After a well sustained winning streak the Manassas White Rose baseball team was defeated by Haymarket Saturday afternoon at the local ball park. The score was 7 to 3. Trimmer, pitching for Manassas, was hit freely. Utterback, who came to his relief, allowed but one run and three hits in six innings. Dennis, placed in the box by the opposing team, sprained his ankle and was relieved by Hutchison. Manassas scored all three tallies in the sixth inning. Haymarket gathered four in the first inning and two in the second.

POLICE SEEK TWINS

Cousins of Late President Roosevelt Missing.

Search was started yesterday by the New York police for Charles and Latrobe Leacycraft, twenty-six-year-old twins and cousins of the late Theodore Roosevelt, at the request of their brother, Reginald Roosevelt Leacycraft. The twins have been missing from their home in New York since Monday morning. Reginald said that, after an unsatisfactory discussion of a business adventure at their Wall street office, his brothers said they thought of shipping as seamen on a trans-Atlantic vessel, or might go to California. The twins are described as five feet seven inches in height, 150 pounds in weight, with fair complexion, blue eyes and light hair.

CROWD GATHERS AT HENRY HOUSE FOR PARK INAUGURAL CEREMONY

Major Ewing, President of Association, Presides—Addresses by Clarence J. Owens and Senator John Sharp Williams—$13,000 Subscribed to Association's Fund.

Ideal weather, a crowd of 2,000 guests were entertained at luncheon under the trees by the Rull Run Chapter, U. D. C., of that section, assisted by the two other Prince William U. D. C. organizations, the Manassas and Eighth Virginia Regiment chapters. The program, which began shortly after one o'clock, opened with "America," the national anthem being rendered by the band. Rev. Westwood Hutchison, treasurer of the park association, offered the invocation. Miss Isabelle Hutchison presented a gavel made from a cedar tree which grew near the spot where General "Stonewall" Jackson received his famous name from General Bee. The gavel was made by Master Robert Morris Henry, a great-grandson of Mrs. Judith Carter Henry, who was killed by a stray shot which entered her home during the first battle of Manassas.

All the speakers of the day expressed a confident belief in the success of the project to memorialize the battleground. "There are those who refer to Gettysburg as the Waterloo of the Confederacy," Dr. Owens said. "The South, however, will be able to point to her Ansterlitz, her Manassas." General Winfield Scott, when asked to explain the defeat of the Union army at Manassas, exclaimed that the men who opposed the Union were "the men who followed me into the city of Mexico."

Dr. Owens deplored the action of the committee which eliminated Southern heroes entirely in naming the honor roll for the memorial amphitheatre at Arlington, recalling the action of President McKinley, who ordered that the graves of North and South in the national cemetery be decorated alike. "Had the North

A new well to increase the water supply of Manassas will be drilled immediately, according to a decision reached last night at a meeting of the town council. An expert from a government department at Washington is expected today to confer with the committee appointed by the council as to the location of the well.

The committee in charge of drilling the well was named at a meeting held last Friday evening, and is composed of Councilman O. E. Newman, chairman; Mr. R. S. Hymson, a member of the council to be seated September 1, and Supt. Frank Cox, Jr.

NEGRO SHOT IN DUEL FROM RAILWAY TRAIN

Wounded by Police Officers After Resisting Arrest by Opening Fire on Them.

Morris Jackson, colored, of Alexandria, was wounded through the left shoulder here Thursday morning, while waging a revolver battle with his brother Charles against Town Sergeant R. M. Weir and Mr. H. Elmer Metz, deputized to assist the sergeant. The negroes waged their fight against capture from a box car, where they were discovered by Sergeant Weir, who met the train in response from a message from Culpeper, stating that the negroes had fired upon Police Officer J. E. Bowers, of that city, who was seated on the station platform when the freight passed through Culpeper.

The two Jacksons, armed with revolvers, met Mr. Weir and Mr. Metz at the car door, holding the officers at bay. Both negroes are held pending trial, Morris Jackson having been sent to the Alexandria hospital for treatment. Two other men who took no part in the fight, but are said to have been in the car with the Jacksons, are temporarily held as witnesses. They gave their names as Roy Meadows, white, of Alabama, and Preston Harvey, colored, of Petersburg.

WATERFALL PLANS PICNIC

Club Members Hold Business and Social Session—Good Program.

(Nora Mayhugh, Reporter) The Waterfall Agricultural and Home Economics Club met at the school house on Saturday afternoon, July 16, at 2:30 o'clock, with nine members present and our president presiding. We opened with a song, "Tenting Tonight," followed by a Scripture reading by the president, and the Lord's Prayer, repeated by all. We then had a song, "Darling Nellie Gray," followed by roll call and reading and approval of minutes by the secretary.

The business session opened with a discussion of the county rally, and it was decided to have a meeting on Thursday, when Miss Gilbert will be present and we can find out who can attend the rally. It was decided to have a picnic on August 6, at the school house. At that time refreshments will be sold. Miss Nora Mayhugh and Mr. Nonie Gosson were appointed a committee for the picnic. We then had a song, "How Can I Leave Thee?"

The appointment of a program committee for the next meeting—Nora Mayhugh, Nonie Gosson and Preston Smith—was followed by a recitation, "For Sale," by Omar Kibler; a piano solo by Miss Nora Mayhugh, a reading by the president, and a duet by Messrs. Nonie Gosson and Preston Smith.

The county club letter from the county president was read, and the name of Jean Smith was removed from the roll. The club then adjourned to meet on the third Saturday in August. The closing song was "I Need Thee Every Hour."

MAINTENANCE ENGINEER NAMED FOR LEE HIGHWAY

General Director of Association Declares Its Progress Is Phenomenal.

Dr. S. M. Johnson, general director of the Lee Highway Association, while in Bristol, pointed out a number of advantages to Bristol and the Southwest section of the state, to be obtained with the completion of the great national highway. The route between Bristol and Washington, D. C., is forty-five miles nearer by the new highway.

Dr. Johnson said "that during the first year of the activities of the Lee Highway Association, the progress along all lines of activity has been phenomenal. The growth of the organization in numbers, financial strength, public favor and influence on legislative programs, including congressional action, has been without precedent in the history of road organizations."

"We have been successful," said Dr. Johnson, "in making arrangements whereby the Federal government has detailed James H. Eldridge, of Washington, D. C., an expert maintenance highway engineer, to devote his entire time to supervising the maintenance of the Virginia section of the Lee Highway from Washington to Bristol. This action of the Federal government is significant, inasmuch as it is the longest stretch of road in the country receiving such recognition."

From Bristol Dr. Johnson will go over the Lee Highway by automobile as far as Chattanooga, Tenn., and continue his trip from there to El Paso, Texas, in order to investigate the cross-continent routing of the Lee Highway.

