CITY MANAGER PLAN OUTLINED

where the personnel of the council is changing every two years. The progress of an outgoing council may be reversed by the incoming one, you may have undone tomorrow what you have done today, and instead of progress you may have reaction.

The plan is safe and truly democratic. It is less susceptible to wrong and arbitrary action than the old form. It of necessity is sensitive and responsive to the will of the public. It attracts capable men who are willing to give as much of their time as may be necessary for the work and yet it causes no interference with their private affairs. The keynote of the plan is efficiency and economy.

No form is perfect, nothing humanly done is; but some forms are more nearly perfect than others. Any form may be abused if placed in unworthy hands. Pope said this about forms: "For forms of government, let fools contest; What'er is best administered, is best." Another has said: "For policy one must elect, and for efficiency one must appoint."

There is no plan that is a cure-all for all ills, but that government is most fortunate that has the aptest instrument for finding out what its people need and how to serve them best.

Every undertaking must have a head or a leader and I know of none that receives a greater benefit from a good leader than a municipality. A good leader spells success. He will take stock of his town and immediately proceed to set his house in order. I have always thought that the legislative end of all our governments was top-heavy and overdone and that the business end was neglected and abused. Of what benefit is the one without the other? Why, down in Washington they maintain a bureau of efficiency for the purpose of stopping waste and to promote better service and still they may yet have to appoint a bunch of experts to check up the work of this bureau. It is the business end where the medicine must be applied. There must be a specialist to do this work.

Even though a town council be composed of the most capable men, they do not have the necessary time to attend to the administrative work. They get neither pay nor thanks for it. In these days you are lucky if you get what you pay for.

There seems to be no bounds to the service that a city manager may render. A good manager does not only look after the big things but the little ones also. The little things count. It can be truly said of him that he is an official about his people's business.

Since he has been employed by Staunton many valuable and beneficial things have been accomplished. Among the first things he did was to centralize the purchasing and install a modern accounting system. Previously, the purchasing was done by department heads and committee chairmen with no records kept, whatever of purchases and settlements made. There was no check against extravagant or needless buying or erroneous payment of bills. Tom, Dick and Harry could spend the taxpayers' money without being held accountable to any one for it. No bids were received or attention given to the prices paid or to the quality or quantity of merchandise received. I need only to recite a few instances in order to illustrate to you what the change has meant to the city of Staunton.

By investigating the markets the manager saved the city, in one year, over $4,000 on two small contracts. The saving was determined by prices paid by others at that time for similar contracts. In the purchase of small articles he has saved from 25 to 45 per cent by getting competitive bids. A like saving has been effected on printing contracts. On a few small jobs the price was reduced from $30.00 to $16.50, from $2.25 per page to $1.25, notwithstanding the fact that prices had materially increased in the meantime. On one small job the bids ranged from $6.25 to $13.75, and each bid was from a good printer. Numerous claims have been corrected in sums ranging from a few dollars to large amounts. All claims are now carefully examined by the respective department heads and the manager, both of whom are required to approve them before payment is made. The time of the day laborer is kept by the hour and the correctness of it has to be certified to by the time keeper. The employees are paid by checks drawn by the treasurer. There seems to be a feeling on the part of the public that an error made against a town is not wrong, because the public pays for it, but that feeling is losing ground because society is finding out that it does not pay.

An investigation showed that the jailer was being paid a full day's board for each prisoner on the day of his release, which was contrary to the state law. A large sum of money had been lost by the city in this one item. The jail used to have in it an average of about twenty-five prisoners, daily, and at 35 cents the old price, the daily loss was $8.75, making an annual loss of about $3,200. This practice existed from time immemorial. In the charge of the justices for holding lunacy commissions, an over charge of 50 per cent was discovered.

