

EXPERT REPORTS ON WATER SUPPLY

U. S. Geologist Visits Manassas to Make Examination, and Recommends New Well.

A special report of the Manassas water supply by Mr. David G. Thompson, geologist, has been received by Supt. Frank Gue, Jr., through Mr. Philip G. Smith, acting director of the United States Geological Survey.

"The easiest means of increasing the supply is apparently by drilling one or more additional wells," is the geologist's advice to the committee.

"1. The present water supply for the town is obtained from a single drilled well. It is estimated that the normal requirements are about 65,000 gallons per day, but the maximum that can be pumped from the well is probably not more than two-thirds of that amount.

"2. It is believed that the best means of increasing the present water supply is by drilling one or more wells. The geologic conditions at Manassas are not favorable for the occurrence of ground-water in large quantities and there is no assurance that a sufficient supply of water will be obtained in a single new well.

"3. Other methods of increasing the present supply are not believed to be advisable. Household could install their own private water plants, but such installations would in many instances be expensive.

Mr. Thompson gives a detailed report of facts and conditions on which this opinion is based. In the absence of local records concerning the well from which the present supply is obtained, Mr. Thompson discovered the following information in a report entitled "Underground Waters Near Manassas, Virginia," by Frederick G. Clapp, on pages 94-97 of the United States Geological Survey's Water Supply Paper, No. 258, published in 1911, a copy of which has been furnished to Mr. Gue:

"Probably the best known well is that drilled in the summer of 1906 for a public water supply. This well is situated close to the Southern railway on the eastern outskirts of the town, in a slight depression, around which the hills rise 15 or 20 feet higher. Data supplied by members of the corporation of Manassas show that the well was drilled to a depth of 581 feet 8 inches, all but the last 6 to 7 feet through Triassic sandstone. At 125 feet a hard gray rock was struck, which continued to the bottom of the well and is supposed to be the metamorphic or crystalline rock that underlies the Triassic area. This well has a diameter of 8 inches to a depth of 300 feet from the surface, below which it is only 6 inches. It is reported to be cased to a depth of 180 feet. Two water-bearing beds are reported at depths of 210 and 487 feet, the deeper one supplying the greater amount of water. When the well was completed the water stood 58 feet from the surface. A 12 by 36 inch steam head pump was installed and

TRINKLE NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

West Wins Contest for Lieutenant-Governor—Adams Named for Corporation Commission.

Senator E. Lee Trinkle, of Wytheville, captured the democratic nomination for governor in Tuesday's primary, defeating Hon. H. St. George Tucker, of Lexington. On the face of present returns the Trinkle majority is estimated at 20,000.

The contest for lieutenant-governor resulted in the nomination of Senator Junius E. West, of Suffolk. First returns indicated the election of Senator Julien Gunn, of Henrico, with Mr. Kenneth N. Gilpin, of Clarke, third, and Col. W. Bullitt Fitzhugh, fourth, and Mr. Berkley D. Adams, of Charlotte, was renominated as a member of the state corporation commission, by an overwhelming majority over Mr. Elben C. Folkes, of Richmond. It is probable that Mr. Adams' majority may reach 50,000.

Senator Trinkle carried seven out of the ten districts of the state, Mr. Tucker running ahead in the second, eighth and tenth. Sweeping victories were recorded in Roanoke, with a majority of 1,300; Danville, Charlottesville, Harrisonburg and Winchester.

The city of Alexandria gave Tucker a majority of 295 and Arlington county went for Trinkle by 170 votes. Mr. Frederick G. Duvall was elected civil and police justice of Alexandria, receiving 948 votes. His opponents were Mr. Frank Stasit, who received 556 votes, and Mr. Aylett B. Nicol, who received 538. Mr. Frederick W. Ehardt was re-elected clerk of the gas in a triangular fight, getting more votes than his two opponents combined.

Prince William county went for Tucker, Gunn and Adams, giving Tucker a majority of 22 votes. The official returns from Prince William county, as reported yesterday by the election commissioners—Messrs. J. H. Burke, R. E. Simpson and J. B. Harp—are tabulated elsewhere in this issue.

REAL D. A. R. DIES AT NINETY-NINE

Mrs. Mary Chamberlin Clarke Succumbs to Infirmities of Age at Agnewville.

Mrs. Mary Chamberlin Clarke, one of the few surviving daughters of the American Revolution, died yesterday morning at her home near Agnewville, at the age of ninety-nine. While Mrs. Clarke had felt the infirmities of age for some time and had lost her sight, she retained her mental faculties to a remarkable degree and was the keenly interested and interesting narrator of many stories of other days.

Her funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Greenwood Presbyterian Church, at Minnieville, which was erected by the Clarke family as a memorial to her daughter, Miss Clara Clarke, who was gored to death by a bull some years ago. Services will be conducted by Rev. A. B. Jamison, of Manassas.

Mrs. Clarke was born in Susquehanna county, Pennsylvania, June 4, 1822, and came to this county many years ago. She was the widow of Thomas Clarke and before her marriage was Miss Mary Chamberlin.

She is survived by three sons, Messrs. William, Arthur and Joseph Clarke, Mr. William Clarke living at Agnewville and the other two in the West. Other surviving relatives are two nieces, Mrs. E. W. Beckwith and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Bennett, of Binghamton, N. Y., Mrs. Bennett being the stepmother of Mrs. George C. Round, of Manassas, and by three great-nephews and two great-nieces, Miss Minnie Chamberlin and Mrs. M. C. Bennett, of Washington, and Messrs. Harry Chamberlin, of Indianapolis, Ind.; George Chamberlin, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Charles E. Chamberlin, of Washington, as well as a number of great-great-nieces and nephews.

SAYS WATER IS PURE

State Board of Health Examines a Sample of Manassas Supply.

A flask of water from the municipal well sent by Dr. S. S. Simpson to the state board of health at Richmond for examination has been pronounced "excellent drinking water" and free from bacteria.

