STATE NEWS NOTES

The blowing out of a tire cost H. M. Gaultney his car in a unique manner last week, the machine being entirely consumed. Mr. Gaultney, it is said, was driving down a slight grade on the Prince George Road near Hopewell, when a tire blew out and the car became uncontrollable. In a lurch Mr. Gaultney was pitched clear of the car but, instead of the car overturning, it slowly regained its balance and, with the engine running and brakes released, started on its career unguided. The car made for some nearby woods and, striking over the smaller trees, kept its pace until checked by a large tree. Fire caught under the hood and, despite Gaultney's efforts to check it, destroyed the car.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the Virginia State Sunday School Association will be held in Charlottesville February 21-22. The schools of Charlottesville are to furnish homes for 300 delegates. One of the chief speakers is to be Dr. Frank Brown, of New York, secretary of the World Sunday School Association, who is to make two addresses. A representative of the International Sunday School Association will also be present.

The "unloaded" pistol played its role at Danville during the Christmas season when Frank Pollock, a well-known young Danville man, was painfully injured by Lee A. Wilson. The two were in a local poolroom, Pollock having a small toy pistol used to denote blanks. Both men had been playing with the empty pistol and had put it down. When Wilson picked it up again he thought it was still unloaded. He placed it close to Pollock's head and fired. The wadding made an ugly wound in the corner of Pollock's mouth and part of his face was seared by the blast and impregnated with gunpowder. It was necessary to scrape the bone and to inject anti-tetanus serum.

The 1922 reunion of the Grand Camp, United Confederate Veterans of Virginia, will be held in Winchester on a date to be fixed by a committee of the organization, according to a letter received December 24 from Grand Commander Thomas B. West, of Bedford, accepting an invitation extended by the Chamber of Commerce to meet at Winchester. When the grand camp met several months ago at Charlottesville it was reported that the annual reunions may be discontinued, owing to so many of the veterans being infirm, but indications are annual meetings will continue indefinitely. Commander West says in his letter that "it is with peculiar pleasure we unhesitatingly accept the invitation." Captain George W. Kurtz, commander of Cavalry Turner Ashby Camp, Winchester, is general chairman of the committee on arrangements. Efforts will be made to secure low railroad rates and get as many of the old veterans together as possible. There are comparatively few ex-Confederates in Virginia and adjoining states, it was said, who did not participate in battles in and around Winchester during the Civil War, when the town changed hands no less than seventy times and six times in one day.

Caught at Winchester with five gallons of moonshine liquor in his jitney just on the eve of Christmas, when the demand for Yuletide cheer was brisk and active and prices soaring, Henry McKee was taken into custody by local police. He put up $1,000 cash bond for the January grand jury term of court, and his car was seized by the sheriff, but released when McKee put up another cash bond of $500. He explained, officers said, that he was in the act of delivering the liquor for another person, whose identity he declined to disclose. A warrant to search the jitney was sworn out after McKee had admitted he was in possession of the liquor.

The Salvation Army prepared a large Christmas tree in the court-house at Fredericksburg Saturday to which the poor children were invited at 8 o'clock. Many were there and many good things and provisions were given out to the needy. The funds were provided by the public and the distribution made under the auspices of the Salvation Army.

A negro woman named Martha Phelps, died at the Lynchburg Hospital December 24 from a pistol shot wound, alleged to have been inflicted by "Thumps" Campbell, also a negro. The shooting occurred at a dance Friday night in Chestnut street, Lynchburg, when Campbell is alleged

CERTIFIED SILVER KING CORN

Opportunity for Farmers to Secure This Early Maturing Variety.

(W. L. Browning, County Agent) I have just received notice from the Virginia Crop Improvement Association, at Blacksburg, that there is for sale through this association a limited quantity of certified Silver King corn, grown on the college farm. This corn has been grown on the farm for several years and proven itself to be the earliest field corn ever grown at the station. It is ideal for hogging down, or planting after harvesting an early crop. It makes a small stock and ears close to the ground. The grain is white and usually very sound.

