FRACAS TUESDAY EVENING

Two Colored Men Fined, Two Sent to Jail, One Escapes.

QUART OF WHISKY STARTS TROUBLE

John Henderson, Jeckey, Who Recently Returned Here, Refuses to Go to Lock-Up—Jenks Thomas and Wash. Thorns Indicture—Henderson Gets Loose but is Soon Recaptured—Exciting Times.

It all started over a quart of whisky. Now John Henderson and Wash. Thorns, both colored, are confined in the county jail awaiting road service, while Jenks Thomas, colored, is $23.40 poorer and John Brooks, also colored, is worth $4.30 less than he would have been if things had not turned out as they did. No one got hurt except Henderson, who has a very sore head. The great excitement on the streets of Manassas Tuesday evening shortly before eight o'clock came about in this manner.

TROUBLE STARTED SATURDAY

Last Saturday Morry Russell, a young colored man from Bristow, was arrested for "hopping" off passenger train No. 15 while it was in motion. When searched a quart of whisky was found in his possession. At Russell's trial held that evening he stated that a fellow named Key from Brentsville had gotten the whisky in Alexandria and had given it to him. Russell claimed that he had brought it to Manassas Saturday afternoon and hid it in Weir's stable and that he was preparing to take it back to Bristow when arrested. The evidence very strongly indicated that the whisky was gotten on No. 15 Saturday evening and that Russell was acting as a go-between. The case was continued until Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in order to get Key as evidence.

Tuesday evening John Henderson, shortly returned from road service, John Brooks and Russell came into the store of Mayor W. C. Wagener and Henderson demanded to know why Russell had been arrested. Sergeant Wine, who happened to arrive on the scene, arrested Henderson and Brooks for being drunk. Brooks went quietly along with the sergeant and Henderson was left with Special Officer M. J. Hottle. Russell at this time walked off and has not been seen since.

EXCITEMENT ON STREETS

Officer Ira Reid came up about this time and he and Mr. Hottle attempted to carry Henderson to the lock-up, but the latter would not go. Jenks Thomas, who was looking on, became very loud-mouthed and caused Henderson to further resist. Soon Wash. Thorns, a negro of powerful build, arrived upon the scene and took the man from the officers. Sergeant Wine immediately gave Henderson the chase and ran him to Weir's stable. Henderson ran up in the loft and jumped from the roof, but the sergeant was right on his trail and as the negro ran down the alley to the rear of Smith's store he was fired at several times. Henderson proceeded to one of the colored houses near the Ruffner School Building and there he was taken in custody and carried by four men to the county jail.

Wash. Thorns still remains to be dealt with. He refused to go for some time until former Sergeant R. M. Weir went up to him and put his arm around the darky. Wash. then went peacefully to the jail with Mr. Weir.

Wednesday morning Brooks and Thomas were tried. Brooks was fined $2.50 and costs for being drunk and Thomas was fined $20 and costs for interfering with

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Upon motion W. N. Lipscomb and C. A. Sinclair were elected chairman and secretary of the meeting, respectively.

EASTERN COLLEGE NOW CLOSED

Seventeenth Annual Session Came to End Wednesday Morning—Commencement for Entire Week—Dr. A. B. Statton Gave Address—List of Graduates and Prize Winners.

Eastern College is closed until the opening of the eighteenth annual session on September 21, 1916. The finals, which were brought to a fitting close by the commencement day exercises held Wednesday morning, will long be remembered by the graduates, the student body in general and a large number of townspeople. The expression department gave its annual recital last Friday. Last Saturday evening the prize debating contest was held. Sunday Dr. Roop delivered the baccalaureate sermon, and in the evening Dr. J. C. Palmer, of Washington, addressed the Christian associations. Monday evening the senior play, "The Kingdom of Hearts" was presented. Tuesday afternoon the Class Day program was held and that evening the final concert of the advanced piano and voice students was given. The commencement address was delivered by Dr. A. B. Statton, of Hagerstown, Md.

RECITAL BY EXPRESSION DEPARTMENT FINE

Last Friday evening the pupils of the expression department gave a very enjoyable recital to a packed house. The program was varied and from beginning to end reflected much credit upon the department's instructor, Miss Mabel Phoebe Martin. Two well-executed renditions by the college orchestra at the opening were highly commented upon.

A fairy drill was the first number of the program proper. The following little tots took part: Garnett Brown, Rose Rice, Mary and Eloise Giddings, Helen and Elizabeth Coleman, Winnie Wenrich, Dorothy Sheldon, Anna and Armistead Sinclair. Miss Blanche Bushong gave a

J. R. Cook was appointed guardian of Tucker Bryant.

H. T. Davies was employed as counsel for Dorsey Scott and C. A. Sinclair for James Lunadown. Special grand jurors and witnesses allowed for attendance and mileage.

Hearing was given to alleged erroneous assessment of taxes against Peter Polen's estate. Brown & Hooff, John T. Beavers, J. M. Bell, Ellis Bros., J. L. Linawever, Henry Lynn's estate, E. L. Perry and M. Lynch. Lengthy decisions were handed down in nearly every case; the parties in most instances being held responsible for certain taxes assessed and exonerated from other assessments.

Accounts were presented by W. J. Ashby, jailor, C. A. Barbee, sheriff, and J. M. Hooe, deputy sheriff, which were duly examined and allowed. Court adjourned until Monday.

reading from Van Dyke entitled "Lost Word." Her previously-made reputation of being a good reader was further confirmed by this number.