Senator E. Lee Trinkle, Democratic nominee for Governor, was born in Wytheville, Va., March 12, 1876. His ancestors were Virginians dating back many generations. He is the son of the late Elbert S. Trinkle, a successful business man and farmer and a Confederate veteran of Wythe County.

Mr. Trinkle married Miss Helen Ball Saxon, of Houston, Tex., whose parents were Virginians. To them have been born three children, a girl and two boys, the youngest born since Mr. Trinkle announced his candidacy for the governorship last December.

Mr. Trinkle graduated from the Wytheville Male Academy and took a four-year course at Hampden-Sydney College, where he graduated in 1896 with first honor of his class, receiving the degree of A.B. and B.S. He was the orator and debater of the class and received the following fraternal organizations: Masonic, Odd Fellows, Modern Woodmen, Elks, Owls, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Shrine and Scottish Rite.

In 1898 Mr. Trinkle graduated in law from the University of Virginia, winning the first Moot Court Prize, the highest prize in the law class, and was voted the most influential man at the university by the student body.

Mr. Trinkle returned to his native home, where he began the practice of law, which has been very successful. In addition, he joined with his brothers and operated several large farms, and he is closely identified with several of the largest business ventures in Southwest Virginia. He has served many terms as chairman of the Democratic party in Wythe County, and led a brilliant fight against C. B. Slomp for Congress in 1916. He was twice elected without opposition to the State Senate.

Mr. Trinkle is a past division commander of Virginia of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, a member of the Presbyterian Church, a teacher of the following fraternal organizations: Masonic, Odd Fellows, Modern Woodmen, Elks, Owls, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Shrine and Scottish Rite.

Several persons responded to the call for a meeting of the Haymarket Library Association held on Thursday last at Haymarket for the purpose of re-opening the library. Miss Virginia Boxley was elected president, and Miss Loretta McGill, secretary and treasurer. It was agreed that the annual dues would be $1, as formerly, and payable in advance. The library will be open from 9 to 11 o'clock on Wednesday and Saturday mornings.

Residents of Haymarket and vicinity will welcome the opening of the library, which was closed during the world war, when Red Cross work absorbed the time and attention of the members. The library is in a large, comfortable room that furnishes a splendid place for members to spend an agreeable hour on a warm summer day.

—The United Brethren Church at Buckhall will hold a lawn party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lineweaver tomorrow evening. The public is cordially invited.

NEW ATTRACTIONS COMING FOR FAIR

Ferris Wheel, Seaplanes, "Silver Bell," Midgets, Diver, Hawaiians and Band.

Hasten to enter your exhibits in the Prince William fair, as entries close tomorrow. The last-minute rush is on. Entries are coming in through the mail, and Secretary Sanders will remain in his office tomorrow to receive all who come in person to enter their products.

Much interest has been exhibited in the horse show and races and fine agricultural exhibits are expected. The Gloth's greater shows, which are to furnish ample amusement during the four days of the fair, August 16 to 19, will arrive here Sunday, August 14, on their own special train, consisting of twenty-two cars loaded to capacity with paraphernalia for fifteen highly restricted attractions and five of the largest and newest sensational riding devices in the world.

Among the feature attractions are: Captain Coddling's "Wild West," Wilke's Dog and Pony Society Circus, Tennessee Troubadours, a real colored plantation show consisting of twenty-two people, mostly girls, with a beautiful array of scenery, gowns, costumes, catchy jazz music and electrical effects and "Silver Bell," the posing horse with a human mind. "Battling Ross" will be in his athletic arena, where he will meet all comers. Ross is known as a champion wrestler. Visitors to the Hawaiian village will see Miss Stella Lambert and a number of other beauties. The smallest and most perfectly formed midgets in the world, better known as "Sammy's" Midgets, will perform in a vaudeville specialty. A twentieth century wonder is "Margie," the strange girl. For a good hearty laugh walk through the "Crazy House." Woolley's circus side shows will present living freaks from all parts of the world, and a number of other attractions.

The riding devices are whip, carousel, Ferris wheel, Manassas swings and seaplanes. Other features will be "Up-High" Billy Klein, the champion high diver, and Prof. P. DeLaurentis and his allied concert band. Thousands of ladies and children daily attend these shows, which have the reputation of being one of the cleanest on the road.

Having discovered that potato exhibits were omitted in the premium list for the fair, Secretary Sanders has announced that entries of potatoes will be acceptable according to the following supplementary list to the agricultural department:

Class 50, peck early variety Irish potatoes; class 51, peck late variety Irish potatoes; class 52, peck red sweet potatoes; class 53, peck yellow sweet potatoes. Two prizes, $1 and 50 cents, will be offered in each class. Work is still in progress on the buildings and grounds, a corps of workmen, including volunteers, having been busily engaged for several weeks. Additional volunteer aid will be most acceptable during the week before the fair.

BILLY SUNDAY PAYS A TRIBUTE TO THE SOUTH

Billy Sunday, speaking to Confederate veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy during his meeting at Bluefield, W. Va., said:

"I find more true religion in the South than in any other section of this country. I find more respect for God, more respect for womanhood and less blasphemy in the South. I believe the reason for this is that you are the true Americans. You people of the Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky mountains are the truest Americans in the land. Your blood has not been diluted by the flood tide of immigration from every European country. Why did it take the North four years, with its millions of soldiers and unlimited resources to whip the South? Because they were fighting real Americans."

The convention of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf and of the National Association of the Deaf, the latter composed of persons who have aided those who lack a normal hearing, was opened at Atlanta, Ga., with formal welcomes by Governor Hardwick and Mayor Kay, and addresses by a number of speakers who used the sign language.

The addresses of the Governor and the Mayor were translated to the deaf by interpreters, except for a part of the Mayor's speech. He spent the greater part of Sunday in order that he might say to the delegates in their own language: "On behalf of the city of Atlanta, I welcome you here."

