PROUD RECORD OF BOYS IN FRANCE

Heroes of Eightieth Division Veterans of Twelve Months' Service Over There.

This interesting account of the war record of the Eightieth Division, with which many Prince William soldiers served in France, is taken from the Richmond Times-Dispatch:

It has been more than two years since the divisional headquarters, Three Hundred and Eighteenth Infantry, of the Eightieth Division, sailed for France. In that time the Blue Ridge soldiers have contributed much to the success of the allied arms. Virginians, West Virginians and Pennsylvanians made up the unit which is now at home, with each man wearing upon his shoulder the proud insignia, three blue peaks on a field of khaki. The name typical of the division for the range of wooded mountains is common to the three states in which the soldiers came.

With exceeding skill in organizing, the division, one of the original twelve authorized by the War Department, Major-General Adelbert Cronkhite, a West Point graduate, and a soldier of forty-one years' experience, picked the men carefully according to their home ties.

Elements Were Localized. He localized the elements of his organization with great regard and brought out thereby the best results in the field at the record of the division shows.

Virginians, Pennsylvanians and West Virginians made up the units, as follows: One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Brigade, Virginians; Three Hundred and Fourteenth Machine-Gun Battalion, Virginians; Three Hundred and Seventeenth Infantry, Western Virginians; Three Hundred and Eighteenth Infantry, Eastern Virginians; Three Hundred and Nineteenth and Three Hundred and Twentieth, Pittsburgh and Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania; Three Hundred and Thirtieth and Three Hundred and Fifteenth Machine-Gun Battalions, near Erie, Pa.; Three Hundred and Fifth Engineers, Southern Pennsylvanians; Supply, Sanitary and Ammunition Trains, Pennsylvanians; One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Artillery Brigade, West Virginians; Headquarters Troop, Military Police and Three Hundred and Fifth Field Signal Battalion, selected men from all sections.

Overseas Movement Begins. Organization was completed August 27, 1917, at Camp Lee, Va., with an authorized strength of 28,000 men. To secure this quota a constant watch was kept as the recruits filed through the mustering offices, and 40,000 men were counted before the flier which comprised the Eightieth was finally completed.

From August, 1917, until May 17, 1918, the men were trained with a rigor that knew only the requisite of rest. From early morning until the Virginia sun set low in the west the soldiers of the three states trod the sandy stretches of the camp, or hour by hour dug their bayonets into the dummies that skirted the eastern border of the cantonment. Then after almost a year of this training the movement overseas began.

Attacked by Submarines. Following the other units, the headquarters set out on May 17.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO SOLDIER DEAD

Confederate Organizations Observe Birthday Anniversary of Jefferson Davis.

The 111th anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, was observed here Tuesday as memorial day under the auspices of the Manassas Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the Ladies' Memorial Association.

Preceding the public exercises at the Confederate cemetery, the Daughters served a luncheon at Red Cross headquarters in honor of the Confederate veterans, the guests also including the ministers of Manassas and their wives. The luncheon was in charge of Mrs. W. G. Covington, assisted by Mrs. R. L. Byrd, Miss Louisa Moxley, Mrs. F. E. Ransdell and Mrs. Arthur W. Sinclair.

Mr. H. Thornton Davies, in the absence of the commander of Kwell Camp, presided over the memorial service at the cemetery. The program began with "How Firm a Foundation," General Lee's favorite hymn, invocation by Rev. T. D. D. Clark and the U. D. C. ritual led by Rev. A. Stuart Gibson.

Miss Edith Gregory gave a reading entitled "Jefferson Davis," after which the school children sang "Massa's in the Cold Cold Ground." Little Miss Gregory, who was introduced as the sister of a hero in the present war, sang "The Soldier's Song" in a competition entered by pupils of Miss Annie Brown's class at Bennett School.

Miss Catherine Larkin, a daughter of Mrs. L. A. Larkin, Jr., read an essay on "The Rise of Democracy" and was awarded the gold medal offered by the Memorial Association for the best essay on this subject written by a student of the senior class of the Manassas High School. The medal was presented by Rev. Mr. Gibson.

The memorial address was delivered by Dr. Henry A. Battle, pastor of the Baptist Church at Charlottesville and chaplain-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. Dr. Battle is the son of General Gules A. Battle, of Civil War fame, a grandson of the war governor of Alabama and the father of soldier sons who fought in the great war.

Dr. Battle made an eloquent address and was applauded at intervals throughout its length. He paid tribute to Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and other Confederate heroes, and the heroes of the present war, justified the position of the South in the war of the sixties and spoke with true American feeling of the union of the Stars and Stripes and the Stars and Bars. He closed with a tribute to the devotion and patriotism of the women of the Confederate memorial organizations and charged them always to keep alive "the flame of truth in the temple of history."

"Thanksgiving," a poem written by the late Dr. Henry Masyck Clarkson, surgeon in the southern army and poet-laureate of the Confederacy, was read by Mr. H. W. Sanders.

Mr. George G. Tyler called the Last Roll as a memorial to the Confederate soldiers, Dr. Thurston Wolfe and Capt. John R. Rust, who have passed away during the present year. "They were Confederate soldiers," Mr. Tyler said, "and no higher tribute could be paid them."

STOLEN AUTO FOUND AGAIN

Authorities Say Escaped Prisoner is Thief—Car Sold in Rappahannock County.

