COUNTY CLUB MEMBERS

Good Work in Pig, Poultry, Corn and Canning Lines.

Lillian V. Gilbert, County Home Demonstration Agent

Enthusiasm is still being manifested in the study of the State Health Catechism. Last week it was announced that Pearl Grisso of the Manassasville High School was the first to win a place in the County Contest.

This week we have the pleasure of announcing the names of two girls from the Haymarket High School—Christine Drowne from the seventh grade and Nellie Arnel from the first grade—perfect examination, thus making the second pupil to win a place in the county contest a club member. Other teachers are telling us that they have pupils which they cannot catch on a question; so we may look for other good reports. The contest closes on April 30th, as stated last week.

Owing to the fact that it is late to either sow seeds or set hens after April 30th, the County Club membership campaign closes on the named date. All boys and girls desiring to get the benefits and privileges derived from the club work for the year 1919 must enroll as members before April 30th.

Cannon Branch, a one-teacher school, has the largest membership of any school in the county. The canning, corn, pig and poultry projects are all being worked by these busy girls and boys. Aden and Nokesville each have 20 girls and boys in the corn, pig and poultry work; Nokesville one Canning Club girl and 14 who have the sewing project. Several other schools have a good enrollment. A system of organization will be carried out this year, and prizes will be awarded to the Clubs making the best reports at the end of the year. The secretary's minute books have been obtained and copy of the same will be put in the hands of the secretary of each club. A club must hold 12 meetings to be eligible for the contest.

MYERS-LEWIS WEDDING

Miss Margaret B. Lewis Becomes the Wife of Mr. Robert T. Myers.

In the presence of only the immediate family, Miss Margaret Benjamin Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Pringle Lewis, was married at her mother's home on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, to Mr. Robert Toombs Myers, of Meridian, Miss.

The parlor had been tastefully and beautifully decorated with ferns and apple blossoms, especially the bay window, which formed the background in place of an altar. The electric light bulbs had been covered with pink shades, producing a bright glow in the room.

At the foot of the steps the groom received the bride, who was robed in a Baranet-satin suit, with pink tulle and a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. She wore a brooch, that had been worn by three generations, and a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom.

To the familiar strains of Lohengrin, played by Miss Julia W. Lewis, the wedding couple marched toward Rev. A. Stuart Gibson, the officiating clergyman, who stood in the recess of the bay window, awaiting the contracting parties.

After the impressive Episcopal marriage ceremony had been performed and the two were pronounced one, a short reception was followed by a light luncheon. There was opportunity for the inspection of the presents, which were many, valuable and useful.

The happy couple left at 8 o'clock on the train for Atlantic City, the bride wearing a blue suit and hat to match. After spending several days at the seashore Mr. and Mrs. Myers will leave for New York, where they will take the boat for Cuba, proceeding from there to Meridian, Miss., the groom's home, and their future residence.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Mr. Thomas W. Lion Under Box Car But Escapes With Injuries.

As evidence that watchmen at railroad crossings at night would be a great protection to human limb, if not life, the remarkable experience of Mr. Thomas W. Lion on Tuesday night at the railroad crossing at the freight office is decisive.

About 9:20 o'clock on Tuesday night Mr. Thomas H. Lion was driving his car toward home, having with him his son, Mr. Thomas W. Lion, also Mr. F. E. Ransdell and Mr. Clarence Hutchison, the latter of Washington. As the train neared the track a freight car, standing at the freight office, obscured the view toward the station. A freight train was heard approaching, coming from the west, and the headlights on the locomotive were seen, but the occupants of the auto misjudged the distance of the train and they were unaware that a box car was in front of the engine, which was doing some shifting before continuing to Washington. As the auto crossed the track, the box car was seen to be near them. Mr. Thomas H. Lion, seeing the danger, turned on all the power of the engine and got across in safety with all his fellow passengers, except his son. Had the latter remained in the car, he would not have been hurt. Instead, he jumped from the auto and fell on the track, on which the train was coming. A member of the train crew seeing the fallen man, hastily waded into the engine to stop the engine, which was quickly done. Mr. Lion escaped the wheels but portions of the train struck him about the head and limbs, but not seriously injuring him. His main cause of suffering was the nervous shock. He is now resting quietly and a speedy, complete recovery is anticipated.