In the construction of public improvements the manager, by doing the work by force account, reduced the price of cement concrete sidewalks from $2.25 per square yard to $1.00. He also has saved from 50 to 75 cents per square yard on hard macadam pavements. On these two items alone the annual saving has been about $4,500. Up until last year the water assessment had been made by another official, but since then the manager has been making the assessment. An investigation showed that the city was selling water for industrial purposes at less than half what it cost to pump it, and that the annual receipts were less than they were about ten years ago. The rates were readjusted and increased, and the management put on an efficient basis, and as a result of the first year's experience the income jumped from $18,500 to $34,100. Useless jobs in various departments have been eliminated and a saving of $5,

GREETINGS
 The Journal, as dean of the Prince William newspaper field, embraces this opportunity to extend a hearty welcome to the Prince William News,
 and to its editor and owner, Mr. Charles W. Wagner. The News, as mentioned elsewhere in this issue, succeeds the Manassas Democrat, a newspaper established here in 1909.

Mr. Wagner received part of his newspaper training while in the employ of The Journal. He is keenly interested in civic affairs and has identified himself with every movement for public betterment during his residence here.

PUBLICITY FOR THE RAT
 One rat in the Valley of Virginia
 has furnished more live argument against his race in a single night than legions of his fellows whose cunning has spared them the publicity and ignominy of being caught. One hundred and ninety-nine little chicks were his victims one night last week in the brooder house of a Valley hatchery at Dayton. The brooder is protected from such invasions by floors and walls of concrete and it is supposed that the guilty rodent entered while the door was open.

Prince William county school children may share away this incident to add fuel to their next drive against the rat.

OUR FOREIGN AFFAIRS
 American foreign policies, as defined by the Wilson administration, apparently have won the stamp of approval from President Harding and his cabinet, in spite of the repudiatory language which characterized the presidential campaign. The American government, now through President Harding, insists upon the ratification of the Colombian treaty; recognition of American rights in the Pacific, including the disposition of the island
 of Yap; no resumption of trade relations with Russia; delay in recognizing the Obregon government in Mexico; approval of the Chinese constitution; holding Germany morally and financially responsible for the war, and holding the allied powers to their financial debt to America.

While the new administration has held the reins for a very brief period, it has come into power at a time when foreign problems are thick upon us and it is truly gratifying to the democrats of America that its action in every instance has been a vindication of the Wilson program in foreign affairs. It is also indicative of the sturdy aim of the Harding administration to hold an all-American attitude above the sway of party politics.

THE LEE HIGHWAY
 The local Lee highway fund lacks $4,000 of its quota of $15,000, which would insure Prince William a place on the new national highway. If this money is subscribed without further delay, work will begin on the Manassas-Greenway road within sixty days,
 according to Mr. E. Lynn Robertson, president of the local highway association.

This is an opportunity for Prince William boosters to assert their public spirit and help to obtain our place on the route. There is no time to lose.

We are told that Virginia spent more money last year on chewing gum than for the education of her children.
 If chewing gum helps in any way to silence the army of rag choppers, let us not question too strongly the wisdom of Virginia's taste.

SERVICE
 I would not stand apart nor dwell
 alone,
 Nor live as one too good to soil my hands;
 I would not guard the soul that is my own
 So closely that it shrinks from life's commotion,
 And seem to go where shame and sorrow reign,
 For fear it, too, may wear a scarlet stain.
 I would not say, "I'm better than thou,"
 And stand aloof when others cry for aid;
 I would put down my shoulder to the plow,
 And join with men, undaunted, un-
 afraid,
 If through the mire with purpose high
 I go,
 How come the mud upon me God
 will know.
 Clean hands at night! That is the pride I seek,
 But let no steam to service through the day;
 Let me go gladly to my grimy task,
 I'll bear the dirt which I can wash away.
 Though deep in mire Life calls on me
 to fight,
 What matter that, if I am clean by night.

LAUGH AND LIVE

John and Witty Sayings From The Liveliest Publications of the Country

A Hard Fall.
 In Boston a man was showing a British visitor the sights of the Hill.
 They were driving past Bunker Hill monument. Not wishing to make any pointed reference to the fact that at one time we had been fighting with our cousins, the Boston gentleman merely indicated the monument with his thumb and said: "Remember Hill."
 The Englishman looked at the hill
 intently and asked: "Was it Mr.
 Bunker, and what did he do to the hill?"
 "You don't understand," said the Bostonian. "This is where Warren fell."
 The Englishman moved his moun-cle into his eye, leaned back, and looking at the top of the towering shaft, remarked hesitatingly: "Killed him, of course?"