Deputy Sheriff Kerlin reached Haymarket last night from Sperryville, Rappahannock county, bringing with him the Ford automobile stolen from Rev. Thomas M. Browne on the night of May 25 and sold at Sperryville by a negro who, although still at large, has been identified by the deputy sheriff as Charlie Jones, who escaped from the Manassas jail on the night the car was taken.

How Mr. Kerlin found the lost automobile is a long story. Evidently the escape of the prisoner and the disappearance of the automobile, not connected in any way in the mind of the average citizen, were well linked together in the minds of the representatives of the law. Several clues were followed without success until Mr. Kerlin saw a copy of the Page News and Courier, published at Luray and circulating in the home of Mr. S. C. Foster, near Nokesville.

This paper contained an account of the theft of a Ford automobile in the Mims garage at Luray. Suspicion immediately was directed to "a gingerbread colored negro, tall and weighing about 175 pounds," who appeared in Luray the first of the week "in a good looking Ford," which he tried to sell at Luray and finally sold at Sperryville to an instant party for $350.

The man in one instance gave his name as Charley Harrison and said he was from Sperryville and again used a different name, professing to be from Roanoke. When at Luray he was well dressed, wore a machinist's or railroad man's cap, coat and trousers of a different color and auto gauntlets. He also had a gold front tooth. Soon after the negro's escape it developed that he had shown while in jail some curiosity concerning the town of Haymarket. Another link was formed in the chain of evidence when it became known that a negro driving a Ford can on the night of the theft stopped at the home of a colored man on the Independent Hill road to inquire the way to Sperryville. It also became known that the same negro some time ago had sold two automobiles in this section.

Deputy Sheriff Kerlin, accompanied by Mr. G. E. Arnel, of the Haymarket garage, left Haymarket for Sperryville yesterday morning at nine o'clock in Mr. Kerlin's car, and returned to Haymarket at four in the afternoon, Mr. Arnel driving the stolen car and the party having covered a distance of 150 miles.

When the car was found at Sperryville it was minus curtains, back light and tools and one of the new tires with which the car was equipped had been replaced by a worthless tire, the machine having made the final lap of its journey "on the rim." As the car when taken from the Haymarket garage on the night of May 25 contained eight gallons of gasoline and the negro, just out of jail, was not supplied with ready money, it is supposed that the tire and equipment were sold en route to pay the expenses of the trip.

—Prof. O. W. Mosher, Mrs. Daisy N. Porter and Miss Margaret Roop gave a recital at Deleplane last Friday.

HERO OF GRAY GOES TO REST

Capt. John R. Rust Dies at Haymarket Home—Funeral Largely Attended.

Capt. John R. Rust, a well known citizen and prominent Confederate veteran, died at his home in Haymarket on Sunday afternoon. He had been in frail health for several years but was able to go around and enjoy his home and friends until about three weeks ago when he was stricken with the severe illness which ended his life.

The funeral was held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Tuesday morning, the service being conducted by Rev. J. R. Cooke, pastor of the Greenwich Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Thomas M. Browne, rector of St. Paul's. The honorary pallbearers were Messrs. Andrew Low, W. L. Heuser, W. O. Rust, Albert Ash and John White and Mr. Bowman, and the active pallbearers were Messrs. M. H. Lightner, James Wise, Charles Keyser, W. M. Jordan and Marion White and Capt. C. D. S. Clarkson.

The funeral was largely attended, all business being suspended in the town of Haymarket, and many of his soldier comrades were present. The casket was draped with Confederate flags sent by the Manassas Memorial Association and the 8th Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Many beautiful flowers were sent by relatives and friends. The Haymarket School attended in a body and as the casket was lowered each child dropped a flower in the open grave.

Capt. Rust was born in Warren county seventy-nine years ago and came to Prince William in 1900. His parents were Charles B. Rust and Mary Ann Ashby.

He volunteered in the Confederate service the day following Virginia's secession and became a member of the Black Horse Cavalry, serving with his cousin, General Turner Ashby until his death. He was captain of Company I, 12th Virginia Cavalry, was wounded twice, had six horses shot under him and was captured and confined in a dark cell at Fort McHenry the morning after Lincoln's death until his release on June 1, 1865. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving members of the family are his wife, who was Miss Nannie A. McKay; one daughter, Mrs. Charles J. Gilliam, of Bethesda, Md.; three sons, Messrs. Robert A. Rust and Albert B. Rust, of Haymarket, and John W. Rust, of Fairfax, and one brother, Mr. Ashby Rust, of Purcellville.

Commencement at Hebron.

The commencement program of Hebron Seminary, which began May 23, closed last Thursday morning with the presentation of prizes and diplomas to the graduates of the college preparatory course—Viola Miller, Ella Miller, Cameron Yagel and Wilmer Klina. The program included the literary evening on the evening of the twenty third, the baccalaureate sermon Sunday evening, musical concert and operetta Monday evening, Bible program Tuesday evening and class exercises on Wednesday.

The town election takes place next Tuesday.

RED CROSS HOLDS REGULAR SESSION

Prince William Chapter Votes to Employ Public Health Nurse for Campaign.

The Prince William Red Cross Chapter, at its monthly meeting Monday evening at Chapter Headquarters, voted to employ a Red Cross public health nurse for one year to assist in the proposed health campaign for the county. The meeting was devoted wholly to discussion of a health program and plans for a celebration in honor of our returning soldiers.