—Mrs. Gorie G. Waugh, Sr., and Mrs. Gorie G. Waugh, Jr., Mrs. D. P. Coleman, of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Payne, of Front Royal, visited Mrs. J. M. Coleman at the hotel last week.

"VICTORY" LOAN WORKERS

Report of Richmond Meeting and Plans for County Campaign.

The leaders of the Fifth or "Victory" Liberty Loan in the county held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the directors' room of the National Bank of Manassas, to hear a report from the Richmond state meeting and to plan for the campaign in Prince William county between April 21 and May 10.

It was expected that the chairman of both men's and women's committees in all districts in the county would be present, but bad roads and threatening weather prevented. Only Mrs. Westwood Hutchison and Mr. J. J. Conner of the Manassas district, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McDonald, of the Gainesville district came. In addition, Miss Lou S. Moxley and Miss Isabel Hutchison, individual workers, were present. Rev. Westwood Hutchison, county chairman, presided.

At the request of the state chairman a great demonstration was held in Richmond on last Friday, when the various county chairmen, accompanied by two leading workers of the county, met to hear secretary of the treasury, Carter Glass, on the "Victory" loan. Mr. Hutchison was accompanied by Messrs. Charles R. McDonald and J. J. Conner, the former of whom made the report.

Mr. McDonald told of the meeting in the city auditorium, where 7,500 people were assembled to hear Secretary Glass, who received an ovation that lasted several minutes. He said that the proper name of the fifth loan should be the "Thanksgiving" loan—thanks to God for giving the allies a victory, with only 25,000 Americans killed, while the British and French took millions of dead. Had the allies not won, there would have been an American loan of $20,000,000,000 more to be met by the people or a loan of $4,500,000,000, like the present one, every three months.

Parents should think of their boys returned safely, instead of the insignificant service rendered by leading the government a few dollars, at good interest, with unquestionable security. Mr. Glass helped a French soldier, by taking him in his auto to the place of the soldiers' former home, a mere pile of rubbish. The soldier remarked: "My home was there, but thank God, France is free." None of our boys had their homes ruined and none of their families were butchered, so Americans should rejoice at a chance to express gratitude to God for saving America from the fate of France and other nations.

Rev. Westwood Hutchison told of Paul Sprinkel's reply to his mother. Paul had enlisted under age and his mother had offered to get his release.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

Advisory Board Will be Appointed—Mrs. Snape Will Make Address.

As stated in last week's issues of the county papers, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Northern Virginia Farmers' Institute, will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday, April 25th, instead of April 18th, this change being made as April 18th is Good Friday. The time of meeting is 2:30.

It is urged that all women of the county try to attend this meeting, as matters of interest to all will be discussed, and it is desired that all districts be alike represented in these discussions. At this time a woman's advisory board, to correspond to the men's advisory board, appointed by the board of supervisors, will be appointed to represent each of the six districts in the county. Also some plans in connection with the work of the women in making our County Fair a success will be discussed.

Mrs. Snape, who has the class in Home Nursing for the county, has kindly consented to be present and address the body while in session. Mrs. Snape is considered one of the best equipped Red Cross nurses in the field, and comes to us under the auspices of the National Red Cross. A treat is in store for all those who hear her.

The town council met, according to adjournment, on last Monday, there being a quorum present, business was transacted. The license schedule was adopted similar to that of last year, except that the tax for corporation purposes was made 20 cents on the $100 instead of 15 cents, and the tax for street purposes was made 20 cents instead of 25 on the $100, which makes a total of $1 on the $100.

GOVERNOR WILL CO-OPERATE

Will Not Antagonize Movement to Secure Special Session.

Richmond, Va., April 16.—When Governor Davis' attention was called this morning to an article appearing in a morning paper, which stated that members of the legislature were not signing the printed blanks which had been furnished by members of the Virginia Good Roads Association, which purposed the call of the legislature into extra session, because they feared that when the Governor would negative by vote their action, he said:

"While I have not concluded as yet to the course that I shall pursue as to calling an extra session of the General Assembly, I am frank to say that I have no desire whatever to antagonize any movement to secure a meeting of the General Assembly by the individual action of its members. Members of the legislature are strictly within their constitutional rights when they call a meeting of the General Assembly. Should they in their wisdom so convene in extraordinary session, I would aid in every way within my power in securing for Virginia by legislation a sound road building program. No member of the General Assembly should refuse to join the movement to have the members convene the legislature in extraordinary session, for the reason that he fears that if so convened I would not be in entire sympathy with such a road building program."

