

DRIVE TO SECURE MORE MEMBERS

Will Try to Obtain 25,000 Contributors to Virginia Council of Defense.

Richmond, Aug. 13.—Week after next, August 25 to 31, inclusive, the bankers of Virginia will secure 25,000 or more contributing members to the Virginia Council of Defense. They are excellently organized for this very essential work, and they will have their efforts backed by the Governor of Virginia, who will issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the state to show their interest in the splendid efforts of the Council by contributing a small average sum to its treasury.

The Virginia Council of Defense might properly and legally ask the subdivision of Virginia to make appropriations for its work, which, in the main, will add materially to the economic importance of Virginia, while aiding the war efforts of the Commonwealth, or the Council might, with propriety, secure the funds it requires for meeting the varied demands made upon it by getting a few large subscriptions; but neither of these methods could bring the State Council home to all the people as it will be brought through the medium of a popular subscription to which nobody will be allowed to give more than ten dollars, and a single dollar will entitle the giver to a contributing membership.

Letters from all over Virginia indicate a general "over the top" in the matter of subscriptions. The great desire of the State Council is to get at least 25,000 subscribers. Such a subscription list would be the best evidence of widespread interest at the start and an indication that the work of the Council would have at least 25,000 watchers throughout Virginia, many of whom would feel like giving the benefit of their advice and criticism.

It is, therefore, not so much a matter of money that is involved, but a measure of interest. It would be much easier to get 5,000 men in Virginia to pledge each of them, ten dollars or even twenty dollars for the Council of Defense work than to secure 25,000 contributors of sums varying from one to ten dollars; and it is virtually certain that the former method would secure a larger return in dollars; but the main object would not be accomplished by the former method. There are five thousand men in Virginia who would never miss the ten or twenty dollars, and they would subscribe merely as an incident in war gifts, but when the number is multiplied by five one gets into the class where subscription of any amount counts, and from that class will come helpful criticism given by men who rightfully think that their contribution gives them a say as to how the business of the Council might be conducted to give greatest value to Virginia.

Unless the bankers are egregiously mistaken, there is not the slightest doubt about securing the minimum membership required. In fact, it will be a distinct surprise to the Committee if any appreciable number of the Virginia cities or counties fall below the assigned quotas, on the other hand, there are any number of communities whose bankers have gone on record as declaring that the allotment to

SEEK NEW SUSPECT IN EVA ROY MURDER

Evidence Against Hall Only Circumstantial—Searching for Other Clues in Case.

The murder of Eva Roy near Burkes Station, Va., remains as much of a mystery, as ever although over a week has passed since the finding of the little girl's body in the woods. Sheriff J. R. Allison, of Fairfax county, and numerous detectives have followed up every possible clue.

The wood-chopper, Lou Hall, who was arrested the day the body was discovered is still being held, but the evidence against him is circumstantial. Officials have cross-examined him at length and searchingly, but he sticks to his denials. The only time he shows signs of nervousness, it is said, is when it is suggested that he be taken to view the body of the dead girl.

Sheriff Allison yesterday went to Camp Humphrey's to investigate the case of a soldier, whom it was reported had been arrested at Charlottesville, Va., after having deserted from Camp Humphrey's about the time of the murder. When arrested it is said that the soldier's body showed scars and bruises indicating that he had participated in a struggle. At a late hour last night the sheriff had not returned to Fairfax.

A thorough search of the Hall premises has been made, but it apparently disclosed nothing except possibly a small hole, near the house, recently dug, in which it was suggested something might have been hid at one time.

Some of the stains on Hall's clothing, which at the time of his arrest were said to look like blood, have since turned out to probably be stains made by snuff or tobacco juice.

SERVICE FLAG UNVEILING

The congregation of Grace Methodist Church will unveil a Service Flag Sunday, August 25, at 8 p. m., in honor of the boys who have gone into service from the Epworth League, Sunday School and church. A varied program will be rendered.