BYRD'S STORE ROBBED

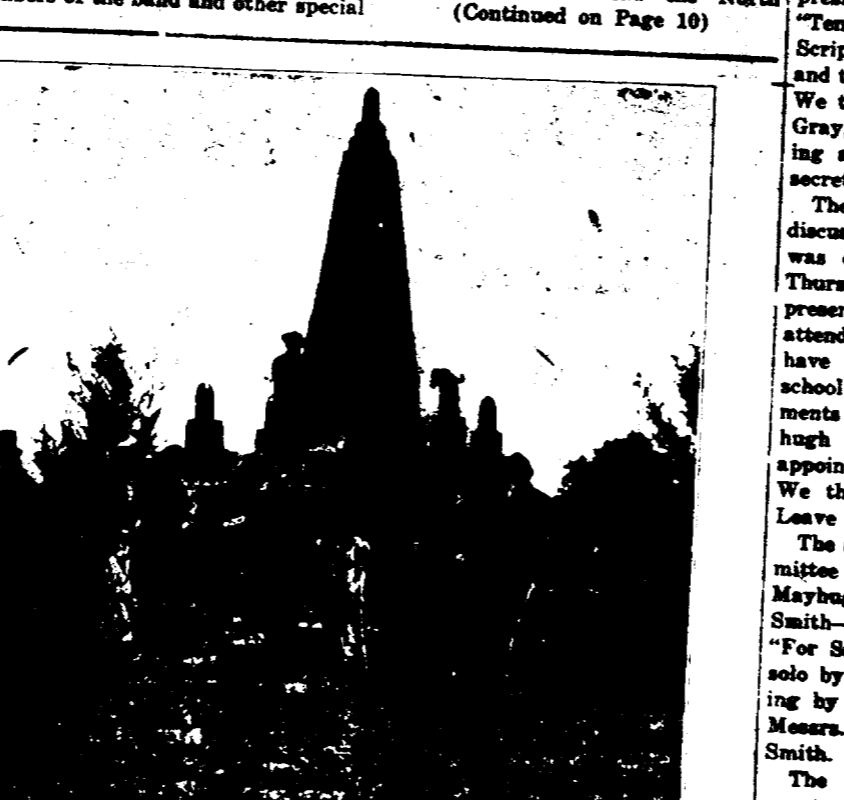

Thieves Break Plate Glass Window to Steal Clothing—Come Again.

Breaking a heavy plate-glass window in front of Byrd's clothing store on Centre street, burglars some time Saturday night reached in through the shattered pane and carried off about $30 worth of goods out of the window, including two coats, a vest and several shirts and ties, and a cap. An old cap, bearing a Manassas label, was left in the window, and the new cap was found later at the railway station.

Two coats, which apparently failed to suit the taste of the intruders, were found next day in the alley back of the store.

The following night "Uncle" Ben Gaskins, who was sleeping in the store as watchman, was aroused from his slumbers by persons chiseling at a rear window. He stealthily made his way to the rear of the building to investigate, unfortunately stumbling over a stool in his path, which alarmed the intruders and caused them to flee. They were last seen by "Uncle" Ben as they entered an automobile near the National Bank and drove speedily away.

The Coles district school board met at Hayfield school house on Saturday, appointing teachers and awarding wood contracts for the coming session. The following teachers were named: Smithfield, Miss Maud L. Norman; Woodbine, Miss Dorothy Merrill; Gold Ridge, Mr. W. Y. Elliott; Hayfield, Mrs. Nettie Wright; Fayman, Miss Olive M. Tolson; Purcell and Holmes, yet to be supplied.

The only bid for building the new school at Gold Ridge came from Mr. J. M. Elliott, who was awarded the contract.

A resolution was passed approving the merging of the district and county school fund into one fund to be known as the Coles district school fund.

STATE RACE GETS WARMER EACH DAY

Friends of Both Candidates Declare Victory Certain—Many Meetings Being Held.

The Virginia contests for governor and lieutenant-governor are growing warmer with the approach of election day. Little interest has been expressed in this section in the fight for the state corporation commission. Candidates for the other five state offices have no opposition and will be declared the party nominees. Democrats who vote in the primary, however, are bound to support them, although their names will not appear on the ticket.

The candidates for the democratic nomination are:

For Governor—Harry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, and E. Lee Trinkle, of Wytheville.

For Lieutenant-Governor—Julien Gunn, Henrico; Kenneth N. Gilpin, Clarke; W. Bullitt Fitzhugh, Northampton, and Junius E. West, Suffolk. State Corporation Commission—Berkley D. Adams, Charlotte; E. C. Folkes, Richmond.

Attorney-General—John R. Saunders, Middlesex.

Secretary of the Commonwealth—B. O. James, Richmond.

Treasurer—Charles A. Johnston, Montgomery.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Harris Hart, Roanoke.

Commissioner of Agriculture—George W. Koiner, of Roanoke.

Predictions as to who will be the next governor depend largely upon their source. This section of Virginia, judging from the press, is not particularly active.

"After a careful investigation of the qualifications and the past political records of the two gentlemen, and after a study of the issues involved and the attitude of each of them toward these issues, we believe . . . that Hon. Harry St. George Tucker is the logical standard bearer of the electorate of the state, and that he justly merits the unqualified support of the democratic party," is the verdict of the Loudoun Times. "It is gratifying to note," hopefully continues the Times, "that he has at present the endorsement of a majority of the voters of both county and state and that his majority is becoming larger each day."

"Reverting to the platform of Mr. Tucker," says the Times, "we find that he stands for efficiency and economy in all state departments to the end that all taxes may be reduced to the minimum; for better school facilities and adequate pay for teachers; for as speedy construction of the state highway system as is consistent with good business; for a sound system of farm credits; for improvement of industrial conditions and for a penal system that will be reformatory rather than punitive."

The New York Sun, one of the few national newspapers which makes a study of state questions and offers constructive criticism, has this to say of the Virginia contest:

"Down in Virginia, State Senator E. Lee Trinkle, who will almost certainly be the next governor, is basing his candidacy upon the state manager idea. Mr. Trinkle, a man of unusual experience and ability, promises to give the Old Dominion the same efficient administration that a big corporation would expect from its president. He is carrying into the state government the experiment which has already been worked out so successfully in the city manager plan. All this shows the trend of the times. The nation feels keenly the weight of taxation, and governmental waste, whether national or state, will not be tolerated."

"Mr. Tucker is as active and as chipper today," said Chairman David H. Leake, at Mr. Tucker's headquarters, "as when the campaign opened. He has been making two and three speeches every day during this hot weather, and nothing has fazed him. He reports that everywhere there are indications of a great victory."

"The situation in Fairfax county is somewhat peculiar," reports the Herndon Observer, "in that a majority of the party 'leaders,' or the men who control or think they control the politics of the county, are pledged to Mr. Tucker, while apparently a majority of the rank and file of the party are supporting Mr. Trinkle."

"This condition is a result of the early candidacy of Mr. Tucker," according to the Observer, "who before Senator Trinkle entered the field sought and obtained the pledge of many of our office-holding 'leaders,' while the great mass of voters—whom professional politicians do not consider it necessary to 'see,' if they can line up the leaders—are impressed with the splendid progressive record of Mr. Trinkle, and have rallied to his support, until today it is predicted by Mr. Trinkle's friends and most unbiased citizens that the candidate from Wytheville will carry Fairfax county by a handsome majority."

LUCKY STRIKE cigarette

"People today," "The Observer concludes, "are thinking for themselves as they have never done before, and we do not believe that the vote of this grand old county can be 'delivered' by any person or set of people."

A special from Lawrenceville to the Richmond Times-Dispatch, one of the warmest advocates of the Tucker candidacy, states that "seldom has a candidate for office received such an enthusiastic reception as greeted Harry St. George Tucker at Lawrenceville. Mr. Tucker's exposition of the fundamental principles of this government, and the necessity of getting back to them, evoked applause seldom heard in the history of this county. Never before has such interest been shown in the candidate for the gubernatorial nomination."