Mrs. J. H. McFarlane, of Talladega, Ala., sang the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the hundreds of delegates joined with her, repeating the sign language as she sang.

JUDGE SAYS CRIME WAVE DUE TO FAILURE OF JUSTICE

Failure to punish criminals adequately—the miscarriage of justice—is given by Judge T. N. Haas, of the Circuit Court of Rockingham county, as the cause of the "crime wave" which, he asserts, is sweeping over the country.

"Another, and not the least cause of failure of justice and contempt for the law and its penalties, is the abuse of the pardoning power," continued the judge in an interview. "It is an indisputable fact that American people and their officials and juries are too tolerant of crime. They read or hear about it, and straightway forget it, and are not impressed with its heinousness or enormities unless they actually suffer personally from it."

Three cases charging homicide are before the Circuit Court.

EXPERT REPORTS ON WATER SUPPLY

(Continued from first page) a test of the well made, variously reported as lasting from 6 to 10 hours, during which the well was pumped continuously. It is said to have yielded at least 120 gallons of water a minute, that being the full capacity of the pump. On account of lack of funds this well has never been used, but it is protected by a cement curb and housed over. Some persons have supposed that as this well is situated in a depression the water is liable to contamination, but if the casing extends to 180 feet, as reported, there is probably little danger.

"The well is now being pumped by an air lift," continues the geologist's report. "Air is supplied by two Ingersoll-Rand compressors, one of them recently installed. The equipment in the well consists of a 4-inch discharge pipe supposed to be 440 feet long, within which is 400 feet of 1-inch pipe which supplies the air for lifting the water. . . . From the discharge pipe at the top of the well the water runs by gravity to a large concrete reservoir having a capacity of about 75,000 gallons, which is situated a few feet north of the pump house. From this reservoir the water is pumped into the distribution pipes by a force pump, and any excess over the quantity used immediately in the town is pumped to a large tank and stand pipe elevated high above the town. . . ."

The exact yield of the well is not known, Mr. Thompson reports, recommending that provision be made so that the yield of the well may be measured from time to time. During the past winter it was believed to be about 50 gallons per minute, or 72,000 gallons per day, he says, although there is some doubt as to the accuracy of this estimate. "The per capita requirement, including water used for all purposes, is probably at least 50 gallons per day, or a total of about 65,000 gallons per day," he states, drawing the obvious conclusion that "the yield of the well as now operated is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the town."

Attention is drawn to the fact that while the well on completion was said to have yielded at least 120 gallons per minute, the present yield is probably not more than one-fourth of that quantity. The question arises as to whether the decrease is due to a clogging of the well, to improper installation of the air lift, or to natural conditions affecting the occurrence of the water. "It is possible, he suggests, that sand may have filled in the bottom of the hole, perhaps even covering the bottom of the discharge pipe, in which case the yield might be increased by cleaning out the hole. Mr. Thompson also recalls the fact that the discharge pipe was dropped into the well a year or more ago while repairs were being made, and considerable trouble was experienced in recovering it. While it is not known that any damage was done at this time, Mr. Thompson suggests the possibility that the pipe may have parted in such a way as to lessen the efficiency of the pump."

"It is highly desirable that the exact condition and length of the discharge pipe be determined," the geologist states, mentioning that in order to do this, or to clean out the well, additional expense for equipment, and another available water supply as well, will be required.

"On the other hand, the decrease in the yield of the well may be entirely due to natural conditions," he continues, suggesting that the water-bearing beds may be of such a nature that the water moves through them slowly and that in many localities where the ground water conditions are not favorable the water level has dropped gradually as the result of constant pumping, adding that where such conditions are found it will doubtless continue to drop.

"Shooting" the well with dynamite or nitroglycerine in the hope of increasing the yield, Mr. Thompson considers unwise. The experience of well drillers as to the results obtained from this procedure varies, he explains, and sometimes the "shooting" has opened crevices in underlying rocks in such a way as to drain the well.

"It is not possible to predict the location of crevices that yield water, as they occur very irregularly," he says in a statement of geologic conditions affecting the site of a new well. "Indeed it is possible that a well may be drilled several hundred feet through the 'red beds' (the rocks at Manassas, as well as in most of the area examined, are red sandstone and shale, which geologists call the Triassic formation) without striking any large crevices and only a few gallons of water a minute may be obtained. Another well drilled a few feet distant from the first well might strike large crevices and obtain a good yield. It may be said that on account of these conditions, if a well is drilled without finding a good supply of water, shooting the well lightly may open crevices that will connect with those already filled with water.

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized that if a new well is drilled there is no assurance that it will furnish enough water to meet the requirements of the town."

"There is no definite information that would indicate that larger quantities of water may be found at any particular depth. According to Water Supply Paper No. 258, in the well now in use, two water-bearing beds were found at depths of 210 and 457 feet, the deeper one supplying the greater amount of water. Several other wells near the town are reported to obtain the principal water supply from depths of about 200 feet, but no other wells go deep enough to strike any deep water-bearing bed, if there is one."

"It is possible that a sufficient supply of water may be obtained within 250 or 300 feet of the surface, and that it may not be necessary to drill deeper. If the required quantity is not obtained at that depth it is believed that it will be the best policy to drill down to the hard crystalline rock beneath the red beds. In many regions large quantities of water are found at the contact between two different types of rocks and this may be the condition at Manassas. The crystalline rocks generally do not contain much water and it will not be desirable to drill far into those rocks."

The depth of the well must be governed to some extent by the type of pump used, he states. The submergence that will give the most efficient results can only be obtained when the submergence is more than equal to the lift, so that, assuming the lift to be the same as in the present well (probably about 162 feet), it would be necessary for the new well to be at least 350 feet deep if an air lift is used. It is not necessary to have the well as deep when any other type of pump is used.