The congregation is fortunate in having secured for an address for the occasion Dr. E. G. Watson. Dr. Watson is secretary of the War Fund Commission authorized and appointed by the recent General Conference. His duties take him to the various camps and cantonments of the country, and he comes with a warm message.

Virginia is the first state to adopt the plan of raising Council funds by popular subscription on so widespread a scale. In Missouri, twenty men gave five thousand dollars each, and subsequently fifty more men, among themselves raised another hundred thousand dollars.

In Ohio, only the more wealthy men were asked to contribute to the fund, $150,000, which was oversubscribed several thousands. In Illinois, the subscription was more on the popular order, but it was confined mainly to the cities. The Virginia example, therefore, is being watched with extreme interest throughout the country; and its success not only in raising the needed funds, but also in making the Council a popular enterprise will serve to establish a precedent for the other states.

WOUNDED AND GASSED BUT STILL IN THE RING

Manassas Boy Has been "Over the Top," and Desires to Try It Again.

Mr. Paul S. Williams, nineteen years old, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Williams, of Manassas, has written to his parents; that, although wounded and in a hospital, he is getting along nicely. Mr. Williams originally enlisted in the cavalry, but was transferred to the field artillery, Battery E, 76th Regiment.

In the battle in which his division participated he was shot in the right leg above the knee and was also badly gassed; he thinks that he was supposed to be dead, for when found by his comrades the Huns had entirely stripped him of his clothes, overlooking, however, a ring his mother had given him. At the time the letter was written Mr. Williams was in a field hospital, but stated that he was in good hands, as the Red Cross was attending to all his wants; he also expressed an earnest desire to recover as rapidly as possible so as to be able to "get at 'em" again.

ACQUITTAL OF MRS. KATHLEEN BURGESS

Woman Exhibits no Emotion When Verdict is Rendered—Advice by Judge.

Stolidly, Mrs. Kathleen Burgess accepted her freedom from the hands of the twelve men last night in the Alexandria county courthouse before whom she was tried for murder.

Scarcely stirring in her seat, Mrs. Burgess sat steadily through her trial for the murder of John P. Werres, Washington jitney driver.

Not once was she seen to examine the faces of the jurors anxiously. She turned her head neither to the right nor left.

There was not a perceptible change in her demeanor when the verdict was read. Her attorney was the first to reach out and grasp her hand. She rose and turned to leave the courtroom, when Judge Goodrick called to her in a fatherly voice:

Judge's Counsel. "Don't go out into the world again to live the old life. Go back to your aged father and mother. Ask their forgiveness for the shame you have brought upon them, and be a good daughter, leading a good and virtuous life. Don't think that, because you have been under the shadow of red crime, you cannot live the rest down. You are young, just 17. You are a healthy young woman. Your future is not destroyed. It will be what you make it."

The young freed prisoner had no words to utter. The men of the jury rushed up to her and shook her hand. The foreman of the jury, Franklin Stearn, earnestly besought her to turn to a new life.

LOUDOUN CAMP MEETING TO OPEN SATURDAY

Camp meeting will open at Beaton's Woods on Saturday with a good prospect for a large attendance. The Rev. Gypsy Smith, jr., will arrive on Saturday and deliver his first sermon on Sunday. Already many persons from all over this and adjoining counties are making their arrangements to welcome him back to the "Old Camp Ground."— Loudoun Times.

FAIRFAX SUSPECT WILL REMAIN IN COUNTY JAIL

No New Developments Arising the Case Will go to Grand Jury in September.

Habeas corpus proceedings will not be instituted by counsel in the case of Lou Hall, the wood-chopper, in the Fairfax county jail, accused of the murder of fourteen-year-old Eva Roy, on Tuesday last, near Burkes Station.

"We know that the Commonwealth has no evidence on which to convict Hall, but because of the nature of the charge he will remain in jail," said Walter T. Oliver, Hall's counsel.

"For a time plans had been made to have him liberated, but it appears he will be safer in jail."