The Alexandria Gazette, committed to the Trinkle candidacy, reports a Richmond Trinkle meeting in this way: "With every seat in the house taken, an overflow in the gallery, with halls and doorways crowded, and all late comers turned away, State Senator E. Lee Trinkle spoke at the John Marshall auditorium to what is conceded to be the most enthusiastic and receptive political meeting staged in Richmond in many years. The city auditorium being closed for repairs, which could not be completed in time for this meeting, this was the next largest auditorium in the city of Richmond, and could by no means accommodate the crowd that turned out to hear the Wytheville candidate. Mr. Trinkle clearly defined his position on taxation, schools and roads, and did not leave the slightest shadow of a doubt in the minds of his audience as to his position on these questions."

"He sharply answered his opponent's charge that he is a candidate without a platform and with nothing but two dead issues tied to his coat-tails," the Gazette's account continues, "and pointed out the fact that platforms are the work of parties, and not of two militant democrats, opposing each other in a party primary, and reiterated his previous statements that he stands squarely on the platform of both the state and national democratic conventions last year. At this point Senator Trinkle asked his opponent why he failed to abide by the decision of the democratic party when it refused to adopt his 'Back to the Constitution' platform at Roanoke in May, 1920. Senator Trinkle's statement that in twenty-two years of party service he had always found the platform of his party good enough for him, and had abided by its decisions, brought forth a great storm of applause."

The Richmond News-Leader has this to say of Mr. Tucker:

"Mr. Tucker has the spirit of statesmanship. . . . To talk with him is to realize that statesmanship is not dead in Virginia and that some remain with vision keen enough to see beneath the surface of changing conditions. . . . If the solid statesmanship of Mr. Tucker could have been disclosed during the campaign to follow him would have been to receive an education in statesmanship."

"Mr. Tucker has the courage of profound conviction. He is not the type that wins the applause of the unthinking by sharp thrusts and bitter words. . . . His is the sort of courage that makes a man hold tenaciously to principle and unhesitatingly accept contumely and defeat rather than abandon the faith that is in him."

"Mr. Tucker has precisely the 'business qualifications' needed for a governor of Virginia."

"These, then, are the three principal reasons that have led the News-Leader to assume the responsibility of commending Mr. Tucker's candidacy to those voters who desire only to promote the best interests of Virginia," is the concluding summary. "Mr. Tucker has the spirit of statesmanship; Mr. Tucker is a man of the highest moral courage, whose position never is in doubt; Mr. Tucker has had 'business training' of the sort most needed in government."

Former Governor Henry C. Stuart, in a telegram addressed to the Eco-

noke Trinkle Club and read at the Trinkle rally there, said:

"I greatly regret that because of a temporary indisposition my doctor forbids me to travel in the present intense heat, so I must forego the anticipated pleasure of joining in the Trinkle meeting tonight. Strong as is my personal friendship and high and sincere as is my admiration for Lee Trinkle, I can truly say that these considerations are secondary to the higher consideration of his eminent and outstanding fitness for the discharge of unusual and extraordinary responsibility, which must devolve on our next governor."

"His conceded executive ability," continues the Stuart message, "his knowledge of and his familiarity with business affairs, large and small; his patient industry; his painstaking methods; his inherent and well-developed habits of economy; his freedom from humbug, public and private; his singular devotion to duty wherever he finds it, and, above all, his fidelity to the public interest to which he has already contributed liberally of his fine ability, all combine to mark him as the man the people of Virginia are looking for."

"I trust you will understand and make clear to all my friends the keen sense of disappointment I feel that I am unable to express by my personal presence the deep interest I feel in the success of the gallant, the vigorous, the able and versatile young Virginian who will address the fine citizenship at Roanoke tonight."

The contest for lieutenant-governor seems to have narrowed down to a contest between Mr. Gilpin and Mr. Gunn. Mr. Gunn has the endorsement of the present lieutenant-governor.

CANDIDATES CARDS

To the Democratic Voters of Prince William County: I announce my candidacy for re-election to the House of Delegates, subject to the party primary to be held August 2nd next. C. A. SINCLAIR.

CENSUS GIVES FARM FIGURES

Prince William Land Values Show Large Increase in Decade—Crops, Etc.

Prince William county in the 1920 census is credited with having 1,271 farms, the value of land and buildings aggregating $9,068,280.00, according to preliminary announcement by the agricultural section of the Census Bureau. The census a decade ago gave Prince William 1,264 farms, valued at $4,836,444.00, which allows for an increase of 87.5%, or $4,231,836.00 in the last ten years.

Decreases are noted both in total acreage and improved acreage, the total acreage having dropped 4.7%, from 170,231 to 162,245, and the improved acreage 2.6%, from 100,180 to 97,592. Owners and managers operate 1,079 instead of 1,074 farms, and 192 farms are operated by tenants, as against 190 ten years ago.

Among Prince William farms reporting domestic animals, there is a sharp decline in the number of sheep and a lesser number of horses and mules are shown, while cattle and swine have gained considerably. The animals were reported as follows: Horses, 3,933 in 1910 to 3,699 in 1920; mules, 177 to 175; cattle, 8,632 to 10,977; sheep, 4,390 to 1,288, and swine, 6,237 to 8,596. The number of farms reporting domestic animals fell from 1,208 to 1,205. The figures, however, are not very closely comparable with those for 1910, says the Census Bureau, since the present census was taken in January, before the breeding season had begun, while the 1910 census was taken in April, or about the middle of the breeding season, and included many spring calves, colts, etc.

The principal crops are corn, wheat, rye and hay, in the order named. Our corn crop for 1919, the year covered by the 1920 census, was 404,401 bushels from 16,842 acres, as against a yield of 349,631 in 1909 from 18,926 acres.

The wheat crop grew from 99,477 bushels to 126,371 bushels, the acreage growing from 9,294 to 12,741.

Rye production fell from 13,768 bushels to 12,889 bushels, although the acreage had risen from 1,491 to 1,922.

Hay produced during the year amounted to 9,842 tons as against 7,413 tons in 1909, 10,427 acres being harvested instead of 7,846.

Fairfax had, in 1920, a total of 2,253 farms, a loss of but 67 for ten years before! The loss was entirely among the colored farmers, who were 8 fewer than in 1910, the number of white farmers actually having increased. In Clarke county it is exactly the other way. The total number of farms is 558, a decline of 27, but there are ten more colored farmers than there were in 1910, but 35 all told, however, and 37 fewer white farmers. In Fairfax, 1,949 of the farms are operated by owners and managers and in Clarke, 383.

Loudoun county now has 1,962 farms instead of 2,144, operated by 1,841 white farmers and 121 colored farmers, decreases of 3% and 51% respectively. Owners and managers operate 1,455 farms and 507 are operated by tenants, showing decreases of 9.4% and 5.8% respectively. The total farm acreage has been reduced from 309,734 to 306,706 acres.

Loudoun harvested 1,651,963 bushels of corn, 573,185 bushels of wheat, 19,731 tons of hay and 153,006 bushels of apples. Her farm land covers 306,906 acres.

Land values in Fairfax in ten years have increased from $5,000,000 to $16,532,000; from $4,000,000 to $10,378,000 in Clarke; from $14,776,962 to $26,642,195 in Loudoun, and from $13,661,253 to $24,975,501 in Fauquier.

