BOOST THE FAIR

As plans for our first county fair go forward, it becomes the particular business of every citizen to get behind the movement and see that he is doing his own part of the boosting and that the fair is a success not in spite of him but partly through his efforts. To the citizen who has been living wholly within the prescribed limits of his family circle, without regard for his neighbor and the common good (if such there be in a great country whose men have gone 3,000 miles to fight for all humanity), the fair presents an opportunity for service which is sure to bring big dividends of warm personal satisfaction.

Our first fair, according to plans outlined, is to stress particularly Prince William county rural life and its advantages as shown by the products of the farm and the farm home. At this time rumors of a carnival company seem to overshadow the agricultural interest. Horse racing was vetoed in the early days of the organization and instead the carnival idea has been introduced. Without condemning all carnivals, it may be suggested that the fair management will do well to weigh carefully the plan under consideration. Serious embarrassment has been the lot of some of our neighbors very recently, we understand, through a carnival company whose attractions doubtless had been well recommended and whose contract apparently was everything to be desired.

We have been a long time effecting the organization of a fair association, although the idea was advanced by The Journal soon after its establishment in 1896. Now that plans are so well under way, we cannot afford to risk any feature which may detract from the successful management of the fair.

There are many ways in which the average citizen may show his interest. First of all, from a material standpoint, he may help the fair by becoming a stockholder in the company. If, perhaps, he is unable financially to become a shareholder his interest may be as real and his responsibility just as great as a backer outside of the association. The shareholders of the fair are numbered by the hundreds and the people of the county for whose benefit the fair is held are numbered by the thousands.

Boost the fair in every way you can. Offer your services to the governing board for use in any way that you may be valuable. Talk the fair everywhere you go and at the proper time see that your farm or family is represented in some way at the fair exhibit.

The Journal is glad to welcome into the field the Virginia Star, which went to press for the first time at Culpeper last week, with the avowed intention of keeping up with the growth and progress of Piedmont Virginia. The editor and owner is Lieut. Rufus G. Roberts, general manager of the Culpeper Exponent for five years, who returned from France in March after ten months' service with the 308th Light Field Artillery.

THE EDITOR AT THE "MOVIES"
 I went to a movie the other night. Most everybody does that now-a-days, so there's nothing so very unusual about that.

The picture wasn't so very unusual either. But there was just one thing in the picture that impressed me—a little revelation of human nature.

The little girl, happy, joyful, exuberant (as all such are in the movies and mostly in real life) was obliged by circumstances to live with an elderly uncle.

"Oh! Uncle," she said, "you'd be awfully nice if you'd only let yourself be forgotten by the uncle who was with me and his little niece were consequently happy."

And then I fell to thinking. It was an incident right out of real life. How true—and how sad! Many, many men and women are in the same condition. They try to think their happiness all lies within themselves and is secured by living for themselves alone. They just don't let themselves be nice; and so nobody else is made happy, and they live all happy, down in their hearts.

The little girl saw the good in her uncle and wanted him to let it have a chance.

How many of us are putting the good under cover so that it can't get out and exert an influence?

If the little girl isn't sent into your life to uncover it, try yourself to let yourself be nice. It will be a pleasant and undoubtedly very profitable experience.

WE CELEBRATE TODAY TWO DECLARATIONS!

A new significance has been lent to our National Holiday, in the light of recent international events.

Our own Declaration of Independence, originating in doubt and amid great pessimism, has developed the great government under which we live and whose benefits we enjoy.

In the Conference at Versailles, a New Declaration has been signed, amid similar circumstances, but from the final growth of which we confidently hope for far greater consequences in a world-wide independence.

TODAY LET US REJOICE AT THEIR CONSUMMATION TOGETHER.

The strength and permanency of any nation or union of nations is based upon the character and responsibility of its individuals.

"May we not" suggest that one way to assume your responsibility is to declare that this date, through the opening of a BANK ACCOUNT, will mark the beginning of YOUR FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE?

The question of macadamizing all streets from curb to curb is the public question now occupying the attention of the Culpeper Chamber of Commerce. It is estimated that $2,000 is expended yearly by the Culpeper street committee in cleaning out the gutters, grubbing up the grass, etc., and that the same $2,000 at five per cent would pay the interest on $80,000 with $500 a year to a sinking fund.