If later developments do not shift the blame to another, Hall's case will be taken up by the grand jury of the term of court beginning September 16, next.

Should he be indicted, it will probably be the first murder case at which Samuel G. Brent, now Commonwealth attorney of Alexandria city, will preside.

Judge J. B. T. Thornton has resigned, leaving a vacancy on the bench. Attorney Brent, with the almost unanimous indorsement of the bar of the circuit, will be named to the judgeship within the next few weeks by Governor Davis.— Washington Times.

RAILROAD MILEAGE BOOKS

On Sale August 20 and Will Contain 1,000 and 500 Coupons.

Passenger mileage books, interchangeable and good on any railroad, will be placed on sale August 20. They will be accepted in payment of passenger fares on trains, in exchange for tickets and for extra baggage charges. Two books are being prepared—one with 1,000 coupons, each coupon worth 3 cents or one mile of travel, to be sold for $30, with an addition of $2.40 war tax collected when the book is bought, and another with 500 coupons, selling for $15, with $1.20 additional war tax.

Each book is to be transferable and may be used for any number of passengers at the same time. Travelers may present these books to conductors on trains if they wish, but are advised to have the mileage script exchanged for tickets between points where there are long and short routes in order to gain advantage of the shortest distance and lowest charge.

Railroad administration officials decided not to make the mileage script acceptable for Pullman charges, because the war tax on berths or parlor seats is 10 per cent, or 2 per cent higher than on passenger fares. This would have complicated the collection of war taxes.

Miss Barnhouse Execrated.

After deliberating from 6:15 until 11 o'clock Wednesday night a jury in the corporation court of Alexandria, Judge Louis C. Barley presiding, adjudged Jas. Davis, colored, charged with killing J. C. Shelhorse, a state prohibition inspector, guilty of murder in the second degree, and fixed his punishment at seven years in the state penitentiary. A score of witnesses for both sides, including the accused, testified. Davis declared that he did not shoot until he realized that Shelhorse was about to draw a revolver and he then acted in self-defense. Commonwealth's Attorney S. G. Brent was assisted in the prosecution by Assistant Attorney General Hank, of Richmond. Robinson Moncure was the attorney for the accused.

On the Grounds of Eastern College and Will be a Full Day's Enjoyment.

When Mrs. Silcox visited Manassas on July 29th to give some very much needed help and instruction to our Committee on Civilian Relief she emphasized the importance of publicity in regard to this most important branch of the work of the Chapter and told us she would try to come up later and tell more of our people about this great work. Since then our most able and efficient secretary, Miss Mary Larkin, has been in communication with her and Mrs. Silcox has arranged to come to Manassas on Friday, August 23. In order that proper notice shall be taken of this visit and so all the members of the Red Cross in Prince William county may have a chance to meet and hear Mrs. Silcox and Dr. Wilson, who is coming with her, it has seemed well to the committee having the matter in charge to arrange an all-day meeting and basket picnic, to be held on the grounds of Eastern College, Friday, August 23, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m.

Mrs. Silcox, the Field Representative of the Bureau of Civilian Relief of the Potomac Division of the American Red Cross, will speak to us about this work, and Dr. Wilson, who has done the work of Civilian Relief as representative of this bureau in a number of the cantonments, will tell us something of the life and the work of the boys in these great camps and also tell us how we at home can help these boys in various ways, especially by making them feel that the home people are going to be looked after if they are in any trouble by this Home Service Bureau, or as it is sometimes called, the Bureau of Civilian Relief.

Two sessions will be held, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, and between the two time will be given for the picnic and basket lunch. The ladies of the Manassas Branch will serve hot coffee and cold tea and every one in the county, whether a member of this Chapter of the Red Cross or not, is invited to bring his or her basket and come to the picnic.

The Bureau of Civilian Relief of the Manassas Chapter has established headquarters and opened its office next door to the Rest Room on Main street, where a representative of the committee can always be found, so do not hesitate to bring your troubles, worries or other problems to us if you have a boy in the army.

