

PLANS MADE FOR COUNTY SESSION

Club Girls Will Attend Courses in Home Economics at Nokesville Next Week.

Miss Mary O. Ambler, Fauquier county home demonstration agent, came to Nokesville Wednesday to meet Miss Lillian V. Gilbert, Prince William county agent, to complete plans for holding the bi-county four-day short course for girls of the canning, poultry and pig clubs. This course in home economics will be held at Hebron Seminary commencing on Monday.

Arrangements have been made through the courtesy of Prof. F. J. Byer, president of the seminary, to entertain the representative girls from both counties. Other girls from the three projects will attend the day sessions, returning to their homes in the evening, each local club being entitled to one representative who will spend the whole time at the course. The club president, if a girl, is first choice as a representative, the secretary having the next opportunity. If both officers have attended other short courses this season, or for some other reason are not able to attend the county short course, the club may elect its representative.

The girls are urged to take advantage of this course, which will be given along lines similar to other courses previously given in the county, which have proved more successful each year.

Arrangements have been made for chapel exercises each morning in the assembly room at nine o'clock to which all visitors will be welcomed. These exercises will consist of music, songs, stories and short addresses, and will be in charge of groups of the girls attending the course. Prof. Byer will make an address of welcome Tuesday morning, and on other days addresses will be made by Supt. Chas. E. McDonald, Elder L. A. Miller and others.

BAPTISTS TO CELEBRATE SOLDIERS HOMECOMING

Welcome Home Service Will Be Held Sunday Evening—Soldiers to Take Part.

A soldiers' welcome home service will be held at the Baptist Church Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock. Mr. George G. Tyler will tell the roll of the boys of the Baptist Church who served in the world war and the response will be made by Mr. H. W. Sanders and others. Rev. T. D. D. Clark, pastor of the church, will deliver the words of welcome and sing "Mother's Prayer." Rev. E. L. Gardner, of Franklin, will make the address.

An organ jubilee will be rendered by Miss Georgia Harrell and Mrs. R. E. Sprinkel will play the processional and recessional. Other musical numbers include "America," a duet by little Misses Hilda Moore and Janet Traylor, and "Welcome Home" by the choir. Miss Sossah Ish Harrison will give a reading entitled, "When the Boy Has Come Home."

Rev. Westwood Robinson will read the Scripture lesson and offer the opening prayer and Mr. L. Ledman, Baptist Sunday School superintendent, will offer a prayer at the close of the service.

WORK ON GROUNDS FOR COUNTY FAIR

Preparations Begin in Earnest—
Some Exhibits Under Canvas—New Buildings

(H. W. Sanders, Secretary)
The work of repairing and remodeling the grand stand and buildings on the old horse show grounds, to meet the needs of the Prince William Fair, has begun in earnest this week. Though there is considerable work to be done, a force of men sufficiently large to complete the work at an early date is being employed. Poles for the electric wires are being put in place and this branch of the work will be completed upon the arrival of the necessary supplies.

With the exception of the live stock, most of the exhibits will be under canvas, for which purpose three large tents have been engaged. The only new buildings will be the one for dairy and beef cattle and another for sheep and swine.

All persons who are interested in the success of the fair and especially those who have exhibits in any department should request a copy of the premium list from the secretary if they have not already received one. A copy of the premium list should be in every home throughout this section of the state, for everyone can make entries in one department or another.

A fair conducted on the proper principles—the principles on which every effort is being made to conduct the Prince William fair—stands for economic and social betterment, for education and instruction in the things that pertain most closely to our daily life, and for the promotion of the general welfare and prosperity of the community, county, and state in which it is held. If you want to see our fair measure up to this standard of success, get busy and do some real live bustling for it. And don't listen to the man who "knows" because he usually the man who is not really interested in the success of the fair.

MANASSAS CLUB HOLDS MEETING

New Officers Elected and Prime Banner Exhibited—Several Visitors Present.

The Manassas Agricultural and Home Economics Club held a meeting Wednesday evening at the high school building. Both president and vice-president being absent, Miss Lillian V. Gilbert, county home demonstration agent, presided. The meeting opened with the singing club song, after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in concert by the members. The roll was called by the secretary, Miss Lucy Brocken, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Miss Opha Kline was elected president of the club and Miss Georgia Harrell was elected vice-president. The banner offered by the Sunday Star to the champion club of the county was exhibited and conditions of the contest were explained by the county agent, who told of a visit of Mr. S. S. Cline, editor of the farm page of the Star, accompanied by Mr. Oat Burns, circulation manager. Mr. Burns expects to return to meet the boys and girls at their next county meeting on the first Saturday in September.

The date of future meetings was discussed and the club decided to hold its regular meetings on the fourth Thursday evening of each month beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

Visitors who attended this meeting of the club were the Misses Arthurost and brother, of Lima, Ohio, who are guests of Mr. Oden Brocken and sisters.