Mr. Chas. R. McDonald made a report of his visit to headquarters as a representative of the executive committee, in the interest of the health campaign, and outlined the plans as approved by Red Cross authorities at Washington. Rev. Mr. Gibson read a statement and explanation of the health work, prepared by Miss E. H. Osbourn, who has given active support to the movement, after which the vote was taken.

In the absence of Hon. C. J. Meetez, chairman of the homecoming committee, committee members made unofficial report of the plans considered and a resolution was adopted recommending that the committee hold the celebration on July 4 and in the form of a picnic and carnival with speakers and a band. The committee, however, is not to consider it necessary to accept the recommendation if other and more popular plans have been devised.

Miss Osbourn's statement of the health campaign follows:

"The schools of Prince William, together with the Woman's Auxiliary to the Farmer's Institute, undertook this spring to obtain one of the $2,000 health campaigns offered by the state and federal governments to the first twenty counties which could raise $1,000 each, the other $1,000 to be given by the government.

Something over the $1,000 required was raised in about three weeks through the schools and women's clubs, together with an appropriation of $300 from the board of supervisors. But it was found on raising this money that while the campaign involved general sanitary inspection, including the schools, it did not give medical inspection of the school children.

"Application was then made through Dr. Draper (who had charge of the $2,000 campaign) to the State Board of Health, to know what could be done to get a complete medical inspection of the schools. In answer to this appeal, Dr. Roy K. Flannagan, of the State Board of Health, came to Manassas, and offered as agent of the International Health Commission (the old Rockefeller Foundation) to secure for us $3,000, if the county could raise $3,000, advising at the same time that the local Red be asked to provide the $1,200 or $1,400 necessary for the salary of the nurse required for the work. As about $1,400 had already been secured, this would leave only about $200 or $400 to be raised, which could easily be done through the schools; therefore the providing of a nurse by the Red Cross would secure the $6,000 campaign.

"As some time was required for the Red Cross Chapter to obtain permission from headquarters and to take the necessary steps to secure the nurse,"

Early steps in the matter, the particular $3,000 which Dr. Flannagan had in hand from the state and Rockefeller Foundation when he made the offer could not be secured, as another county was ready to take it up. But another $3,000 from the same sources can be obtained whenever Prince William has raised the same amount.

"So the matter now rests with the local Red Cross. If the chapter provides the salary for the county health nurse the $6,000 health campaign is secured for Prince William. Permission and full co-operation has also been secured from the Washington headquarters for the local chapter to take up the work of providing the nurse."

Miss Osbourn also offered the following resolution which is to be forwarded to the branches of the chapter throughout the county:

"Resolved, That in sending to the county branches a statement of the plans of the Prince William Chapter, American Red Cross, in reference to the employment of a public health nurse for Prince William county, the following points be emphasized:

"First, That if the Red Cross provides the salary for a nurse it will insure the getting of a $6,000 health campaign for Prince William county in place of a $2,000 campaign as first planned for;

Second, That permission has been obtained and full co-operation secured from the Red Cross Potomac Division Headquarters in Washington, D. C., for the Prince William Chapter and branches to provide a public health nurse in conjunction with a county health campaign to be carried on under the direction of the state and international health boards;

Third, That the Prince William Red Cross, in entering upon this public health work, is acting in full accordance with the purposes and plans of the National Red Cross which declares that the full strength of its great organization developed by the desperate need and suffering of the great war, will now, since peace has come, be turned into a worldwide campaign for public health, and for child welfare in particular."

1918. Near Brest, on May 30, the transport Leviathan was attacked by a flotilla of U-boats, variously estimated at from two to seven, but warded off the attack and made safely into port.

From the ports the division, less the artillery, was sent to Calais, where American were exchanged for British arms. By the middle of June the men were assembled in a training area near Boulogne.

The artillery was sent to Redon, near St. Nazaire, where they received horses and equipment. After training until August they were assembled at Camp Meucou, and stayed there until the middle of September.

Casualties 400 in August.

The attachment to the British was not only for training, however. It was for support in emergency, and participated actively in the operations of the Third Army, with which it was serving.

Several battalions held independent trench sectors. In Arvis another "went over the top" with the New Zealanders, two other regiments during this time took part in a large scale operation.

Then they began to move into the American sector. From the Artois sector the division was transported by rail through Amiens via Paris to the Fourteenth Training area, between Chaumont and Chatillon-sur-Seine, where it remained in comfortable billets until August 31.

On September 1 the division moved by rail to the Stainville and later marched to the Tronville area. While in the latter it composed the reserve of the First Army during the St. Mihiel operations of September 12-15, except the Three Hundred and Twentieth Infantry and the Three Hundred and Fifteenth Machine-Gun Battalion, which were attached to the Second French Colonial Corps.

Artillery Rejoins Division. The artillery then rejoined the division. Concentration of the American First Army had begun. On the night of September 24-25 the entire One Hundred and Sixtieth Brigade, which had been designated to first represent the division in attack in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, was concentrated in the Bois Bourrus, near Germonville, while the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth, or support brigade, was assembled in reserve in the Bois de Sartelle, near Fromerville, several kilometers west of Verdun.

That night the One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Field Artillery Brigade occupied its previously selected battery emplacements along the south slope of Dead Man's Hill. On the 25th orders were issued that the expected attack was to be made at 5:30 a. m. the following morning.

Gain Entire Objective.