This corn should not be grown in competition to the large late varieties. This corn is obtainable through the Virginia Crop Improvement Association in quantities of not more than one bushel to each person.

Anyone desiring to obtain some early maturing corn, to either hog down or plant after early potatoes or immediately following cutting wheat, if you will get in touch with your county agent, I will send you an application blank for the seed.

to have broken the dance up by the shooting. All of the dancers fled, leaving the wounded woman lying on the dance room floor. Later during the night she was found by the police and sent to the hospital. Campbell escaped but was captured about twelve hours later.

The nine-year-old son of Clyde Clem, a farm manager, north of Winchester, was struck and almost instantly killed Monday afternoon by an automobile in charge of E. M. Fulk, mail carrier of Drakesville. Reports said the boy ran in front of the car while Fulk was driving his machine between two others. Fulk was booked on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Employees of the Dan River Mills, Danville, about 5,500 men and women, found a welcome surprise waiting for them Saturday at noon when they were paid off prior to the week's holiday. The pay roll was made up for nine days instead of six, this constituting a 50 per cent bonus on the week's work. This increase cost the cotton mill company $147,000.

Thomas J. Coles, former treasurer of Pittsylvania county and a prominent citizen of Chatham, has declined Governor Davis' appointment as a member of the board of directors of Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Coles, who recently received a communication informing him of his appointment, feels unable to accept it under the press of business affairs.

Mrs. T. P. Venerable, of Colonial Beach, was found dead in her bed at that place last week. Her husband died about two months ago. She was very prominent in church work and will be badly missed. Her body was taken to Upper Fairmount, Md., her old home, for burial.

Building of a new banking house by the Commercial and Savings Banks on the present site of Hotel Evans, Winchester, purchased by the bank recently, has been deferred at least a year, and the hotel lease of F. L. Buckley has been extended to March 1, 1923. Bank officials are understood to have decided to wait until business conditions become better settled before undertaking a large building program. The hotel is to be thoroughly renovated at once, the lessee said.

For the first time on record a Sunday session of Police Court was held December 25. Court convened at the usual hour for disposing of a special docket of prisoners, who, up to 6 o'clock that morning, had been unable to procure their release on bond. This special session was decided upon several days before by Justice Simmons in order that persons arrested on Christmas Eve and unable to furnish bond, might not be confined over Christmas Day.

City Manager Beck, of Lynchburg, has recommended to the City Council that the old Methodist cemetery be abandoned as a burying ground and that the city open a new cemetery outside the city for burials at public expense. It is proposed to maintain the present cemetery as a memorial, for many Confederate soldiers were buried there. The cemetery was decided to the city by the Lynch family more than 100 years ago, and, it is thought at least 10,000 people have been buried there.

BENJAMIN F. HUGHES DEAD

Former Resident of Manassas Brought Here for Burial Wednesday.

The funeral services of the late B. F. Hughes were held at the Lutheran Church in Manassas on Wednesday at 11:30 o'clock. The deceased was well known in town, having moved here when quite a young man, and having lived here for twenty-five years.

Mr. Hughes was born in New Tripoli, Pa., in 1859 and had he lived, would have been sixty-three on March 4th.

Injuries which he received about two months ago resulted in his death, which occurred at Allentown, Pa., on Christmas eve. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. L. M. Carroll, of Washington; Mrs. Edwin Griffin, of New York; and Miss Susie Hughes, of Allentown, Pa., and two sons, Mr. J. B. Hughes, of Topeka, Kans., and George Hughes, of Washington, all of whom were present at the funeral.

The fact that the report of Mr. Hughes' death had not reached the majority of his friends in Manassas accounted for the small attendance at the funeral.

EXCELLENT MUSICAL PROGRAM

The Temple School of Music began the winter term on Friday, December 9th with an increased enrollment. The school closed for the Christmas holidays on Friday and will resume lessons on Monday, January 2nd.