Come, learn about this great work, tell us your worries and troubles if you have any, help the Red Cross by lending us your presence and at the same time have a good time and see your friends from every part of the county.

ANOTHER WAR RESOURCE

The announcement that the administration is to urge the water-power bill to early passage is good news, both for war and peace purposes.

Inasmuch as there will surely be a scarcity of coal in this country, touching the famine point at times, the sooner Congress provides for utilizing water power the better.

Secretary McAdoo, just back from the West, expresses amazement at the extent of water power easily available and the comparative negligence of the government in failing to utilize this perennial source of wealth.

The problem will simmer down to one of economy. "Will it pay?" is the question.

But the distances to which electric current may be conducted economically have been so greatly increased, and the equipment for harnessing water power has been so greatly improved, that what was extravagant ten years ago is economical now.

The question "Will it pay?" ought to be qualified by the clause, "having in view the coal situation and the war's demand for fuel."

The following officers were elected: Chairman, William Crow; vice-chairman, E. H. Keys; secretary, B. F. Liming; treasurer, Mrs. Bertha Abel.

Judge Louis C. Barley, of Alexandria, on Monday last, rendered an opinion in favor of the plaintiff in the suit of Mrs. Annie Ethel Gray against J. E. Gray for the reformation of a deed from Mrs. Gray to Mr. Gray. This suit was instituted in Prince William county, but by consent was submitted to Judge Barley for decision, having been argued before him some weeks ago. Under the decision the deed was corrected so that Mrs. Gray retains her home property. Mrs. Gray was represented by Mr. H. Thornton Davies and Mr. Gray by Messrs. R. A. Hutchison and C. E. Nicol.

Mr. D. J. Arrington, clerk of the Manassas district school board, informs the parents of children who will attend school the coming year that every child who has not been, must be vaccinated before entering its name upon the school register.

Mr. W. S. Athey was somewhat injured about the face and had his glasses broken on Thursday morning while engaged in cranking his car. The crank in some manner slipped from his grasp and inflicted a severe blow upon the side of his head.

Mr. John Adams, recently of Aldie, who a short time ago enlisted in the Marines, is stationed at Paris Island, S. C. Mr. Adams is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Adams, of Manassas, who are well known in this neighborhood.—Loudoun Times.

The Manassas Red Cross Chapter has just received an acknowledgement from the "Red Cross man" at Camp Lee of a large package of candy made for the soldiers by the girls of the Junior Red Cross at Bacon Race. "I wish to advise that this shipment has been received," he says in a letter to the chapter secretary, Miss Mary Larkin, "and same was distributed to the boys in the hospital, who appreciated this thoughtfulness very much. We extend our thanks to the young ladies who made this candy and feel sure that they will be happy to know that their gift was so gratefully received."

AEROPLANE FLIGHTS

The aeroplanes which have been observed flying over Manassas during the past week have a landing at Horse Shoe bend of the Rapidan river. A large assemblage was gathered there on Saturday last, says the Culpeper Exponent, and a real fete was arranged for the occasion. The aviators, Maj. Fitzmaurice and Lieut. Rreston, of the U. S. A., circled overhead for sometime, much to the gratification and admiration of the spectators.

U-BOAT OFF CAPE MAY

Washington, Aug. 15—The schooner Dorothy Barrett was attacked off Cape May, N. J., by a submarine yesterday afternoon, the Navy Department announced today.

The crew abandoned the vessel shortly after the U-boat appeared and began firing.

The attack took place six and a half miles off Northeast End Lighthouse, near Cape May.

Aviators arriving over the scene reported they saw a wake and bubbles, and dropped depth bombs, which exploded near the bubbles. Mine sweepers scoured the vicinity. The crew of the Dorothy Barrett was landed at Cape May.

The vessel was on fire, according to the last reports the navy received. Whether she sunk later is not yet known.

The Dorothy Barrett, an American schooner, was bound from New York to Norfolk.