Strangely exaggerating the silent distances of the night, a low moon hung in heavens. At 11:30 p. m., the artillery of the First Army opened its preparation. Supporting and supported by other units, the Eightieth was stationed opposite the village of Bethincourt, then destroyed. For two days the battle was waged, and on the 27th the entire objective within its range was taken by the division.

vision then relieved the Eightieth. In the artillery and the Three Hundred and Eighteenth Infantry, the division then moved to the Bois Montfaucon in the reserve.

In this offensive they had opposed three hostile divisions, and still advanced about six miles, captured thirty-five officers, 815 other ranks, sixteen pieces of artillery, seventy-seven machine guns and a large quantity of ammunition and stores, including over 1,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition and 5,000 boxes of grenades. In addition, an entire ammunition camp on the bank of the Meuse, with stores valued at $10,000,000, was taken.

Breaking Through the Line.

On the 30th the Third Division had relieved the Seventy-ninth in Nantillois in front of Montfaucon, but the Third Division, like the Fourth Division, was unable to advance. It was, therefore, determined to draw these two divisions apart and create an intervening sector for the Eightieth Division, which was relied on to break through the Bois des Ogons in front of Nantillois. This strong point had proved a stumbling block for three other divisions, and presented no slight obstacle. Strongly held machine-gun zones swept its approaches from either flank, while strongly held posts confronted the northern exits from the wood.

For this new attack the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Brigade was designated.

For some reason there was no artillery preparation upon the Bois des Ogons and the machine-gun zones on its flanks, but the barrage rolled forward slightly late and was closely followed by the Second Battalion of the Three Hundred and Eighteenth Infantry.

Attack by Hostile Planes.

Upon the support companies of this battalion the hostile counterbarrage fell as they were leaving their assembly positions, while the leading companies reached and entered the Bois des Ogons.

The divisions on its flanks failed to advance, the result being that the attacking battalion of the Eightieth Division was enfiladed from both flanks by machine guns, and encountered the concentrated direct fire of the hostile artillery upon the narrow front of the Bois des Ogons. The four accompanying French tanks withdrew immediately.

Throughout the day the position consolidated in front of the woods by the Three Hundred and Eighteenth Infantry was subjected to a constant bombardment with high explosive and gas shells, and hostile planes were most active.

305th Engineers Work Hard.

On the night of October 6-7, the One Hundred and Sixtieth Brigade took over the entire front line of the division, and the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth withdrew. The Bois-des-Ogons was the same night organized for defense. The Three Hundred and Fifth Engineers worked unceasingly while the artillery pounded away at the enemy positions.

At 3:30 p. m. on the 9th two battalions of the Three Hundred and Nineteenth Infantry advanced, following closely a rolling barrage. By nightfall the front line of the division had reached La Villa an Bois Fine, and the attack was directed to be pressed as far as the Cunel-Brieulles road, which position was reached and held. Later on the same night two companies of the Three Hundred and Nineteenth filtered through the woods south of Cunel, surprised the garrison of the town, and took two battalion staffs, consisting of twenty-seven officers and sixty men, whereupon they returned to their lines.

tempt was made to advance the line, but an annihilating fire of the hostile artillery virtually destroyed the two left companies of the attacking troops.

During the night of the 11th the division was relieved by the Fifth Division, whereupon it was moved to the Foret de Meuse. On the morning of the 14th the division was moved by bus to the Triacourt area, in army reserve.

Receive New Browning Rifles.

During the second phase of the offensive the division had been confronted by four hostile divisions and sturm-truppen battalion. It had advanced four kilometers and had captured thirty officers and 102 other ranks, and much equipment.

There was a brief rest in the Triacourt. On October 13 was during this time equipped with Brownings and machine guns. Numerous replacements were made, and the division was transferred from the Third to the First Army Corps. This corps was designated for breaking the rearward line of resistance, which the enemy had successfully occupied by his initial withdrawals. The line between Grand Pre and St. Georges was to be assailed with the Eightieth, Seventy-seventh and Seventy-eighth Divisions in line from right to left, in liaison with the Fourth French Army on the left. On the right of the first corps was the fifth corps, the left flank of which the Eightieth Division was expected to cover in the advance.

160th Brigade in Assault.

The mission of the Eightieth Division on the first day of the attack was to seize the high ground north of Sivre-le-Buzancy, advancing between Exermont, Fieville, Sommauthe and St. Georges on the right, and Apremont, Chatel Cheherry, Cornay, Buzancy (inclusive), and St. Pierremont (exclusive) on the left. The enemy held a very strong position, with its front line roughly a few hundred yards south of St. Jouvin and St. Georges.

The division marched twenty-five kilometers through the Argonne Forest on October 30 and 31 and relieved the Eighty-second Division along the line St. Georges-St. Juvin. Its own artillery had continued in the line with the Third Corps when it was relieved, so that it was now attached to the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Brigade of the Eighty-second Division, reinforced by two American and ten or more French batteries.

Again the One Hundred and Sixtieth Brigade, General Bretz commanding, was selected to make the assault, while the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Brigade was held in reserve near Cheherry.

On November 1, after an artillery preparation of unprecedented intensity, which lasted two hours, the Three Hundred and Nineteenth and Three Hundred and Twentieth Infantry, each in columns of battalions, on the right and left, respectively, advanced to the assault behind the rolling barrage, in liaison with the Second Division of the Fifth Corps on the right and the Seventy-seventh Division on the left.

Ahead on Its Own Initiative.

