In California the following mixture was used on trees three years ago and is still in good condition.

MOTHERS' DAY.

Mother last Sunday claimed the attention of sons and daughters the country over. It was Mothers' Day. And who hasn't a mother? A mother is a common heritage—and a blessed one. If you haven't known a mother in reality she is with you in memory, and sometimes a memory is very sweet. Like the tree that grows in beauty as the years pass over its head, so does the beauty of a mother's life brighten the world and lift her people to a higher pinnacle of service, that we may truly say and with true belief, that the world is a better place to live in as the centuries speed away.

FROM VERA CRUZ.

Impressive services attended the landing of the braves of Vera Cruz. Seventeen caskets, draped in the flag of the country for which they fell, seventeen families in deep distress, are surely a solemn sight.

To some of us the Mexican situation is a vague affair at best. The border is distant. Many are able to say that their people are safe in old Virginia. The issue has not actually touched them, and the heart interest has not appeared to awaken them to the nobility of the fight. But the trouble with Mexico is as real as any war in the history of the world to seventeen sorrowing families, to as many scores of friends and to the multitude of families whose loved ones are exposed to the fate of the seventeen. Their lone consolation is the natural pride in the service their boys have given.

And when we think of the loss of these American heroes, it is a little foreign to most of us to remember that the Mexican lives are of equal importance. They cause the same anxiety, the same prayers, the same heartaches and the same tears—to the Mexicans.

THANKS TO GORGAS.

To Gen. William C. Gorgas, perhaps more than to any other single person, are due our thanks for the successful completion of the world's greatest engineering feat, the Panama canal. Gen. Gorgas made it possible. Gen. Gorgas is not an engineer in any of the strict appliances of the word, yet no one cares to deny that he engineered this situation most admirably.

Gorgas is surgeon-general of the army, and it is through his skill as a man of medicine that the Panama canal is no longer a member of the unsuccessful past. With a Gorgas France might have concluded the enterprise and deprived us of this splendid American honor. But France did not have a Gorgas—or, if she did, he was not utilized.

Men breathed their last as promptly as they might have given up their lives in warfare. Others heeded the warning and kept themselves away from the fever-infested country. Doctors perished with the rest. Medicines were as naught. The deaths increased as fever well can do. Work ceased. The canal was an impossibility.

Not so, said William Gorgas. And he proceeded with his knowledge of cause and effect. The region was subjected to a thorough cleansing process, such as infected sections of our own country might have been treated. A well-planned campaign aimed at the seat of the trouble wiped out the roots and placed this corner of the tropics on a sanitary footing enjoyed by few of our cities in the temperate zone.

Under the masterly hand of this sanitary expert, our canal diggers lived to complete their work, and the Canal Zone, once the most unhealthy place in all the world, offers health and comfort to man, woman and child. And now Gen. Gorgas turns his attention to Mexico.

A POTOMAC RIVER PERIL.

It is only early May and yet dangerous currents of the Upper Potomac have already claimed their first life of the season. Others will be taken before autumn unless measures are adopted to cut short this annual sacrifice of youth. Every one of these boating accidents is doubly distressing because it is so easily avoidable, and yet year after year bereaved parents and brothers and sisters grieve as the result of the venturesome, impetuous overconfidence of boys in their teens who steer their frail craft into perils plainly visible and which are avoided by older pleasure-seekers to whom experience has taught caution.

The Potomac river in the vicinity of Chain Bridge is as unsafe for navigation in canoes and small boats as it is for bathing. If it were within the power of the District authorities they should forbid such boats going more than a mile above the Aqueduct Bridge. If they have not this power, they should at least issue a public warning of the danger. Warning signs should be erected on the banks, and if necessary, a big red buoy should be anchored in midstream, so that no one could enter the danger zone, without making deliberate choice of risking his life.

It is, of course, the duty of parents to warn their children to avoid these danger spots, and co-operation on the part of boathouse keepers might prove effective to some extent.

Every possible precaution should be adopted at once to stop this needless sacrifice of young life.—Washington Herald.

THE BOYS OF '61.

The men who wore the gray are to meet next year at Richmond. The Florida reunion is now a memory and the old "boys" begin to plan for 1915. Other cities made a strong appeal. Richmond was not alone in her desire to bid them welcome. But they chose Richmond, the capital city of the old Confederacy, and by an overwhelming majority.

"It may be the last," said one battle-scarred veteran, "and I think we ought to finish there." Many think it will be the last. The ranks are growing thinner and a scattering band of warriors would seem a mockery of the past. It is nearly half a century since the struggle ended, and many years have passed over their heads.

Many seem as spry as they were ten years ago, and at the thought of Mexico more than one offered to shoulder arms in defense of the common country.

The world has never produced the peers of the boys of '61.

It's a queer wind that blows no dust.

THE passing of Lillian Nordica removes one of the greatest American artists known to music.

If Cole Blease is as black as he is painted, what brand of gravity holds him down to the governor's chair?