STEEL MAGNATE DEAD

Carnegie Was in Charge of Railway Communication at Bull Run.

Andrew Carnegie, business magnate, author, capitalist and philanthropist, died Monday. He was native of Scotland and began his career in America as a messenger boy at $2.50 a week.

During the war between the States he was in charge of military and government telegraph communications. He had charge of the telegraph lines at the battle of Bull Run. He was the last official telegraph operator at Bull Run.

TO FREE ANIMALS OF TUBERCULOSIS

No Charge Will Be Made for Services Rendered by State or Federal Inspectors.

The state and federal governments are co-operating in the work of eradicating tuberculosis from cattle and swine. This work is being conducted for the purpose of placing the herds upon the most profitable basis and for the protection of the health of the people from this disease.

The method of eradicating tuberculosis is by the application of the tuberculin test, proper segregation or slaughter of all animals which react and thorough disinfection of contaminated premises. The tuberculin test is for practical purposes, absolutely accurate and its application produces no ill effects. All tests applied are made under a regular form of agreement to be signed by the herd owner.

No charge is made for the services of federal or state inspectors, but the herd owner is expected to convey the inspector from and to the nearest railway point and furnish him with board, lodging and necessary assistance while the test is being applied. It requires approximately twenty-four hours to apply a tuberculin test.

Herds maintained for milk production will be appraised for both the state and federal governments, and indemnity will be paid in accordance with state and federal regulations for all animals which react to the test.

Applications for tuberculin tests or for further information, should be made to Dr. J. G. Forsythough, State Veterinarian, Richmond, Va., Mr. Benjamin Parsons, Com. Dairy and Food Division Richmond, Va., or to the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, 418 Lyric Building, Richmond, Va.

Four valuable horses belonging to Mr. Isaiah Beane, of near Purcellville, were killed by lightning during a recent storm.

CIGAR BOXES FOR SOLDIERS

Shell Shock Patients Want Them for Reconstruction Work.

Empty cigar boxes are needed by the soldiers of General Hospital No. 43 at Hampton, Va., for use in various forms of reconstruction work. Capt. Van Riper, vocational officer at Hampton, the leading shell-shock institution of the east, has requested the American Red Cross to assist him in obtaining a supply of these boxes from those who are generously "inclined."

Shipments can be made to Mr. A. S. Imire, Department of Military Relief, Potomac Division, American Red Cross, 1719 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., or to Capt. Van Riper, Vocational Officer, General Hospital No. 43, Hampton, Va.

ALL CHURCHES CLOSED

All Manassas Pastors Encourage for Sunday Morning Service.

There will be no 11 o'clock church service in Manassas on Sunday. The situation is most unusual, as the town is said to have more churches for its population than any other town in this section of the country.

Rev. DeForest Wade, of the Presbyterian Church, is spending his vacation in West Virginia; Rev. William Stevens, of the Methodist Church, is attending the Loudoun camp meeting; Rev. A. Stuart Gibson, of the Episcopal Church, will preach at Nokesville; Rev. T. D. D. Clark, of the Baptist Church, is attending the Potomac Association; Rev. Edgar Z. Pence is attending the synod at Orkney Springs; Rev. L. C. Moseick, of the United Brethren Church, is holding a meeting at Buckhall. Mass will be celebrated at 7:30 a. m. at the Catholic Church, Rev. William Gill, pastor. Services are held at the Primitive Baptist Church only on the fourth Sunday and Saturday preceding.

Thomas Fately, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Fately, has been quite sick for several weeks.

FIELD DAY AT CATHARPIN

Three Baseball Games on Tuesday
Under Auspices of O. F. A.

A field day will be held at Catharpin next Tuesday under the auspices of Stowell Council, No. 49, Order Fraternal Americans.

The day's program includes three ball games, scheduled to be held at 10:30, 1:30 and 3:30. The battling teams are Catharpin vs. Greenwich, Catharpin vs. Haymarket Junior Team and Gainesville vs. Aldie. Lunch and refreshments will be served on the grounds for the benefit of Stoddley Church. Fifteen and twenty-five cents' admission will be charged. The committee in charge of the event is composed of Messrs. L. K. Lynn, W. F. Hoffman, T. J. Cason, E. N. Pugh and W. H. Jeffries.

REMINISCENCES OF '61

Manassas Subscriber Writes Recollections of Bull Run Fight.