HAPPY HUSTLERS MEET

Girls Make Bread—Rain Interferes With Boys' Program There.

(Leighton Sweeney, Reporter) The Happy Hustlers of Bacon Race held an all-day meeting Tuesday, July 12. The girls came in the morning and the boys in the afternoon. The girls baked bread in the morning, but the rain interfered with the boys' work, which would have been done in the afternoon.

Some of the girls are busy sewing and others are making bread. Miss Gilbert, besides giving instructions along the lines mentioned, is interested in helping the boys with self-feeders, brood coops, etc. Some are busy writing compositions about their chickens.

The regular meeting was called to order by the president at 3 o'clock. The roll was called by the secretary. Quite a number of members were absent, owing to the condition of the weather. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. A number of selections were read from our club letter, including several telling of some of the good work being done in our county. Also our president read a nice letter from our county president. This was enjoyed by all. He urged us to get ready for the Prince William rally and picnic, also to get exhibits ready for the county fair.

A motion was made and carried that the secretary write a letter to the county president, telling him that the Happy Hustlers would do all they could to make club work a success in Prince William county.

The club was delighted to have with them visitors from Bethel and Purcell. We hope they will come again. We also appreciate an invitation from members of Bethel Club to meet with them Friday, July 29, for an all-day meeting. The meeting adjourned to Tuesday, August 9.

FOR FEMININE FOLK

MY HOUSE

The tame house, the town house, it is not to my mind— With rigid rubber plant before and cabbages behind. The mason and the carpenter may work for townfolk still, But I have built a wee house upon a windy hill.

My own house, my brown house, is very near the sky; The dawn is at my window before the day is high, And when the darkened valley has lost the westering light My glowing, golden hilltop with sunset still is bright.

The cold wind, the bold wind, my wee house cannot shake, Though dry leaves go whirling, though oak boughs bend and break; It rushes o'er the ridgepole and whimpers down the flue— My tight walls, my stone walls, it cannot whistle through.

The shy birds, the wild birds, nest boldly in my trees; They educate their fledglings in fearless nurseries; All lightly, all sprightly, they swing among the leaves And scold marauding squirrels that rustle in my eaves.

No town-bought seeds are planted in formal garden ways, But, rare and sweet, the wild flowers go marching through my days. With violet and columbine, or autumn goldenrod, The blessed hilltop glows beneath the very smile of God.

My dear house, my own house, I'm climbing up to you, Where all the air is blue and clean, and all the sky is blue. The tame folk, the townfolk, may have what'er they will, But I will have my brown house upon a windy hill!

—Olive Sargent.

There's pleasure in cooking in a cool kitchen

WHEN your cooking is done with a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove the kitchen isn't made uncomfortably hot. All the heat you need is ready, just when and where you want it—there is none lost. You regulate it by simply turning the wick up or down a trifle.

These give you the most heat. Another feature of the New Perfection is its long blue chimney. This drives all the heat up to the cooking utensils and doesn't soot up the bottoms of them. Insures complete burning of every drop of oil; none is wasted.

That's why it's so easy with ordinary cooking experience to make light fluffy cakes, crisply crusted pies and toothsome cookies. The New Perfection Oven is up where you can reach it conveniently and look into it easily.

New Perfections are made in five, four, three, two and one-burner sizes. Most buyers select them equipped with the warming cabinet.

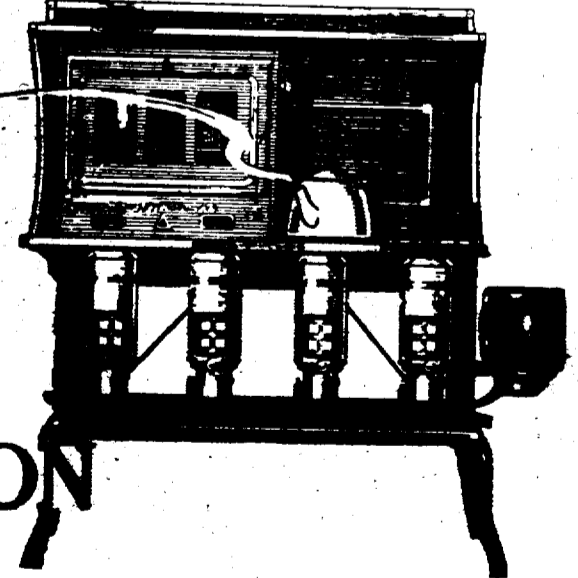

It's a pleasure, too, to be relieved of coal and wood carrying, of sweeping around and under the hod and wood basket or box. A small dust-rag takes the place of the stove blacking brush.

Use Aladdin Security Oil for best results; it's always clean and dependable.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most department, furniture and hardware stores.

STATE NEWS NOTES

Dr. Charles F. Russell, lately postmaster at Herndon, is "out" in a double sense, says the Herndon Observer, having resigned and thereby gone out of office, and announced his candidacy for the House of Delegates from Fairfax county and thereby come out for election.

Two aviators from Dayton, Ohio, in making a forced landing at Red Gate Farm, near Otlands, Loudoun county, wrecked their plane. The aviators had left Dayton the day before and had spent the night at Moundsville, W. Va. They left Moundsville about 7:15 o'clock Tuesday morning and were lost in the clouds for over two hours. Neither of the men was injured. They afterwards returned to Washington by train.

Virginia will receive an allotment of $18,200 out of the federal fund of $400,000 for the protection of forest lands within the state from fire during the present fiscal year, the agricultural department has announced. Last year congress appropriated $125,000 for this purpose, but, realizing the great importance of fire protection for forest lands, the amount was increased this year to $400,000.

Col. T. Bentley Mott, of Leesburg, military attache to the American embassy in France, represented the United States a few days ago at a memorial held in Amiens, France, when war crosses were presented to 349 municipalities in the department of the Somme, which were damaged, devastated or entirely destroyed during the war.

While representatives of the colored wing of the republican party stood at the door of Harrison Hall (Richmond), demanding in vain admittance to the O. P. mass meeting, "lily white" orators on the inside were vigorously declaiming against the democratic party because of its alleged "constitutional disfranchisement" of certain voters. The meeting was called for the purpose of naming delegates to the state republican convention at Norfolk and nominating candidates for elective offices.—Times-Dispatch.

Two Fredericksburg youths, Aubrey Jones and Wesley Jefferson, while on a blackberry hunt a few days ago were struck and killed by a train. Stepping behind a freight to another track, they were hit by a fast express. The heads of both lads were cut off.

A. Witt, for many years a resident of Danville, has returned from a two-month visit to Poland, the land of his birth. First-hand observation of conditions, he declares, showed that Poland has enough food to carry her through the coming winter, but that industrially and economically the country presents a pitiful aspect. The new-found freedom has resulted, he declares, in five factions clamoring for supremacy—the wealthy land-owners, who still cling to class superiority; the peasants, who demand a voice in the determination of Polish affairs; the Jews, who claim to hold the financial reins; the German group, quietly working for Teuton domination; and the "Little Russians," who have imbibed some of the principles of Bolshevism. Leaders of Polish thought, says Witt, despair of reconciling the differences of these clashing factors.

Mrs. Lila Meade Valentine, widow of B. B. Valentine, of Richmond, died a few days ago at a Richmond hospital. She had been for many years actively engaged in religious, social and civic activities. She was one of the first women in Virginia to urge equal suffrage, and it was through her efforts that the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia was organized.

