, there is danger ahead. This is Nature's warning to you that some enemy inside your body is sapping your vitality. Don't ignore the warning signal!

(4) Anyone of the three symptoms just mentioned may occur singly or all of them may come at one time. When, to any or all, there is added a fever in the late afternoon or during the night, accompanied possibly by sweats, beware of this danger signal. It is a bright red flag which Nature waves before you, cautioning you to give immediate heed. Anyone's temperature may rise at times, some people's more easily than others. But when for a week every afternoon about four or five o'clock you've felt feverish, or when night after night you wake up in a dripping sweat, you may rest assured that there is nothing normal about that. Go to your doctor at once and tell him about it. You may have no cough and no other sign of disease, and this may be the only warning you'll get. Give heed to it at once.

(5) If you have a cough and in spitting you find streaks of blood in your sputum, you may rest assured that something is wrong. It may not be a direct sign of tuberculosis, but whatever it is, you should attend to it at once. You cannot afford to waste time putting it off. Nature may give you that more emphatic warning of the presence of tuberculosis, a hemorrhage of the lungs. If so, don't be scared unduly. It is a danger signal, and if you heed it, you may be safe.

There are other danger signals, some which you can see and some which only a trained physician can detect. Your safety lies in getting medical attention as early as possible. Tuberculosis can be cured if it is discovered in time. The time to discover it is when the first symptoms show themselves. Don't take chances with Death. You'll lose every time.

Go to a good doctor, if you notice any of these danger signals, and insist that he examine you stripped to the waist. If you can't afford a doctor, go to a free clinic and be examined. It may cost a few dollars to be examined, but it may save you hundreds of dollars, untold suffering, and possibly your life and that of your wife and family.

"SAFETY FIRST" is a motto that applies to tuberculosis, especially when it is first showing itself.