The Three Hundred and Nineteenth Infantry advanced rapidly, and by nightfall had reached a point on the Buzancy-Bayonville road north of Imecourt, where connection with the Second Division was established. On the left of the division heavy machine gun and artillery fire had been encountered from the Ravine aux Pierres and the Three Hundred and Twentieth Infantry had been unable to press beyond Alliepoint, or to keep abreast of the Three Hundred and Nineteenth. The center and left divisions of the corps made

LAUDS Y. M. C. A. WORK IN FRANCE

Official Investigation of Organizations Discloses Reasons For Criticism.

Praise of the Young Men's Christian Association, rather than condemnation, is contained in the first official report of Army authorities directed by Secretary Baker to investigate the record of welfare organizations in France, especially the Y. M. C. A.

This report, received at the national war work headquarters of the Y. M. C. A., deals with the organization's activities in the area around Gondrecourt, where was stationed the 88th Division, comprising troops from Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota.

"The greatest source of criticism was the taking over of general canteen work," said the report.

"By assuming this canteen work, the possibility of general free distribution was eliminated as it would have required possibly ten times the amount of funds collected in the United States to have supported such a project.

"There can be no doubt that the 'Y' has done a great work in the A. E. F., and that time will eliminate much of the fault-finding which at one time was prevalent. The great majority of the 'Y' personnel have been generous, sympathetic, hard-working and self-sacrificing. It is evident that much fearless, untiring work was done among the front-line troops. It is to be regretted that this splendid service has been overshadowed in part by criticism for which the personnel in general are in no way responsible."

no progress, so that the only advance made on November 1 by the First Corps was made by the Eightieth Division.

In front of the corps the enemy remained in a wood which barred the progress of the whole corps line beyond the Three Hundred and Nineteenth Infantry. The independent action of the Eightieth Division command alone enabled the difficulty to be overcome. During the night of the 1st it was arranged that the Three Hundred and Nineteenth Infantry, which had made a splendid advance to the north of the hostile position mentioned, should deliver a flank attack upon it directly to the west on the following day. This was done at 6 a. m. and was completely successful. The Three Hundred and Twentieth Infantry then advanced from Alliepont practically without resistance, so that Verpel and Thenorgies were reached during the morning. Several hours later the Seventy-seventh Division, and on its left the Seventy-eighth Division, moved up abreast the Eightieth.

The German line had been broken again. The enemy was falling back rapidly. On the 3rd the Three Hundred and Eightieth Infantry on the left and the Three Hundred and Seventieth on the right. The Virginians encountered heavy machine gun fire, but dashed forward. On the 5th the Three Hundred and Seventeenth entered Beaumont and took prisoners while the Three Hundred and Eightieth advanced six kilometers to Somme-Beaumont. Following this drive the division was reassembled at Sommesaethe.

November 10 official word of the signing of the armistice was received. A well-earned rest followed. During the five days fighting, opposed by seven enemy divisions, the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Brigade had advanced twenty-four kilometers, captured 800 prisoners and much equipment.

It has been noted of the division that it never boasted. Not only in Petersburg, Va., and Richmond, nearby which the men trained is the Eightieth recalled with most affectionate regard, but in many a tiny village in France a most friendly and cordial feeling lingers for these men who modestly and unflinchingly served their country.

Their achievements are of such as they could rightfully be proud. During twenty-three days in the American sector the Eightieth advanced thirty-seven kilometers, or nearly twenty-four miles. It three times broke the main enemy lines of defense on September 26, 27, on October 4, 12, and November 1 and 2, respectively. It captured 103 officers, including three entire battalion staffs and 1710 men; 88 pieces of artillery of various calibers, and 641 machine guns, besides a vast quantity of small arms, ammunition, equipment and stores. This was accomplished with a total loss of but 210 officers and 5,464 men, including thirty seven officers and 592 men killed.

On April 12, General Cronkrite was re-assigned to the division and enabled to return to America with the outfit which he organized.

A parade and celebration outstripping any welcome ever accorded to any body of troops will be given the members of the division who are returning. For those who have remained in Flanders fields, hearts of Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania will ever cherish a deep feeling of pride, for so long as the ridges of their Blue Mountains shall greet the sunlight as it bursts over three great states, so long shall the nation be grateful for the service which the Eightieth Division has so nobly rendered.

16,811 CHILDREN TESTED

Many Communities Weigh and Measure for Better Babies.

Weighing and measuring tests of children were held in 16,811 communities during the Children's Year campaign instituted by the Children's Bureau to reduce the infant mortality rate. To this total should be added many records coming from rural sections not listed as post offices. One-third of the total communities having post offices in the United States held tests.

Illinois had the greatest number of cities and towns participating in the campaign—1,261. Wisconsin led in the actual number of babies weighed and measured, as already announced, but the records came from 1,065 towns, ranking third in that respect. Iowa was second in the number of communities participating, having 1,212 and Ohio was fourth, with 944. Indiana came fifth with 786. From far off Hawaii three cities—Honolulu, Kakuu and Tora—sent records.

The weighing and measuring campaign is being followed up by the work of local committees seeking to make permanent the improvements shown by the tests to be necessary. Many committees are employing public health nurses and providing centres where the poor can obtain free medical advice.