—We clip from the Hamilton Enterprise the following: "Rev. H. Q. Burr arrived with his family Thursday afternoon. They were extended a most cordial welcome by a large committee from Harmony congregation, who had spent the greater portion of the day in preparing the parsonage for their reception."

Mr. Hutchison also read a report of the state officers regarding the fourth liberty loan, which showed that in Prince William county, with 12,000 population, only 468 persons, or five per cent, bought bonds, and there were only $6.28 loaned the government for every 100 persons. A campaign will be inaugurated to get every person, if possible, to invest something. Workers will be asked to report daily. Personal and community and other awards will be given to workers.

Meetings will be held in all centers of population in the county and good speakers will be present to arouse enthusiasm and get subscribers. A motion picture, "Price of Peace," will be shown free in Conner's Hall on Wednesday, April 23. Nothing will be left undone to secure the county's quota promptly, and it is hoped that all persons, with any means whatever, will, either alone or by joining others of limited means, express their thanksgiving for the allies' victory and for America's escape from the "horrible huns' presence in this country, by investing in the Fifth, or "Victory" or "Thanksgiving" Liberty Bonds.

Tuesday, April 15.

Mary E. and J. R. Fick vs. H. B. Hatcher. Trespass. The defendant was granted leave to file an additional special plea, known as plea No. 2. After the evidence had been introduced on behalf of the plaintiff, the defendant moved the court to direct the evidence of witness John R. Fick excluded because the ownership of the property in the declaration described stood in the name of Mary E. Fick and the declaration alleges the title to be in the name of John R. Fick and Mary E. Fick, and the damages claimed in the declaration to be due said John R. and Mary E. Fick jointly. The plaintiff's request to amend the declaration accordingly was granted, and the suit proceeded with the name of Mary E. Fick as the plaintiff, the defendant excepted to the ruling of the court on this point.

The jury found for the plaintiff and awarded her damages at $650. The defendant moved the court to set aside the verdict on the following grounds:

1. Because said verdict is contrary to the law and evidence.
2. Because of the error of the court in granting and refusing instructions.
3. Because of the error of the court in admitting and refusing evidence.
4. Because the said verdict is excessive.

And for errors appearing on the face of the record.

The court overruled the motion and ordered that the plaintiff recover the amount awarded by the jury, plus interest from this day and her costs.

The defendant moved the court to suspend the execution of the judgment for sixty days for the purpose of applying to the supreme court of appeals for a writ of error to this judgment. The suspension to be effective on condition that the defendant execute within 10 days bond in the sum of $200, with approved security.

By consent of parties 60 days is allowed for the same.

"YOU FELLOWS"

Now, it's up to us to hick the enemy at home. Nothing can stop the Victory Liberty Loan, but no one must be permitted to block the gang-way.

"You fellows—?" Where does he get that "you fellows" stuff? Whose war was it, anyway? Whose ideals were vindicated when we smashed the ruffian crew that directed the Lusitania murders?

So, where does he get that "You fellows" stuff? Now, if anyone in America is disappointed because we won the war, if anyone is dissatisfied because we broke the Hindenburg line, if anyone is sorry that Germany had to quit to save its hide, let him say so.

But he won't do it. He isn't that kind. He sidles up with that "You fellows" stuff and talks about hard times when there are no hard times.

He's the fellow to watch, it was his war; it was his victory; it is his peace, and it's up to him to pull off his coat and get to work to make this Victory Liberty Loan a success—the very biggest thing of its kind in the world.

And when this loan is launched, if the man with that "You fellows" stuff is not doing his share the public wants to know about it; the public has a right to know about it.

Look out for him.

To The Voters of the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia

Loesburg, Va., April 16, 1919. I hereby announce my candidacy for Congress for the special election to be held May 27, 1919.

I am unalterably opposed to taking from the people rights and privileges hitherto enjoyed by the people, without the consent of the people. Therefore, if elected, I shall seek the immediate repeal of the amendment to the Federal Constitution establishing prohibition throughout the United States.