An excellent program was given by a number of students on Monday evening, at which the following pupils played: Esther Warren Patten, Katherine Browning, Walsen Conner, Christine Meetez, Rena Bevens, Ruth Cross, Marion Lynn, Evelyn Miller, Frances Smith, Elizabeth Sinclair, Emma Ella Ledman, Margaret Brown, Elizabeth Hutchison, Virginia Conner and Lucy Athey.

The children in the elementary class, especially the little folks, are doing unusually good work for such young pupils.

WATERMELON AT CHRISTMAS

Mrs. William J. Young, who lives just outside of town, had a "watermelon feast" at her home last Friday. She had several visitors from the North to dine with her and to quote the words of Mrs. Young "They opened their eyes with astonishment when they saw that Virginians could have ripe watermelon at Christmas."

This melon had been pulled from the vine in the late fall and had since been kept in a cool place. Mrs. Young stated that it was as delicious as any she had ever eaten.

PLANTS GIVEN TO EASTERN

Rubber Plant and Sago Palm Owned for Years by Mrs. Wearich.

Mrs. Ada Wenrich in behalf of the Lutheran Church and in memory of her husband, has presented Eastern College-Conservatory with a handsome rubber plant and a sago palm. Both of these plants Mrs. Wenrich has had in her possession for twenty years and she refused at one time $50 for one of them. These plants will add decidedly to the attractiveness of the college as they are both quite large.

FICTION HEADLINES

Only the "top-notch" fiction writers of America find a place in the Magazine of The Week—a Sunday Star. The stories are best to be found; they are the cream of the output of American authors. For instance, the two leading fiction features of the Magazine next Sunday, January 1, are "Kale," by Don Marquis, and "Speed," by Sinclair Lewis, author of "Main Street." Order your copy of next Sunday's Star from newsdealers today.

CHRISTMAS DANCE A SUCCESS

Large Number of Out of Town Guests Present—Beautiful Decorations.

The Christmas dance given by the Manassas Cotillion Club on Wednesday night was unanimously declared to be one of the most successful dances ever held in Manassas.

The object of this club is to put dancing on a higher plane than it has heretofore held in our town, and if the succeeding dances compare with the two already given, this will be assured.

Too much credit can not be given the young men who had charge of the arrangements. Mr. J. P. Lyon, who was at the head of the committee on decorations, is to be congratulated on the beautiful and artistic manner in which his work was carried out in the Christmas colors of red and green. The music was furnished by Crowder's orchestra of Washington and was greatly enjoyed by the spectators as well as those participating in the dance.

A large number of out of town guests were present, among these being: Messrs. Bailey, of Orange; Hant, Fletcher, Matthews, Stepp, all of Warrenton; Edward Carter and Hamilton Hutchison, of Haymarket; Bert, of Washington; Harry Wilkinson, of Alexandria; Willis, of Remington; Ralph Henry, of Washington; Taylor Adams, of Aldie; Frank Brower, of Catharpin; Athey, of Rockville, Md.; Jack McCarty, of Broad Run; Hallett, of Front Royal; Rolf Robertson, of Haymarket, and Alexander Stoeger, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Wampler, of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. D. M. Pitts, of Elk Hill; Misses Maxine Stoeger, of New York; Lucille Hutchison, Lillian Hutchison and Jo Peters, of Haymarket; Margaret Furr, of Broad Run; Marjorie Brower, of Catharpin; Helen Simpson, Fannie Ransdell, Myrtle Kinchele, of Washington; Dorothy Riptan, of Baltimore, and Miss Price, of Washington.

Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches and coffee were served during the evening.

The following were the patronesses of the evening: Messdames B. Lynn Robertson, J. L. Hynson, J. P. Lyon, O. D. Waters, R. B. Larkin, J. C. Albright, M. H. Kinchele, Mary Moran and Margaret Lewis.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

Election of Mr. J. I. Randall as Fire Chief Confirmed—Other Business.