Miss Ethel Hixson, who recited "Briar Rose" and "Rescue of Albert," displayed decided talent for dramatic work, her two recitations being among the best of the evening. Her sister, Miss Lucile Hixson, gave a reading entitled "Lasca," which was also very well received. Miss Mabel Lee Jones then played two piano solos.

Miss Esther Graver furnished her hearers with all the excitement and some of the pathos of the race track in "How the La Rue Stakes Were Lost," and Miss Arrietta Smith, costumed to suit the reading, made a decided hit with her "Wild Zingarella."

Miss Carrie Peters, assisted by Miss Mozer at the piano, gave "Aux Italiens" by Lytton. This number was among the best liked of the evening and it was very ably rendered. Prof. O. W. Mosher followed with two violin solos, both of which were played in his usual excellent manner.

The concluding number was a play, "Queen of Hearts," in which Misses Bushong, Smith and Graver and Messrs. Graybill, Ramsey and Frank had parts. Each actor did well but the playing of Miss Smith for the girls and Mr. Graybill for the boys was especially good. This little play, in which THE JOURNAL figured prominently several times, was very pleasing throughout and served as a fitting close to a fine program.

THE LEACHMAN REUNION

Thos. R. Leachman Entertained Brothers and Sisters on 51st Birthday.

"Mountain View Stock Farm," the beautiful country home of Mr. Thos. R. Leachman, near Lowry, Bedford county, was the scene of a most enjoyable dinner party Thursday evening of last week when he, the youngest son, on his fifty-first birthday anniversary, was the host to his eight brothers and sisters in a family reunion.

The time was pleasantly spent by the assembled party in recalling many incidents of their happy childhood, spent on the battlefield of old Manassas. The climax of the occasion was reached when a real "Old Virginia" dinner was served by the charming hostess, assisted by her attractive younger children, Louise and Glasgow. A sense of thankfulness pervaded the gathering that so large a family was permitted to meet without a vacant chair.

Those present were: J. P. Leachman, C. C. Leachman, Mrs. J. F. Dogan, Mrs. R. C. Buck, Mrs. B. A. Elliott and Mrs. L. C. Lynn, of Manassas; Miss Katherine Leachman, of Washington; Mrs. E. L. Carroll, of Shipman; Miss Constance Leachman, of Charlottesville, and Claude Carroll of the University Exchange.

The regular monthly meeting of the Manassas Civic League will be held in the town hall Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Every person interested in town improvements is urged to attend.

MISS MAY BIRKETT A BRIDE

Married to Robert L. Lewis at High Noon Wednesday—On Northern Wedding Trip.

Miss Helen May Birkett, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Birkett, of near Manassas, and Robert Lee Lewis, of West Virginia, a member of this year's class at the Theological Seminary near Alexandria, were married at high noon Wednesday at Trinity Episcopal Church, Rev. J. F. Burks officiating. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left by auto for Fairfax when they took the afternoon train for a Northern trip. It is not known yet where Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be located, since parish assignments are not made until the commencement at the seminary.

The bride, who is widely related in Manassas and vicinity and who attended school here, wore a traveling suit of navy blue, and a black hat with white wings. She was given in marriage by her mother, Miss Martha Virginia Nash, wearing a black taffeta suit and hat of black taffeta and pink rosebuds, was maid of honor.

Mr. Lewis is a member of an old Virginia family. In his boyhood he moved to West Virginia, which since that time has been his home. Before attending the Episcopal Seminary near Alexandria, Mr. Lewis studied at West Virginia University. Mr. Lovell Wilcox, of Alexandria, served as best man at the wedding.

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis was a very quiet one and while it was looked for in the near future the selection of Wednesday as the day took many by surprise. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. Miss Julia Lewis, a relative of the bride, played the wedding music.

EASTERN'S TENNIS STAR

An Appreciation of A. P. Williams, Captain of the College Team.

(O. W. Mosher, jr.)

Eastern College has been fortunate this year in having as a student Mr. A. P. Williams, of New Richmond, Wisconsin, whose play against some of the fastest tennis teams of this section of the country has marked him out as a coming player of the first rank.

This year his team defeated the Dumbarton club of Washington, and "Connie Doyle" of the Columbia Country Club, Washington, who is Washington's ablest player, said of him that his game was extremely clever and that he only needed to develop his back court game by practice with the fastest players to rank among the best in this country.

Mr. Williams smashes very hard at the net and has a lightning drive down the side lines which it is almost impossible to return. Next year, as captain of Eastern's team, he plans a six-man team and will spend considerable time this summer at the various tournaments in the west looking up players to bring back to Eastern who can play fast enough to help him win from the University of Virginia, Columbia, etc.

Mr. Williams has made many friends by his courteous disposition and all Eastern students are looking forward to his return and a repetition of his success next year.

HAMLIN GIVES ADDRESS

At Closing of Manassas Industrial School Decoration Day.

MCANENY AND CROSBY MAKE TALKS

Fine Choral Work During Afternoon—Collection Amounts to $210—Many Fine Talks by Distinguished Visitors—Mayor Wagener Awards Prizes—Valedictory of Class—Twelve Graduates.

The most pretentious Commencement Day exercises ever held at the Manassas Industrial School were those of Tuesday afternoon. Charles S. Hamlin, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, made the principal address. Others who spoke were George McAneny, ex-president of the Board of Aldermen, borough of Manhattan; William Gorham Rice, of the Civil Service Commission, Albany, N. Y.; Oscar T. Crosby, of Warrenton, fellow of the Royal Geographical Society; George Gordon Battle, attorney of New York city; Judge

C. E. Nicol and C. J. Meetez. Oswald Garrison Villard, publisher of the New York Evening Post and president of the board of trustees of the school, presided. Prizes were awarded by Mayor W. C. Wagener. The collection totaled $210.