The Journal received an interesting letter from Mr. C. E. Druvner when he renewed his subscription on July 21, the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run. Excerpts from the letter follow:

"As I write, it carries me back to that date fifty years ago when everything here was in confusion. Soldiers, artillery wagons, ambulances, etc., all on the dead run to and from Henry House. We could hear the constant roar of guns. Soon the wounded commenced coming in. I went in the long shed a little north of where the mill of Brown & Heoff now stands. Surgeon Lewis and others were cutting off legs and arms and throwing them in a half barrel tub. I looked on at blood spurting up for a while and then fainted. Dr. Lewis, who boarded with us, after reviving me sent me home by an orderly with instructions to my mother to keep me in the house, as it was no time for children to be out. But, boy-like, I was soon out again. 'How many in Manassas today were bare then?'"

A CHANCE TO GET MORE GOOD BOOKS

Virginia State Library Will Mail
Collections to Communities or Individuals.

Do you know that the Virginia State Library will lend you and your neighbors a collection of from twenty-five to fifty books free?

Not cheap books, but good books—the very best to be had. Each collection contains books of fiction, poetry, travel, history, biography, science and other branches of literature and the collection borrowed by your school or community may be kept for six months or longer. On its return to the state library a new collection will be sent you.

The farmer and his family will find many of these books of tremendous interest and value. There are books on farming, dairying, fertilizing, draining, the care of cattle, sheep, dogs and other animals, bookkeeping, etc. And all are free.

Mr. H. R. McIlwaine, state librarian, Richmond, Va., will furnish blanks on which application for books may be made. It is necessary for a community to appoint a librarian who is a responsible person to take charge of the books and see that they are returned. Transportation charges from Richmond and return must be paid.

Individuals over eighteen years old also may become borrowers. In order to become a borrower, it will merely be necessary for you to be endorsed by some person connected with the state government or by the mayor of some city or town in the state, and for you to agree to abide by the rules of the library. If you are a teacher or a minister of the gospel, it will not be necessary for you to be endorsed.

TO GIVE MEDALS FOR WAR SERVICE

U. D. C. Will Recognize Soldiers of Confederate Lineage—Names Desired.

(Mrs. W. Hutchison, President)
The United Daughters of the Confederacy is planning to bestow medals upon men of Confederate lineage who served in the world war. In order to get a full record for Prince William county, Manassas Chapter, U. D. C., asks that every one interested in this splendid enterprise, especially the fathers and mothers of the "boys," will send the following information to the chapter president, Mrs. Westwood Hutchison, of Manassas:

Full name of parents, full name or names of ancestor who served in the Confederate army, with rank and branch of service; full name of boy, date of entrance into the service, volunteer or drafted, where trained, branch of service, rank, when and where mustered out, present address. Please give us your co-operation, that these records may be on file in time and in shape for recognition by the authorities in charge of the bestowal of medals to lineal descendants of Confederate soldiers in the world war.

The President-General writes, "I cannot impress upon you too strongly the necessity and desirability of filing these records at once. The men who served want it done, and I am constantly being approached by these fathers and grandfathers of these men with inquiries as to how their descendants can secure this coveted recognition from the U. D. C. In doing this we will be carrying out the object of our association in thus recognizing the valor of Confederate blood in 1917-18."

Twenty-two names have already been sent in. We hope soon to publish a full list.

DEATH OF MRS. BENNINGTON

Mrs. Annie R. Bennington, of Faber, Nelson county, died suddenly early Saturday morning at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. S. Mahone, near Camova. She was about sixty years old and apparently had been in good health until fifteen minutes before her death. Her body was shipped to Nelson county for burial.

Mrs. Bennington had been visiting Mrs. Mahone for several weeks with the exception of a short stay in Alexandria, from which she returned a week before her death. She was the widow of P. J. Bennington, of Nelson county, who died about five years ago, and had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for more than fifteen years. She is survived by one daughter and two sons, Mrs. E. B. Fitzgerald, of Alexandria; Mr. L. W. Bennington, of Roanoke, and Mr. Pearl Bennington, of Faber.

Boys And Girls--Here's A Real War Trophy

Hand Grenades Now Savings Banks

Weapons originally designed to blow up German trenches will be hatched against waste and extravagance by school children

There's One For You

DESCRIPTION

This is a real hand grenade with the percussion cap and high explosive removed. Several of these "eggs," as the soldiers called them, were carried by each soldier for use in clearing the enemy out of the trenches, to throw around crooks and beads in trenches, into dugouts, or into machine gun "nests."

The loaded hand grenade was not dangerous until the ring and pin had been withdrawn and it had been thrown with a rotating movement. This spinning set a trigger free, and on impact, the bomb exploded, driving the small squares of steel with force enough to kill everything within forty feet.

The War Department turned the grenades over to the Treasury Department after the signing of the armistice and the banks are distributing them to help cultivate habits of thrift among school children.

Fill out this thrift agreement and take it to any of the banks listed below. Remember, boys and girls, this is a business proposition and you must fulfill all conditions.