Different Oases, However.
 "Daughter, I hope you will go to church this evening. The pastor's subject, 'An Hour with Favorite Hymns,' should be very interesting."
 "I should like to go very much,
 father, but I have an engagement with my own favorite hymn tonight."

"What on earth did that fellow mean when he said he was a peregrinating pedagogue, castigating his itit-errary from the classic Athens of America?"
 "He meant he was a tramp beating
 his way from Boston."

Bambo (calling from jail window)—
 Hey man! What time is it?
Jambo (looking at his watch and then replacing it)—What's the difference?
 You ain't goin' nowhere.

I HAD A FRIEND
 By EDMUND VANCE COOKS
 Author of Important Poems

I had a friend.
 He dabbled in oil,
 And lived like the lilies, unstained by toil.
 I liked the chap, and because of the like
 He let me in on a coming strike.
 The well was down seven thousand feet;
 "They" had suffered the turmoil and the heat
 Of the working-day, and, likely as not,
 They'd be millionaires soon as the thing was shot.
 They needed no money, but maybe could use
 My little investment while waiting the news.
 So I put in my pile, but the oil they got
 Could be carried away in a watering-pot.
 Well, who can tell what the gods may send
 When you bet on oil?
 But I had a friend.

Let the "Wild Cats" Alone

Every now and then somebody calls to ask for our opinion of some get-rich-quick scheme in which he or she has been asked to invest.
 For several years past, the country has been flooded with BONAN-ZAS (?), and many people, TO THEIR SORROW, have put money into them.

Occasionally some good but misguided man, who has already bought a "WILD CAT" stock calls on us seeking information. We like always to be encouraging, but on such occasions we feel very much as we imagine the doctor does who has to tell his patient the worst.

It is for the reason that there are very bad as well as very good securities that we advise prospective investors in any issue to IN-VESTIGATE it thoroughly.

Irvine diZerega, of Washington, is staying at the rectory in Mrs. Gibson's absence to take care of the little folk of the household.

—Miss Mabel A. Cocke, daughter of Mrs. Lucy A. Cocke and sister of Mr. George B. Cocke, of Manassas, is one of a party of thirteen students from the Methodist Bible school at Kansas City, Mo., who will consecrate themselves to missionary service at the eleventh annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Council of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in session at Richmond April 13-20. Mrs. Cocke left on Wednesday for Richmond to be present at the consecration service. Her daughter will spend the summer here before sailing August 2 to enter upon three years' service in Korea. Mrs. Cocke will be the guest of her cousins, Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. Joseph D. Hank, while in Richmond.

—The District H educational conference, recently held at Leesburg, adopted the following resolution in appreciation of the services of Miss Lulu D. Metz, of Manassas, head of the association in the district: "Resolved, That we feel the success of this meeting has been achieved largely through the executive ability and splendid energy shown by Miss Lulu D. Metz, and we take this means to show our appreciation of the same."

—A freight car jumped the track north of Clifton yesterday morning, bumping along on the ties a distance of about four miles, when in the vicinity of Sideburn it struck the engine of a C. & O. train coming in the opposite direction, damaging the cab and injuring members of the engine crew, according to a report which reached here yesterday. The coupling was strong and the first accident was not discovered until the C. & O. was hit.

—The home of Mrs. M. A. Swartz, of Thoroughfare, was totally destroyed by fire on Monday while Mrs. Swartz was in Manassas at the home of Mrs. R. J. Adamson, where she has been employed as housekeeper for several years. The house was occupied by Mrs. Swartz's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Leach, and their four children. The fire started in the upper story, spreading so rapidly that practically nothing could be saved.