The commencement exercises were begun at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the grove near the school building. The opening number was a chorus by the school. This and the subsequent musical numbers of the afternoon were well rendered and much enjoyed by all in attendance. The invocation was asked by Rev. Walter H. Brooks, (colored), pastor of a Washington Baptist church, after which the collection was taken up by T. C. Walker and Rev. Daniel G. Lomax.

$210 IN COLLECTION

The taking up of the collection is always a big feature of commencement day at the Industrial School. An invitation is extended all to bring forward their contributions. Under the exhortations of T. C. Walker, who figuratively went down into the pockets of those present, both colored and white, and the urgings of Daniel Lomax, who promised future bliss to all who came forward, the sum of $210 was collected, a large portion of which was contributed by the colored people attending the exercises. The white friends on the platform did not fail to respond generously to the call for help. It was a pleasing sight to see the colored people of the community bring forward their freewill offering to help educate the boys and girls of their race.

As soon as the collection was taken up the audience, on account of overhanging skies, removed to the auditorium in the upper story of Carnegie Building. Here the program was continued without further interruption while there was a heavy rainfall without.

HAMLIN'S FINE ADDRESS

After an introduction by Mr. Villard, Gov. Hamlin told of how he had heard a great deal of the school through the president of its board. He expressed himself as pleased with the opportunity to be present and to make a short talk. His address in substance included the following:

The young man when starting out in life often doubts whether after all an education and training are worth while. He does not realize as do older people that a life of contentment is what must be worked for. The question is whether the young man is going out into the world for selfish gains or for community building. Sympathy is the great

OBTAIN PROFIT FROM THE FARM WOODLOT

An Old Woodlot Which is Overgrown with Very Little Grass and No Young Timber.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. A cash return for the wood grows on the farm woodlot is just as possible as a profit on other farm crops. Farmers often lose sight of this fact, mainly because timber requires only a small amount of labor but a long period of years to bring it to a marketable condition.

Improvement of the woodlot begins with the cutting out of all dead and diseased timber. Then the mature merchantable trees should be removed, like any other farm crop, when conditions favor a sale. New trees should be planted in the open spaces to grow up and fill in the forest canopy and encourage the growth of tall, straight timber.

Woodlots may be divided into two classes, each determined by the character of the stand. On one type, the trees are a second growth of approximately the same age and it is found that undesirable species are crowding out valuable trees, the former should be cut to allow the unhampered growth of the better quality timber. White timber taken out in this cutting will rarely pay directly for its removal, the resulting enhancement in value of the remaining stand makes the work a good investment. The presence of dead or dying trees in the stand, a very dense interlocked crown cover, stems very slender in proportion to their height, or apparent stagnation in the height growth, all indicate that a thinning is needed. This usually is done when the stand is from 15 to 20 years old. The operation is similar to principal to thinning any other farm crop where it is desired to obtain a few good plants rather than many of poor quality. The owner should use the ax with care, removing only trees which crowd others and cause the great competition for sunlight. Material removed in a thinning is valuable for fence posts and poles and should pay for the operation. As a rule, not more than one fifth to one-fourth of the trees should be removed at one time. Grapevine, ivy and woodbine, and similar climbers which have grown into the ice should be cut out by severing their main stems near the ground.

In the second type of woodlot the trees vary greatly in age and height and the stand is largely dominated by old trees whose tops show of the sunlight and retard the growth of younger trees beneath. Such a tract should first be cleared of dead and diseased timber. Next, the mature living trees should be removed. This should be delayed, however, until sufficient reproduction is started in the openings made in the first operation, and marketing conditions permit a satisfactory sale. Heavy stands composed almost wholly of mature trees should not be removed: all at once unless the owner expects to provide for the new crop by planting. The old trees should be taken off in two or three successive cuttings at intervals of several years, each cutting taking from one-third to one-half the trees. These cuttings allow the remaining trees to receive more sunlight and thus encourage them to produce more seed. Neither of the first two cuttings should be so heavy as to encourage the growth of weeds or grass on the forest floor. The third cutting should be made after the seedlings are established and there is no further need for protection of the old trees.

Scattered old trees, suppressing valuable young growth, often will be found in woodlots. Such trees will never be of much value for lumber and their widespread habit often results in the suppression or killing of the young and better-formed seedlings, which frequently may be of considerable value. It is best in such cases to remove the old trees at once.

Pasture and timber production cannot be practiced on the same area, except to the disadvantage of each, and the combination will not be as remunerative to the owner as the practice of either one separately. Cattle, horses, sheep or goats eat young seedlings, trample them out, or brush against them and break them off. Hogs eat the seed and thus prevent reproduction from starting, or root young seedlings out of the ground. The existing growth is damaged through the trampling or wounding of the roots and the compacting of the soil so that it is impervious to water. Horses should be kept out of the woodlot entirely because they often peel the bark from trees and eat the young shoots. When young growth is not desired, a few head of cattle are permissible, provided, however, that the ground is not soft when they are turned in. Hogs may be used to aid reproduction before the time for the seed to fall. They will root up the ground and thus put it in good condition for receiving the seed. Goats and sheep should be allowed in the woodlot only when it is necessary to clear up brush of undesirable species.

Care should be taken to keep fire from getting into the woodlot. This destroys the fallen leaves and accumulated litter of several years, thus doing away with the very material with which the trees enrich their own soil. Damaged-over ground becomes exposed, evaporation is greater, and more of the rain and melted snow runs off the surface. Leaf or grass fire usually destroy the young seedlings up to one inch in diameter and also do great damage to other trees in the stand, especially by making conditions favorable for the entrance of rot-producing fungi.