This amendment had not been introduced in Congress when the members of the General Assembly of Virginia who ratified it were elected; thus, the people were deprived of their rights to declare their will in this matter.

Every person of the slightest political acumen realizes the fact that one of the big issues looming up in the immediate future is: "What shall we do with the Railroads, Telegraph and Telephone Systems?"

The history of Federal operation of these utilities teaches us that a substantial raising of rates follows their being taken over by the Government, as is exemplified by the very recent increase of twenty per cent in telegraph tolls.

I favor legislation for the benefit of the farmers, the laborers and legitimate business. With this is bound up the cause of good roads and better education and I shall certainly use my efforts in these directions, working for all laws that seek to advance the interests of the people as a whole, not forgetting nor neglecting that legislation which seeks the welfare of the soldiers who have rendered such faithful service to our country and to the whole world.

The citizens of the District of Columbia pay taxes but have no vote. If elected to Congress, I shall work unceasingly to procure voting privileges for the citizens of the District of Columbia, that they may enjoy the same rights as the citizens of the several States.

I realize the vast possibilities of the Eighth Congressional District and the high honor and integrity of its people. If elected to the House of Representatives in the Federal Congress, I shall stand for that legislation which touches the life of the individual in the District, for the advancement of the common good and not for the furthering of any special group or privilege.

Sincerely yours, CHARLES H. SHIPMAN.

Mr. C. H. Shipman Enters Field as Independent Candidate.

(From Loudoun Mirror) As will be seen by announcement in this issue of the Loudoun Mirror, Mr. C. H. Shipman, a well known citizen of Leesburg, will oppose the nominee of the Democratic primary in the special election to be held on May 27, in the Eighth District of Virginia, for Congressman from that District, and plainly sets forth the principles to stand for in the announcement. While the Loudoun Mirror would not endorse any man for an office outside of the regular nominee of the Democratic party, at the same time we cannot help but express a belief in the absolute sincerity of Mr. Shipman, and his belief in all that he stands for. That he has seen fit to enter this contest in this way, because, as he states, of the prohibitive price for entering the primary, does not, in our opinion, detract from his loyalty as a Democrat, for he has faithfully supported the party for many years. He has a wide circle of friends in this section, and is a man of marked ability and progressive ideas, and a good citizen.

Mr. Shipman has been prominently engaged in the insurance business in Leesburg for many years, and in early life spent years in farming and dairying. Consequently he is not a stranger to the needs of the constituency of the Eighth District.

allowed the defendant to present his bills of exception to the judge for his signature.

Chancery—Tuesday, April 15.

The case of Julia Chappel vs. Wallace F. Chappel, et al, was referred to Master Commissioner C. A. Sinclair by consent of all parties, and he was directed to ascertain and report to the court in writing as follows: First, of what real estate the late Wilman W. Chappel died possessed and also the same as to Smith M. Chappel; second, whether the real estate is susceptible of partition in kind amongst the parties thereto entitled or whether the same should be sold and the proceeds distributed as provided by law; third, the liens binding on all of said real estate in the order of their priority, especially current or delinquent taxes; fourth, whether the exchange of properties as set out in said answer of Wallace F. Chappel was made and whether the said exchange should be perfected by said court; fifth, of what personality the said Smith M. Chappel died possessed and what disposition thereof has been made and by whom and whether any of the parties to this suit are indebted to the estate for the same or any portion thereof; sixth, whether all the necessary parties are before the court, giving a list of the heirs of said Wilman W. Chappel and Smith M. Chappel; seventh, and all other matters by any party interested requested reported and by the commissioner deemed pertinent.

The hearing on the application for the appointment of a receiver in the case of Seville & Glaiborne, Inc., et al, vs. The Quantico, Inc., et al, was continued until April 21 at 10 o'clock a. m. at the court house in Alexandria by consent of all parties.

No exceptions having been taken to the report of C. A. Sinclair, bonded commissioner, in the case of The Peoples National Bank of Manassas vs. the Gaither Construction Co., Inc., it was confirmed.

—Mr. C. H. Shipman, of Leesburg, has announced himself as an independent candidate for congress. He gives as his reason, for not running in the democratic primary on April 22, that the price charged by the democratic congressional committee to candidates entering the primary is prohibitive to a man of moderate means.

