BANNERS FOR CHAMPIONS

Washington Sunday Star to Give Official Emblems to Boys and Girls. Announcement is made by the extension services of Maryland State College and Virginia Polytechnic Institute that county championship banners will be awarded this year to the boys' and girls' clubs doing agricultural and home economics work in the counties of southern Maryland and Northern Virginia.

In Maryland where the boys and girls are organized separately, there will be two banners in each county, one for the boy champions and another for the girls' club scoring highest. In Virginia the boys and girls are organized together and there will be one banner for each county.

The banners, which will be donated by the Washington Sunday Star, will be in the colors of the respective state colleges, and will be specially lettered for each county. They will be of wool bunting, so that they may fly from an out-door staff beneath the American flag, the idea being that when awards are made there shall be a formal flag raising at the school-house where each winning club has its headquarters. The offer to donate the flags was made by the Star and accepted by the Maryland and Virginia state agents in charge of club work at a conference held recently in Washington.

The awards will be made on the basis of the official scoring of the work of the clubs by the county farm and home demonstration agents. As soon as the banners can be manufactured they will be delivered to the county agents, and it is the expressed belief of those in charge of the club work that the friendly rivalry which will result among the clubs not only will add interest, but will prove an incentive to better effort.

ANNOUNCEMENT STATE COUNCIL

The Associate Council of the National Society of United States Daughters of 1812, comprising national and state officers and chapter regents convened on Monday, April 21st at the Willard Hotel, Washington, for a three days' session. Monday was largely given to the national board meeting and passing on credentials of delegates by credential committee. Regular sessions of the meeting were held in the small ball room beginning Tuesday morning. Before beginning the orders of the day, after an invocation, Mrs. Newton D. Baker, wife of the secretary of war, sang exquisitely two solos. Another treat had been prepared for the delegates and visitors by the introduction of the author of the American's Creed, William Tyler Page, a name descendant of President Tyler. The readers of the Journal will recall that about a year ago the city of Manassas offered a prize of $1,000 for the best brief expression of the duties and obligations of American citizenship. Out of several thousand papers submitted, his was selected for its brevity and simplicity, but remarkably comprehensive of the best in American ideals, history and traditions of its founders. The creed is as follows: The American's Creed—"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes."

Mr. Page, in his impressive recital of his creed with a brief history of the circumstances which inspired him to offer the contest, but he made no mention of his generous gift of the $1,000 and offers to the American Red Cross. Reports showed untold achievements along all lines of war work activities. The Historian National reported amount invested in Liberty Bonds and War Saving Stamps, plus amount sold $4,559,432.55 and to E. C. Y. M. C. A. and other agencies, $167,065.14. The organization has less than five thousand members, but is steadily increasing. Unlike the organization of Daughters of the American Revolution, we are far from being such a large unwieldy body as to necessitate steps to amend our constitution to decrease representation at our national meetings. The beautiful spirit of harmony was like a benediction to many of our representatives who were also in attendance at the Congress of D. A. R. the week previous. Our newly elected president, Mrs. Clarence Jeans, of New Haven, Conn., and her aides, one of whom is Mrs. Samuel W. Goodwyn, Virginia's state president, was selected by acclamation. By voluntary contributions from the state societies, the work of selecting and placing five beautifully inscribed vases on the altar in the George Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge as a tribute to the first president of the United States, was reported completed by the committee in charge. During the past year historical and commemorative work was with few exceptions laid aside for the more important work of war relief. The immediate present was stressed as the time when we must put into permanent form the record of this war work as it is our "history" during the great war which will be summarized and published that every member may rejoice and take pride in our patriotic record. A large silk service flag was prominently displayed. Also a replica of the original "Star Spangled Banner" showed sixty-three gold stars and one thousand, seven hundred and eighty-six blue ones, typifying the sacrifice and glory of the U. S. Daughters of 1812 in the great world-war. There was also exhibited an Honor Roll, in the form of a card index catalogue, giving the name of soldier or sailor, wife, if any, and place and form of service and his or her relationship to 1812 member. The features arranged by the social committee for the further entertainment of the delegates were:

