

CLIFTON

Lieut. Nicklin came out from Washington Tuesday, March 4th, to talk to the School League and neighborhood on the movement. Lieut. Nicklin outlined the Boy Scout movement from its earliest beginning to the present time. He gave some of the opinions of great men on the movement. After Lieut. Nicklin's address the names of the boys who were willing to join the Boy Scouts were taken by Miss Holmes, principal of the school. Sixteen boys gave their names. A meeting was held for formal organization Tuesday, March 11.

Mr. W. H. Richards, Jr., and mother went to New York last week to meet Lieut. Walter A. Richards, who arrived from France Friday. They report the Lieutenant looking fine and in very good shape, except he hasn't any control of his left arm. The surgeons hope to be able to give him the use of that member in the future by an operation of bone grafting to take the place of some of the bone lost by Lieut. Richards, there having been more than forty splinters of bone removed from the wound.

Lieut. Richards' pockets and clothes were well supplied with bullets when he was undressed, more than a score being counted, giving some idea of the rain of lead at the Argonne Forest battle, which is considered the worst of the war.

Lieut. Richards spent four days in the death chamber some time after being wounded, and it was only the heroic giving of blood by another lieutenant, for transfusion to Lieut. Richards veins, that brought him out of the chamber to recover.

Lieut. Richards hopes to visit his parents here probably the last of this week and eventually expects to be sent to Camp McPherson, Georgia, where his wound will be treated until ready for the final operation of bone grafting.

The Young People's Club met at the home of Miss Ruth Quigg Friday night, March 7th. The officers of this club are Robert Buckley, president, Miss Maud Wood, vice-president, Miss Nina Ford, secretary and Paul Quigg, treasurer. The meetings are to be fortnightly. Judging by the attendance, it is a popular movement. There were about forty persons at the second meeting, while the first meeting was only a small number short of that number.

Miss Isabel Kelley, of Manassas, took dinner at Ives's, the Florence Critchfield Mission, Tuesday, March 4th. In the afternoon she gave the girls some literature and talked informally to them, and then played the piano and sang for them and with them for some little time.

Mr. R. B. Buckley has been named by the Clifton Branch of Fairfax Chapter of American Red Cross a member of the finance committee to plan what share the chapter will take if any, of the expense of the County Health Campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Cross and Miss Lois Cross were recent visitors to Mrs. Lucy Payne and sister, Miss Mollie Cross. Mr. Cross and family are moving to Oklahoma to make their future home in that state.

Four more of Clifton's boys have recently returned from France and have been honorably discharged from the army, and are home again. They are Earl Ambler, Norman Davis and Young Smith, and a young Green, the latter being colored.

Miss Randall, assistant principal of the school, spent the week-end at her home near Frederickburg.

Miss Osborne spent the week-end at her home near Haymarket.

Miss Holmes spent Saturday in Washington.

Messrs. Ford Brothers had the misfortune to lose their old gray horse the first of this week. He was quite old, which was very likely the only cause of the death.

Mrs. Sauber is convalescing, after an attack of the "flu."

Jesse M. Jones, Director Extension work in Virginia: "The way The Star has lined up with the extension divisions of the Virginia and Maryland agriculture colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture is extremely gratifying and is to be highly commended. In this way the most practical and up-to-date information will go upon the agricultural pages of The Sunday Star."

Every Farmer who is looking for bigger and better results in Farming should read the Farm Page of The Sunday Star.

SHALL PRINCE WILLIAM BE ONE OF THE TWENTY COUNTIES?

The attention of the people of Prince William is urgently called to the movement now under way to secure the inclusive Health Campaign offered by the State and United States Governments to the first twenty counties willing to contribute to the work.

The campaign will include a thorough-going fight by a State Commission in each of the selected counties against influenza, typhoid, and all related diseases, and also a complete medical inspection of the schools.

An invasion of Asiatic cholera now raging in East Europe is also feared by the government authorities, and preventive measures would be insured by this campaign against the coming of this dreadful disease, more deadly even than influenza.