—Owing to the death of Mr. P. H. Lynch, his son-in-law, Mr. G. M. Berry, has severed his relations with the business with which he was connected at Phoenix, Arizona, and accepted a position with the Southern Railway, as special tie inspector and entered upon his duties this week. Mr. Berry decided to make this change in order that Mrs. Berry might be closer to her mother, who, with the exception of one single daughter, is alone since the death of her husband. Mr. and Mrs. Berry expect to start housekeeping either in Alexandria or Manassas as soon as Mr. Berry ascertains which point will be the more convenient for his position.

—Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Burke, with their daughter, Miss Marion, formerly of Manassas, were in Washington on Wednesday for the day.

—Major J. Ogden Murray, of Charles Town, W. Va., secretary of the "Immortal Six Hundred," Confederate officers, who were confined in the stockade on Morris Island, South Carolina, under fire of their own guns shelling that island, spent last week in Manassas. He had with him several cigars that were made 48 years ago by Messrs. Locke & Hughes, of Charles Town. The Major gave the manager one of the cigars, which was enjoyed by the recipient. The editor has not learned to smoke, or he too would doubtless have been offered one of the "smokes."

—The publicity committee of the War Loan Organization has secured from the government the wonderful motion picture entitled "The Price of Peace." This picture was made by the United States Signal Corps, and shows our fighting men at the time they were drafted, training in France and about 3,000 feet of actual fighting around Chateau Thierry. Only a limited number of these pictures has been allotted to Virginia and Prince William is fortunate in having two assignments—one for Manassas on Wednesday, April 23, in Conner's Hall and one for Quantico on May 5. A good speaker will accompany the film.

—Parcels for members of the American Expeditionary forces in Europe will now be accepted at the post-office without the approved requests of the addresses. An order to this effect was issued by Postmaster-General Burleson in the postal bulletin of April 14, in the shape of a revocation of the order of March 28, 1918, prohibiting the acceptance of parcels unless accompanied with the requests of the soldier, approved by his regimental or other commander. Under the new ruling postmasters are advised to accept all parcels weighing not more than seven pounds and containing mailable matter, including books. Both soldiers and civilians of the A. E. F. are included in the order.

REGIMENT FLAGS DECORATED

County Boys in the 318th, One of the Favored Regiments.

The following article was clipped from the Washington Herald's Paris edition. General Pershing, besides presenting the Distinguished Service Crosses, decorated the flags of the various regiments. The colors of the 318th Regiment, in which are a number of Prince William boys, were carried by Sergt. F. Norvell Larkin, of Manassas, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Larkin, of Manassas, who is regimental color sergeant.

"Ancy-le-Franc (Yonne). Orders received by Major-General Sturgis indicate that General Pershing will review the 80th Division on the eve of its departure for Le Mans concentration centre. General Pershing and staff, accompanied by officers of headquarters of the First Army and the First Corps, will visit the area on Wednesday morning. The review is scheduled for 10 a. m.

"The review will be marked by the presentation of eleven more Distinguished Service Crosses by the Commander-in-Chief. These crosses were bestowed for especially meritorious service during the operation of the 80th Division in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. In this offensive, the 80th Division was employed in the front line of the attack for three successive periods, during which the division took over 1,800 prisoners, 88 guns, 640 machine-guns, and advanced to a depth of thirty-seven kilometres.

"The 80th Division was relieved from the First Army on March 20, and begins its homeward movement on March 30."

TRIBUTE TO PATRICK H. LYNCH

Industry and Integrity in Public and Private Life Brought Success

(By a Friend)

The recent death of Mr. Patrick Henry Lynch which occurred in a hospital at Staunton, Va., Friday, March 21 at 1:20 a. m. as the result of a fracture of the skull received on the previous Wednesday when the motor-driven inspection car on which he was riding with two other railroad officials ran into an open switch and became derailed has been referred to in detail in previous issues of the Journal.

Mr. Lynch was 57 years of age, having been born in Fairfax county at Clifton, which was then known as Devroes, May 22, 1861. He was a son of Martin and Margaret Lynch and one of the two only surviving children of this union.