AS TO YOU

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of man, and bearing about all the burden he can.
 Did you give a smile? He was downcast and blue, and a smile would have helped him to battle it through.
 Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down hill, and the world, so I fancied, was using him ill.
 Did you give him a word, did you show him the road, or did you just let him go on with his load?
 Did you help him along? He's a sinner like you, but the grasp of your hand might have carried him through.
 Did you bid him good cheer? Just a word and a smile were what he most needed that last weary mile. Do you know what he bore in that burden of cares that is every man's load and that sympathy shares?
 Did you try to find out what he needed from you, or did you just leave him to battle it through? Do you know what it means to be losing the fight, when a lift just in time might set everything right?
 Do you know what it means—just the clasp of a hand, when a man's borne about all a man ought to stand?
 Did you ask what it was—why the quivering lip, and the glistening tears down the pale cheeks that slip? Were you a brother of his when time came to be? Did you offer to help him, or didn't you see?
 Did you stop when he asked you to give him a lift, or were you so busy you left him to shift? Oh, I know what you say may be true, but the test of your manhood is what did you do? Did you reach out your hand? Did you find him the road, or did you just let him go by with his load?—F. B. Cawell.

HOW SAVINGS GROW

Ten dollars a month saved and put out at 4 per cent compound interest will show an accumulation of $1,475 in ten years, $7.50 a month will show $855; $5 a month will show $737; $4.50 a month will show $668; $4 a month will show $589; $3 a month will show $442 and $2.50 a month will show $368.
 Any sum saved and invested at 4 per cent compound interest will more than double itself in twenty years. Save $10. At the end of the first year you will have $10.40; in five years you will have $12.70. At the end of the tenth year your interest will have grown to $6.29, and at the end of the twentieth year your interest will be $10.70, or more than double your original sum. Carried along on the same basis $100 will become $297 and $1,000 will grow to $2,070.
 Save 10 cents a day and in ten years your daily savings will be $365, in addition to $90.50 compound interest, making a total of $455.96.
 If you save 15 cents a day for ten years with interest compounded at 4 per cent you will have $668.18; 20 cents a day will net $890.99; 50 cents a day will mean $2,227.73 and $1 a day will give you a total of $4,445.74.—Thrift Magazine.

HATS OFF TO THE GAZETTE

We are happy to extend to the Alexandria Gazette our hearty congratulations on its 135th anniversary of usefulness. The Gazette is the oldest daily newspaper published in America. During the civil war for a time it was obliged to reduce itself to a quarter page edition, and when the city of Alexandria was captured by federal troops publication was suspended. A little later soldiers of a Pennsylvania regiment were placed in charge of the office by military authorities and for a few weeks printed a paper named after their regiment.
 When the Gazette appeared again in 1864, Edgar Snowden, business manager and member of the editorial staff, was "taken into custody by the federal authorities, placed with others in a box car and run up and down the Manassas railroad every day. This was done under the delusion that Mosby would not derail the train if Southern people were aboard as hostages."
 The Gazette has weathered many storms since 1782, remaining in one family for a century, and now is justly sharing the new prosperity of the city of Alexandria.

HOW THE OLD TOWN LOOKED

"How the Old Town Looked," a little editorial from the pen of the soldier editor of the Come-Back, a paper published every week by the men at Walter Reed Army General Hospital, gives us something to think about. What are we going to do about it? Is our municipal house-cleaning to wait for the boys who fought the Hun to put their energies in motion against the disease enemies here at home?
 This is what the Come-Back has to say:
 How did the old town look when you went home on furlough—
 Rather tumble-down?
 Or torn up?
 Or dirty?
 Of course it did! And if you haven't been home on furlough, be rather sure it will.
 It didn't get that way "during the war." It was that way before. You are merely used to spick-and-spear cleanliness of army camps and cantonments.
 How about helping the old town clean up when you doff the uniform?
 It will look lots better. And perhaps it will save the lives of a lot of the youngsters, who play about the streets and yards.
 Try it.

TAKING THE OCEAN BY AIR

The United States Navy has the proud distinction of first navigating the Atlantic ocean by the air route.
 The individual honor goes to Lieutenant-Commander Albert C. Read, who safely landed May 27 at Lisbon, Portugal, within a few feet of the spot where Christopher Columbus dropped anchor on his return from his memorable voyage which opened a new volume of history.
 Though marking the new era of navigation by water which has never ceased to exceed the bounds of prophecy, this voyage discovering the western world loses some of its old-time thrill before the wonder of the new achievement of the seaplane in going back to the old world without touching the water. A new era in air travel has dawned and the possibilities which the future holds are not to be estimated.
 "In spite of the letters and newspaper articles to the contrary, the soldier boys who went from the farm into the army are not balking at farm work on their return," says Jesse M. Jones, director of the extension bureau, Virginia Polytechnic In-

A WORD TO THE VOTER

The Prince William County poll list for the primary and fall elections has been prepared and is being posted by the sheriff at every precinct in the county. It is not to be expected that such a list can be compiled without error and it will, therefore, be to the interest of every qualified voter to see that his name appears on the list.
 The law provides in the case of omissions that reinstatement may be ordered by the court upon written application within thirty days of the posting of the list. If you fail to find your name in its proper place, write to the County Treasurer, Mr. J. P. Leachman, and he will file your application without further cost.
 It may be well also to remind the voter that errors in the list are not due to the negligence of the treasurer. In the majority of cases the voter pays his taxes for succeeding years in different magisterial districts without being identified for the previous year, or signs his name with some variation which, in spite of the similarity, the treasurer cannot be expected to recognize as the same name which he signed the year before.
 While the errors, after all, are few in number, the voter will do well to investigate and be sure that his vote will not be challenged too late for correction.