Councilman Hynson, chairman of the street committee, reported that a representative of the Roanoke Sales Corporation would be in Manassas shortly, when he would take up the matter relative to trading the steam roller for a tractor.

Councilman Cornwell of the building committee reported that after an interview with Mr. R. L. Lewis, jr., relative to the building he is having erected at the courthouse, Mr. Lewis stated that he desired to use the same as a stable, in connection with a machinery building. As this was not in conformity with the permit granted, it was ordered that the permit granted R. L. Lewis be rescinded, and that he be notified that he must comply with the law, or present to the council a new application for permit.

Reports of the sergeant and treasurer were read and ordered filed, and the treasurer's report ordered spread upon the minutes.

Fines amounting to $2.50 were reported by the mayor as a charge against the treasurer.

Concerning YOUR Highways The transportation of passengers and freight by motor vehicles for fare is a comparatively new and rapidly growing business. It is carried on in all sections of Virginia, in cities, towns and rural communities. This business is here to stay; therefore, it should be properly regulated. It is conducted on the public highways, many of which have been badly torn up because of the rough usage received from such traffic. At present the owners of these vehicles are not required to pay their fair share of the cost of road work. Neither are they required to regulate their service to meet the public need. They can operate where, when and how they please. Frequently, when competing with steam railroads or electric lines, they take the more profitable business, leaving the less profitable for their competitors. They can charge any rate of fare they may wish to impose. In many cases these motor vehicles provide a useful public service, but— Do you think it fair that they should continue to be the only common carriers in Virginia whose service is not regulated? Do you think that they should be permitted to use your streets and roads at your expense, without paying their just share of the cost of repairs? Virginia Short Line Association

HORSE OF ANOTHER COLOR

Democrats in Congress cannot very well or consistently make a party issue of the pending bill to prevent and punish lynching on the ground that it invades the rights of states and local self government. We have called on the federal government to thrust aside and override state and local authority in enforcement of the prohibition law, have invited it to trample the reserved right of the states to regulate their own electorate in establishing woman suffrage, have besought it to usurp powers and duties supposed to belong to the states by building public roads for us, maintaining schools for us, providing maternity experts to supervise the nativity and rearing of our children. In all of this we may be right and sensible. Facts of our history seem to show that we need far more of federal interference and participation in internal affairs of the states than our constitution intended or the fathers of the republic thought safe. But we have no right to contend that the federal government may assume the enforcement of one law and shall be forbidden to enforce another. State and county governments have failed to enforce the laws against lynching as they have failed to enforce the laws against the liquor traffic. We cannot make fish of one and flesh of the other. We cannot call on the United States to help us enforce liquor laws because we are unable to do it ourselves and then protest against its enforcement of laws against lynching, which also we have failed to enforce. It is the merest and baldest sham and hypocrisy to whimper about states rights and sovereignty when we have been foremost in disregarding them whenever a few dollars for us were in sight, a fad was to be nursed, some votes to be won or we were to be relieved of some expense and labor.

It is a shameful truth that in some states local authority has cringed disgracefully before mobs of lynchers, has faltered and failed and fled. If we summon the authorities in Washington to help us against the bootleggers and moonshiners, disregarding the laws, we have not the right to resent the coming of the same authority to help punish and prevent the lynchers who disregard our laws and display boastful contempt for our courts and machinery of justice. Let us try to be consistent one way or the other. If we are going to stand on the rights supposed to be reserved to the states, let us do it all the way through. If we are to continue to surrender those rights, as we have done, we cannot undertake to pick and choose and say the central government may come in and assist, or take the lead, in enforcing laws we want enforced and must be repelled and forbidden when it proceeds to enforce those to which we are indifferent or which we want violated. We of the South and the democratic party cannot stand before the "wet" states of the North and West and demand that they submit to federal interference with their liquor traffic while we resist like interference with murder of American citizens, entitled to protection of the law until they have been proved guilty of crime after fair trial. Let's stop doing the baby act, stand manfully by our own record and acts and accept the consequences. We have abandoned the doctrine of state rights and sovereignty in a dozen different and deliberate ways. Now let us take our medicine and confess federal aid and interference where state and local governments fail or are too weak or poor to meet requirements to be an accepted fact.—Loudoun Mirror.