THRIFT AGREEMENT

I accept this hand grenade savings bank, loaned me by the _____

with the understanding that I will do odd jobs during the summer, keeping all the money that I can save in the grenade. I will bring it to the bank to be opened from time to time before school opens, and will invest my savings in Thrift and War Savings Stamps. I understand that when I have saved enough to purchase one War Savings Stamp the hand grenade becomes my personal property. Otherwise it still remains the property of the bank. If I do not earn the grenade by Oct. 1, 1919, I will return same to the bank.

Dust storms daily visit the business section of Manassas and menace the health of all citizens who are compelled to go into this section of the town, as well as those who business it is to remain there throughout the day. Is it the business of the City Fathers or of private citizens to remedy the situation? Surely preventive measures are cheaper than disease.

"The Manassas Journal last week published an attack on the war record of Walter T. Oliver, a candidate for legislative honors, in which it was stated over the signatures of F. S. McCandlish, John W. Rust and F. D. Richardson that Mr. Oliver had charged drafted men fees for filling out questionnaires," said The Loudoun Times of Aug. 7. As The Journal took no part in the recent political contest, it may be well to add that The Times, however, failed to mention that the article in question was published as a "Paid Advertisement," and so marked.

Mr. H. R. McIlwaine, state librarian and chairman of the committee on war letters, diaries and incidents, Virginia War History Commission, has asked the newspapers of Virginia to start a Virginia war history column for letters from Virginians who saw service in the world war.

Mr. McIlwaine's idea is to publish, in addition to letters written home by soldiers and sailors during the war, letters written today on the war as they saw it and as they see it today, "the censor a thing of the past, and the superior officer merely a memory." The historians who will compile a history of this war will need these opinions and Mr. McIlwaine is going to make a collection of Virginia letters so published for historians of today and for future generations.

While The Journal has printed such letters from time to time and it probably is understood that we shall continue to welcome them, we very gladly give public endorsement of Mr. McIlwaine's suggestion and direct attention to our willingness and our desire to have such contributions for use as often as space conditions will permit.

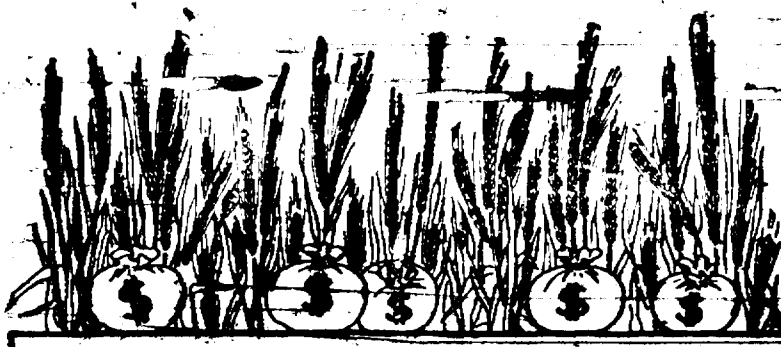

THE IRON MASTER PASSES ON

This editorial from the Times-Dispatch will be of interest to many readers, including those who have shared the benefits of the Manassas library, which was started through the generosity of Mr. Carnegie:

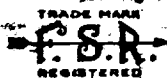

With the death of Andrew Carnegie there passes from the world of human activities one who contributed largely to the enrichment of its life. Not only was he a great philanthropist, but he was characteristically original in his conception of a plan for distributing his benefactions in such way as to enable the greatest number of people to share in their benefits. In this conception, perhaps, his gifts to the establishment of public libraries stand out as the most distinguishing feature, for in thus affording the facilities for research accessible to all alike ambitious for the acquisition of knowledge, he laid the foundation for achievement to which there is no limit in the results that make for progress and human uplift.

Starting life in this country of great opportunities as a mere boy of thirteen with only the assets of health, honesty, industry, thrift, unflagging purpose and loyalty to the land of his adoption, he made the best use of these to build up a fortune which, at the age of sixty-five, had satisfied his ambition to accumulate wealth, and with the announcement that he considered it disgraceful for a man to keep on gathering idle millions, he forthwith proceeded to launch a campaign for disembarrassing himself of his accumulated wealth, amounting at that time to approximately $47,000,000. Converting this huge wealth into securities of the steel industry, principally in bonds of the United States Steel Corporation, he entered upon the task of trying to dispose of his wealth with intelligent philanthropy in half the time it had taken him to amass it. But being reverend-yielding, it continued to increase, and in the intervening years between 1901 and his death he gave away something like $425,000,000 in various philanthropies of splendid conception in purpose and practical benefits to humanity.

Aside from the public gain resulting from his own individual philanthropies, it may truthfully be said that his spirit has inspired other rich men to emulate his example, to the country's greatest benefit, thus unloosing springs of human action to minister to humanity's needs that may be counted.