The first twenty counties to put up $1,000 each as against the $1,000 offered by the state and federal boards will be selected for this campaign.

Six counties have already agreed to provide the necessary funds, our neighbor, Fairfax, being among the six.

Without medical inspection our schools are often breeding places of disease during epidemics. It has been estimated that 90 per cent of infectious diseases could easily be prevented by school medical inspection.

In the selective draft during the Great War 700,000, or more than 30 per cent of the young men examined were rejected because of physical defects due to want of medical oversight during their school life.

In recent health surveys made in Virginia and elsewhere, the percentage of anemic children, of those with defective eyesight or hearing, with adenoids, diseased tonsils or tuberculosis was much larger in the rural than in the city schools, owing to the general lack of medical supervision in the country schools.

In Virginia alone, there are 35,000 cases of tuberculosis. One out of every five deaths of young persons under twenty, occurring annually in Virginia, is caused by this dreadful disease. Most of this loss and suffering could be easily prevented if the sanitation of the ordinary school room and the ordinary home were more under the control of the health authorities.

Medical inspection of the schools, including the services of a school nurse, could in large measure do away with all this needless loss of health and life; and would immeasurably increase the chances of a happy and successful life on the part of the generations of children now growing up.

The schools of the county, the Red Cross and the women's clubs have all been asked to help to obtain this Health Campaign for Prince William. The Board of Supervisors is authorized by the Legislature to make appropriations for health work and would doubtless be willing to aid in obtaining this campaign, if the people express their interest and desire to have it.

The people of Prince William, and, in particular the school patrons, are urged to show their interest by contributions, or by entering into the ranks of the various organizations now working to raise the funds to secure the government appropriation.

What we do must be done quickly, as we must be able to pledge the $1,000 by the last of March. Contributions will be received through the schools, the Red Cross and the women's clubs.

SMOKING TOBACCO FACTS FROM THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA

The Use of Flavorings Determines Difference in Brands

The Encyclopaedia Britannica says about the manufacture of smoking tobacco: "On the Continent and in America, certain 'sauces' are employed, the use of the 'sauces' is to improve the flavor and burning qualities of the leaves." Which indicates that a smoker's enjoyment depends as much upon the flavoring used as upon the tobacco.

In February Mr. G. Raymond Ratcliffe received from the Treasury Department a strong appreciation of his work last year as county director of the War Savings Stamp Campaign, and an urgent request that he continue his effective efforts during 1919. Mr. Ratcliffe has been obliged to refuse the request and has recommended Hon. C. J. Meetze for the position. The matter has not been definitely settled, but it is likely that Mr. Meetze will be appointed.

First Assistant Postmaster General J. C. Koons has advised postmasters that a recent act of congress permits discharged soldiers to retain clothing and equipment which they take away with them and that, therefore, postmasters should not accept parcels containing these articles for return to the War Department. This fact is not generally known by even discharged soldiers, nor do they all know that they are entitled to $300 extra pay when mustered out of the service.

Mrs. R. M. Weir and children had, as some one in town expressed it, a "fortunate misfortune" on Tuesday afternoon. Their buggy was upset, but they were not injured, although thrown from the vehicle. James Weir, with his little sister, Alice, had driven to Buckhall, for Mrs. Weir, who teaches school there. On the return trip they had reached the house of Mr. F. R. Saunders, when a dog appeared in the road and frightened the horse. The right line was broken, making it impossible to control the animal. The buggy was run up a bank and overturned, throwing the occupants to the ground, but all escaped safely. Rev. H. Q. Burr was in the vicinity and came to the rescue. He drove the horse to the stable, while Mrs. Weir and children continued their journey by walking. They had enough of buggy riding for that day. We congratulate the trio on their successful escape.

Dr. B. F. Iden, who has had much professional experience with the "flu" in other persons, during the epidemic of the last fall and winter, has more recently had personal knowledge of it by being a victim of it. He is now fully recovered and wishes his patients to know that, being seventy-four years "young," he is ready to serve them day or night, as promptly as when he was forty-seven.