Three Fredericksburg boys—David Aubrey Perry, Leonard Perry and Thomas Stiers—were painfully injured when a dynamite cap which they unsuspectingly placed in a fire exploded. The boys found the cap and a piece of fuse on a dump and were experimenting to see what would happen, when a sudden blast threw gravel and rocks against their bodies with great force, causing a great number of small flesh wounds. Antitoxin was administered to prevent lockjaw and the boys apparently are out of danger.

Recollections of the congressional fight in Leesburg two years ago, when Justice of the Peace C. H. Shipman was candidate for congress as an avowed opponent of the Volstead liquor law, were revived by a hearing conducted before a special court of four justices of the peace at Leesburg last week, says the Loudoun Mirror. A leading firm of Leesburg sued Mr. Shipman for an account amounting to $171. Mr. Shipman said he was willing to pay the account if given credit for $130, which he said a member of the firm had pledged toward his campaign expenses in the congressional race. It will be remembered that Mr. Shipman's notice of candidacy, sent by special delivery to the secretary of the commonwealth at Richmond, was not received by that officer in time, because of his absence from his office—which might have brought up another fine legal question, if the point had been made.

Stephen G. White, 45, a prominent merchant and postmaster at Harpers Home, a small village in Dinwiddie county, was killed by two negroes in his store, the slayers, who are now being sought by an armed posse, making their escape. Robbery was the motive for the crime, the safe in Mr. White's store being found open and the contents scattered about the place.

SOLDIER IN BATTLE SAFER THAN BABY, SHE TELLS CONGRESS

Soldiers in the United States army are safer than the average American baby, according to Dr. S. Josephine Baker, speaking during the hearings on the Sheppard-Towner maternity bill before the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the House yesterday.

"In fact," said Dr. Baker, "a soldier in the army is eight times safer than a baby under the present system of safeguarding the health of our infants."

Dr. Baker's statement was based on government figures covering a period of eighteen months of the war. During that time between 37,000 and 38,000 men were killed, and during the same period 300,000 babies died. At least one-half of these, Dr. Baker said, could have been saved. She also declared that statistics show that almost the same number of mothers died as did soldiers in the same period.

"There is more chance for a man of 90 than for a new-born baby, to live a week," said Dr. Phillip Van Ingen, professor of diseases of children of Columbia university. Dr. Ingen defended the children's bureau against attacks as a "lay bureau."—Washington Post.

TRAVEL LEE HIGHWAY

Dr. Johnson, Col. Sherrill and Party Go Over Virginia Route.

The Lee Highway Association is urging that the Lee highway from Washington to Warrenton, and eventually to Luray, be made a splendid boulevard, and has called the attention of the Fine Arts Commission of the federal government to the fact that Washington, the capital of the greatest nation in the world, has no parkway drives into the surrounding country, while there are many cities in the United States with a much smaller population which have extended their boulevards many miles out into the country.

Dr. S. M. Johnson, Lee highway director, accompanied by Col. C. O. Sherrill, Mrs. Sherrill and others intimately associated with the Fine Arts Commission, traveled over the Lee highway to Luray on last week. At Warrenton they were given a delightful luncheon by the local Lee highway committee, consisting of Mr. J. Donald Richards, Mr. C. E. Tiffany and Judge G. L. Fletcher, and Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Tiffany and Mrs. Fletcher, all of whom, except Mrs. Richards, accompanied them to Luray. At Sperryville they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. G. Wood, local representatives, and at Luray they were entertained by Mr. T. C. Northcock and his daughters, with whom they made a trip through the Luray caverns.

Col. Sherrill is military aide to President Harding, superintendent of public buildings and grounds and secretary of the Fine Arts Commission. Col. Sherrill assured Dr. Johnson that they had had the trip of their lives and would do everything in their power to help in the development of Lee highway as a boulevard.

"Jazz is dying." It always did sound that way.—Greenville (S. C.) Piedmont.

WHERE THE AUTO HELPS CHURCHES

"Predominating Impression" Is That Car Has Been "Ally of the Church."

"Has the motor car helped or hindered church attendance?" is a question that was recently put to several clergymen, says the American Motorist (Washington). While there were some who thought that the automobile had been bad for church-going, "the predominant impression was that it had been an ally of the church." Answering the question, the Motorist says:

The minister of a Lutheran church in the East, in a town surrounded by a number of rural centers served by Lutheran churches, said:

"In summer the automobile detracts from the town church and adds to the rural church. In winter we find it helps our attendances. People are able to get out in wet weather, and we have a system of bringing out our children and aged people by a volunteer motor-service league."

According to a Methodist minister in a city of 100,000 in the Mid-West, many a pastor faces empty pews, particularly at night, while his congregation are out enjoying themselves in their automobiles. In summer the call of the country and near-by towns is too great to be resisted by many people. The automobile has encouraged Sunday visiting and outings and has hurt the morning congregations as well as the night ones.

The pastor of a Baptist church in a typical Great Lakes city replied:

"In my own church very few owners of autos have neglected attending church. People who are not strongly religious, however, succumb to the lure of the road and the auto, especially those who work hard all week. Many people have a real love for nature and use the motor-car to get out into the country on Sundays for recreation. This is all well enough, but the temptation to do this at the cost of loyalty to church-going. People always find it hard to draw the line on privileges."

A Presbyterian minister in a Southern city thinks that the coming of the automobile has done untold harm to church attendance. "People," he said, "send their children to Sunday-school, but stay at home to save themselves for the long afternoon outing. Many men spend Sunday morning tuning up their cars. If they return in time for night service they are too tired to attend."

The pastor of a Central States Evangelical church in a city of 80,000 expressed himself as follows: "In my own congregation the coming of the automobile has proved a great help. Many of our people live outside of the city and are now able to come in regularly. Our town people attend as well as they formerly did."

The pastor of a large Methodist church on the Hudson River replied in the words of a noted New York pastor, who years ago was asked about the effect of a bicycle on church-going, and who replied: "The people you see riding bicycles along the roads during church-service time are not the people who have been regular church-goers. I find this is true of the automobile. We have organized an auto brigade and our people have cultivated the habit of using their cars to build up the congregation. We have a few 'old-fashioned folk' who have cars, but do not use them on Sundays."

The rector of an Episcopal church in a Western city, when asked the question, said:

"Don't blame the automobile if you think that church attendance has decreased. The automobile is only one of many factors that have changed the whole world in which we live. The movie, the auto, the lure of the city, the opening of industrial opportunity to women and girls, the telephone, the telegraph, the inexpensive daily paper, the increase of tenantry, the passing of the individual home and the coming of the apartment and flat, the increase of ready-to-wear, ready-to-eat, ready-to-use products, and many other factors have changed our world. Our psychology has changed. Our sense of values is in a state of flux. Great social and industrial problems have entered the field of our common experience. Men's interests have widened. Men's ideals of religion have changed. I state these facts without comment. The pulpits have often played up secondary things when men hungured for the primal. No one can estimate the influence of a single factor in making up our life today. Whether the automobile helps or hinders church-going depends on the individual, his character and point of view, and on the social standards of his community. In itself the automobile is a great advantage to humanity. If we misuse this blessing the cure lies not in new cars for old, but in new men for old. If we have lost out by the coming of the motor-car, the fault is in ourselves. Do not blame

This ghost was a 1921 model

AND SAID "Exit." AND ROLLED over. THEN I heard steps. AND IN the light OF A dying moon. A WHITE spook rose. I WASN'T scared—much. BUT DIDN'T feel like STARTING ANYTHING. BUT THEN I caught. the automobile or anything else for keeping people away from church. People ought always to be superior to things. The only place you can locate the causes of conduct is within ourselves. The bane or blessing of anything we have in this world depends on ourselves. "The auto is all right in itself if only gasoline were cheaper."