THE Sun copies an editorial paragraph from the Times-Dispatch, attaching the caption, "Another Swat from Richmond." In this mere bravado?

"MEN who succeed are cheerful." Naturally. But from the surrounding remarks we judge that the writer intended to convey the impression that cheer creates success.

If all the Mexican names were as admirably suited to a sneeze as Chihuahua, the printed pronunciations would be unnecessary. May the space writer offer his thanks?

"A SMILE removes obstacles, overcomes objections, inspires faith and paves the way for business," says a big manufacturing concern in a short talk to its representatives. It is just so good that we pass it on.

Now that a European has been sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary on three separate counts, it is the business of his government to discover the fountain of youth that its edict may not be a mere matter of words.

"It's an ill wind that blows no good," said the old lady as she threaded her way around the block, because the sewer trench blocked her passage across the street, reflecting the while how long it would be ere an automobile could whiz by and raise a column of dust to add to her household cares. [Now Celeste, a machine is not numbered among her earthly possessions.]

Neither Mr. Ennis nor his wife were in the building at the time but it is supposed that the fire originated with the explosion of a lamp. The loss was partly covered by insurance in companies represented by Mr. Karl J. Austin. We are told that Mr. Ennis suffered the same loss about a year ago and had since rebuilt.

The young students of Miss Herrell's class at Trinity Episcopal Sunday School enjoyed a picnic to Clifton last Saturday. The day was spent in gathering wild flowers, enjoying the touch of springtime, and the usual pleasure of a jolly crowd of little folks. An interested group of spectators watched a traction engine the other day, bringing two wagon loads of ties to the lumber yard here. Each load contained 105 ties, which is equal to about seven ordinary loads. The trip was made from Canova, this county. Mr. C. E. Fisher had a narrow escape Tuesday morning as he crossed the railroad track in front of train No. 49. The engine was almost upon his team when Mr. Fisher saw his danger. The engineer resorted to the emergency brake and saved the situation. Mrs. S. A. The white carnation featured the observance, though white flowers of every description were worn by those who were unable to procure the carnation. Rev. T. D. D. Clark delivered an entertaining lecture last Friday evening at Eastern auditorium, his subject being "Scotland in Song and Story." Mr. Clark is a native of the country of which he sang and is well qualified to make the evening as it was—a veritable center of interest and enjoyment. Mrs. Annie N. Violet, wife of Charles A. Since April 1, the shipments aggregated eight carloads, 2,242 cases, or 67,290 dozen eggs. During this period the company has paid into Prince William pockets for eggs and poultry the sum of $10,000. Mr. W. H. Campbell Morgan, of London, England, and author of a work now attracting attention entitled, "The Romance of Bible Chronology," is to visit this country in July. He will lecture at The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and supply one or two pulpits in that city, as well as speak at Montrose and Winona. Mr. Anstey demonstrates from the chronology of the Bible that the early chapters of Genesis are historic, and that the claim for the high antiquity of man is unfounded. Stock Sausage. Soak dry bread in cold water, take out the superfluous water by squeezing the bread in the hands; take as much cold meat chopped fine as bread. If the meat is very fat use less meat. Mix and season with salt, pepper and sage, stir in one raw egg to bind it together, make into small cakes and fry in spider. They should be rolled in flour, and will fry better if made several hours before frying. If wanted for breakfast get ready to fry the night before. You can use the fat part of flank corn beef or any other fatty or unwhappily meats you have. Brown Spice Cake. Cream one-quarter cup butter, add gradually one-half cup sugar, the beaten yolks of two eggs and one-third cup molasses, sift together one and one-half cups flour, one-fourth cup cocoa, one-half teaspoonful soda, one teaspoonful cream of tartar, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and mace, one-half teaspoonful nutmeg, one-fourth of clove; add flour to the creamed mixture alternately with one-half cup cold black coffee. Last fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until dry. Colors Restored. Blue stockings, especially a very delicately tinted kind, which have faded, can have the color restored by dipping them into hot water in which common bluing has been poured and some lumps of alum dissolved, or they can, together with white stockings, be recolored, and so continue to do a great deal of service. To the alum add dye instead of bluing, and so recolor the faded pink and blue and tan colored hosiery which has collected. Salt Adds to Flavor of Coffee. A pinch of salt adds much to the flavor of coffee. The coffee pot shortly of course, be aired, and it is a good plan to leave a little water in which some soda has been dissolved, stand in the coffee pot to neutralize the effect of the acid in the coffee. A strong soda solution should be boiled in the pot once a week. Coffee without sugar is more easily digested, and less harmful than coffee with either cream or sugar. Tomato and Cheese Lunch. For a tasty lunch, take one small can of tomatoes and one-half pound cheese (mild). Put tomatoes in a deep dish and cut cheese into small squares. Put into tomatoes, placing a few bits on top; cut one onion up fine and a pepper. Put into oven and bake 15 minutes. This is enough for four people and costs no more than 35 cents.