DOES DECENCY PAY?

When We Look Around Carefully We Find Things Are Not So Bad.

(Woman's Home Companion) Some of us get discouraged at times by what we see around us, and are apt to wonder "whether decency pays." We see indecent plays and moving pictures thrive; erotic books sell by the thousands and women give the impression, in their dress, that they are not as careful of standards as they might be. Of course there is a basis for all this thinking; it is idle to deny it. But when we make a careful stock-taking things are not so bad as they seem.

Indecent plays thrive and erotic books sell, but that is not a new condition; it was always thus and ever will be. There are persons who like that sort of thing, and that kind of person will always be with us, do what we may. You can't wash out the entire human mind. But for every woman who is careless in her dress there are hundreds who are careful; the trouble is that the latter do not attract the eye, while the former do.

Some of the most successful plays at the theaters last winter were as clean as a hound's tooth and as sweet as a field of clover in June. Books there were sold by the hundreds and thousands that were as good and uplifting as any others ever published. The "movies" had their share of the best that has ever been offered.

There is a clean side to life; it isn't all smirched. It couldn't be. The American people wouldn't stand for it. Things get a bit bad at times, and then they pick up and get better. But very bad they never remain for any length of time. It isn't America. The man who says that decency doesn't pay doesn't see straight. He confuses the fringe and the whole cloth; a smattering of people here and there, but not the American people. Not for one minute!

Through the kindness of Montgomery, Ward & Company, of Chicago, George Peabody College for Teachers is able to offer forty scholarships to home demonstration workers and canning club organizers in the South. The scholarships are divided into two groups, the first with a value of $50 and the second with a value of $25. These scholarships are to be awarded to active and prospective extension workers who wish to attend short courses in the summer quarter (beginning June 15, 1916) or in the winter quarter (beginning Jan. 2, 1917). Appointments will be made upon the recommendation of the national, state and district agents. All correspondence should be addressed to George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

KEEP YOUR COW

The farmer who lets himself be persuaded into selling his cow because of the good market for meat is making a very poor bargain. Milk, eggs and poultry are a part of the food products of the greatest value in preventing pellagra and when a family goes without these and is unable to procure fresh meats, its members are in danger of contracting this dreadful malady. Keep a cow and chickens and you have in large measure protected yourself against pellagra. State Board of Health.

THE CONFEDERATE LIVING

Today we of Prince William meet to do honor to the Confederate dead. With reverent spirit we listen to eulogy and song and with moistened eye watch the school children decorate the graves of our fallen heroes. Of those who faced death for us in '61 to '65, of those who stayed at home in that trying time and nurtured the little children of that day, only a few remain, but those few we cherish as our greatest treasures. To them as well as to those who have gone before is due great honor on this Confederate Memorial Day.

GOVERNOR HAMLIN'S ADDRESS

It is not often we hear a more practical, thorough-going and in every way helpful address than that delivered by Charles S. Hamlin, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, at the commencement exercises of the Manassas Industrial School Tuesday afternoon. It was a talk suited to the occasion, teeming with advice for the everyday guidance of those who, while serving in subordinate positions yet dictate very largely, by their mode of working, the shaping of their future. It is just such advice as Governor Hamlin gave that should be taken seriously to heart by both the white and colored people of the community. It is advice based on actual experience and for that reason is well worth following.

THEY EXPECT A BIG DINNER

You who are fathers, wake up. Your day is coming. It will be here Sunday. They are always celebrating some sort of a day. It's either Mother's Day or Children's Day or what not, but now you are to have one all of your own. You are to be a real cock o' the walk for one day no matter how henpecked you are. For congress has said that the first Sunday in June each year is yours.

How is Father's Day observed? The emblem is a rose, irrespective of color. But living fathers want something besides this. They want you boys and girls who are away to come home for the day. They want you to write home if you can not come. There is another thing that every one of them wants—a big Sunday dinner followed by a family chat. Try to humor the "old man" by coming home and helping him partake of that good old-fashioned dinner. Mother will be glad to see you, too, and brothers and sisters will extend you the glad hand. Sunday is Father's Day. Now don't go and forget about it.

VALUE OF EDUCATION OF TODAY

At this season of the year when institutions of learning are closing their doors for the summer vacation, when our boys and girls are coming home from college and boarding school, we are prone to give some thought to this question of education. Every one of us realizes that it is a question of great importance. Every one realizes that upon its merit depends very largely the success and future of our country.

The United States has taken the lead in educating youth and she has gained world supremacy thereby. The United States is the only nation that has spent more on education than on armies and navies—nearly 500 millions a year. And in contrast with this liberality of our country in the matter of education we need only look at the nation to the south of us. What is the matter with Mexico? One thing and only one—ignorance. Were her people educated there would be no such instability of government as has characterized that country for many years. But how does our educational system measure up to the needs of the people of today?

There are those who say that youth, especially boys and girls who never get beyond the high school, should be educated along practical lines so that on leaving school they can make a living for themselves. And this is a point worth considering. The solution of this problem is being sought and in some places is being nearly arrived at. To balance off this effort are conservative men and women who like to see Latin and Greek and other like "necessary" subjects given first place and never eliminated from the course of study. Between the two tendencies we are due to work out an educational system which will be of even greater value to our country than the present. Overlooking the weak points of present day education let us see wherein its great value lies, for none denies that it is of great value.