"MARSE HENRY" WATTERSON

It is not merely as one who for half a century contributed brilliantly to the enrichment of American journalism, but also as a broadly useful American citizen and a superb representative of a cherished type in our national life, that Colonel Henry Watterson will be missed. His death removes the last outstanding figure of a school that has been vanishing rapidly within the past generation. As an editor and as a man, the distinguished and beloved Kentuckian belonged essentially to an earlier period, though his youthfulness of spirit and neverfailing freshness of mental qualities enabled him to apply his genius with unimpaired effectiveness until his pen at last was laid down. Colonel Watterson was of the editorial school that at one time personified the American press. It is hardly so fitting to say that "Marse Henry" was editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal as to say that he was the Louisville Courier-Journal. While he continued in control of that paper it stood virtually in that relation to him in the minds of millions.

Always active in public affairs, Colonel Watterson bore a part in the political life of his time that cannot be dissociated from his career as an editor. Though apparently without personal political ambitions, he was a recognized national leader among the democrats for a generation, and the service he rendered in that relationship always will be associated with his memory. It was a service characterized at all times by courage, vigor and honesty, by the most unremitting devotion to the principles upon which he had laid his political convictions in the early days of his career. The jewel of consistency adorned his position on every public question.

In personal contacts he was the embodiment of the charms and graces characteristic of his race and generation. "Although always a democrat," says a Washington correspondent, "Marse Henry" had as many friends in the republican party as he had within his own." Doubtless that was true. There could be no finer tribute to the engaging qualities of his personality than the plan of his own home people at Louisville to observe a day of mourning. The love and admiration of a multitude of Americans will follow "Marse Henry" to the grave.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

START IT RIGHT

There is but one way to get more out of the year 1922 than you got out of the year which preceded it—and that is to start it right.

Good resolutions made upon the New Year are just like so much pie crust, they are very easily broken, unless you make a firmer resolution than all the others—and that is a resolve to keep them. There is but one safe way to lay out those resolutions, and that is to look back over the years that have gone, single out mistakes that have been made, and then resolve not to make the same mistakes again.

Despite the fact that there is a lot of misery in the world, if we could corral it, drive it all into one big bunch, and then take note of it. But fortunately there is happiness enough to over-balance it, and where we find one case of misery we find a dozen cases of happiness. There are not actual want, or privation, or heart-rending cases of neglect in Culpeper, and we know of no such cases in the community surrounding. But with all this there is still more happiness to be had than we have experienced during the past year if we will but make up our minds now, as we start a new year, to search for it. Hunting for happiness is just like hunting for anything else—the harder you hunt the more apt you are to find it. It isn't going to come to you, unless you cultivate the habit of carrying it to others. Why not make one big, wholesome resolution for the year—make it broad and then stick to it. And why not let that resolution be that you will do at least one kindly act toward a relative, a friend, or even a stranger who may be in our midst every day during the entire year. This doesn't mean you will have to dig into your pocket for a present every day. It doesn't mean you'll have to neglect your business. For no matter where you are you can find time to do something that will make someone smile, that will make someone's heart happy for a passing moment—and that is as kindly an act as anyone can ever do.

Resolve to do a kind act every day during the year 1922, and see if there isn't a lot of happiness lying around home that you have been overlooking in the years gone by.—Virginia Star.

LAUGH AND LIVE

DIFFICULT

A certain judge after passing sentence, always gave advice to prisoners. Having before him a man found guilty of stealing, he started thus:

"If you want to succeed in this world you must keep straight. Now, do you understand?"