THE BATTLEFIELD PARK

Yesterday on the Bull Run battlefield, on the same ground where brother met brother in the strife of '61, these former warring brothers united with the younger generations in the inauguration of the Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park.

Prince William gave warm and cordial welcome to many visitors who are interested in memorializing her famous field.

May the fair day which ushered in its inaugural be a happy omen of many fair days to come in the work ahead, and may Prince William join heartily with friends throughout the nation in assuring the permanent success of the park.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

As usual, the republican nominations in Virginia cause no uneasiness in democratic camps.

While the democratic campaign is at its height and democratic rival candidates are busily covering the state in the interest of their desire to be at home in the governor's mansion at Richmond for the next four years, Virginia republicans have assembled in convention and have settled upon a ticket to oppose the democratic choice in the November election, which in Virginia is merely a matter of red tape to confirm the judgment of a democratic primary.

The republicans have named for governor Col. Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, unquestionably the strongest candidate put forward by republicans in many years. Their platform, written doubtless by Mr. Anderson himself, reads very well—in fact, it has a most familiar campaign sound—but upon analysis may be said to mean very little. Its references to schools and roads, the particular issues of the campaign, are pleasantly vague, and the platform on the whole may hardly be called constructive.

In spite of the Harding supremacy last November, Virginia may be counted upon as the same democratic stronghold whose votes helped to keep Mr. Woodrow Wilson in the White House for a period of eight years.

A WORLD-WIDE FAILING

"All they think of is pleasure, money, movies and dancing," was the verdict of two Zion deacons, a self-constituted jury investigating the wicked ways of America's greatest metropolis, and, according to the verdict, our most wicked balliwick.

Without questioning the evidence on which the verdict is based, for the obvious reason that the fair and pious jurors had risked contamination for five months in a noble effort to convert the wicked from their ways, it seems a trifle hard on our New York friends to make them standard-bearers for kindred spirits the country over. Other American cities are certainly not without their share of persons so described. They are not native to any particular locality, and, without taking a spiteful slant at our neighbors, Manassas doubtless has her quota too, we freely own.

Unquestionably, it was New York's tremendous size which drew the Zion sisters' verdict. The size of its lighter population doubtless is not great enough in comparison to occasion a terror, akin to that of the Zion sisters, among the more substantial citizens of the metropolis.

Our Zionist friends sought the "wicked," around whom they would spread a mantle of gentle influence, and in their zeal found chiefly whom they sought.

THE AGRICULTURAL CENSUS

The war's influence on land values, its effect on the wheat acreage and its tendency to depopulate our farming areas all are seen in the agricultural statistics for Virginia, just made public by the Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce.

Prince William statistics follow the general trend, according to a news article elsewhere in this issue. Although our farms, unlike the farms in our neighboring counties, show an increase of .6% in number, the total farm acreage reveals the same reduction seen elsewhere, and the improved farming acreage suffered a similar loss.

The 87.5% rise in the value of farm lands and buildings in the decade between census periods seems more than a normal increase, and can only be attributed to forces created by war conditions.

The acreage in corn, Prince William's greatest crop, was reduced, along with other minor crops, yielding to a greater wheat harvest, at a time when "wheat will win the war" was one of the slogans on every lip. It is gratifying to observe that the reduced acreage had no deleterious effect on our corn crop, our yield showing instead a substantial increase.

After hearing so much about the farm area of America being drained of its population to feed the city's industrial plants in wartime, and the disinclination of the country population to give up the city's newer charms, it is most encouraging to have the reassuring statement of the census man.

It may be that our "back-to-the-farm" movement was well inaugurated before the census man obtained his figures. If this be true, there is additional reason for congratulation. We find assurances on every hand that America is blessed with a natural resiliency and a universal liking for "normalcy" that promptly seek and find a happy balance in every phase of our national life.

SUCCESS

It's doing your job the best you can
And being just to your fellowman;
It's making money, but holding friends,
And staying true to your aims and ends;
It's figuring how and learning why,
And looking forward and thinking high,
And dreaming a little and doing much;
It's always keeping in closest touch
With what is finest in word and deed;
It's being thorough, yet making speed;
It's struggling on with a will to win,
But taking loss with a cheerful grin;
It's sharing sorrow and work and mirth
And making better this good old earth;
It's serving striving, through strain and stress
It's doing your noblest—that's Success.

LONNIE LUCAS KILLED BY THOMPSON BROTHERS

Unruly Negroes Kill Member of Own Race and Wound White Man.

Lonnie Lucas, colored, was shot and killed in front of Gooch's Store at Brandy Station on last Wednesday night about 9 o'clock by two brothers, Edward and Dave Thompson.

The Lucas negro went to a magistrate in the place and endeavored to swear out a warrant for the arrest of the Thompsons, but was advised to wait until the next morning. He went back to the store and the Thompsons, who were both armed with guns, began shooting. Lucas ran several steps and fell dead in the road, pierced with several bullets. The Thompsons then continued shooting and wounded Keith Abbott, the son of I. C. Abbott, a prominent citizen of Brandy, and killed a fine riding horse belonging to Carter Bunch, which Mr. Bunch had left tied to the hitching post. Mr. Bunch is owner of Carrico's Mill.

Sheriff J. J. Nash, of this place, was notified over the phone and with two deputies was soon on the scene, but the Thompson brothers had fled, and although the sheriff and a posse searched almost all night through the negro settlement east of Brandy, they have not yet been apprehended.

Young Abbott was hurried to Charlottesville on the midnight train and is being treated at University Hospital. The murdered man, Lonnie Lucas, was a respectable colored man and a veteran of the World War, and it is alleged that the Thompsons provoked the quarrel. Edward Thompson and his brother have lived away from this county for the past six years, only coming back here several months ago, when they came into a considerable sum of money on the death of another brother, who had his life insured, and have been living rather a sporting life ever since.—Culpeper Star.

Your Ideal of a Flour

There is scarcely a housewife or cook in this whole section who has not had trouble, at one time or another, with flour. And when you can not get just the kind of flour you want, doesn't everything just seem to go wrong?

Many a time you have wondered why there was not a flour to serve every purpose. "Why should it be necessary to have two or three different kinds of flour on hand in order to take care of the various baking needs?" you have probably asked yourself over and over.

B. Lynn Robertson's White Rose Flour is the solver of your baking troubles—the answer to all the questions you have been asking about the merits and adaptability of this and that grade of flour.

In White Rose, we have succeeded in grinding a flour that is an all-purpose baking material—a flour that you will be delighted with, once you have used it. If your home is not acquainted with this popular brand, order it the next time. If your grocer does not have it, we will gladly supply you direct until you can get White Rose at your grocer's.