in the red-parlor of the Willard, and the annual banquet on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Robert Hall Wiles, the president national being toast mistress. Women of distinction in their organizations were guests of honor to respond to the following toasts: National Society of Mayflower Descendants, Colonel James, Daughters of Founders and Patriots, Daughters of the American Revolution and United States Daughters of 1812. Patriotism was the keynote for the addresses of the three distinguished army officers present—Capt. Paul Perigard, of the French army; Lieut. Col. J. E. Faunthorpe, of the British army; and Chaplain James Harvey Dunham, of the United States army. Capt. Perigard's speech was a glowing tribute to America's Expeditionary Force and asked that we would await developments, not form hasty judgments from newspaper accounts, of the love of France growing cold toward us because of the differences of opinion as to the League of Nations' compact. Col. Faunthorpe's address was in the nature of a burlesque on the mother country being twice whipped by her lusty child on this side of the ocean. Chaplain Dunham took for his theme, "Whose are the Fathers?" His address recalled the fact that most of the fathers instrumental in creating our great republic were Virginians. The hour was late but he held the rapt attention of all present to the finish. The members of the Colonel George Armistead Chapter in attendance were Mrs. Arthur W. Sinclair, regent; Mrs. F. E. Ransdell and Mrs. J. F. F. Casell, Virginia state historian.

All the lumber, the hauling of which cost nothing, is now on the ground, ready for the carpenters, who will begin operations as soon as the concrete work is finished, which will probably be in about ten days. The Sudley community will have a large, commodious and attractive building in which to worship, when the church is completed.

—Mr. Charles R. McDonald last week was in a quandary in regard to how to put in his time on Friday morning, as there were three important events occurring during the same hours. As county superintendent he wished to be present at the Industrial School exhibit; as farmer he wanted to attend the Farmers' Institute; as churchman he desired to take part in the discussions of the Group Centenary meeting at the Manassas Methodist Church. He was deeply interested in all three causes, but his bodily limitations, proportionate enough in avoidance, were limited regarding occupying three spaces simultaneously. It seems never to rain possible engagements, but it pours with this busy man.

—Mr. Oliver N. Miller and Miss Alice E. Woodyard, both of Brentsville, wished to get a license on Saturday, the couple having arranged to be married on Sunday. But, the prospective bride's parents being dead and she having no guardian, being a minor under twenty-one years of age, it was necessary for the clerk to get authority to issue the necessary license from Judge Saml G. Brent. The obliging clerk, Mr. Geo. G. Tyler, sent a letter at once to Judge Brent, who returned the order on Tuesday morning. The clerk immediately tried to get in touch with the young man, "in order to end his suffering," as he expressed it, but it was not until late in the day that he got the information delivered. On Wednesday afternoon the young people returned for the license and were married by Rev. Barnett Gums at his home.

COAL, LUMBER AND BUILDING MATERIALS

Your Next Winter's Coal

We do not know what the price of coal will be next Fall and Winter, as the retail price is governed by the price at the mines and the freight.

Our understanding of the present program is that Anthracite coal will advance ten cents a ton a month from May 1st to September 1st, and although we think this program will probably be carried out yet we are not sure of this.

We do know that THE MINES CANNOT PRODUCE, THE RAILROADS CANNOT HAUL AND THE DEALERS CANNOT HANDLE nearly enough coal during the Fall and Winter months to take care of an ordinary Winter's demand.

This means that coal will have to be mined, transported and delivered during the Spring and Summer to avoid a serious shortage next Fall and Winter.

We advise our customers to take these facts into consideration and order a reasonable supply of coal now.

IN HANDS OF RECEIVERS. Quantico Company's Liabilities Exceed Assets, Causing Bankruptcy. Abner H. Ferguson and Rudolph B. Behrend have been appointed by Justice Hitz of the District Supreme Court as receivers of the Quantico Company, against which proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy were filed by Tucker K. Sands, Walter J. Harrison and R. B. Behrend, creditors of the corporation. The bond of the receivers was fixed at $225,000. In their petition the creditors say the company owes them more than $35,000, and has admitted in writing its inability to pay its debts.

In an answer filed by the company through its president, Elridge E. Jordan, the reason for the failure of the corporation is laid to the smallness of the award for its land given by a commission appointed by the Secretary of the Navy. The award was for $209,000, and it is stated by counsel that the debts of the company will exceed $350,000.—Washington Star.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE HOLD MEETING AT COURTHOUSE

should concern the citizens of our state especially is that Virginia ranked next to the lowest of all the states in health; that is, the proportion of men unfit for military service in Virginia was greater, with one exception than any other state.