The oil tanker Frederick Kellogg, which was attacked off the Jersey coast Tuesday afternoon by a submarine, is partially afloat and it is believed that the vessel can be salvaged today.

The torpedo struck amidships on the port side. Thirty-five of the crew were landed safely, while seven are reported lost.

Henri Bidou, military critic, said recently that a conservative estimate of German losses since July 18 is about 350,000 dead or wounded and 70,000 prisoners.

The latest manifesto of Kaiser Bill has that peculiar empty sound given out by a crooked bank, an overripe egg and a theatrical fizzle just before they bust.—Post.

WHEN THE BLUE STARS TURN TO GOLD

Dedicated to Battery F, Maryland Coast Artillery, now in France, of which S. Parker Scott, nephew of Wilma Rhodes, is a member.

There's a solemn hush comes stealing over town and hamlet, too, There are hearts more quickly beating for the dear red, white and blue

As the flags in many windows tell of service that was bold, And we pause in awe and silence when the blue stars turn to gold.

Mother minds are moving swiftly to the scenes of long ago, Golden days of sunny childhood when there was no thought of foe, Once again she chaps him to her, feels him safe within the fold, Prays to keep the dear, sweet vision, yet the blue stars turn to gold.

Wives feel dear, strong arms unfolding as in days of yore, Urge the dear compelling presence by their side forevermore, Little forms and little faces ever do his love unfold; Yet the pain is there unconquered, when the blue stars turn to gold.

There are sweethearts, pure and winsome, with their dreams of future years, Happy homes and childish voices, joy sublime though mixed with tears; Visions these that make the nation rich with riches yet untold, Yet they tremble in the balance when the blue stars turn to gold.

Father souls though strong, courageous, can but feel the pain, As cold fear grips strong his heart strings for the boy who bears his name, Yet he muses of the future with his son when he is old, Though the Hun still wars in Flanders and the blue stars turn to gold.

Blessed Lord, make clear our purpose, keep it clean and fine, Make the ones at home grow stronger for those on the battle-line; May we never lose the vision high and pure that makes us bold, Strengthen every weak condition when the blue stars turn to gold.

—WILMA G. RHODES.

GERMAN AUTOCRACY

(By Walter S. Smoot.)

The constitution of the German Empire is the least democratic in western Europe. Its main provisions were drafted by Bismarck in 1866 after the Prussian victory of Koniggratz had expelled Austrian dominance from Germany and replaced it by Prussian guidance insofar as the German states of the north were concerned, but had failed to so effect the southern states. This constitution, with but few changes, became that of the present German Empire which was born when King William I of Prussia was proclaimed German Emperor at Versailles, Jan. 18, 1871, near the close of the Franco-Prussian war.

The constitution really provides only a good camouflage to conceal the sinister autocracy which rules the Empire. Though the German Emperor is, strictly speaking, merely President of the German Federation, and is forbidden to veto laws passed by the Imperial Parliament, his will is law in every root and branch of the German government. The imperial dignity is hereditary in the line of Hohenzollern, he possesses 17 out of 61 votes in the Bundesrat and 236 out of 397 in the Reichstag, and so can order the passage or blocking of any measure he wishes; he appoints and dismisses without regard to the political complexion of the legislative bodies the Imperial Chancellor, who stands second only to himself in the government; lastly, while he may not declare an offensive war without the consent of the Bundesrat, he is Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, in both of which fighting arms he appoints the chief officers and exacts the fullest and blindest obedience and allegiance.

The Bundesrat, or Federal Council, representative of the Imperial sovereignty vested in the whole body of German rulers, Junkers, or conservative militarists of Germany. It is a non-deliberative body, the members voting immediately by states upon the measures called up, in strict accordance with instructions received from their home governments. Consequently, only the results, not the proceedings of its sessions are published, leaving free consideration and discussion of German legislation to the Reichstag.