While a well of large diameter will generally yield more water than one of small diameter, Mr. Thompson says it is doubtful in this case whether the advantage to be gained in drilling a well of large diameter is sufficient to warrant the extra expense involved, especially since it may be necessary to drill more than one well, and he believes it inadvisable to make the well more than 6 or 8 inches in diameter.

Mr. Thompson mentions other possible sources of supply, including old methods in use before the public water system was installed, when every household had its own well; the use of cisterns for water supply except for drinking and cooking; or impounding water in one of the nearby streams, and in conclusion repeats that "the best solution of the problem is the drilling of one or more wells."

HOME DEMONSTRATION NOTES

If eggs are fresh and clean, or better still, infertile and clean, it is not too late now to pack for winter use. Eggs laid in April, May and June have been found to keep better than those laid later in the year.

Use 1 quart of water glass (sodium silicate) to 9 quarts of water that has been boiled and cooled. This will be sufficient for 15 dozen eggs.

- 1. Select a 5-gallon crock and clean it thoroughly, after which it should be scalded and allowed to dry.
2. Heat a quantity of water to the boiling point and allow it to cool.
3. When cool, measure out 9 quarts of water, place it in the crock, and add 1 quart of sodium silicate, stirring the mixture thoroughly.
4. The eggs should be placed in the solution. If sufficient eggs are not obtainable when the solution is first made, additional eggs may be added from time to time. Be very careful to allow at least two inches of the solution to cover the eggs at all times.
5. Place the crock containing the preserved eggs in a cool, dry place, well covered to prevent evaporation. Waxed paper covered over and tied around the top of the crock will answer this purpose.—Extension—Division News for July.

Gov. Davis of Virginia Seeks Seat in Senate

Gov. Westmoreland Davis, of Virginia, in letters to prominent voters, announces that he will be a candidate for the United States Senate in 1922, for the seat now occupied by Senator Claude A. Swanson. This statement confirms press reports several months ago of his candidacy.

In his letter, Gov. Davis says that he would bring to the solution of governmental problems "the scientific application of the principles of successful business legitimately conducted."

"Economy and efficiency of administration of the affairs of the nation, as well as of the state, are absolutely necessary," the governor said, "if we are to relieve our people of the burdens of excessive taxation, and restore and promote their happiness and prosperity."

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

Ladies of Presbyterian Church Study China at Home of Mrs. Dodge.

(Chloe E. Lay Hodge, Secretary) The regular meeting of the Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Dodge on the afternoon of Tuesday, July 26, at half past two. The usual business having been transacted, Mrs. G. D. Baker—presiding instead of the president, who is absent in the West—called upon Mrs. A. E. Jamieson, who was the leader of the afternoon. Mrs. Jamieson read a very comprehensive and instructive paper on China, which was followed by very interesting items given by a number of the members. At the close of the meeting the social hour was greatly enjoyed by discussing dainty refreshments. The meeting was held under the shadow of stately trees until a brief, heavy shower, which drove the members to the shadow of the porch.

WOOL CLIP IN STATE WILL TOTAL 7 MILLION POUNDS

K. A. Keithly, of the Division of Markets, stated yesterday that approximately 110,000 pounds of wool have already been graded and shipped to Alexandria for sale under the co-operative plan. He estimated that the total clip in Virginia, by sheep raisers who are members of the co-operative associations, will total between six and seven million pounds.

Samuel Greenwood, of the United States Bureau of Markets, is now working in Tazewell county, where he expects to classify about 80,000 pounds. Mr. Keithly will go to Alexandria today, where he will be joined by Mr. Greenwood, and much of the wool will be regraded. It is estimated that there will be about twice as much wool graded and sold under the co-operative plan this year as there was last year.

Its clean, white-tipped flame gives the correct heat instantly

THIS is the reason why cooking with a New Perfection is so easy and successful. You can regulate the heat accurately to within a few degrees every time you bake a particular kind of pastry or cook a roast. Instead of the old way of "rushing the fire" and once often than not burning your dinner, a little adjustment with a New Perfection will show you just how easy it is to get successful results uniformly. You can adjust the heat in a second where it takes several minutes with the draft and damper method of a coal range.

Over 3,000,000 housewives who use the New Perfection enjoy the relief that it affords from coal and wood carrying and all the litter and bother that go with them. Their kitchens are more comfortable to work in, too, especially during warm weather. Another feature of the New Perfection is its long blue chimney. This draws clean, sootless heat against the cooking utensils with an extremely small loss by radiation. You can always see the flame through the little mica door. The four-burner size equipped with warming cabinet and New Perfection Oven is the most popular. But you can obtain a five, three, two or one-burner size if you prefer. Aladdin Security Oil gives the best results uniformly. Use it all the time. New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most hardware, furniture and department stores. OUR NEXT GOVERNOR

Virginia democrats have spoken and Senator E. Lee Trinkle, of Wythe, is to be saluted as the next governor of Virginia.

Although a close fight was predicted from many quarters, and unbiased observers expressed a doubt as to the outcome, Senator Trinkle swept the state and captured the democratic nomination by a majority of 20,000.

"It was his own ninth district which contributed most to the success of Senator Trinkle," said the Richmond Times-Dispatch. "His friends and neighbors in that district rallied handsomely to his support to the end that he came eastward with a majority which the supporters of Harry St. George Tucker early in the evening realized could not be overcome. But the ninth district is not alone in the honors of the Trinkle victory. The whole southwest stood by him splendidly, while in the valley and the eastern part of the state, where the Tucker managers had expected to pile up a vote large enough to overcome that of the ninth district, a succession of counties and cities either gave the Senator majorities or cut the Tucker vote so heavily as to reinforce the landslide in the ninth. Norfolk and Richmond were depended on to offset the expected majorities for Senator Trinkle in the southwest, but they failed to live up to the Tucker hopes."