There are 300,000 deaths of babies in this country every year that are avoidable. Farmers who lose thirty-three head of cattle out of every hundred would immediately take steps to prevent the loss. And, yet, the annual infant mortality is thirty-three per cent., and we say "the Lord has taken them away."

By using the "ounce of preventative" which is worth "a pound of cure," we may hope to improve the health conditions of our state; and, in so doing, improve proportionally the happiness of her citizens.

A vote of thanks was extended Dr. Fletcher and Mrs. Snape for their kindness in addressing the institute. The Rev. Mr. Gibson then gave a short patriotic talk on the Liberty Loan and was followed by Mr. Ratcliffe who explained the terms of payment for the bonds.

"Timely Topics for Farmers" was the subject of a few remarks by County Agent Kolmer, after which the institute adjourned.

This meeting was the last that will be held until next fall.

COLORED SCHOOLS ANNUAL INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION

Brown School, Manassas, Thoroughfare, Neabsco and Antioch Schools win the Prizes

(By the Secretary.)

Friday, April 26th, was a great day at the Manassas Industrial School, when the colored schools of Prince William county held their annual exhibition of industrial work.

The schools represented in the exhibition were Agnewville school, Brown school, (Manassas), Thoroughfare school, Quantico school, Gainessville school, Endicott school, Neabsco school, Catharpin school, Kettle Run school and Antioch school.

The exhibition was held in the library, in Carnegie Building, and would have done credit to a county fair. This was particularly remarkable when the visitors examined the slips of paper attached to the various articles, and found that many of the best pieces were the work of students

At eleven o'clock the morning session began. Seated on the platform, in addition to Mrs. Berry and Principal Morton, the following honored guests: Superintendent McDonald, of Prince William county; Superintendent Kistler, of Harrisonburg; Superintendent Hendricks, of Culpeper county; Mr. Arthur D. Wright, state supervisor of colored schools; Rev. Strother, acting moderator of the Northern Virginia Baptist Association; Rev. Powell, of Alexandria; Rev. King, of Alexandria; Mr. Herbert Welsh, of Philadelphia president of the Indian Rights Association of America; Miss Adeline Penn, of Manassas; T. C. Walker, of Gloucester Court House; and Mrs. Henry G. Leach, of New York, the last three being trustees of the Manassas Industrial School.

At the request of Mrs. Berry, Principal Morton presided at the meeting. Two spirituals were sung, after which Reverend Powell offered an earnest prayer. Rev. Powell spoke of the inspiration of Miss Jennie Dean and prayed that the spirit of this great colored woman of Virginia might be carried forward in the work of all of the schools.

this occasion, Principal Morton presented M. S. Berry, mentioning the fact that the county industrial supervisor of Prince William's colored schools is a graduate of the Manassas Industrial School, and expressing the pride the school feels in her splendid work.

Mrs. Berry called upon the teachers of the county schools to tell of their experience in industrial work during the year. The teachers spoke briefly, but to the point. A number of questions were asked by the superintendents present and ways of meeting their difficulties were discussed.

After the reports of the ten schools had been heard, Mrs. Berry spoke gratefully of the co-operation which she and the county teachers had received from the Industrial School, and their gratitude, these teachers pledged themselves to raise $100 toward the $2,500 which the Industrial School is planning to secure before May 30th.

Superintendent McDonald closed the morning session. He paid the highest tribute to the work of Mrs. Berry, and thanked her for her great service to Prince William county. He also spoke of the Industrial School, saying that he was proud that Prince William was the seat of such an institution and urging the colored friends to make the school headquarters for all of their community activities.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock, dinner having been served to the out-of-town guests of honor in the Domestic Science dining room.

The students of the Industrial School took this occasion to present to their trustee, Mrs. Leach, a suitably inscribed volume, as a token of their regard.

The first speaker on the afternoon program was Mr. Arthur D. Wright, who urged the colored people to send their children to rural schools. He pointed out the close relation between the rural schools and the Industrial School, and spoke of the mutual benefit of manual and mental work.