A new stunt was pulled off by bootleggers on the Fredericksburg police last week, says an exchange, who chased for some miles two suspected whiskey laden cars. The two cars came under the suspicion of the police who gave chase and after a run of a few miles the first car pulled aside and let the other car go by. The police upon overtaking and searching the car that slackened speed found no liquor in it and realizing that it was simply a protector of the other car renewed their chase. The other car upon seeing it was pursued dragged laprobes behind it and created such a dust that the police could not come close enough to effect a capture without taking a chance of a collision and were forced to abandon the chase.

SECRETARY GLASS MAY RUN FOR GOVERNORSHIP Political Gossip Believe Virginia Cabinet Office Will be Candidate in 1920. That Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass will become a candidate in the democratic primary of 1921, for Governor of Virginia, is the choice bit of political gossip going the rounds since interest has shifted from the peace conference to politics. Though Mr. Glass has made no recent utterance in the matter, it has been generally believed for a number of years that the Lynchburg statesman would not be averse to assuming the chief executive position in the state government. As the time approaches for the 1921 choice that belief becomes stronger. Should Mr. Glass enter the contest he probably will have as his opponents Lieutenant-Governor B. Frank Buchanan and Attorney-General John R. Saunders. Mr. Buchanan is an avowed aspirant, with strong political backing, and it has been currently reported for many months that Mr. Saunders would make the race. For Lieutenant-Governor, State Senator J. E. West already has announced himself a candidate and two other likely aspirants are W. McDonald Lee, of Irvington, former Commissioner of Fisheries and Thomas B. McAdams, a Richmond banker. No candidate has yet made his appearance for the office of Attorney-General, but it is possible that Hugh A. White, the defeated opponent of the incumbent in the last election, will again make the race. It is thought that he may be opposed by the assistant Attorney-General, Josiah D. Hank, in the event Mr. Saunders offers for Governor though he has never expressed himself in the matter.—Exchange.

THOMAS-SHIRLEY

A pretty wedding was celebrated Wednesday, June 11, at Antioch Baptist Church, when Miss Rose Mary Shirley, daughter of Mr. G. W. Shirley, became the bride of Mr. Henry Hamilton Thomas, son of Mr. Tarleton Thomas, of Aldie. Masses of ferns and mountain laurel were placed about the sanctuary, forming an effective background for the profusion of roses and other flowers adorning the pulpit, which was agleam with lighted candles.

Rev. W. F. Naff, former pastor of the church, officiated, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The wedding march was rendered by Mrs. James Hulfish, of Alexandria, and Mrs. A. K. Guilford, of Fairfax county, sang "Oh, Promise Me" during the seating of the guests. The bride, who was escorted by her brother, Mr. C. S. Shirley, of Washington, wore an exquisite gown of white net and satin, embroidered in pearls. Her tulle veil was becomingly arranged with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and sweet peas.

Miss Margaret A. Shirley attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a dainty gown of pink voile. Little Misses Frances Anderson, of Warrenton, and Frances Kibler, of "Poplar Hill," as flower girls, wore fluffy frocks of white organdy, with pink ribbons, and carried cunning baskets of pink rambler roses. The best man was Mr. Elmer Thomas, brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Messrs. Arthur K. Guilford and Elmer H. Guilford, of Fairfax county, Dr. John Thomas and Claude Thomas, of Loudoun county.

A reception followed at "Oakshade," the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left on the evening train, amid a shower of rice, confetti and good wishes, for a northern trip, the bride wearing a smart traveling frock of dark blue tulle, with hat and gloves to match.

Among those who attended the wedding from a distance were Misses Gertrude Smith, of Baltimore; Sarah and Jean Howdershell, Lena, Lotta and Lillie Brooks and Ethel Simonds, Mrs. J. T. Simonds, Mrs. Henry Dickson, Mrs. Charles Seal, Mrs. Arthur Bohman, Miss Annie Pickett and Mr. Holmes Levy, all of Washington; Mrs. Guilford, Miss Guilford, Mrs. William Dodge and children, of Fairfax county; Mrs. Robert Van Buren, Misses Grace and Edna Van Buren, of Brentwood, Md.; Mr. J. W. Shirley, Misses Irene and Ruth Shirley, Mrs. James Maxheimer, Mr. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Anderson, of Warrenton, Miss "Bee" Kibler, of Marshall, and Mrs. W. H. Shirley, of Canal Zone.