The great thing that our educational system is doing is the developing of leaders. We fail in a large measure to teach the boy and girl to make a living—they must learn this for themselves—but we teach them how to think clearly, to live wisely and to serve their fellow men in the fields of uplift. In the early days of the republic it was all we could do to get leaders for the nation as a collective whole. As the institutions of learning increased in number leadership was also developed for the larger centers, but now, with the unprecedented opportunities offered even the son of the poor man to get an education if he is willing to make the effort, leadership for the small towns and rural communities is fast becoming a reality. If our present system of education is furnishing us leaders for every section of the country it is certainly of great value.

Other great service the schools and colleges of today are rendering our people. They are teaching them how to live. Too many of our people, especially the poor and ignorant, are not living; they only exist. Education is doing a wonderful work among the children of these families. It is pointing a way out. It is showing them that there is something in life besides bread and a few clothes and the gratification of animal pleasures. They are being taught to appreciate the beautiful flowers by the roadside, the sweet music of the birds and the wonderful spectacle of the milky way. It's not always easy to teach a people these things but our present educational system is gradually doing it.

Are you justified in utterly condemning present day methods of teaching? Can you not see that a wonderful work is being done even in the rural districts? There is room for improvement but this improvement can not be expected until the taxpayer is ready to pay for it. We must not expect everything of our schools. If they are giving us leaders, if they are teaching us how to live, they are due our praise and should receive our loyal support at all times.

THE SEASON OF FLOWERS

Of what use are flowers, anyway? One can not eat them. One can not run them through a machine and turn out clothing. They must be of some use else they would not be so carefully cultivated as to be in such profusion at this time, the season of flowers. We see them everywhere we turn. If we did not love them we would become disgusted with the great abundance of blossom found on every hand. Yes, flowers can be included among man's most priceless possessions. But why?

Let us follow a little tot. For the first time in his life he has been turned loose in a flower garden in full bloom. See how he is instantly attracted by Nature's display of color and sweet odors. He wanders from flower to flower and gazes fondly on the scene before him. As he grows a little older he delights in gathering the wild flowers of early spring and before many more years he is tenderly expressing his admiration of a little damsel by shyly passing to her a bouquet of home-grown roses. In his early manhood he takes that little damsel (now grown to sweet womanhood) unto him as wife and his gift to her is flowers, most beautiful and delicate. Throughout life these little jewels on the breast of Nature continue to play a conspicuous part in his life. He gazes upon them often and they seem to speak a fair language to him. In an unknown tongue they seem to tell him that after all life is worth while. The final day comes. Our lover of flowers passes to the great beyond and we are left to pay him tribute. How is this best done? By banking the newly-made grave with the flowers he loved so well.

Do you think flowers are of any use? Are people foolish who spend a great deal of time on the cultivation of roses, pansies, peonies, and geraniums? To the ultra-practical flowers may be of little use, but to the man or woman who has a soul in sympathy with the best in life the love of flowers is of vital importance. We love flowers and we hope you do.

A WARNING TO TOWN DOGS

Every canine of Manassas takes notice. From yesterday on the law says that you must carry around your neck on a collar a license tag showing that your tax has been paid. You must do this or give up your life or leave town for good. If you had rather die than leave Manassas tell your friends of your decision so that they will be prepared for the shock that may come at any time. If your master cares very much for you he is going to see that you are fitted out as the law directs. If he neglects to put a license tag around your neck our advice is to skip town at once and forget all about the good old days of yore. No dog without a license tag around his neck is going to see a good time around this old place any more. Sergeant Wine's bullets hurt awfully when they hit and the hurt is not the worst thing about them—they often kill.

GRIT ALWAYS WINS

Grit is the thing that counts. We all know young men who are hanging around, waiting for father to slip out of his old shoes. As if a pair of old shoes ever made a man out of a loafer! Why, father's shoes are ten sizes too big for any man that thinks money somebody else has earned will make him a gentleman!

Grit is what these young chaps need, whether they know it or not. The day will come when the only man the world will count worthy of its respect will be he who does things, even if he is forced to grit his teeth hard to keep back the groan of pain.

Folks used to think that the only real soldier was the man who marched away to the sound of fife and drum, to shoot and kill and destroy. It is not so—Farm Life.

thing which binds one man of another and this we must strive to have.

There is one thing that ought to be impressed upon the mind of every young person—always do your best work on any task you undertake. Go about it as if it were the only thing you would ever have to do. Success will then come.

Above all, in the struggle of life be content. One man has as much trouble as another, even though it does not always appear so. Never be indolent. Strive in every way to advance, but do the task at hand and be content.

There is no such thing as happiness in this world. Men and women by a life of sacrifice for others may approach it, but no one is perfectly happy. By helping others you help yourselves.

When the roll of honor is called men in uniform are going to step forward, but for every uniformed hero there will be ten thousand in working clothes. The real hero is the man who lives life as it should be lived.

CROSBY ON "FRIENDSHIP"

Mr. Crosby, who has traveled in nearly every country on the globe, made an address on "Friendship" which will long be remembered by his hearers. He told of incidents in Tibet and the wilds of Africa which proved and brought very closely home to him the real meaning of friendship. He emphasized the friendship of Abraham Lincoln and of Jennie Dean, founder of the school—friendship of helpfulness and need.

There is a great problem before the white and black races of this country, a problem which has never been paralleled in all history. We must first get the basis of friendship and then we can solve all difficulties. We must wipe out the spirit of animosity and then we can remove mountains.

SHORT TALKS BY OTHERS

Mr. McAneny, who is deeply interested in the school, made a short talk. Mr. Rice complimented the school on the fine work it was doing and gave special praise to the choral work. Mr. Battle expressed his pleasure at being present and told of his close interest in every undertaking connected with the Industrial School. Judge Nicol praised the discipline of the student-body and the efficiency of its graduates and Mr. Meetze promised to do all he could for the education of the colored race as well as for the white. In closing he urged the setting up of character as the supreme thing to strive after and said that while book-learning ought to be sought after character was of far greater importance.