Senator Trinkle is welcomed as a strong standard bearer for the democratic party against the republican onslaught which is expected in November and as a strong and capable executive in whose hands the affairs of Virginia will be safely intrusted during the next four years.

Mr. Tucker made a splendid fight, furnishing an opposition which gives Mr. Trinkle an even more notable victory. In the words of one of his staunchest supporters, "His friends and supporters regret that he has been denied achievement of the high honor he coveted as the crown of a notable career, but they rejoice in the clean, manly and vigorous campaign he waged, and they will continue to do him honor as one of Virginia's ablest and most distinguished sons."

While The Journal took no part in the primary decision, it offers its hearty felicitations to Senator Trinkle and pledges to him its strongest support in the coming contest.

ENRICO CARUSO

The golden throat of Enrico Caruso is stilled forever, and the world pauses a moment in sadness as it reflects upon the incalculable loss his death has brought to music. With his indomitable courage and sunny optimism, the famous tenor had believed almost to the last that in his native Italy he would be restored to health following the illness which almost resulted fatally to him in New York last winter, and a world that had watched his career and hung upon his notes was encouraged, too, to hope that his voice, ripened by age to still greater perfection of artistry, would again thrill the great audiences that greeted his every appearance before the public. But it was not to be. The ravages of his illness had cut him too deeply, and the end came to him in the home of his boyhood, his beloved Naples, where as a child he had sung upon the streets. It is the place above all others that he would have wished to die, and as Naples gave him to the world, so now it claims its famous son in death.

Greatest of modern singers, if not the greatest of all times, it is a boon of science that his voice has been preserved. From a thousand records the golden notes will still pour forth in all the richness of their melody, and in tens of thousands of homes in every civilized country, where "Caruso" had come to be a household word, people will continue to listen to his songs and marvel at the vocal gift that nature had conferred upon him. This immortalization of his voice by science is the grandest monument that could be erected to his memory.—Times-Dispatch.

NOT SO BAD, AFTER ALL

While Manassas is still depressed over the seriousness of the situation affecting the town water supply, there is much reason for congratulation in the report which declares that the water we have is "excellent drinking water," absolutely pure and free from bacteria.

Often when the water supply is low we begin to think of bacteria and infection and to look for the spread of disease. While our water shortage has been keenly felt in many homes, while it has meant considerable inconvenience and at times serious discomfort, it has not been responsible for sickness.

We may be heartily glad that while it is inadequate for present needs, our water supply is pure and wholesome and that we had enough to send away a sample for the wonderfully reassuring examination.

THE LEE MANSION AT ARLINGTON

Many visitors to the national shrine at Arlington have paused to wonder why the beautiful old mansion which was once the home of Robert E. Lee, should remain a barren, empty shell. The Washington Herald, commenting on a movement to restore the interior to its former atmosphere, says:

"Everyone throughout this country, North and South, should surely endorse the movement to make of the Robert E. Lee mansion at Arlington a fitting memorial. It is not dilapidated. It is in good repair, but it is far from what it should be. It should be completely renovated, and made beautiful inside as it is in its architecture. It should be furnished so far as possible with what can be gathered of furnishings that were General Lee's, or of his family. It should be in every feature typical of the South of his day."

"The building and, so far as possible, the immediate grounds, should be screened from any obtruding view of monuments and graves. The mansion should be as little as possible a part of or an adjunct to the cemetery. As far as may be, it should be a beautiful example of the old home of the Southern gentleman and a memorial of the then owner, who came from civil war with honor, dignity and as an American of Americans."

"As it is, it is not a credit to this government, or people. The only approach is through the seemingly endless rows upon rows of graves. The magnificent view from the front over the wooded hills and valleys, the city of Washington and the windings of the Potomac, is broken in the foreground by obstructing and intruding monuments to the dead. Inside it is barren, empty, hollow, depressing. There should be something at Arlington, and this should be the Lee mansion, which carries a measure of solace, which speaks of home life, of family bonds, of what is sweetest, truest and best in our national life. It should tell of the home for which soldiers died and that home preserved, should show that they have not died in vain."

SUNDOWN

By "B. L. T."

When my sun of life is low,
When the dew shadows creep,
Say for me before I go,
"Now I lay me down to sleep."

I am at the journey's end,
I have sown and I must reap;
There are no more ways to mend—
Now I lay me down to sleep.

Nothing more to doubt or dare,
Nothing more to give or keep;
Say for me the children's prayer,
"Now I lay me down to sleep."

Who has learned along the way—
Primrose path or stony steep—
More of wisdom than to say,
"Now I lay me down to sleep."

What have you more wise to tell
When the shadows round me creep. . . .
All is over, all is well. . . .
Now I lay me down to sleep.

Your Ideal of a Flour

¶ There is scarcely a housewife or cook in this whole section who has not had trouble, at one time or another, with flour. And when you can not get just the kind of flour you want, doesn't everything just seem to go wrong?

¶ Many a time you have wondered why there was not a flour to serve every purpose. "Why should it be necessary to have two or three different kinds of flour on hand in order to take care of the various baking needs?" you have probably asked yourself over and over.

¶ B. Lynn Robertson's White Rose Flour is the solver of your baking troubles—the answer to all the questions you have been asking about the merits and adaptability of this and that grade of flour.

¶ In White Rose, we have succeeded in grinding a flour that is an all-purpose baking material—a flour that you will be delighted with, once you have used it. If your home is not acquainted with this popular brand, order it the next time. If your grocer does not have it, we will gladly supply you direct until you can get White Rose at your grocer's.

An Improved Gasoline

Every motorist should profit by this announcement

FOR many years the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) has maintained a special division of its staff whose activities are devoted entirely to the development of new products and the constant improvement of those already being manufactured. A large share of the work of this Development Department centers around the production and quality of "Standard" Motor Gasoline.

As a result of continuous research work and exhaustive, practical road tests conducted by this Department, we are able to announce the production of a decidedly improved quality of gasoline.