Superintendent Hendricks, of Culpeper county, expressed his pleasure at being permitted to inspect such splendid work, and pledged himself to do all within his power to further the usefulness of both the rural colored schools and the Industrial School.

Superintendent Kistler, of Harrisonburg, also spoke enthusiastically of the exhibition and of the Industrial School. He said that he had come down to Manassas to "get on the band wagon," and that those who were laboring for Negro education in Virginia could count on his help.

Rev. Powell spoke of the co-operation which he felt existed among the educational forces in northern Virginia, and urged the colored friends to do all within their power to aid such endeavors.

Principal Morton then announced that T. C. Walker, of Gloucester Court House, would be given three minutes to speak. Everybody knows Lawyer

Walker and he was greeted with cheers. In his inimitable fashion, Mr. Walker pushed home to the audience the fact that their children were not going to get one step further in the world than they wanted them to go; that they had to get out and help, if they wanted things to be done. He said that some people had said that the white friends in the north were not supporting the Industrial School as they had done in the past, giving that as a reason that the school was trying to raise $2,500 among the colored and white friends in the south.

When Lawyer Walker made this statement, Miss Cooper, secretary of the New York - Manassas Association, arose and pledged the New York and northern friends to raise a similar $2,500 by May 30th, if the drive for the amount to be raised among southern friends was successful.

The important event of the day, the awarding of the prizes, then took place. Two prizes had been offered for the best industrial work done by two-roomed schools, and two prizes for the best work done by one-roomed schools. The first prize, for work done by two-roomed schools, was presented by the Manassas Industrial School and was a large framed picture of Miss Jennie Dean. This prize was won by Brown School, of Manassas, Mrs. Beattie White, principal.

The second prize for two-roomed schools, was a Funk & Wagnalls dictionary, presented by Miss Julia Calvin, and won by Thoroughfare school, Miss Nickens, principal. First prize, for work done by one-roomed schools, was a Seth Thomas clock, presented by the HomeMaker's Club, of Gainessville; and the second prize, a twelve-inch globe, presented by the county school board. The first of these prizes was won by Neabsco school, Miss Penniston, principal; and the second by Manley school, Mrs. Georgia Berry, principal, but owing to the fact that Neabsco school already had a clock, the prizes were interchanged.

Among the guests from a distance who came specially for Friday's meeting were Mr. Arthur D. Wright, of Richmond; Reverends Powell, Strother and King, of Alexandria; Superintendents Kistler and Hendricks, Mr. T. C. Walker, of Gloucester Court House; Mrs. Henry G. Leach and Miss Lindsey Cooper, of New York City. A guest who spent last week at the school was Mr. Herbert Welsh, of Philadelphia. Mr. Welsh is, in addition to his interest in racial problems, an extensive traveller, and a portrait painter. While at the school, he made portrait studies of Dean Emma Lee Williams, Assistant Farmer Nathaniel Dean and students Mary Page, Josephine Thomas and Theodore Whitfield. His Shakespearean readings and interesting talks have made him a delightful visitor in the Guest House.

By command, GEN. PERSHING.

Lieut. Richards was born in Washington and is a graduate of McKinley High School and of the Virginia Military Institute. He went to France last April with the 62d Division from Camp Gordon, Ga.

Since his return to America he has been at Fort McPherson, Ga., where he expects to undergo an operation for bone grafting. His wife and child have been staying with her parents at Columbus, Ga.

He is now making a three weeks' tour of six Southern states, in a party of five, with the assistant manager of the Seaboard Air line, speaking in the principal cities from Richmond, Va., to Tampa, Fla., in the interest of the Victory Loan.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear brother, Private Marvin Cornwell, who died in France Nov. 1, 1918. "Gone, but not forgotten."

He left his home in perfect health, He looked so young and brave, We little thought how soon he'd be Laid in a soldier's grave.

Not for self, but all for justice, And for honor, love and pride, It was for them he gave his heart's blood, He perished in the fight.

Somewhere in France they buried him Within a lonely, quiet grave; Unknown, save by his fighting mates, None cheered the cause he died to save.

And for his sacrifice the Stars and Stripes still proudly wave, Somewhere in France

By Mrs. MARY M. STETSON, L. D.