REMARKS BY MR. VILLARD

Mr. Villard told of some plans for the future. He said that the school was just getting in a position to carry its good work into adjoining counties. At a meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday morning it was voted to extend the teachers' training course to a four-year course, beginning May 1, 1917. An interesting and very encouraging fact was brought out at the trustees' meeting and that was that for the past session three of the women teachers of the school have been serving from nine to five every school day without one cent of compensation. Mr. Villard presented diplomas to twelve graduates of the academic-normal course, and the twenty-first annual session of the Manassas Industrial School for Colored Youth came to a fitting close.

It is estimated that 140,000,000 people now speak the English language, 51,000,000 the French, 75,000,000 German, 33,000,000 Italian, 42,000,000 Spanish, 13,000,000 Portuguese and 75,000,000 Chinese.

D. J. ARRINGTON ELECTED

Successor to Former Councilman Wheeler Chosen—No License on Barber.

The vacancy in the town council created by Wm. M. Wheeler's resignation a few months ago was filled for the remainder of the unexpired term by the unanimous election of D. J. Arrington at the regular monthly meeting of the council on Monday evening in the town hall. Among the other important matters acted upon was the revocation of the license tax of $2.50 heretofore collected from proprietors of barber shops.

A number of bills were allowed and ordered paid. The town treasurer and superintendent rendered their reports, which were duly read and filed. The committee on renting the town roller reported the collection of $27.90 insurance to the amount of $10,000 was ordered to be taken out on the boilers at the town's plant.

A permit was granted A. H. Harrell for the erection of a garage to the rear of the store and dwelling which he now occupies. Lieut. George C. Round's petition in regard to the removal of the Grant avenue horse rack was referred to the street committee for report. The petition of F. E. Ransdell for town help in the building of a retaining wall in front of his property, which at the April meeting of the council was referred to the street committee, was on Monday evening referred to the corporation attorney for report.

In the question of making arrangements for the bond issue to be held here Monday to ascertain the voters' desire in the matter of bonding the town for the sum of $20,000 to pay off the outstanding indebtedness, the corporation attorney was instructed to take whatever steps would be necessary.

Those present at Monday evening's meeting were Mayor W. C. Wagener and Councilmen C. M. Larkin, C. R. C. Johnson, H. D. Wenrich, E. R. Conner and A. Spiden.

GOOD FOREIGN CAKES.

These cakes are good to keep and will be appetizing as long as they last.

Labkuchen. — Boil a pint of honey and a cupful of sugar together, cool and add a half cupful of flour. Beat three eggs slightly, add a cupful of brown sugar and stir twenty minutes. Add a fourth of a teaspoonful of cloves, the same of cinamon, a teaspoonful of soda, the grated rind of a lemon and orange, a half pound of chopped almonds, four ounces of sliced citron, a half teaspoonful of nutmeg and two and a half cupfuls of flour; mix all ingredients together and let stand over night, well covered, after rolling out in the form it is to be baked. An extra cupful of flour will need to be added as it is ready for the pan. Frost when baked with powdered sugar and water.

Kisses. — Beat the whites of five eggs until stiff, and a pound of sugar, beat half an hour and add a teaspoonful of vanilla. Drop on a tin and bake in a moderate oven. These cakes may be slit on the side and filled with whipped cream or any desired filling, making a most dainty cake.

Biscuits. — Take four egg yolks, three ounces of sugar; mix together for twenty minutes. Cream three ounces of butter and add it to the first mixture, then add three ounces of flour. Drop on a tin and spread a fourth of an inch thick, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake in a moderate oven.

Peppernuts. — Boil together a can of karo sirup and a cupful of sugar, add a half cupful of butter and a half cupful of lard; when melted add a teaspoonful of soda, then mix with four pounds of flour, three teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, two of cloves, and two of anise. Mix well and make into small balls and bake. They may be dipped in confectioners' sugar and other if desired.

A cake to be fine grained must be well mixed. The butter may be softened but not melted, as the melting of the butter spoils its texture and will spoil the grain of the cake.

Eastern College Now Closed

ferred annually to the best debater by President H. U. Roop was this year won by Chester Graybill, who with Earl Frank last Saturday evening upheld the affirmative of "Resolved. That our national defenses should be substantially strengthened." W. E. McKenney and Walter Moore were the speakers on the negative. The judges were C. J. Meetze, T. E. Didlake, of Charlotte, N. C., and C. A. Sinclair. Before the debate, during intermissions and afterwards, Prof. O. W. Mosher and Miss Ernestine Mozer favored the audience with several good selections on the violin and piano.

The debate, which was on a subject of very timely interest, was not very well attended by the townspeople, owing to several other conflicting attractions. Many good points were brought out and the speech of Mr. Graybill was particularly good. After quite a lengthy deliberation the judges decided in favor of the affirmative and named Mr. Graybill as the winner of the medal. Mr. Sinclair made an announcement of the judges' decision and presented the medal.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON BY PRESIDENT ROOP

"Life—Its Search and Meaning" was the subject of President H. U. Roop's sermon to the graduates Sunday morning. It was perhaps the most carefully thought-out and ably delivered baccalaureate sermon by Dr. Roop since he has been with Eastern. The large congregation spoke warmly of the fine address and at its conclusion many hastened to congratulate the speaker.