—The primary students of the Manassas graded school, under the direction of Miss Grace Moran are rehearsing for a Tom Thumb Wedding to be presented here, with the assistance of a professional director, on Friday evening, April 22, at Conner's Hall. Among the musical numbers to be rendered by the little people are: "Love to Live in Loveland," "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

—Miss Maggie Molair, who lives near Sinclair's Mill, recently possessed a Plymouth Rock chicken with four legs. The chicken was hatched from an ordinary small egg and had two complete sets of hips, one protruding from the side of the original set, which apparently was normally adjusted. It walked on the two legs attached to the main body, one of the extra legs dragging and the other tucked up under its wing. In a few days it was noticed that the extra legs were wasting away and the chicken died at the end of the week.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Buckley, widow of James Buckley, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alta Rhodes, in Basic city, according to a telegram received this morning by Mrs. L. E. Pope. Funeral services will be held at Clifton on Sunday afternoon following the arrival of C. & O. train No. 4. Mrs. Buckley was about seventy-five years old and leaves two daughters and two sons, Mrs. Rhodes, of Basic; Miss Jennie Buckley, of California; Mr. Herbert Buckley, of Washington, and Mr. Mortimer Buckley, of Basic.

—Mrs. W. S. Ryland and children, Mary Hawes and William, will leave Monday for their new home in Richmond, Mr. Ryland having recently accepted a traveling position with a Richmond firm of accountants. Mr. and Mrs. Ryland came to Manassas a few years ago, purchasing a farm near town, which was sold by them to Mr. W. L. Howard, of Rising Sun, Md., and later by Mr. Howard to Mr. T. C. Hubbard, of Bedford county, the present owner. They have been living in Manassas at the Ashford property in Lee avenue.

—The Woman's Auxiliary held their monthly meeting Friday afternoon, Mrs. George C. Round presiding. One new member, Mrs. Frank Gue, was admitted. The possibility of holding community fairs in the fall was discussed and tentative plans were made for a picnic and rally in the summer, when the farmers' unions and boys' and girls' clubs will be invited to unite with the auxiliary. Among the speakers to be invited are Mrs. Henrietta Galvin, Washington home economics specialist, and Dr. I. C. Hill, head of the boys' and girls' club work for the south.

HAYMARKET

A meeting of the Woman's Guild of St. Paul's Church was held at the rectory on Tuesday afternoon. The sum of $75 was reported as the net proceeds of the entertainment held during Easter week. It was voted that the next work of the Guild would be the painting of the rectory, and a committee was appointed to get an estimate of the quantity of paint required and buy the same.

At the close of the business session Mrs. Browne invited the ladies into the dining room, where refreshments were served. Mrs. Clifford B. Boland presided at the tea table.

The Guild will hold semi-monthly sewing meetings in preparation for a bazaar in August.

Mrs. Joseph C. Tallos and children, of New York city, are visiting Mrs. Albert B. Rust.

Rev. Westwood Hutchison, of Manassas, will hold a special service at the Baptist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

A son, Russell Warren Lloyd, Jr., was born on Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Lloyd.

Mrs. Colvert is spending a week in Washington.

Mr. Henry Butler, who is attending a radio school in Washington, was at home for the week-end.

A pleasant social event of last week was a tea given on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Charles J. Gilliss in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Albert B. Rust, at which a number of guests were present. Mrs. Gilliss was assisted in dispensing her hospitality by Mrs. Robert A. Rust, Mrs. Nannie Rust and Mrs. Charles Allen.

The road leading to the Episcopal Church, the condition of which has been nerve-racking to motorists, is being repaired. The work was set in motion by some of the woman residents, one of whom got a carload of cinders donated for the purpose.

There is some talk of a lighting plant for the village. A Red Cross nurse was here on Wednesday for the purpose of looking up disabled soldiers.

000.00 per year effected thereby. Due to the fact that no complete rec- establishment of the manager govern- ment, it is difficult to draw complete comparisons and show accurately the aggregate amount saved, but it can be easily shown that Staunton has a small investment that produces a 15 per cent dividend on its annual budget, to say nothing of the efficient service rendered.

