$500 IN CASH PRIZES OFFERED FOR STORIES

Soldiers and Their Families Asked for Stories of Children of France.

Nearly every lad who went overseas has an interesting story to tell—pathetic, amusing, or tender—of some child in France. Perhaps it is little Pierre who crept in to eat with him at mess; or Marceline whom he found, white-faced and terror-stricken, in the cellar of a ruined house; or Henri, whose father was killed in the trenches and whose mother was taken to Germany by the enemy; or it may have been Aimee who insisted upon being adopted by the "Americaine."

At any rate, there is always a story and a child. For such stories as these, or simple ones telling of the friendship between the French child and the American soldier, 175 cash prizes are offered.

Conditions of the contest can be secured by writing "The Fatherless Children of France, Room 634, 416 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago." There is no expense attached to entering the contest, which is open to anybody who wants to compete.

SPECIAL ELECTION FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES

County Representative Will Be Elected on Day of Primary—One Name on Ticket.

County Representative Will Be Elected on Day of Primary—One Name on Ticket. (Communicated) It does not seem to be generally understood that on Tuesday, August 5, in addition to the primary election, to nominate democratic candidates to be voted for in the general election in November, there will be a special election held in this county to elect a member to the House of Delegates to succeed Mr. C. J. Moots, who has resigned.

This special election is a thing entirely separate and apart from the primary, although held on the same day, and at the same voting places, and possibly by some of the same officers.

There will be a special session of the legislature beginning August 13, 1919. Mr. Moots resigned from the House of Delegates. Governor Davis issued a writ of election to be held August 5 in this county, to fill the vacancy. Mr. C. A. Sinclair, who had already been declared the democratic nominee for the House of Delegates, to be voted for in the regular election to be held in November, is the only candidate for the vacancy to be filled August 5, and his name is the only one which will appear on the special election ballot.

On the other hand, his name will not appear on the primary ballot, nor will the name of any candidate for the House of Delegates appear on the primary ballot, as Mr. Sinclair has already been declared the democratic nominee.

How to Make America Better.

The above is the title of a series of interviews The Washington Sunday Star is running with leaders of national thought. The purpose is to crystallize into constructive public opinion the great, nation-wide impulse toward better things which is one of the by-products of the world war. The interview next Sunday will be with Hon. Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, and on Sunday, August 3, the views of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, will be given.

THE PEOPLE'S VISION

(Winning oration delivered by Walter S. Smoot, who is a grandson of Elder Smoot, of Occoquan, in the Annual Oratorical Contest of the Washington Literary Society at the University of Virginia, May 18, 1919, for which he was awarded by the Society the "Orator's Medal for 1919.")

Join Bright, the great English commoner, speaking in Birmingham, England, in 1862, thus apostrophized our country, America:

"I have a bright vision before my gaze. . . . I see one vast confederation stretching from the frozen North to the glowing South and from the wild billows of the Atlantic westward to the calmer waters of the Pacific main. . . . From this bright spot shall be proclaimed the peace that shall soften the world and assure happiness through the union of love to all God's people."

Fifty and more years ago, the great vision which America, through her great President, is finally adopting and bringing to fruition and full noon-time brightness. Now, under the storm and stress of war, America has experienced a re-birth of democracy and the birth of a broad and charitable feeling of good will toward all nations. This feeling has bred another great vision—another great American ideal—that of a democratic association of free nations.

This war, so the historians tell us, like most wars, was economic in origin; it came of the conflict of economic and commercial policies. But the war has ended in idealism. A yearning for something higher and nobler has taken the place of any sordid struggle precipitated by the desire to gain material things. Idealism—the faith that the soldiers of the Allies carried the liberties of the world on their bayonets and were the guardians of the rights of mankind—sustained to the last day and the last hour the fighters on the plains of Picardy, as well as the toilers in the shipyards of New England. Now, shall this enthusiasm of soldiers and of artisans give way to the cold skepticism of politician and of statesman trained in an old and dying order, or shall it bear noble fruitage in the realization of the glorious dream of world federation, for which the greatest opportunity is now offered in all the history of the ages?