"Well, not quite," said the prisoner; "but if your lordship will tell me how a man is to keep straight when he is trying to make both ends meet, I might."

A GOOD EXTRACTOR

Willie had swallowed a penny, and his mother was in a state of alarm.

"Helen," she called to her sister in the next room, "send for a doctor; Willie has swallowed a penny."

The terrified and frightened boy looked up imploringly. "No, mama," he interposed, "send for the minister."

"The minister?" asked his mother, incredulously. "Why the minister?"

"Because papa says he can get money out of anybody."—London Tit-Bits.

HE WAS WARNED

She was a young widow who had just remarried, and hubby number two was causing her much anxiety.

"I can not understand why my husband is so fastidious," she confessed to a friend. "He scarcely eats anything."

Now, my first husband, who died, used to eat everything I cooked for him."

"Did you tell your present husband that?" queried the friend.

"Oh, yes! Of course. Why?"

"Well, perhaps that is the reason."—London Tit-Bits.

PAT'S VIEW

This Irishman on Sunday heard a clergyman preach on the judgment day. The priest told of the hour when the trumpet shall blow and all peoples of all climes and all ages shall be gathered before the seat of God to be judged according to their deeds done in the flesh. After the sermon he sought out the pastor, and he said: "Father, I want to ask you a few questions touching on what you preached about today. Do you really think that on the judgment day everybody will be there?"

The priest said: "That is my understanding."

"Will Cain and Abel be there?"

"Undoubtedly."

"And David and Goliath—will they both be there?"

"That is my information and belief."

"And Brian Boru and Oliver Cromwell will be there?"

"Assuredly they will be present."

"And the A. O. H.'s and A. P. A.'s?"

"I am quite positive they will all be there together."

"Father," said the parishioner, "there'll be damn little judges done the first day!"

STANDS OR FALTERS

We all know today how strictly in force is the public degree of economy. The war is no longer accepted as an excuse for inflated prices. But the demand goes farther than this, in as much as its basic requirements is for something better—merchandise which is not thrown around in a slipshod manner, but goods bought in quantities and handled in an efficient way in order that overhead will be reduced. People have had their eyes opened as never before, and no longer are they satisfied with mere nicely worded advertisements. THEY DEMAND TO BE SHOWN.

We have always tried to anticipate the desires of our customers and we have therefore built an addition to our meat market and shall hereafter offer in season, THE MARKET'S BEST SELECTIONS IN

FISH AND GAME

It will now no longer be necessary for the anxious housewife to have to listen with an expectant ear and sometimes in vain for the cry of the meat and fish vender. For she can merely phone us and rest absolutely assured that it will be delivered at the appointed time. The cost will be no more and no forty and one families will have handled the food that's for her and her children. In this manner be ye economical, not in price alone, but demand "Something Better" at the same price. That and that alone is true economy. May we serve you in our new place with

FISH, GAME AND MEATS

In the same sanitary way? Your presence will be greatly appreciated.

A very enjoyable entertainment was given by the teachers and pupils of Greenwich School on December 22. Recitations and songs by the primary children were greatly applauded, then "A Present For Aunt Jane" by Newman Hopkins, and "Miss Susan's Christmas Gift" by Miss Betty Foster, were pleasing numbers.

A drill given by ten girls, with ropes of running pine with the Christmas tree as a back ground was very effective. The teachers were beautifully remembered by the pupils, and the program closed with a song by the school, "Christmas, Christmas Time."

THE GREATEST GIFT OF THE NEW YEAR

$4.50*

¶ Have you thought of the greatest gift that 1922 has to offer? What is more permanent than prosperity, more lasting than popularity, more enduring than position?

¶ What is the biggest thing that can come to you on New Year's Day? Even health cannot continue without it, wealth is seldom acquired without it, and contentment cannot exist without it. What is the foundation on which life itself is built? The answer is: HOPE.

¶ Shall we speak lightly, then, in greeting the baby new year, or back the sentiment with a firm promise to do our share in making it happy and prosperous?