Through the efforts of the manager, the old dilapidated stationary awnings with supports resting on narrow sidewalks and old wooden and tin business signs have been removed and instead of the old unsightly and dangerous awnings, there are attractive and safe awnings, of the collapsible type, and ornamental illuminated business signs. All buildings have been systematically renumbered and all streets designated with a neat and attractive enamel name plate. Rough and unsightly gutters have been made smooth and attractive. Clean-up campaigns have been held and the streets are cleaned and swept regularly and systematically, and the garbage removed in specially constructed wagons for it. The sweepings from paved streets are collected and sold, and from other streets given to residents to encourage civic betterment. Publicity is fostered in order to interest and educate the public. Government progress in proportion to the progress made in public sentiment. People can have just the kind of government they want if they will to have it. We can progress so much better if we know each other, and a common understanding is a wonderful thing. A man's usefulness in life is measured by his ability to work with other people.

Under the new form of government the electric light plant has been reconstructed and located along the railroad, which now saves the city at least $500.00 per year drayage, as the old plant was located about one half mile from the railroad. Also, the new plant has overhead coal dumps, which hold a reserve of 600 tons of coal, and during coal famines Staunton has always had coal for its public utility plants. A modern type arc lamp was installed, which effected an annual saving of about $900, and gave much more illumination. A brick fire house has been built and all vehicles motorized and a storage battery installed in place of the gravity battery. Modern fire fighting equipment has been added.

The salaries of the police have been increased from $50 per month to $100 per month and the chief is working up an efficient force. Each member is a sanitary inspector and as a result of their efforts private premises are kept clean and sanitary. In Staunton's progressive march, the police force is doing its part of the good work.

Staunton is the owner of a beautiful park which is the delight of its citizens in the summer time. The famous Stonewall Brigade Band renders weekly concerts in the park during the summer months and they are attended by large crowds who listen to the music, while the children romp and play on the beautiful green stretches of sod that surround the band stand. The city is preparing a baseball diamond for the High School Athletic Association and a number of private citizens have constructed a golf course in the park, and it is becoming a popular recreational center. The city furnishes a room for the band and donates $600 annually to it. We always refer to the band with much pride. It is one of our distinguished hand marks.

Too much praise cannot be given the almshouse—it is called the "City Home." The manner in which it is kept is the pride of the state. It ranks first. The inmates are furnished the best of food and services. They have good beds and chairs to rest in, and a physician to minister to their well-being. The home is run very economically and efficiently. It is an institution that merits the praise of all Stauntonians.

Staunton's finances are in a good sound condition. The bonded indebtedness is less than the value of the real estate owned by the city and the sinking fund. So much is set aside each year for the liquidation of the bonded indebtedness. Staunton is partially self-insured and the premiums, that otherwise would have gone to insurance companies, are now invested in city bonds and are producing a dividend and represent an asset. The tax rates are reasonable and with two exceptions, for the past thirteen years Staunton has lived within her ordinary income. All the public improvements except buildings have been paid for out of the current revenue. The following are among some of the most important improvements made:

Nine miles of cement sidewalks, 2 miles of cement curbs and gutters, 4 miles of sanitary sewers, one-half mile of storm sewers, 8 miles of water mains, 18 miles of waterbound and asphalt macadam, 1 mile of brick paving, 7 miles of reinforced concrete bridges.

Many beneficial ordinances have been passed, especially those relating to health and the assessment for public improvements. An ordinance concerning the construction and the use of sewers, providing for an equalization of assessments has met with public commendation and since its adoption $2,500 has been collected, whereas before, under the old plan, little or no money was collected from this source. Also, a similar experience is true of sidewalk assessments, from which source there had been great difficulty in making collections and as a consequence there were many losses, but under the new arrangement, all assessments are collected and they amount to about $2,000 per year. An old ordinance concerning street excavations has been revived and it has been very productive of good results. It has yielded since September over $300 damaged done to pavements. The manager issues the building permits and is careful to see that all improvements get on the tax books.