Private D. Bryan Norman, of 161st Infantry of the Supply Company, 41st Division, who went from Camp Lee, on Oct. 26th to France, landed at Brest, on Nov. 9th, two days before the armistice was signed. He landed back in New York on Feb. 19 and was sent to Camp Dix, New Jersey, where he was discharged. He returned home on Tuesday, March 4, at 1:15 a. m., having walked up from Quantico. The family were glad to be roused up at such an hour to receive such a welcome guest.

Among the packages of government mended socks, reclaimed by the Red Cross branch throughout the county, left at Mr. A. H. Harrell's store, was a box, containing a pair of white wool, home-made blankets. Mrs. A. W. Prof. Mosher has recovered sufficiently to make a visit to the home of Mrs. Fannie R. Coles and Miss Mollie E. Rixey, where he will soon be up to "concert pitch," physically. Prof. Mosher has given up the school work and will teach two branches at Eastern College until commencement. His violin has continued in good health and our people will again hear its sweet strains.

Urge Governor to Call Extra Session.

Hon. R. C. L. Moncure, after considering the matter, has decided not to be a candidate for Congress this year. IN MEMORIAM
RISON.—In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Sarah E. Rison, who entered the pearly gates three years ago today, March 13, 1916. In God's home of fadeless beauty Mother is now a shining star. Dwelling in that holy city With the golden gates ajar. I only ask to live a Christian, So, when life's course is run, That I may meet my devoted mother In that land beyond the sun.

NEGROES MADE HISTORY

Fifteenth New York Regiment
Colonel German Poe.

Very little has been said or written of the Negro's part in bringing about the end of the war, but a real thrill went through the War Savings Convention at Carnegie Hall on February 21st, when Colonel William Hayward of the 369th U. S. Infantry, the regiment of fighters from the negro population, known as the 15th New York, told of the scrap put up by his boys.

The majority of the enlisted men are from Harlem, and Colonel Hayward said that the way those boys conducted themselves in the last days of the war forms a part of great history which will be written some day.

"In talking to Justice Hughes a few days ago I was astonished to find out that the people in this country did not know what happened in that last big German offensive on the 15th of July," he said. "You see, the Germans had been re-inforced by released prisoners from Russia so that they had their maximum forces. They had broken through the British and it was pretty near disaster. This was east of Rheims. The Germans had also torn through the French at Montdidier, gone through thirty or forty kilos."

Colonel Hayward then explained the old Fifteenth had been turned over to General Gouraud, commander of the Fourth French Army and that his men captured some Germans on the night of the 14th of July, thus learning that the expected attack would be launched upon their front. During the 181 days that the regiment was in the trenches, he said, there were many weeks when there was nothing between the German army and Paris but his regiment. "But that was fair enough," he said, "because there was nothing between us and Berlin except the German army."

"When the French knew this battle was coming," he continued, "their forces did not remain a thin blue line. It seemed that all the soldiers and all the cannon in the world crawled over and took positions back of us. General Gouraud saved the world for civilization, but he took a chance, the greatest chance any soldier ever took in the world. He took his troops out of the front line trenches over a front of fifty kilometers. He abandoned them when he was sure the attack was coming."

"And when this attack occurred he had the Fifteenth New York on one end of that fifty kilo line and the old sixty-ninth New York in the Rainbow Division; on the other hand. And so, when the German fire fell on these front line trenches for five hours and twenty-five minutes, they fell on empty trenches except for the few patrols left in reinforced trenches with signal rockets, gas shells and a few machine guns. Practically all of these came back to us in the morning.

"When the hour for the German infantry came these patrols let off gas bombs and signal rockets and our artillery let loose on the massed Germans. The Germans were literally smashed and never got through to our second line.

"But on the other end they did get through. They crashed into the Rainbow Division and the Sixty-ninth met them hand to hand in some of the most terrible fighting of the war—fighting fit for that terrible battle, the battle that was the turning point of the war."