The great German forum for the discussion of public questions and the hope of the democratic element in Germany today is the Reichstag, or Imperial Parliament, corresponding to our House of Representatives. The membership numbers 397 delegates, chosen today throughout the Empire, exactly as in 1867, on the basis of one member to each 100,000 of the population. Every German citizen over 25 years of age, not mentally deficient or a criminal and not in active service with the colors, may vote in the general elections for the Reichstag. What influence it wishes in the government arises from the fact that it is the great deliberative forum of the Empire, the only forum in Germany where public opinion may be heard upon current legislation with any semblance whatever of fulness or freedom.

The Kaiser selects and appoints from among the Prussian delegates to the Bundesrat his Imperial Chancellor, who is the chief minister of the Empire and may be dismissed at the Imperial pleasure without the slightest regard to the attitude of the parties in either the Bundesrat or Reichstag. The Chancellor, therefore, is responsible solely to the Emperor, from whose favor he derives his authority, and is not in the least affected by legislative praise or censure. Since the control which the Emperor exercises over the Chancellor extends also to the other Imperial ministers, his range of power is evidently incalculable.

In sum the following are the undemocratic features of the German constitution: The military imperialists in the Bundesrat must approve every law passed by the popular assembly, the Reichstag. The representatives of the people in the Reichstag have absolutely no voice or participation in the government. The Emperor rules by right of birth and is subject to none. The ministers are responsible to him alone since it is he who appoints and dismisses them. The immense bloc of votes Prussia controls in both Houses enables him to pass or block any measure he wishes. He may vote down any constitutional reform to which he is opposed, since 14 votes in the Bundesrat are sufficient to defeat any proposed amendment to the Constitution.

So it is in Germany that the Hohenzollern dynasty has succeeded in preserving to a remarkable degree its ideal of a government imposed from above and being of and for the people only to a limited degree.

MANASSAS INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL NOTES

Under the auspices of the Negro Organization Society, a big patriotic meeting will be held at the Industrial School, late in August. Mrs. Rachel Berry, County Supervisor, is arranging this meeting, of which more definite details will be announced later. The Negro Organization Society plans to hold one of these meetings in each county of the state, the purpose being to still further interest colored Americans in the war and in the problems growing out of the war.

Principal Fred D. Morton has gone to Washington, where he will attend the forty-seven day training course which is being held for teachers and students of all schools of collegiate grade, at Howard University, in Washington. This training course is preparatory to the introduction by the government of military training into the schools.

In connection with the work of Children's Year, the Industrial School is continuing to urge all mothers to have their children weighed and measured. Miss Adelina Pinn, Chairman of the Red Cross Branch in Manassas, has general supervision of the work in the town, but any mother may bring her baby to the school on any afternoon in the week and have the weighing and measuring done with accuracy and skill. Doctor Williams and Miss Eva Lewis are glad to give advice or assistance with reference to this work.

The rye-crop at the Industrial School has been threshed out, making the very good showing of 234 bushels of rye.

Various members of the faculty are seeing the quiet weeks between the closing of Summer School and the opening of the regular session to take little vacation trips, with visits to friends.

TUBERCULOSIS AMONG ANIMALS

Important Facts for the Information of Owners of Cattle and Swine.

Since the inauguration of the campaign for the eradication of tuberculosis among domestic animals (cattle and swine principally), by the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, in co-operation with the various states, numerous inquiries have been received at this office in regard to the work and the purpose of this article is to give information to every herd owner in the states of North Carolina and Virginia.

Nature of the Disease.
Tuberculosis is an infectious, contagious and communicable disease to which only a very few species of the lower animals are immune. Tuberculosis is the most widely disseminated disease affecting the domestic animals. It causes a tremendous financial loss annually in the production of meat and dairy products, as well as the lives of thousands of human beings. Tuberculosis is a very insidious disease and the introduction of one tuberculosis animal into a herd may be the means of infecting a large number of its members. The herd may become extensively diseased before the owner suspects its presence, unless his herd is tested at regular intervals and all cattle for addition to the herd are tested before being placed with the healthy animals. The most profitable herd of cattle or swine cannot be established or maintained if a single member is affected by this disease.