The "Standard" Motor Gasoline which is now obtainable at every "Standard" filling pump is improved not only in one particular respect but in every way that has a bearing on the actual performance of motors.

The average gasoline user is not aware of the large number of factors that govern the quality of gasoline he buys. In fact, he usually doesn't care about the factors. He is interested, first, last and always, in the quality as it is delivered to him. So, without a wealth of technical information, the motorist measures gasoline quality by one, and what is after all the final, deciding test, namely—its behavior in his motor.

Gasoline must be good not in one respect but in all respects. To make it seem better, even to an expert, without really being better, is not an improvement. Our present product is really better from every standpoint—so much so that you will quickly notice the difference.

It has never been the practice of this company to claim economies and technical merits for its products which the average motorist could not prove for himself. Give "Standard" Motor Gasoline a trial. This is all we ask you to do. We are confident that, purely on the basis of its performance and economy, you will use it regularly. Try it today.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (New Jersey)

This is the first of a series of informative advertisements concerning the relation of gasoline quality to the operation and performance of motors.

Train—Killed Instantly.

(Front Royal Record)

A young man who has been identified as being a member of the Sanger Circus Show, which gave two performances in Front Royal Wednesday, was instantly killed just south of Bentonville about 10:30 Thursday morning, when a double-header freight train crushed him to death.

The man's body was horribly mangled and there was nothing found in his clothes to indicate who he was or from whence he came. The show train left the Norfolk & Western station here early Thursday morning for Luray, where they were scheduled to give a performance on that day. It is said the young man was left behind in some way, and being destitute of funds, decided to walk to Luray and join the circus there. He arrived at Bentonville about 8 o'clock in the morning and inquired there if any freight trains would soon be due, upon which he could get a ride to Luray. Upon being told that it was dangerous to attempt to ride the freight trains, he proceeded on foot and was not seen afterwards until a south-bound extra freight train approached the cut north of Overall at Mile Post 75. Engineer Wooden on the lead engine says he saw the man lying on the track with his feet over one rail and his head on the other, and that just before the engine reached him he raised up his head and looked directly at the train and immediately lay down again. The speed of the train prevented a stop being made in time and he was crushed to a pulp as the heavy locomotives passed over him.

The man's clothing was examined for some means of identification, but nothing was found that would lead to his name or place of residence, although he stated to some one at Bentonville as he passed through earlier in the morning that he was from New York City. He appeared to be about 19 years of age.

There was some misunderstanding after the accident as to whether the county authorities or the railroad should take charge of the body, but it was finally decided to send the hearses from Front Royal, which was done Thursday afternoon, and Maddox and Samsell now have charge of the remains in their undertaking establishment there.

It is believed by many that the young man deliberately committed suicide and this conclusion is strengthened by the fact that he was aware of the approach of the train and even raised up and looked at it before being struck.

MIND CAN DECIDE SEX OF CHILD, EXPERT ASSERTS*Strength of Determination and Will Power All That Is Necessary, He Says.

Sex control is an established fact, according to Prof. F. Coue, of Nancy, called the world's foremost exponent of auto-suggestion. In a Paris dispatch he says:

"Not only can parents before birth determine the sex of their children, but they can also influence the future life and career by endowing him with the qualities they would most wish him to have.

"To do this all that is required is the same strength of determination and will power displayed by every one in the minor matters of life—by the bank clerk for instance, who forces himself on cold mornings to leave the comfortable warmth of his bed for the chilliness of a cold shower. As in his case, the power of auto-suggestion is merely a matter of habit.

"If a mother wants a boy baby she must bend her will to that effect, repeating with absolute confidence thirty or forty times a day: 'My child will be a boy.'

"If she intends him to be a great painter, for instance, she will insist on this fact to herself. She will visit art galleries and surround herself with beauty, and above all, she will think beautiful things.

"If she wants him to be an author she will read good books and always on opening or closing one tell herself: 'My son will one day write like that.' If he is to be an architect she will accustom her mind to order and perspective, paying attention to mechanical accuracy in everything she does.

"The same method of mind will follow if she wishes to be the mother of a banker or financier, but in addition she will devote an hour daily to the minute study of mathematics."

PURCELLVILLE HAS PEACH WEIGHING TWELVE OUNCES

B. F. Wine, a resident of Purcellville, has in his possession a peach measuring ten and one-half inches in circumference and weighing three-quarters of a pound. The peach grew in his orchard here and there were only three on the tree.

U. S. OUTSTANDING DEBT

The interest bearing debt of the United States on May 31 amounted to $23,710,405,910, the bulk of which consists of war bonds outstanding among American investors.

The Treasury Department's last debt statement grouped the items in the debt as follows:

Consols, conversion bonds, etc., and Panama, $883,723,270.

Liberty bonds, including first, second, third and fourth issues, $15,269,258,200.

Victory notes, $4,022,101,500.

Certificates of indebtedness, $2,831,948,450.

War savings or securities, $708,269,490.

The statement showed that the Victory note issue is being gradually reduced. The amount so far retired is $478,272,800; under the sinking fund operations of the Treasury, other blocks of this issue are to be retired at frequent intervals.

Finds Children Genuine Asset for His Hotel

Whatever the attitude of the city apartment landlord toward children, the hotel man dotes on them.

The reason has been explained by George Wright, owner of two big Toronto hotels and a visitor at the American Hotel and Restaurant Equipment Exposition in Chicago.

"Women and children are taken care of first in my hotels," said Mr. Wright. "I consider children the greatest asset a hotel has. They are guests of the next generation.

"I keep the names of all children on a list, and at Christmas time I send cards to them. In one of my hotels, which has been in operation for forty-seven years, I have the third generation of children coming as guests."

What people really crave is a government that will support and not tax them.—Houston Post.

Vacation Days!

VACATION DAYS are here again, and how glad are the kiddies. Little journeys are now in order, picnicking and down to the "ole swimmin' hole."