The Sunday morning program opened with the singing of the "Gloria" by the congregation, the invocation by Dr. Roop and the singing of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The reading of Luke 12: 1-15 was followed by a violin solo, "Cavatina," by Prof. O. W. Mosher, jr. A prayer by Rev. E. A. Roads and a vocal solo, "Lamb of God," by Mrs. J. C. Dunn, and then came Dr. Roop's sermon. In part the following ideas were presented:

Man has been seeking life, a more abundant life, ever since Adam was driven from the garden of Eden. He has been trying to find out its meaning. The religions of the world bear testimony on this point but all except one are man-made. Our religion, the Christian, is not man-made but God-revealed.

The three views of life can be summed up as to have, to do and to be. Mere possession is not the meaning of life, neither is accomplishment. Life consists in being. Life means knowledge and knowledge means life. The knowledge of God means life eternal. The world was made to display the wisdom, power and grace of God. If we do not see this we are not in harmony with the world and God.

Faith is the one element necessary in life for power and success. Belief is life itself. Man becomes what he believes and thus molds his character, the supreme thing in life, the only thing that endures. Now character is a creation of one's own effort. There is no such thing as inherited character and weakness—it's a thing controlled by us.

He who has a disposition to be delighted with little things has a vast capacity for enjoyment. The trouble with most of us is that it takes something big to please us. We are transformed by the things we love, therefore, we should love only the good, the beautiful and the eternal.

Life means service. A wealthy woman, who was a regular attendant upon a certain specialist, was one day given the following prescription: "Do something for somebody." The prescription was followed and she soon grew happy and well from her new "tonic." Happiness consists in serving others.

Face life with earnestness, eagerness and reverence. The life that opens before you (the class of 1916) is a life worth living, for you are men and women with that priceless heritage, a college training. At best life is somewhat a disappointment, but you are qualified to make the most out of it. Each of you should consecrate yourself to some mission in life and thus aid in the building up of the permanent.

At the conclusion of Dr. Roop's sermon the congregation arose and sang, "How Firm a Foundation." The benediction was then pronounced by Rev. Roads.

DR. J. C. PALMER ADDRESSES CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

The address of Dr. J. C. Palmer, pastor of the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, Washington, before the Christian associations on Sunday evening was a very able one. On account of the inclement weather only a small congregation was assembled. The campus praise service, which was to have taken place just before the 8 o'clock service, had to be called off on account of the bad weather.

Dr. Palmer in his fine address told of the brevity of the statements in the Bible—how everything is told simply and in a few words. The laws of God as given to Moses are included in ten commandments while the laws of the state of Virginia fill volumes and volumes. The importance of laying a good foundation for life was greatly emphasized and also the value of building a worthy structure.

Several hymns were sung during the course of the evening, solos were rendered by Miss Carrie Fetzer and Mrs. J. C. Dunn and a duet by Mrs. Roop and Miss Isabel Kelley. Rev. Alford Kelley gave a prayer.

MONDAY'S TENNIS MATCH BROKEN UP BY STORM

What promised to be a fine tennis match was broken up by the storm of Monday afternoon. Eastern won the doubles from Technical High School of Washington and the playing of the singles was under way when the rain began to fall. One set of singles, in which Eastern was represented by Landis, had been played and won by Technical.

The second set was begun with Mosher playing for the local college but this set was not finished. Thus came to an end Eastern's tennis season for 1915-16.

SENIORS GIVE "KINGDOM OF HEARTS" MONDAY

The best play of the year at Eastern was "The Kingdom of Hearts," which was given Monday evening before a fair-sized audience. An admission charge of 25 cents was made, proceeds from which were used to augment the class gift to the college. After seeing the play there was none who did not feel well repaid.

Between fifteen and twenty students took part in the play. Not a single time throughout the three acts was any prompting done and everything passed off smoothly. Every actor did well and all who took part are due congratulations, but special mention must be made of the good acting of Misses Smith, Mozer and Bushong and Messrs. Martin and Dale.

SENIOR CLASS DAY PROGRAM TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Senior Class Day program was held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. L. Glenn Saunders, class president, spoke. Dr. H. U. Roop made several remarks and the class poem by Miss Louise Rayland was read. After the informal program a social function was held. The class present to the college is an electric sign to be erected over the entrance gate. The sign is expected to be in place by the beginning of next session.

FINAL PIANOFORTE RECITAL TUESDAY EVENING

"The best pianoforte recital ever given in Manassas" was the verdict of the audience at the final concert of the advanced students of the piano and voice departments given on Tuesday evening. With the exception of one vocal number rendered by Miss Carrie Fetzer and a violin and piano piece by Profs. Mosher and Gorrell, the entire program was given by pupils of Prof. Glenn C. Gorrell, director of the pianoforte department of Eastern. Every number reflected the greatest credit upon the director and at the close of the program he was showered with congratulations.

The following, in addition to those mentioned before, took part in Tuesday's program: Misses Margaret Roop, Nancy Abbott, Mabel Jones and Ruth F. Payne, of Faith Church, and Dr. Alfred Prescott. The playing of Miss Payne was especially complimented as was that of Miss Jones and Alfred Prescott.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS BY DR. A. B. STATTON

The commencement address on Wednesday morning was delivered by A. B. Statton, of Hagerstown, Md., who took the place of Congressman Jas. B. Aswell. Mr. Aswell wrote President Roop a few days previous to the commencement that he would not be able to attend on account of important business before congress requiring his presence in Washington. Other features of the exercises was the delivery of honor orations by three of the graduates, several excellent musical numbers and the presentation of diplomas and conferring of degrees by President Roop.

The program was opened with music by the college orchestra, which was followed by the invoking of God's blessing by Rev. Alford Kelley. Miss Margaret Roop and Prof. Glenn C. Gorrell gave a two-piano piece and then came the honor orations.