Entering this life in the trying days of the civil war and confronted in early youth with a period of reconstruction and accompanying hard times in which to get an education and make his start in life, this stalwart son of humble but honest parents, like that other great Virginian Patrick Henry of whom he became a namesake by parental choice, was determined that no obstacle was unsurmountable or no goal impossible to reach as long as one kept within the proper bonds. Hence, he adopted as his four cornerstones of a basic principle for life: "honesty, fairness, justice and a square deal for all," and governing his conduct in every phase of life and his every undertaking by the motive of that strong principle he became in early life a man who won the respect and esteem of every one with whom he came in contact and enjoyed the confidence and trust of everyone with whom he was associated in business transactions.

Starting as a mere boy of fourteen years as a laborer on the Southern railroad which was then known as the Orange and Alexandria railroad, his keen intellect soon manifested itself in the aptness with which he grasped an idea and found a ready solution for each and every difficult problem in railroad construction and sometimes under unfavorable conditions. This was soon noticed by his superiors who in a short while promoted him to track foreman even though he was quite young. Soon, again, it became evident that surplus human capacity and shackled energy was being wasted and this time he was promoted to track supervisor of the Manassas branch of the Southern railway, a position which he held with distinction for a period of about twenty years, and it is said by experienced railroad men that the road bed between Manassas and Harrisonburg was in better condition during this period than it had ever been at any time during its whole previous existence.

Mr. Lynch was then transferred to the main line of the Southern railway between Washington and Orange, and had charge of what is known as the north end of the Washington division. He was soon promoted to roadmaster of the Winston-Salem division of the Southern railroad with headquarters at Greensboro, N. C.

When the Southern extended its Valley Branch division to Lexington, Va., it was made a separate division from the main line and Mr. Lynch was placed in entire charge of the branch road extension in the capacity of roadmaster with headquarters at Alexandria, Va., which position he occupied up until the hour of his fatal accident.

Early in his official career he established the rule of basing promotion strictly on the merits and qualifications of the man regardless of "pull or influence" and always adhered closely to this policy, a system which was built up by him under a corps of able assistants whose watchword was always "efficiency."

Pat Lynch, as he was familiarly known by all of his intimate friends, was one of the biggest hearted and most liberal men that ever lived in our community, always contributing generously to all worthy causes and taking an active interest in the welfare of the poor and needy. He has actually been known to solicit from numerous indigent families an order for the grocer to be filled at his own expense, and it is a well known fact that during the past winter and especially the winter before, when the fuel situation was so serious, many dependent families would have suffered painful hardships had it not been for his timely and thoughtful aid in rendering helpful assistance at a needy hour and supplying them with a means of acquiring ample fuel with a slight expense of elbow grease.

As an evidence of the esteem in which he was held by the railroad company a special train was run from Harrisonburg to Manassas bringing over four hundred railroad men and their families and other coaches were added to the regular scheduled trains from Washington, Alexandria and intervening points between there and Manassas to convey them to this division here to pay their last respects to their beloved roadmaster.

An old gentleman, who is a track foreman, was heard to say the day of the funeral: "I can well remember, years ago, when a visit from a superior or roadmaster was looked on with dread and terror and each track foreman almost held his breath when he heard the approach of an official car, realizing that they were obliged to submit to a certain amount of fault-finding and unjust criticism in order to hold their positions, but when Mr. Lynch came, every one was happy, and after extending cordial greetings and offering helpful suggestions he left each man with more heart in his work and a stronger desire to serve and succeed than before. Whenever criticism was due instead of making it openly he always called a foreman aside and counseled with him in an advisory way helping him to find a ready solution for a problem rather than scolding him for not having solved it.

Aside from his successful career as a railroad man, he was equally successful as a business man. Having formed a partnership several years ago with his only brother, Mr. Michael Lynch, another of our prominent townsmen, they, together, entered upon many a business enterprise which proved highly successful. A business association, which by reason of the predominating influence of the strong brotherly love which existed between them was made an untarnished path of congenial harmony, kept bright and clean by the likeness of the two brothers with regard to business principles, each, alike, maintaining that the same high standard of integrity that made business flourish without, applied with equal weight within in order that a feeling of friendship and justice might prevail.

His last days were greatly saddened and his heart filled with sorrow by the death of his son, Sergt. George Oliver Lynch, who died on January 13, 1919, at Vichy, France, at base hospital 115, as the result of three machine gun bullet wounds received October 7, 1918, while fighting on Hill 247 of the Argonne Forest victory.