We won't always be able to go with them, but we will do the next best thing and see that they have a good time. That will be our joy.

We will pack their lunch boxes with goodies and not forget the cold meats, for their little bodies must be kept strong and meat is very necessary once a day.

And because we want that particular portion of their food to be wholesome, to be clean, to be sanitary, to be fresh, we will buy it from

SUMMER PRUNING NOT GOOD FOR FRUIT TREES

Old Practice Reduces Growth of Tree and Limits Production of Fruit.

At an early period of horticultural development in America some one said, "Winter prune for wood and summer prune for fruit." Although this advice was purely imperial in its origin yet the authorities of that day and of the subsequent generation accepted this statement as a horticultural axiom, and thus it became one of the accepted facts of orthodox horticulture.

All kinds and amounts of summer pruning has been done, but unfortunately heavy fruit production did not consistently follow the treatment and doubts tended to limit this practice. However, before the value of summer pruning could be determined, it was first necessary to devise carefully planned experiments to test its effects on fruit production.

Since that time such careful work has been done to determine the value of summer pruning in its various applications. It is now felt that this treatment limits rather than promotes crop production.

A few facts concerning the effects of summer pruning will be given here in view of the tendency of many growers to prune their orchards this summer.

Summer pruning weakens fruit trees. Increased vigor rather than lowered vitality is generally needed to promote annual bearing in the orchards of Virginia.

Summer pruning encourages new wood growth since the tree immediately rises to replace the parts removed in pruning. The growth is less in amount than that following winter pruning and it does not mature as early in the season. The growth is usually weak following mid-summer pruning; some of it may resemble fruits spurs but it does not usually function as fruit wood.

Fruit bud formation is dependent upon abundant leaf area. The more vigorous the growth of the tree, the greater the need of large leaf area to produce certain plant foods which are needed to balance the abundant nitrogen intake through the roots. Summer pruning removes the leaves at the time they are most needed to manufacture foods used in promoting fruit bud formation.

Crowded, weak, crooked growth follows summer pruning of young apple trees.

Summer pruning has reduced tree growth and fruit yields in all experiments conducted in eastern fruit districts.

Pruning wounds made later than the last of May do not heal as rapidly as those made in late winter or early spring.

Pruning in late October and November may be encouraged if the leaves have fallen from the trees, especially when there is much pruning to do.

WHY IS A BACHELOR?

The question of "Why is a bachelor?" has long puzzled the sex to which is generally attributed the characteristic of inquisitiveness. A variety of explanations of varying degrees of plausibility have, from time to time, been volunteered.

Blighted puppy love, an inveterate addiction to golf, the comic supplements and vaudeville jests, friendship for a pipe or an ill-fitting coat, have all been brought forward as the solution to the riddle.

Yet somehow they fail to satisfy and since the bachelors and the few married men who alone know the real answer insist upon keeping it to themselves, the perplexity of the balance of the world has so far remained unrelieved.

Today, however, it would seem that a determined effort is afoot to arrive at the truth of the matter.

Over in France, where a falling birth rate is pronounced to be the responsibility of those loath to assume the paternal function of pushing the perambulator of a Sunday afternoon or walking the cries of little Paul-Marie into reluctant slumber almost any night, they are on the trail of the truth. On the theory that no more subtle reasoning than financial caution and selfishness prompts elusive young Gaston to flee the unquestioned charms of dainty Colette, the government is proceeding with admirable directness toward the much-to-be-desired remedy. A substantial tax has been levied against bachelorhood. The proceeds of the levy are to be devoted to the establishment of what might be accurately described as a "baby bonus fund." Thus will the foot-loose male be called upon to assist in supporting the offspring of his brother who, more adventurous of spirit, has entered upon the duties of husband and father.

The experiment is still too young to permit of accurate judgment as to its full effect. Yet, assuming the premise that Gallic thriftiness is the cause of the current plethora of bachelors in France, to be correct, the game apparently cannot be beaten. Frenchmen who are unwilling to contribute children of their own in France's hour of need are to be required to contribute toward the support of large families fathered by their more patriotic brothers. Over on this side of the Atlantic the course of the experiment will be watched with keen interest. And it may safely be predicted that those who will watch it with most poignant concern will be our own bachelors, dreading lest their secret, ages old, is at last to be divined.—Washington Star.

Don't stick with the prunes

MY DAD'S favorite yarn WAS THE one about THE OLD storekeeper WHO WAS playing checkers IN THE back of the store AMONG THE coal oil AND THE prunes WHEN THE shortie WHO HAD just jumped his king SAID "B! there's a customer WAITIN' OUT front" AND SI said "Sh-b-b! IF YOU'LL keep quiet NEBBE HE'LL go away." NOW HERE'S the big idea WHEN A good thing HAPPENS ALONG DON'T LEAVE it to Georgia TO GRAB the gravy. PRINCEANCE IF.

YOU HEAR of a smoke OR READ about a smoke. THAT REALLY does more THAN PLEASE the taste. THERE ARE no books on you. THERE'S NO law against YOUR STEPPING UP WITH THE other live ones AND SAYING right out IN A loud, clear voice. "GIMME A pack of THOSE CIGARETTES. THAT SATISFY."

YOU'LL say you never tasted such flavor, such mild but full-bodied tobacco goodness. You're right, too, because they don't make other cigarettes like Chesterfields. The Chesterfield brand can't be copied.

NOKESVILLE APPEAL FOR CHANGE OF ROAD DENIED

State Highway Commission Considers Original Route of Manassas-Greenwich Road.