A QUERY AND ITS ANSWER

Hardly a day passes without some of our good friends asking us this question: "How is it that you are only paying 10 cents for meat and charging us 35 cents for steak?" We are always very glad to explain this for it's YOUR FAULT, Mrs. Housekeeper, if you insist on steak. As there is only so much breast on a chicken someone must eat the dark meat or it's a waste. That's the whole argument, dear patrons, and not only ourselves but every butcher in the country today is crying the same thing. We can't give the cheap cuts away!

If you, we pay 10 cents for a beef and it dresses 50 per cent, so the carcass will cost us 20 cents. Now, we have plenty good meat in briskets, plates and rough cuts that we will be only too glad to sell you from 10 cents to 20 cents per pound, or at and below the actual cost of the beef. So why not help us lower the cost of living?

Get back to soup for one day in the week and thus by helping us move the cheaper cuts, steaks will become more plentiful and therefore cheaper. This is merely a suggestion on our part.

To those who want any kind of meat, we have it for we specialize in meats and meats only. Prices, as heretofore, are fixed on value and satisfaction is assured.

he prepares a segregated budget for the council, which enables it to pass intelligently upon all appropriations. At the close of each fiscal year he makes up an annual report which shows in detail the sources and the amounts of revenue and all disbursements. He has a system of book-keeping that enables him at any time to advise the council about the city's financial condition. He also keeps an accurate account of the cost of all operations and work done.

He has established an efficient system for handling small complaints. When a complaint is reported, a ticket of it is made for the proper official and a carbon copy kept of it so that it may be followed up if necessary. All department heads meet with the manager each morning and any matter that needs attention is fully discussed and given prompt attention. The manager prepares estimates of the cost of all work and makes up the specifications for it.

The council at present is composed of five capable men who are both safe and progressive. It can truthfully be said of the council that it is free from politics. It has no favoritism to show to any one, and its meetings are strictly business. They are open and any one can attend them or discuss or present any matter he wishes. Meetings are held weekly and as all red tape has been cut out, quick action can be obtained. Our citizens are well pleased with the new government and it will make a successful administration of the city's affairs. Over one-fifth of Virginia's population is under this form of government.

Stanton is a good home town and one to be proud of. It is not rich in factories, it has but few of them; but it does stand high in good schools and churches. It has one of the largest preparatory military schools in the United States, two large seminaries for girls, two well-known business colleges, two state institutions and excellent public schools. Stanton is hard to excel in educational advantages. It has fine banking institutions, which are an index to the prosperity of her people and to its splendid agricultural surroundings. I have seen its ordinary income increase from $121,000 to $200,000 during the past thirteen years. This increase represents more value and more business. Stanton's white population in the past ten years increased 9 per cent, while its colored population decreased 23 per cent, leaving the net result in numbers but a small increase. The population of inland agricultural towns and cities usually is of slow growth, but they are centers of a sturdy and high civilization.

I congratulate you on your agitation of the city manager plan of government. It bespeaks a live and progressive spirit. In these days of keen competition and rivalry, if you want your home town to prosper, your government must keep abreast of the times. Such campaigns are educational and productive of good results. They arouse and stimulate your people to put forth greater efforts for a better town. Their civic pride is stirred and their hopes brightened. Such political revivals are stepping stones to still greater things. They give you a gauge of just how you stand. If your financial policies are not just what you would like them to be, you will get busy and change them; if your public utility plants are not self-sustaining and producing enough to allow a small per cent to be set aside each year for liquidation of their indebtedness, and if they are inefficient, you will place them on a better business basis; and if your civic improvements are not keeping pace with your needs, you will make more adequate provision for them.

After you shall have looked your town over, it will be for you to determine what is the best form of government for you to adopt, but I am sure you will make no mistake if you will provide for a manager in some one of the present forms. If you do not think it advisable to reduce your present council, add to it the manager. You will find him a valuable addition. Stanton has tried this form and there never has been any question about the advantages and benefits of it.

In conclusion, I bear, on behalf of Stanton, the warmest greetings to Manassas and all her good people. Stanton extends to you her best wishes for your health and industrial and civic prosperity. May you have and abundance of it.