PLANS CONTINUE FOR COUNTY FAIR Prince William Farmers' Races Scheduled for Final Day—Special Trains to Run. All indications continue to point to a banner exhibition here August 16, 17, 18 and 19 under the auspices of the Prince William Fair Association. As announced in last week's issue, the first day of the fair will be devoted entirely to judging the live stock and other departments. In accordance with a decision of the stockholders, races will be held on the second and third days of the fair—three races each day. A program of local races has been arranged for the final day. This will include a farmers' race, mule race and pony race. It was the original plan to have only two days of racing, but the final day's program was arranged as a result of a decision of the directors to offer an opportunity to the people of Prince William county to enter their animals in a strictly local contest. The usual horse show will be in progress Thursday and Friday. The attention of prospective exhibitors in this department is called to sections 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 of the catalog, under the head of Thoroughbreds. From the arrangement of the catalog it would seem that all animals entered in these classes must be Thoroughbreds. On the contrary, this applies only to class 11, including stallions three years old and over. Halfbreds may be entered in classes 12, 13, 14 and 15. This announcement is made at the request of Mr. F. D. Gaskins, of Warrenton, head of the horse department, as there has been some misunderstanding on the part of those who wish to enter in these classes. Great care has been taken in the selection of a midway for the fair, and it is confidently expected that this year's midway attractions will be the cleanest and most up-to-date ever shown in this section. This feature of the fair again is in charge of Mr. J. P. Lyon. Mr. Jordan Brown, passenger traffic agent of the Southern railway, has had an interview with Mr. B. Lynn Robertson, president of the fair association, looking to plans for special train service during the fair. Although no definite announcement can be made at this time, it is practically certain that the same service will be given by the Southern as was given last year. Last year a special train from Front Royal to the fair grounds arrived here about 10 a. m. each day and started the return trip at 10:30 p. m., enabling visitors from the branch line to spend the day and evening at the fair, returning the same night. In addition the shuttle service between Manassas and the fair grounds will be much more efficient and satisfactory, owing to the fact that a telegraph station will be installed at the fair grounds. The Southern officials are further co-operating by distributing the advertising material of the association between Manassas and Charlottesville on the main line and Harrisonburg on the branch. Special posters will be put out by the railroad advertising the fair and announcing the reduced rates which they propose to offer. Work on the new exhibition buildings and clearing up the fair grounds has been in progress, a force of ten men having been so engaged practically every day during the week. Cedar posts have been cut and lumber is in place, and posts have been set for the main exhibition hall. Volunteer workers, whose aid has been solicited through Secretary H. W. Sanders, are invited to be on hand with carpenter's tools early next week. A competent carpenter will supervise the work. COW BRINGS $1,250 The sale of Featherstone Farms, formerly owned by Mr. Frank R. Chambers, drew a large crowd to Featherstone on the Potomac the first three days of the week. A tract of 300 acres, with a twenty-room house and barns, was sold to Messrs. J. D. and Harvey Janney at $91 an acre, reports from that section state. One pure-bred Holstein is said to have brought $1,250. The 6-passenger Ford automobile, for which tickets were sold, was awarded to Master Holcomb Reid, of Hoadly. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Ransdell have been to Washington to purchase a home. Although arrangements have not been completed, the family expects to move to Washington in the fall. Rev. T. D. D. Clark, pastor of the Manassas Baptist Church, instead of going away on his annual vacation, is remaining in Manassas to hold the usual morning service on Sunday. His vacation of six weeks began last Sunday.

SELLING AT COST! Friday and Saturday, July 22 and 23 will be the days for you to get our bargains while we are selling out at cost. NOTHING RESERVED Manassas Produce Co. MANASSAS, VIRGINIA

ANNOUNCEMENT! Owing to the excessive exertion and confinement incident to the proper handling of our GROCERY DEPARTMENT which has grown vastly beyond our anticipation as well as space and physical ability, we have decided to eliminate that feature of our business, thus confining ourselves to BUILDING MATERIAL, MACHINERY, HARDWARE, AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES and a few other lines which we will add later. Upon the specific agreement that they will serve our customers as satisfactorily as we have in the past, we have sold our stock of Groceries and the Somers Store Property East of the railroad at Bristow to Messrs. Slack Brothers, of Marshall, Va., who are practically life-long merchants and bear a most excellent reputation for efficiency and fairness. They will conduct a GENERAL STORE at the said location, affording a market for all kinds of farm products and in addition to the lines usually carried at Bristow they are carrying a well selected stock of STAPLE DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS, CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, &c., which lines have been woefully needed here for many years. In retiring from the grocery business, we do so reluctantly, for the reason that we feel wonderfully attached to our customers, and without solicitation we have enjoyed the "cream of the trade" and the support of all worthy of our consideration up to the moment of our retirement. Their continued friendship, loyalty and support have built up an enormous volume of business in addition to what was originally intended for the protection of ourselves and a few close friends who had been obliged to pay exorbitant prices for their daily necessities of life. Many of our old customers have personally expressed their regrets at our retirement, with visible emotion that is pathetic. We have mighty warm places in our hearts for these good people but see no occasion for alarm. We will still be with them and the proverbial "latch string" will be conveniently on the outside. We want them all to come in and have a friendly chat—whether they want anything or not. We believe our successors will give just as good or possibly better satisfaction than we did. However, we will see that our friends have adequate service at fair values. With all good wishes, very sincerely, R. H. DAVIS & COMPANY BRISTOW, VA., July 1, 1921.

STATE FARMERS SOON TO MEET

Farmers and Farm Women Are Invited to Attend Session at Blacksburg in August.

The State Farmers' Institute which will meet August 3, 4, 5 at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, will afford the farmers and farm women of Virginia an opportunity to visit their State college of agriculture at a minimum expense and under the most favorable conditions.

The people of the State support the college of agriculture, but many of them know about it only in a general way. The college is continually looking for new opportunities in which it may be of service, and it is now saying to the people of Virginia, "Come and see what you have in your college and find out the ways in which it can serve you." The barracks buildings will be ready for everybody and one building will be set aside for the exclusive use of women. The charge per room will be thirty cents per day, or one dollar for the three days. Those who expect to room in barracks, sheets and other bedclothing. The first session will be held Wednesday night, August 3, when Henry Wallace, United States Secretary of Agriculture, will be the principal speaker. VACATION DAYS are here again, and how glad are the kiddies. Little journeys are now in order, picnicking and down to the "ole swimmin' hole."

We won't always be able to go with them, but we will do the next best thing and see that they have a good time. That will be our joy.

We will pack their lunch boxes with goodies and not forget the cold meats, for their little bodies must be kept strong and meat is very necessary once a day.

And because we want that particular portion of their food to be wholesome, to be clean, to be sanitary, to be fresh, we will buy it from

CROWD GATHERS AT HENRY HOUSE

(Continued from Page 1) understood the South, there would have been no war," he said. Virginia was as much the Gethsemane of the war between the States as Belgium was of the recent war, he declared, paying tribute to heroes of Virginia and the South, notably including General Lee, General Jackson and Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, whom he "hoped to see in the Hall of Fame beside the figure of R. E. Lee."

"The immortal words uttered by Abraham Lincoln on the field of Gettysburg are equally applicable to Manassas and this inaugural occasion," Dr. Owens said. "His words would be fitting on any military field where brave men offer their lives for a great principle. They would apply to any country and to any period of history. He said, 'We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have dedicated it far beyond our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it will never forget what they did here.'"

Senator Williams, whose speech was delivered in singularly happy vein, referred to himself as "a Tennessean by birth, a Mississippian by residence, and a Virginian by love." He was not a Confederate soldier, he owned, but was proud to wear the Confederate gray—on his head.