A resolution sustaining the original routing of the Manassas-Greenwich road was adopted at a meeting of the State Highway Commission at Norfolk on Friday, according to a message from Mr. Henry P. Beck, secretary, to Mr. George G. Tyler, county clerk. Nokesville residents a few weeks ago appeared before a State Highway committee which came to Manassas to consider their appeal which sought to change the route to include Nokesville instead of Woodlawn, a routing which would have increased the distance from Manassas to Greenwich by about two miles. The resolution adopted by the commission follows: "After careful inspection and consideration, the Highway Commission decides that the appeal of certain freeholders of Prince William, protesting against the location of that portion of Route No. 21, between Manassas and Warrenton, as determined by Highway Commissioner George P. Coleman, is not sustained, and that the location of Route No. 21 from Manassas, through Greenwich to the end of the macadam road near Mitchell Harrison's gate, as located by the Highway Commissioner, is therefore confirmed.

"The permanent location of that portion of Route No. 21, between New Baltimore, at the end of the macadam road near Mitchell Harrison's gate is not finally determined at this time."

MANY SPEAKERS WILL ADDRESS COUNTY RALLY

Big Day Scheduled for Friday, August 12—Dr. Hill Sails From Liverpool to Come.

(Lillian V. Gilbert, County Home Demonstration Agent)

Plans are well in hand for the Prince William county rally and banquet picnic, which is to be held at the fair grounds next Friday, August 12, under the auspices of the county woman's auxiliary, farmers' union and boys' and girls' agricultural and home economics clubs.

Good speaking, games, etc., are promised. The speakers expected are: Mrs. Henrietta Calvin, specialist in home economics from the Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.; Dr. I. W. Hill, assistant in charge of boys' club work in the South, United States Department of Agriculture; Mr. Charles S. Barrett, president of the national farmers' union, and Hon. A. B. Thornhill, president of the state farmers' union.

A letter has just been received from Mrs. Calvin saying, "My plans are now to leave Washington the morning of the 12th at 8:55, over the Southern, and arrive in Manassas at 10:05. I think I shall leave Manassas at 5:52 P. M."

Dr. Hill sailed from Liverpool, England, July 22, so he has ample time to get here. Hon. A. B. Thornhill has been heard from and says that he will be on hand for the meeting. Everybody come. Bring your basket and have a good time.

ENTERTAINS LITTLE GUESTS

Master Charles Webster Hopkins is Host at Party Saturday Evening.

Master Charles Webster Hopkins was host to twenty-eight of his little friends on Saturday evening at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. S. Hopkins, on Grant avenue. The children were entertained in their little host's well-equipped play yard, and enjoyed everything exceedingly, the high slide being the most popular amusement of the evening. At 8 o'clock the guests were ushered into the dining room, which was decorated in pink. Each child received a dainty box, to which was attached a hand-painted, cut-out figure of "Peter Rabbit," or one of his friends. The boxes contained delicious candy and a prize.

The refreshments consisted of fruit, cake and pink and white ice cream, the latter being served in pink cases made to represent pink roses. The centerpiece was a lake with ducks upon its surface and a tiny pink fairy gazing into its depths.

This was the first of a series of entertainments which will be given, and each time a different group of children will be invited.

OFFER SCHOLARSHIP TO MANASSAS HIGH SCHOOL

Alumni Will Raise $50 or $100 for County Student Outside of Manassas District.

A plan to establish a $50 or $100 Manassas High School scholarship which is to be offered to a Prince William county student living outside of Manassas district has been announced by the high school alumni association. The plan was first proposed by Mr. Percy S. Haydon at the annual alumni banquet in June and is now in the hands of a committee composed of Miss Mary Larkin, chairman, Miss Louise Maloney and Mr. W. Marshall Haydon.

Contributions will be received from alumni here and elsewhere, and arrangements will be made to hold a competitive examination in time for the winner to enter high school here in September. The competition will be open to students ready to enter the freshman or advanced classes, giving equal opportunity to all students in the five magisterial districts, including those who live in junior high school territory and are likely to come to the parent high school only for the two advanced years of the course.

If members of the alumni support the plan according to expectations, the scholarship will be made permanent.

CLARK—COCKE

Miss Cocke, of Texas, Becomes Bride of Mr. Douglas Clark.

The drawing room of Hollins College, near Roanoke, was the scene of a quiet wedding at five o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, the twenty-eighth of June, when Miss Elizabeth Nelson Cocke became the bride of Mr. William Douglas Clark, of Washington, D. C.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Otis Meade, of Roanoke, and Dr. George Braxton Taylor, chaplain of the college, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Lucian H. Cocke, of Roanoke. Her only attendant was her cousin, Miss Mary Stuart Cocke. Mr. George Borst, of Philadelphia, acted as best man.

Miss Cocke is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph James Cocke, of Brownsville, Tex., and the granddaughter of the late Charles L. and Susannah Virginia Cocke, of Hollins College. Mr. Clark is a son of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Dunlop Douglas Clark, of Manassas.

50 FT. OF WATER IN WELL

Work is progressing steadily on the new municipal well, which at 10:30 o'clock this morning had reached a depth of 98 1/2 feet. The drilling has been slower each day until today, when the drill passed through a hard strata into softer sandstone again. Supt. Gue reports 50 feet of water in the well.

If the supply continues according to present prospects a temporary pumping apparatus will be installed to increase the water supply during the fair. A pipe line for the purpose can be laid in about two days, using the same pipe which will be required when the well is connected for permanent use.

It has been suggested to Mr. C. H. Sealey, who is drilling the well, that a night force be employed, but Mr. Sealey is said to object to this means of hastening the work because, he says, it will be difficult to keep the hole straight while working by night.

Daily progress on the well has been reported as follows: July 23, 11 a. m. to 5 p. m., 32 ft.; 29th, 6:45 a. m. to 12:10 p. m., 18 ft.; 30th, 6:30 a. m. to 7 p. m., 14 ft.; August 1, 6:45 a. m. to 6 p. m., 11 ft.; 2nd, 7 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., 6 ft.; 4th, 7 a. m. to 6:45 p. m., 8 feet; today, 7 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., 8 1/2 ft.