Mr. Lynch was a life-long member of the Catholic faith, having received holy baptism in infancy and confirmation in early childhood; he lived his whole life through, a consistent Catholic and Christian gentleman.

His funeral, as has been previously stated in the Journal—"the most largely attended funeral ever held in Manassas with one possible exception, that of Congressman E. E. Meredith in July, 1900"—was held from All Saints Catholic church at 2:30 in the afternoon (by special request of friends of the deceased mass was celebrated next morning) Sunday March 23. The services were conducted by Rev. Father Louis Smet, a former pastor of this church now of St. Mary's church of Alexandria, assisted by Father William Gill, present pastor of All Saints church. The last prayers and final absolution were given the remains at the grave and the body was interred in the Manassas cemetery. The grave was literally covered up with many floral tributes which, when in the procession, fitted a specially open van drawn by two horses, the platform of which was built up in the order of shelves and when filled resembled a giant flower stand on wheels.

November 27, 1884, Mr. Lynch married Miss Mary Jane Higgins, of Brimlow, Va., where they lived until 1890, when they moved to Manassas and have since that time been residents of the latter place. So happy, pleasant and loving were their domestic relations that he once remarked, "the only recreation I ever crave is a chance to be relieved of the responsibility from my duties and to be home a while with my family." And this culmination of his glory was almost within his reach—had fate been kind—for had he lived to attain the age of sixty years he would have been placed on the retired list with a continuation of his salary during his natural life—a system now adopted by the Southern Railway as an expression of gratitude to roadmasters, as well as higher-ups, who have attained the age of sixty years.

In the death of Mr. Lynch the railway company has lost an able, efficient and conscientious official; the family, who have the sympathy of the entire community in this hour of their sad bereavement, a devoted husband and kind and loving father; the Catholics, through a staunch friend and supporter as well as a faithful member; and the community at large has sustained an irreparable loss that words fail to describe.

Mr. Lynch is survived by his devoted wife, four daughters and two sons—Mrs. G. M. Berry, of Phoenix, Arizona; Mrs. Victor P. Emerson, of Philadelphia, Pa. and Misses Mamie and Margaret Lynch; Lieut. M. Edward Lynch, with the A. E. F. in France, and Thos. B. Lynch, a divinity student at Belmont Abbey College, Belmont, N. C.

Mr. Herbert Weaver and family are back in Clifton. They will occupy the cottage owned by Mrs. Leola Ford. Mr. Weaver will assist in his father's store.

Rev. Alford Kelley preached an excellent sermon Sunday morning to a large congregation on the subject, "Where art Thou?" The congregation was asked to endorse a petition against any United States citizen setting up a place for the manufacture of intoxicants in any other country while the United States was not allowing such places of business within its own borders. The petition was favorably endorsed by the congregation.

After the service a congregational meeting was held. After reading the report of the year's work and giving the report of the "every member canvass" which had resulted in a pledge of $640 for congregational expenses.

The Literary Association held a meeting Tuesday night rendering an excellent program. The event of the evening was a debate—"Resolved, that the Death Penalty Should be Abolished," the affirmative side being argued by Miss Margaret Detwiler and Paul Quigg, while Misses Annie Elgin and Ruth Quigg argued the negative. The judges, Messrs. W. H. Richards, R. L. Poindexter and Jas. Kincheloe, gave the negative side the favorable decision. After the closing of the program the supper boxes were auctioned off by Mr. James Kincheloe, many of the boxes bringing a good price. The five gallons of cream were sold in a little while realizing quite a sum for the school.

Among the Sunday visitors were—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Watson, Miss Antonia Ford and Miss Sarah Crews, all of Washington.

Since then the patient has been reported as resting easy.

The last issue of the Journal makes mention of the noise of the tadpoles being heard in the land for several weeks. Exception to this statement—the noise of the frog has been heard. The tadpoles are not hatched yet and really do not make any noise until they are grown into frogs, and are no longer called tadpoles when they become noisy.

Miss Lillian Wells, returned missionary from Hwaiatufu, China, came to see her former Sunday School teacher, Mrs. W. B. Deak, this past week. She brought a very interesting and varied collection of Chinese costumes and relics. There are only seven missionaries to 1,500,000 people, but two more will return with Miss Wells this fall.