A hundred years ago, after the fall of Napoleon, there was a sort of attempt to form a League of Nations. I refer to the "Holy Alliance" of the rulers of Austria, Russia, and Prussia—a pact of evil memory, but nevertheless the nearest approach to a world federation that we have ever had. That alliance controlled the destinies of Europe from 1813 to 1848; but it was doomed to fall apart, as fall apart it did, because every single one of its members was an autocratic power and was bent upon making the world safe for autocracy. So, now it is, as I have said, that there has come to the world the opportunity of the ages. Every one of the Allied powers—a constitutional or representative government, with the possible exception of Japan—enjoys a fair share of democracy. The Europe of autocracies which Vienna one hundred years ago controlled by irresponsible monarchs, which is being destroyed, will be controlled by the Naturally, if a League of Nations is formed, the states entering into the world compact must make certain concessions, must give up certain of their sovereign rights for the common good. To me, it seems altogether wise and proper that they should do this. Nations in the past have been but pawns in a great game of international politics, whose ultimate purpose was to gain distinction for the rulers of those nations. But in the future, it is to be hoped that less will be thought of the rival interests of nations and more about humanity throughout the world. Then will it be seen that all nations exist to make the life of the men and women and children in them free, secure, and happy, so that no one nation has the right to insist on its special interests to the hurt of broad interests and aspirations common to all mankind.

Now, barring America's entrance into the League of Nations, so we hear, is the Monroe Doctrine. What is this doctrine? In its origin it simply asserted that independent states—referring especially to the American continents—had the right to go their way without being threatened by intervention, domination, or subjugation on the part of other states. What is this but a principle for which the Allies have been fighting this war—a principle enunciated by the President in promulgating his own war aims which became those of the Nation: "We shall fight for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and free?" Does any one think that by extending this principle, the United States has in any way impaired it? In this principle, the principle which has pervaded the western hemisphere for a hundred years is a sound principle, a good principle, a principle worthy of a great and free nation—why not extend it to the rest of the world? As for our traditional policy of isolation, so called, already in this war the United States, completely abandoning it, has acted in practical alliance with the Great Powers fighting Germany—in fact, has taken the lead in making that alliance stronger by sponsoring unified leadership and control of war materials. Even if she had not already abandoned her historic policy of isolation—wise, perhaps, when the Atlantic Ocean was a great gulf between America and Europe, she would have had to do so under modern conditions of rapid communication and transportation. Isolation is no longer possible; the nations of the world must act together, and this is only possible through formal treaty covenants.

We all remember Washington's warning against "entangling alliances." But what is now proposed? That the United States shall join an European alliance, formed under the old theory of an "armed balance of power" among European nations, and always in danger of getting into armed conflict with another alliance? On the contrary, the proposal is that the United States shall enter a great League of Free Nations—a step toward cooperative world organization and therefore World Peace.

No idea of a council of statesmen in its origin was this plan for a League of Free Nations. The world is sick at heart to see that statesmen have had no vision; and the only vision has been the vision of the people. Statesmen on both sides of the Atlantic criticize and denounce the League of Nations, but the liberated peoples of the Austro-Hungarian Empire and the Turkish Empire call out for it. The tides of the world are rising, and in their majesty they seem to say, in the words of Burns, great poet of humanity, that, though politicians may criticize and statesmen debate, "For a' that, an' a' that, It's comin' yet, far a' that, That man to man the world o'er, Shall brothers be for a' that."

Delicate Mechanism

Despite its scope Swift & Company is a business of infinite details, requiring infinite attention.

Experienced men must know livestock buying with a knowledge of weight, price, the amount and quality of meat the live animals will yield.

Each manufacturing operation must be done with expert skill and scientific precision. A highly perishable product must be handled with speed and care to avoid loss.

Chemists, engineers, accountants, and other specialists are required to take care of our intricate problems.

Alert wisdom and judgment must be used in getting stocks of goods into the open channels of demand through our four hundred branch houses. Branch house organizations must show activity and energy to sell at the market in the face of acute competition from other large packers, and hundreds of small ones.

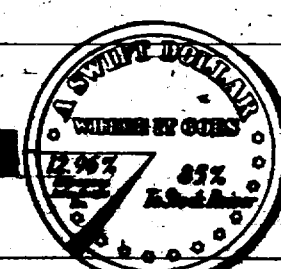

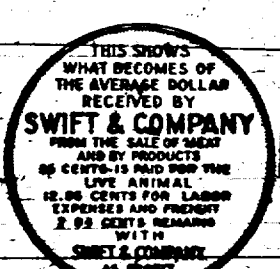

All these requirements of intelligence, loyalty, devotion to the task, are met in the personnel of Swift & Company. Yet the profit is only a fraction of a cent per pound with costs at minimum.