IN THE ARGONNE FOREST

It was early in November, these days when we were camping in the Argonne Forest when many Yankees fell. When Artillery trains were crawling and the Khaki boys were tramping, Here I helped to rush the traffic, so the Yanks could give them Hell. Just poke the dying embers and the story I will tell:

I was with those engineers who were building roads and bridges. Those engineers so fearless with the noble twenty-third; We were falling in the puddles, we were cutting down the ridges, When we listened to that roaring such as man had never heard— To say that Hell had opened is a simile absurd.

A vague mind could imagine that the universe was splitting. Or believe the great millennium was near. Or Hell had burst its hinges and the devil fiercely spitting. But not a man among us had a fear. And we kept the big guns moving from the rear.

Those shells would start a whistle, next their tune would be humming enough to make a sinner say a prayer. When we heard that weird screaming we knew what kind was coming. And we often heard a chaplain softly swear. But we kept the traffic moving, for the boys didn't care.

Then the nights came cold and dreary and the darkness was appalling. And we ate our beans and "willie" in the dark. For we knew that flare and flicker would start the bombs to falling and machine-guns from the air in cough and bark. The Hun would drop his missile but would seldom hit his mark.

We burrowed on like badgers and we slept beneath the soil. The damp clods made a pillow for the head; There was never any murmur when we rested from our toil. And we slept beneath the sod like we were dead. While shell-fire gave the sky a golden red.

We were in this place of terror when the winter rain had started,

And it seemed to come in an overcast

ing pour. In mud we slept and labored, but we never were disheartened. Though the Ropes' shells had never ceased to roar. And we kept the traffic moving as before.

But now this strife is over and we soon will be returning. To our loved ones who are waiting for us there. They have helped us on to victory, they have kept the home-fires burning. While we fought for them: they offered up their prayer. That we be brought back safely to that land beyond compare. —Lee M. Clarkson, 23rd Engineers, A. E. F., in Warrenton Times.

KING'S CROSS ROADS

Much interest is exhibited in the erection of the new public school building, the foundation of which has been laid. The building is to have two class rooms on the first floor, with a hall above to be used for Sunday School, church and community meetings. The canning club members in the community are interested in securing an additional room to be equipped for domestic science. The new building will replace the small one-room building which has been in use for a long time. The school was taught this spring by Mr. Murray Corder, who had been in the Army, and his sister, Miss Corder.

A lawn fête will be given for the benefit of the school this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin C. Hason.

Several farmers in the vicinity have devoted rainy days to school work, hauling lumber and sand. It is expected that the new building will be ready for occupancy in the fall.

A meeting of the canning club was held last Thursday afternoon at the old school building, dewberries being the timely topic of discussion. Miss Lillian V. Gilbert, county home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration in canning dewberries and making dewberry jelly.

THOROUGHFARE

Several members of the pig, poultry and garden clubs held a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Agnes Edwards, a member of the poultry club. The club members, with other young people of the community, assembled on the lawn under a big walnut tree. Miss Lillian V. Gilbert, county home demonstration agent, who spent the day in this section, discussed plans for sending exhibits to the county fair and went over the health catechism which the club members are studying.

Miss Gilbert also visited the gardens of the club members in this vicinity.

THREE-ROBBED BUILDING

Postoffice at East Falls Church Again Visited by Safe-Breakers; Who Got $200.00.

Robbing the post office at East Falls Church is getting to be a habit. Cracksmen paid a third visit Wednesday night, blew the safe all to pieces...

Possibly emboldened by former successes, last night's visitors made little effort at secrecy. A man in bed in a room in the rear of the post office heard them enter...

The robbers took nearly an hour at the job, arriving shortly after 2 o'clock and leaving about 3. Five hours later officials took the trail with bloodhounds brought up from Occoquan.—Star.

The Guaranteed Dairy Ration

THERE SHOULD BE nothing mysterious about a proper dairy ration. We all know just what it should contain in order to produce the desired results.

We have such in LARRO-FEED. It is a complete ration ready to feed, palatable and bulky, and the various ingredients of such a quality and so well proportioned that in spite of all the different conditions under which dairymen are feeding, we are willing to guarantee one of three propositions:

- (1) More milk; (2) or lower cost of feed; (3) or greater convenience without added cost or decrease in milk. Just what you can do with LARRO-FEED depends on how good a ration you have; but it will have to be a pretty good one if LARRO-FEED cannot beat it.