¶ In this city we have the resources, the natural advantages, and the people with which to develop a great civic structure. There is only necessary the power of mental demand, the attitude of mind with which to whet our wits, to sharpen our energies and polish our endeavor. There is nothing impossible that has already been accomplished. Thrift, work and singleness of purpose, if cultivated intensely, will add still greater heights to community development and redound to our individual credit. The world is constantly calling for better men and better things, and the opportunity is at hand to supply them. Through Hope we can gain strength for the duties that await us, and through service we can rise triumphant.

¶ So, on this New Year's Day, the Peoples National Bank, feeling its responsibility to the community, pledges its best efforts toward a higher plane of accomplishment in 1922 than ever before; and in all seriousness of spirit it wishes you, one and all, twelve months of useful happiness and prosperity.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear sister, Lucy Shimpke, who died four years ago today, December 27th, 1917.

Today we recall the memory, Of a loved one laid to rest And those who still remember her, Are those who loved her best.

Dear sister I often wonder, What you would think and say, If you only knew the changes Since you went a way.

My thoughts go often wandering, To a grave that is far away, Where lie the sweetest memories That will never fade away.

Written by her sister, Mollie.

What Poor Coal is to your Furnace Low Grade Gasoline is to your Motor

ANY experienced oil refiner can make a gasoline which will develop maximum power, or give maximum economy, or easy starting; that will enable a motor to idle well and run smoothly at a low throttle; or that will give small carbon deposit. But to perfect a balanced gasoline combining all the desirable properties in proper proportion took years of careful experimentation by our chemists and engineers.

Crudes from practically every producing field, improved refining processes, delicate chemical determinations, tests for flame speed, pressure, residue; tests in every type of internal combustion engine, both in the laboratory and in actual service; these were some of the factors which led to the development of our improved "Standard" Motor Gasoline.

This balanced "Standard" Motor Gasoline equals or excels other motor gasolines in pep, power and economy. It keeps fuel and upkeep costs down the year around.

It is particularly desirable in cold weather when less perfectly conditioned gasoline makes motors sluggish even with a rich, wasteful, carbon-making mixture.

Next time you need gasoline drive in where you see the familiar "S. O." sign. Get a tankful of balanced "Standard" Motor Gasoline. See what remarkable pulling power you get on the hills, how quickly your motor "snaps in." Keep tabs on the mileage you get. One quality wherever you buy it. At service stations and garages everywhere.

Refiners of POLARINE for all kinds of internal combustion engines.

Motor Trucks Increase Road Repair Costs 1500%

A SERIOUS question which the public must face has arisen in connection with the increasing use of the motor truck to carry passengers and freight, according to The World's Work, which adds that the heavy traffic of trucks is tearing out our highways.

The maintenance cost of state highways in New England is said to have advanced from $300,000 to $1,500,000 since 1910. This increase is due to the general use of the motor truck in its place of the horse-drawn wagon. It therefore has a disadvantage over the horse-drawn wagon, which must pay and maintain its own right of way and pay taxes in addition.

The public must decide whether it will continue to pay taxes for rebuilding the roads which the motor truck is a principal factor in destroying, or whether it will make this new method of transportation stand its proper share of the cost of the highways and thus place the competition with railroads on a fairer basis.

Then both of these methods of transportation would develop along sound economic lines. The country needs both railroad and motor truck transportation and to permit one, by an unfair advantage, to check the growth of the other would be a shortsighted policy.

COAL, LUMBER AND BUILDING MATERIALS

THE YEAR 1921

Has been a year of gradual and, in many cases, healthy readjustment of business and to those firms who have enjoyed many years of pleasant dealings with a large and old established trade this has been most welcome.

This Company started the year with the determination to re-establish its pre-war margins of profit and methods of doing business and our entire trade has supported our policies so generously that, in closing the year, we want to express our sincere appreciation to each and every one of our customers and to extend them our best wishes for the holiday season and the coming year.