How can the workings of this delicate human mechanism be improved upon?

Do you believe that Government direction would add to our efficiency or improve the service rendered the producer and consumer?

Stealing automobiles seems to be the particular form of lawlessness most popular in the city of Richmond. Sixty automobiles have been stolen and not recovered since January 1, a loss of approximately $48,000.

The state of Ohio agreed to the Dempsey-Willard fight within her borders, but cannot bring herself to permit the showing of the fight in the movies! Is the camera accused of fiction, or is Ohio developing a conscience?

Commissioner G. W. Koener, of the Virginia Department of Agriculture, is mailing out, his July agricultural bulletin. The information contained in the articles on the importance of good, germinable, clean seed, on profits in sheep raising and "Pasture as a Cheap Hog Feed" are very timely and helpful. NOT YET

Many of us are weary of waiting for the promised drop in the high cost of living. Although an armistice has been signed and a peace treaty has been signed, it is difficult to remember that conditions are changing very slowly and it will be a long time before the normal is reached again.

No decided decline in prices can be expected while our surplus, on a close margin, is shipped away. We are still helping to feed the Allied nations and even helping largely to ration the conquered peoples.

Time must be given for better harvests on the other side, as well as for our own. Relief, however, is to be hoped for by the close of the present year.

AN ABLE CONGRESSMAN

The newspapers throughout the state are unanimous in congratulating the Eighth Virginia Congressional District upon having as its representative in Congress, the Hon. R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax.

The district and the state are indeed to be congratulated for Mr. Moore is a lawyer of recognized ability, having been one of the presidents of the Virginia State Bar Association. Besides, he has had legislative experience in the state senate, and was a member of the convention that formed the present constitution of the state. Being a man of attractive personality and an able debater, it is reasonable to expect that he will make a representative of whom the Eighth Congressional District and the state will be proud.—Virginia Star.

TO THOSE WHO STAY AT HOME

You stayed at home? Ah, is it anywhere? Written or said you did not do your share?

The silver chevrons! cast them not aside. But wear them, wear those honor stripes with pride.

You stayed at home, but if you only knew. How we, across the seas, relied on you!

Were we unmindful that, with hearts of flame, You reinforced us, though you never came?

Had it been ours in vain attempt to bleed, You would have come, to help us in our need.

You did come over, for your hearts were there, And thus, more than you know, you did your share.

Whose merit, if by Fate's decree we went? Whose fault, if you by fortune were not sent?

Chance smiled on us, and so, in battle's din; We took the part you would have gloried in.

They saw we fought full well we fought and won. Is that not just the thing you would have done?

If we went bravely through the nether hell, You, who are like us, would have done as well.

SHIP LAUNCHED AT QUANTICO

The Bango, Sister Ship of the Abra, Starts for Hog Island.

The Bango, constructed at Quantico shipyard by the Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron Company, and launched there Thursday, is a sister ship of the Abra, launched at the same place May 31. These are wooden vessels of the Ferris type of 3,500 tons cargo capacity and were changed from the original Ferris style ship to barges.

As the ship started down the ways, gayly bedecked with flags and bunting amid cheers from the crowd, Mrs. Thomas C. Atwood, of Baltimore, wife of the district plant engineer of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, broke a bottle of wine over her bow, christening her Bango. The ship glided gracefully into the Potomac without a hitch of any kind.

The large seagoing tug Barrallton is in waiting to take her to Hog Island shipyard, which is the receiving station for all boats built in this district. The future disposition of this well-equipped yard has not been decided upon by the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Hearing the approach of the fast train as he walked down the track, Mr. Messerole started running, but was struck by the engine of the limited as he was stepping from the track. He was hurled a considerable distance, striking the side of one of the coaches.

Mr. Messerole came to Harrisonburg from New York state, was an active member of the city council for twenty years and was later register for the second ward. He retired from business in 1915.

TO ST. SWITZER:

We've been having funny weather, for at least two weeks, I know. We've had rain and wind and sunshine, the only thing we've missed is snow.

The astronomers all tell us, and of them I don't make fun, That Venus is between us, between us and the sun.

Now, of course they are the wisest of the wisest in the land. But there's one thing in this statement that I do not understand: Why should the weather worry us in the past two weeks it's done.

If Venus is between us, between us and the sun?

But perhaps the sun is jealous of its view upon the world, And objects to having Venus within its vision whirled.

Then let's end this strife and tumult, and the planet with a gun, For Venus is between us, between us and the sun.