W. E. McKenney gave "Some Advantages of the Small College," the same oration he had delivered a few days before in competing for the orator's medal; Miss Rayland's oration on "The Social Task of the Church" was read by Miss Patterson on account of the absence of Miss Rayland, who was called home on account of her father's paralysis.

L. Glenn Saunders had as his subject "Changed Conditions Demand Changes." A composition for the violin and piano from Grieg was then pleasingly rendered by Profs. Mosher and Gorrell, after which Dr. Statton was introduced.

Dr. Statton had as his subject "The Kind of Vision Needed for the Age." He said that three things must be given particular attention—taste, judgment and conscience. Taste, according to the speaker, is very largely a matter of training; judgment, a matter of experience, and conscience a matter of standards. Dr. Statton's discourse was in part as follows:

If there is one thing needed today it is a training of conscience. Some people seem to think that conscience is some mysterious thing that is not affected by environment and training. But take the child brought up in the slums of a big city and you will find his conscience has been entirely changed by his training.

Men and women of today so often neglect their obligations. They will join the church and subscribe to the most sacred of vows and soon as they are out of the building seem to forget all about their profession of faith. We talk of the big obligations of life but boys and girls, men and women ought to keep the little obligations met with in everyday life.

There are four laws controlling the development of conscience. 1. Good standards. 2. Use your conscience on yourself. 3. Have a forward looking capacity. 4. Obey your conscience. No conscience can be developed without good standards. Apply what your conscience tells you is right to your own life and don't worry so much about the other fellow. Never look backward. If it had been intended that we were to look backward we would have been given eyes in the back of our heads. The conscience is the moral eye and it must look to the future. Only by obeying your conscience can you expect it to be of value to you.

Miss Mabel Lee Jones and Prof. Gorrell played a concerto and after this President H. U. Roop conferred degrees and presented diplomas.

The following announcements were made in regard to the primary classes of the academy in charge of Mrs. J. E. Jordan: Garnett Brown, Armistead Sinclair, Anna Sinclair and Fannie Ransdell did not miss a single day throughout the entire session and were on time at every class. Fannie Ransdell won the medal for the 6th grade, Garnett Brown for the 5th and Armistead Sinclair for the 2nd.

COL. JOHN S. MOSBY DEAD

Leader of Famous Rangers Expired in Washington Hospital Decoration Day.

(Alexandria Gazette) Col. John S. Mosby, leader of Mosby's Rangers during the Civil War, died at Garfield Hospital, Washington, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Interment was made yesterday at Warrenton, Va., the former home of the deceased.

Col. Mosby was born on his father's plantation of Edgemont, Powhatan county, Va., on Dec. 6, 1833.

He was graduated from the University of Virginia in 1852, when he was but 19 years old. Immediately he returned home, but growing restless he entered the Virginia bar.

At the outbreak of the Civil War, Mosby, then a young lawyer, enlisted as a private in the First Virginia Cavalry of which J. E. B. Stuart, later the leader of the entire Southern cavalry force, was colonel.

Mosby was at the first battle of Manassas, but took no active part in the fighting.

Mosby, whom Stuart, struck with his military capability, had attached to his staff, had been sent by his commander to reconnoiter the flanks of the enemy.

Acting upon the idea, Stuart, with two regiments, made his celebrated "ride around McClellan," which so dampened the spirits of the North.

THE WORKINGMANS' PSALM

The Politician is my shepherd. I shall not want for anything during the Campaign.

My cup of beer runneth over. He inquireth concerning my family, even into the fourth generation.

Yes, though I walk through the mud and rain to vote for him and shout myself hoarse when he is elected, straight way he forgetteth me, although I meet him at his own house he knoweth me not.

SATISFACTION

I hired a man to hoe my squashes; he came, in gauntlets and goloshes, at the appointed hour; he threw his coat upon some boulders, and rolled his shirt-sleeves to his shoulders, and hoed with vim and power.

STATEMENT

It appearing there are in circulation many rumors in connection with the controversy which has arisen with Mrs. Emma Manuel and Mrs. Emma A. Akers and the Board of Supervisors and Palmer Smith, the road superintendent for Gainesville, relating to Page Land Lane road, and in order to correct any erroneous statements in regard thereto, a copy of the Board of Supervisors order, made July 28, 1913, is herewith given, as follows:

VELMA LEONE CHANDLER

Lived One Week After Coming to The Land of Birds and Flowers.

Miss Velma Leone Chandler, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Chandler, of Minnesota, died last Friday morning at Buckhall after a short illness from tuberculosis.

Miss Chandler was born in Oak Dale, Howard county, Iowa. At an early age she removed with her parents to Washburn county, Wis., where she attended school.

In October, 1914, Miss Chandler came to Virginia, but later moved to Rochester, Hewitt and Le Roy, all in Minnesota.

Surviving the deceased are a father and mother and one brother, Vance; many other relatives, and friends in every place in which she has lived.

In memory of my beloved daughter, Velma Leone Chandler, who departed this life May 26, 1916, aged 16 years, 7 months and 13 days.

Oh, bitter tears, why do you fall Above her form so cold and still? Her spirit heard the Master's call. It was His will.

To her the summons came at morn. Her work was finished ere she died. While we press on, with hearts all torn, 'Till eventide.

Why was she taken in her prime From loving heart to wither and to pine? The answer comes "It is God's time His will be done."

We'll miss her morning, noon and night, Her place no other one can take, But in a world of glory bright She will awake.

'Tis but a few short years at most, Upon the shores of time so drear, 'Till we shall join the heavenly hosts, And be with her. MOTHER.