The Mission of Swift & Company

Swift & Company has become one of the large businesses of the world through continuing to meet the growing needs of a nation and a world.

Society has a right to ask how the increasing responsibilities and opportunities for usefulness which go with such growth are being used by the men who direct its affairs—and the men have the right to answer:

To promote the production of live stock and perishables and increase the food supply;

To reach more people with more and better meat;

To make a fair competitive profit, in order to reimburse the 25,000 shareholders for the use of their capital, and to provide for the future development of the business;

To reduce to a minimum the costs of preparing and distributing meat and to divide the benefits of efficiency with producer and consumer;

To live and let live, winning greater usefulness, with injury to nothing but incompetency, inefficiency and waste; to deal justly, fairly, and frankly with all mankind.

These are the purposes and motives of the men who direct the policies and practices of Swift & Company.

VIRGINIA BOYS IN BIG PARADE

Richmond Gives Royal Welcome to Veterans of Eightieth Home From France.

Virginia veterans of the Eightieth Division, with which it is estimated 200 Prince William men served in France, arrived in Newport News, last week and were honor guests at a royal celebration in Richmond on Friday.

Richmond was in gala dress and thousands of people lined the streets. The parade was led by Adjutant-General Jo Lane Stern and his staff, who were followed by the service banner with a single gold star for those who died in service.

"One of the most moving welcomes extended the lads in khaki," said the Richmond Times-Dispatch, "came from the little remnant of an army that once held a world's fascination by its heroism and dash."

"Banked about the soldiers of the sixties were the flags of the confederacy and the Stars and Stripes, which is now a symbol of unity between them and all Americans everywhere. As their sons and grandsons of another stirring era swung by they gave the heroes in gray the 'eyes-left' salute of the soldier on parade."

At ten o'clock in the morning at the State Fair grounds Col. Freeman made the formal presentation of the regimental and national colors of the 318th Infantry to the state of Virginia.

"It is a privilege to Virginia and to the Governor of Virginia to welcome home today some of the boys this state sent across the seas. We were satisfied when we sent them away callow youths, almost untrained in the art of war, that they would hold themselves in times of danger as the sons of Virginia have always done."

"We recall today how our hearts followed them across the seas on their expedition to carry freedom to the oppressed nations of Europe. We followed them as they swept across the fields of France, carrying the banner of a free people."

sens you have a high mark to live up to if you live up to your records as soldiers. The Governor of Virginia and the people of Virginia are proud of you."

The boys are being mustered out daily and several have returned to their Prince William homes this week.

A sketch of the record of the Eightieth Division in France will be found in another column.

LESS THAN HALF A POUND BRINGS HIGH PRICE FOR WOOL

Less than half a pound of wool sold Wednesday night at the Richmond Hotel, Richmond, for $150.

The value of the wool was attributed to the fact that it came from the sheep which graze on the White House lawn. The wool was donated by President Wilson to aid the Salvation Army home service fund campaign, and was auctioned off by the Richmond workers.

T. H. Brown, jr., was the winner in the bidding contest, outdoing his competitors by offering $150 for the wool. The money goes to the Richmond Salvation Army campaign fund.

BLUE DEATHS AT HEIGHT IN EAST

Rate of 18.4 Per Thousand in United States and 18.9 in Canadian Population.

An annual death rate of 18.4 per 1,000 of population in the United States and of 18.9 in Canada during the recent epidemic of so-called Spanish influenza was shown by figures presented by James D. Craig and Dr. Louis I. Dublin at the thirtieth annual meeting of the Actuarial Society of America, representing the principal life insurance companies of North and South America.

A surprising piece of information was the statement that influenza was not a new disease, nor were epidemics therefrom of rare occurrence. Prior to 1875 92 similar epidemics had occurred, beginning with the first authentic one in 1510 in the British Isles. In recent times there have been outbreaks in 1889-1890, 1890-1891, 1891-1892 and 1918-1919, as well as minor outbreaks of so-called prig.

Losses to insurance companies because of the world-wide nature of the epidemic were shown to be large. Insurance companies in South Africa paid out $7,500,000. In the United States the loss probably was near $150,000,000. This sum was over and above what the companies normally would have paid out.

The disease made its first appearance on the Atlantic seaboard and especially at Boston in the first week in September. It spread from East to West affecting the mortality in various cities differently. On the Atlantic seaboard it took violent form and burned itself out quickly. As it moved westward the epidemic seemed less rapid in development, but of longer duration and there were flareups after it had died down in many cities.

New England was hit hardest, having an annual death rate of 21.3 per 1,000 of population. Then came the Middle Atlantic States, 20.9; South Atlantic States, 20.6; West South Central States, 18.8; East South Central States, 15.2; East North Central States, 13.4; Pacific States, 13.2; West North Central States, 12.8, and Mountain States, 11.8.

PIGION TO RECEIVE WAR SERVICE CROSS

Honor Goes to Bird Carrying News of Argentine Victory to Gen. Pershing.

At least one of the one thousand pigeons that have returned from France after helping win the war will be decorated for distinguished service. "Cher Ami," the pigeon that carried the message to Gen. Pershing's headquarters, announcing the victory of the Yankees in the Argonne, will be given such honor. Cher Ami is the feathered hero that flew thirty-seven miles after its left leg had been torn away by an enemy bullet, and delivered intact the despatch with which it had been entrusted.

Cher Ami was also one of the pigeons that carried despatches announcing the plight of Lieut. Col. Whittesey and his lost battalion, to which aid was immediately sent.