How to Eradicate It.
The method of eradication is by applying the tuberculin test and removing from the herd, all cattle which react to the test and dispose of them either by slaughter or by segregation for breeding purposes and the thorough disinfection of contaminated premises. The tuberculin test, together with a careful physical examination, is the most accurate means of diagnosing the disease. The injection of tuberculin produces no ill effects in healthy animals. It is an absolutely sterile product, free from the germs of tuberculosis and cannot produce tuberculosis in any animal into which it may be injected. All tuberculin tests are applied under agreement and co-operation will be extended to any herd owner who signs the agreement. More than 1,000 herd owners in this territory have already realized the great economic importance of maintaining only healthy cattle, and have placed their herds under the supervision of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry for this purpose.

"Accredited Herds."
The principal feature of the "Tuberculosis-Free Accredited Herds of Pure-bred Cattle," which is proving of great interest to progressive herd owners. Many advantages accrue to the owners of accredited herds, especially in connection with the interstate shipment and the interchanging of cattle by herd owners; and also in the sale of their surplus stock. The demand for tuberculosis-free cattle for the establishment of new herds and for addition to established herds is becoming greater and greater every day, and herd owners who desire to be in a position to supply this demand should ascertain the condition of their herd and endeavor to establish it free from tuberculosis at the earliest possible moment.

"Indemnity."
In the state of Virginia, dairy cattle may be appraised by the state at the option of the herd owner, prior to the application of the test. In the state of North Carolina, no appropriation has been made for indemnifying owners for tuberculosis cattle. All reactors that are slaughtered are subject to an official postmortem examination in order to determine whether or not they are fit for food.

No Charge for Test.
No charge is made for the services of Bureau inspectors, in connection with this work, but the herd owner is expected to convey the inspector to and from the nearest railroad point and furnish him with board, lodging and necessary assistance in any part of the work he may be conducting. The work in the territory including Virginia and North Carolina is being conducted by the Local Office of the Bureau of Animal Industry at 416-418 Lyric Building, Richmond, Va., to which all inquiries for information and requests for agreements for tuberculin testing, etc., should be made.

DEATH OF A NOTED SOUTHERN WOMAN

Widely Known New Orleans Lady Gave Essential Aid to War Work.

Mrs. William J. Behan, widely known throughout the South because of her interest in Confederate affairs and her work in the promotion of movements to perpetuate memorable men and events of the Civil War period, died at her home in New Orleans on Sunday, July 28, after an illness of thirteen weeks.

Perhaps the first civic activity of the noted woman was in connection with the Ladies' Confederate Memorial Association, organized as a soldiers' aid society in New Orleans in 1861 and later devoted to perpetuating the memory of Confederate chieftains. When a confederation of all the Confederate memorial associations was organized in 1906 Mrs. Behan was elected president. She was identified with a large number of other similar organizations.

Mrs. Behan was noted for her loyalty and devotion to Jefferson Davis and she was largely instrumental through the Southern Confederate Memorial Association in securing a large sum of money for the erection of the Davis monument in Richmond, Va. After the completion of this monument she turned her attention towards perpetuating the memory of Jefferson Davis in New Orleans. Mrs. Behan had portraits of Jefferson Davis presented to all of the schools of New Orleans and was largely instrumental in having the legislature pass an act making his birthday, June 3, a legal holiday as Confederate Memorial Day. President Roosevelt, who ordered the name of Jefferson Davis restored in Cabin John Bridge, gave the credit for the work to Mrs. Behan. She was an intimate friend of Mrs. Jefferson Davis and Mrs. Stonewall Jackson.

Since the entry of the United States into the European war Mrs. Behan took an active part in all war work. She was chairman of Branch No. 8 of New Orleans chapter of the Red Cross, said to be one of the most efficient branches of the chapter. She took a leading part in the financial affairs of the Red Cross and was one of the hardest workers in making surgical dressings, garments, and knitted articles. She also assisted in war savings and Liberty bond campaigns.