"There is no Lost Cause," Senator Williams declared with emphasis. The men of the South fought for constitutional rights, he said, and got what their fathers stood for. Lee said he loved the Union, and he regretted secession, the speaker recalled, but he could not draw his sword against Virginia.

"The race has flowered nowhere as in Virginia," he said. "Lee was but a later type of Washington. The genius of the South moulded the nation."

Major Ewing, who introduced the speakers, made a brief address, chiefly outlining the organization and purpose of the battlefield park association. The sum of $50,000 will be needed, he explained, $25,000 of this being the purchase price of the land, and the remaining $25,000 for improvements and additions, including markers and monuments. The States of the Union will be invited to provide memorials to their heroes.

The park finance board, headed by Dr. Owens, is in charge of raising the funds. Not an officer and not a committee member is salaried, he stated. The treasurer is bonded as a matter of business for the protection of the association.

Major Ewing read a message from Representative R. Walton Moore, a member of the finance board, regretting that important legislation requiring his presence in Washington made it impossible for him to attend. Mr. Moore expressed his continued interest in the project and pledged anew his co-operation in every way to make it a success.

Senator E. Lee Trinkle also sent a message of regret, saying: "I regret exceedingly that previous appointments make it impossible for me to accept your invitation, as I certainly would like to do. As a son of a Confederate soldier and as an ex-commander of the Sons of Confederate Veterans of Virginia, I desire to express my hearty approval of the proposition to establish this park, and assure you that it will give me great pleasure to forward the movement in every way I possibly can."

The exercises closed with a band concert of Southern melodies and patriotic airs.

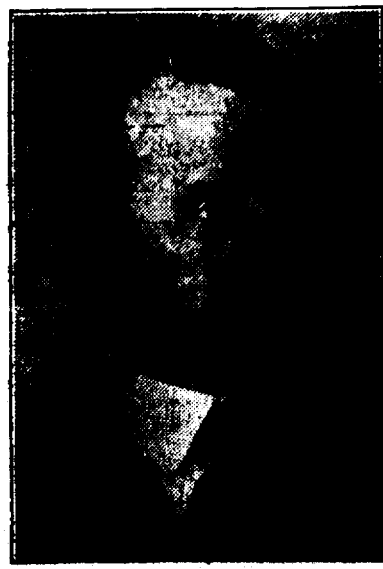

Visitors came from Washington and New York and from surrounding Virginia towns, including Warrenton, Culpeper, Leesburg, Fairfax and Rectortown.

The exercises were held around the federal monument in the Henry yard, the first monument erected to the soldiers of either army which participated in the war between the States, this memorial having been dedicated by surviving comrades in 1865.

The outlook from the knoll where the crowd had gathered was a lovely picture to the eye accustomed to the limited view of city or town, the undulating surface of the fields being crowned with a close-cropped carpet of velvet green and with stately oaks standing alone and in groups and bordering the edge of grassy slopes. Parties of visitors made their way about afoot and in automobiles gliding smoothly over the sward. In the distance flags summoned the visitors to spots of varied historic interest—the standard loved so well by the soldier here who gave special historic significance to the spot. The "bonnie blue flag" of the Lone Star State stood guard over the spot where General Barnard E. Bee, the distinguished Texan, fell, and the Stars and Bars marked the last gallant stand of Georgia's Bartow. Many visitors stood under the grateful shade of the tree which now marks the spot where General Jackson received the sobriquet of "Stonewall" from General Bee.

VOTE FOR JULIEN GUNN FOR LIEUT.-GOVERNOR

SENATOR JULIEN GUNN of Henrico County

The name of Julien Gunn is presented to the democracy of Virginia as a candidate for nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, in the August primary, in the knowledge that if elected, as now seems assured, he will bring to that office the personal integrity, experience, and sound judgment in legislative matters so necessary to an efficient and impartial discharge of the duties of that office.

Senator Gunn has served as a member of the House of Delegates and as Commonwealth's Attorney of his county, and he is now serving his second term in the Senate, representing the 35th senatorial district. He is a member of the steering committee and the committees on finance and courts of justice. Called upon to preside over the Senate more frequently than any member, he has demonstrated his intimate knowledge of parliamentary law.

In the full vigor of manhood, standing for the development of Virginia along constructive lines, his candidacy is appealing to those who have the interests of the State at heart.

A VOTE FOR GUNN IS A VOTE FOR THE BEST INTERESTS OF VIRGINIA, and your support of his candidacy will be appreciated.

WOODBINE CLUB SEWS

(Goldie M. J. Goliheiw, Reporter)

Woodbine Sewing Club was called to order by the president, Miss Myrtle Cornwell, at 9 a. m. After the singing of "America," a prayer and Scripture reading, the roll was called. All were present. We were glad to receive a new member: The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

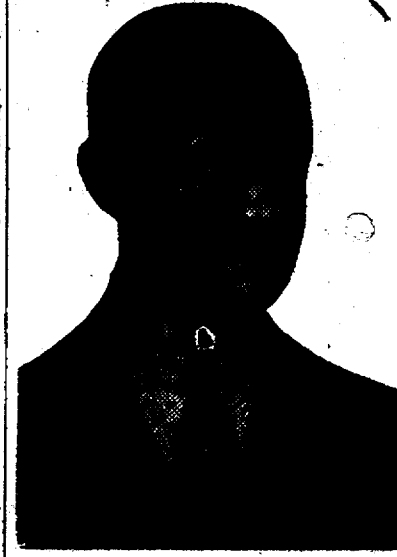

Miss Gilbert gave us a short talk on the rally which is to take place at Manassas Friday, August 12.

The letter from the county president to the clubs was then read by Miss Myrtle Cornwell.

The club discussed fair exhibits. A song being sung, the business meeting adjourned and the lesson was taken up. The girls worked enthusiastically until about 1 o'clock, when the club adjourned.

Hon. Kenneth N. Gilpin

For Lieutenant-Governor

HON. KENNETH N. GILPIN.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman President of the University of Virginia

In a letter under date of December 17th 1920, addressed to Hon. Kenneth N. Gilpin, of Clarke County, had the following to say in regard to his candidacy for Lieutenant-Governor of Virginia:

"I want you to know that I am frankly and deeply interested in your political future. I believe the State of Virginia has need of such a man as you in its high offices, for its own sake primarily. I have no doubt that a great future awaits you, for you possess all the qualities of mind and character to carry off a great career."

THE above tribute is indeed a fitting one to Mr. Gilpin whose record politically, personally and otherwise has never been questioned, and one well deserved if service and straightforwardness counts for anything.

In time of peace as a member of the General Assembly, Mr. Gilpin's position on all important matters was never in doubt. He has always had the courage of his convictions. In time of war he was found seeking service, NOT EXEMPTION, and served in the most hazardous branch, namely, Aviation, and was for nearly a year, on the French Front doing active duty.

Mr. Gilpin favors and stands for a business-like and economical administration of state affairs.

Mr. Gilpin is openly opposed to any STATE BOND ISSUE that will increase taxation, and those who would have you believe otherwise on account of his position on local Bond Issues, do so for political purposes.

Mr. Gilpin's long service in the General Assembly, where he served on some of the most important committees, gives him a broad knowledge of the administration of the State's business.

He is clean, honest and fearless and worthy of your confidence.