For these heroic deeds Cher Ami has been recommended by Gen. Pershing for the D. S. C. The pigeon will from now on have the best of quarters in Washington, a plentiful ration, and all proper care.—Exchange.

COAL, LUMBER AND BUILDING MATERIALS Your Next Winter's Coal W. A. SMOOT & CO., INC. WASHINGTON, D. C. We do not know what the price of coal will be next Fall and Winter, as the retail price is governed by the price at the mines and the freight. Our understanding of the present program is that Anthracite coal will advance ten cents a ton a month from May 1st to September 1st, and although we think this program will probably be carried out yet we are not sure of this. We do know that THE MINES CANNOT PRODUCE, THE RAILROADS CANNOT HAUL AND THE DEALERS CANNOT HANDLE nearly enough coal during the Fall and Winter months to take care of an ordinary Winter's demand. This means that coal will have to be mined, transported and delivered during the Spring and Summer to avoid a serious shortage next Fall and Winter. We advise our customers to take these facts into consideration and order a reasonable supply of coal now. W. A. SMOOT & CO., Inc. ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA

HAYMARKET

The marriage of Miss Emma Johanna Peters, daughter of Mrs. Ella Heineken Peters and the late Mr. Franz Peters, of Haymarket, to Mr. Alexander Hagedorn, of New York, took place on Wednesday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas M. Browne, rector of the church, and owing to a recent bereavement in the bride's family was witnessed by only a small company of immediate relatives and friends.

Though quietly planned and arranged the wedding was an extremely pretty one. The chancel and altar were banked with masses of lovely flowers, the color scheme of pink and white being effectively carried out in roses, peonies and mountain laurel.

Sister is Maid of Honor. The young bride was charming in her simple but handsome wedding gown of white satin, trimmed with old family lace, and made in round length. She wore a short tulle veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Josephine Peters was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a becoming gown of pink georgette crepe and carried pink roses.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Heineken Peters, who later gave her in marriage. The groom was attended by Mr. Gustav Peters, as best man. The bride's young sister, Edmonia, and two little cousins, Marie and Virginia Lann, were flower girls. They were daintily clad in white dresses with blue and pink ribbons and carried baskets of roses. The ushers were Mr. C. H. Keyser and Mr. Simpson Buckley.

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's wedding march were played by Mrs. A. W. Amphlett, who also rendered some very pretty selections during the arrival of the guests.

Wedding Dinner Served. Following the ceremony the wedding party, together with several intimate friends, were entertained by Mrs. Peters, the mother of the bride, at a dinner, served under the beautiful spreading trees on the lawn of the family home.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hagedorn left by motor for their wedding trip. They will make their home in Baltimore, where the groom is engaged in business.

The bride received a number of useful and handsome gifts. Among those who were here for the wedding were Miss Hagedorn, a sister of the groom, and Miss Mary Lea, both of New York.

MAKES APPEAL FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

Meeting to Be Held in Manassas Friday Evening at Grace M. E. Church

A meeting in the interest of the Children's Home Society of Virginia will be held next Friday evening at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church. The county chairman, Rev. DeForest Wade, will preside.

The statewide campaign to raise $167,000 begins next Tuesday and closes on June 25, during which Prince William is expected to raise her quota of $460. The work is to be carried on chiefly through the Sunday Schools of the county, and the collections of this Sunday, which is children's day, in many instances will be devoted to the fund.

The work of the children's home under Dr. W. J. Maybee is well known in Prince William and throughout the state. The institution receives no aid from the state and is dependent entirely upon the gifts of the friends of homeless little children. The work is interdenominational and the children in its charge are gathered from every section of the state and kept or permitted to enter good homes for adoption. Its charges have reached 2,500 in number and in the last year alone on account of the war and influenza epidemic 1,640 were received.

"There is no need to dwell on the worthiness of this cause," reads Mr. Wade's appeal. "Every little child in this land is a living appeal for those who are without parents and homes."

ALFALFA WEEK COMING

County Agent Urges Farmers to Begin Preparations

The recent world war has developed a "Campaign" or "Drive" spirit in many activities. It has proven the successful way to put "over the top" a plan of work.

"Alfalfa on Every Farm" is the slogan. A field in alfalfa carries with it as much pride to the grower as a Red Cross or a Victory Loan button.

June 16 to 21 is alfalfa week. Farmers' Union meetings and special meetings will be devoted to alfalfa discussions during the campaign week. Let every farmer think about alfalfa during these dates. This is not the time to plant alfalfa but it is the time to begin preparations such as ordering seed, lime, fertilizer, inoculations, picking out the locations, etc.

The Guaranteed Dairy Ration

THERE SHOULD BE nothing mysterious about a proper dairy ration. We all know just what it should contain in order to produce the desired results. The experiment stations settled that matter long ago. It's simply a question of getting the best ingredients, in unvarying quantities, at a price that will permit of a fair profit for the man who feeds it.

We have such in LARRO-FEED. It is a complete ration ready to feed; palatable and bulky, and the various ingredients of such a quality and so well proportioned that in spite of all the different conditions under which dairymen are feeding, we are willing to guarantee one of three propositions:

- (1) More milk; (2) or lower cost of feed; (3) or greater convenience without added cost or decrease in milk. Just what you can do with LARRO-FEED depends on how good a ration you have; but it will have to be a pretty good one if LARRO-FEED cannot beat it.
