MANASSAS, VIRGINIA, FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1920

TEACHERS HOLD BUSY SESSIONS

Many Speakers Present Educational Problems and Solutions and Attendance.

The annual educational conference of the Virginia Teachers' Association, which met here last week, was largely attended by superintendents, teachers and trustees from various sections of the district, which embraces the city of Alexandria and the counties of Prince William, Fairfax, Loudoun, Loudensville, Fairfax, Culpeper and Rappahannock.

Friday's session opened with a vocational conference under the direction of Mr. H. W. Sanders, agricultural director of Manassas High School. Mr. Sanders first introduced Mr. John R. Hutcheson, of Blacksburg, who spoke on "The Need of a Definite Agricultural Policy in Virginia."

"One big reason why hundreds of farmers leave the farms in this country is in order to give their children the kind of education that will enable them to compete with their city cousins," declared Mr. Hutcheson. "I have been asking the farmers of Virginia what are their needs. You would perhaps be surprised that the first thing the thinking farmers say they need is a school system that will give their children the same advantages in education that city children have. What is going to happen if the sons and daughters of the mechanics, the coal miners, the lawyers and doctors and preachers have a high school education and the sons and daughters of the farmers have only a grade school education?"

Showing the Farmer.

"You, as educators," he told the teachers, "must show the farmers that in order to have better schools they must tax themselves. You must show them the advantages of a high school education for their children. If you do no more than the work of your school room, you are a dismal failure." "I cannot help being impressed when I hear that 17 per cent of the farm labor of the country has left the farms for the city during the last year, and when I hear that 140,000 school teachers have left the schools in the last year for commercial pursuits," said Dr. William J. Young, professor of biology in the Fredericksburg High School. "The wolf on the western prairies, when he becomes hungry, howls; and the French peasant, ground down for centuries, produced the bloodiest revolution in history, because of hunger. There is nothing that is brand new that does not root itself in the old."

"The lesson that the war brought to us is that production can be multiplied almost indefinitely by co-operation and reorganization. What this country needs is more production. What has this to do with education? Those who have studied economics know that in the long run the wealth of a nation is derived from the land. Today people are leaving the land. Our school situation is not going to be solved by some minimum pay for teachers. In a community which cannot afford to pay a minimum salary the school will be closed. I believe the solution is to be found in co-operative agriculture."

Women as Home Makers.

Any educational program which does not include home making for women is not the proper kind of an educational program, declared Miss Edith Gaer, of Washington, speaking on "The Need of Home Economics Education in the Training of Women."

"When educational institutions were first opened to women they were given the same education as men," said Miss Gaer. "Now we are beginning to wonder if that is the best type of education for women. Women eventually must know what they do in early life. They must know how to care for and clothe their children. They must know how to budget her income. They must know how to plan her budget in such a way as to do the maximum of labor for the minimum of labor. They must know sanitation and hygiene. They must know economics. They must know more than cooking."

Essay on Music.

An "Essay on Music," a comprehensive essay by Mrs. Hodge, director of music in the Manassas schools, received the attention of the open house of the conference.

Principals of Schools Entering Pupils.

The principals of schools entering pupils in the meet will be required to send in a statement showing that every participant is a bona fide pupil and has been examined by a physician and pronounced fit to enter any event. The league also went on record as favoring some specified set of rules pertaining to habits of eating and participating in social functions with reference to the athletes.

High School Conference.

The high school conference held Friday afternoon was devoted chiefly to the consideration of the rural junior high school as lately organized by the state department. According to this recent regulation, all high schools must organize either as four-year high schools or as junior high schools, the latter to include the last year of grade work, together with two years of high school work.

excellently developed lines of vocational education," said Mr. Eason, "the time and law. The finest piece of vocational education I have ever seen was the way America trained her men for the war. There was vocational education par excellence. The agricultural colleges are not training farmers—there are training agricultural specialists. We are trying now to work some kind of agricultural enterprise while we are working in school."

"Vocational agricultural education is a scheme to send the boys back to the farm, to increase production—it is not a preparation for college. Farm fathers in Virginia have worked a kind of slave system with their sons. The farmer's sons and daughters have been working for nothing on the farm."

Fortunately for the farmer, Mr. Eason followed this indictment with an encouraging report of progressive conditions throughout the state.

Mrs. Beverly B. Mumford, of Richmond, president of the Virginia Co-operative Education Association, expressed a new idea concerning the low salaries received by school teachers.

"I really believe one reason why our teachers' salaries are so low is because they have not been community leaders," said Mrs. Mumford. "The teacher must make herself felt as a force in the community."

Virginia's League Work.

Mrs. Mumford gave a summary of league work since its organization, with special emphasis on its influence in establishing demonstration work for women and its war activities. "We have done more in the way of community organization in Virginia than in any other state in the union," she declared.

Delegates made reports from the leagues at Clifton, Oakton, Vienna, Bailey's Cross Roads, Andrew Chapel, Florida, Catharpin, Fairfax and Greenwich.

After Mrs. Mumford's address Miss Mary E. Frayser spoke briefly on the health crusade work.

The association elected the following officers: Miss Lulu D. Metz, Manassas, president; Mr. Richard C. Haydon, Alexandria, vice-president, and Miss Willette E. Myers, Manassas, secretary.

An important meeting of the district athletic association was held during the conference, Mr. R. C. Haydon presiding. The league decided to hold the annual track meet at Leesburg on the second or third Saturday in May, the day to be selected later not to conflict with the Central meet in Washington.

Principals of schools entering pupils in the meet will be required to send in a statement showing that every participant is a bona fide pupil and has been examined by a physician and pronounced fit to enter any event. The league also went on record as favoring some specified set of rules pertaining to habits of eating and participating in social functions with reference to the athletes.

High School Conference.

The high school conference held Friday afternoon was devoted chiefly to the consideration of the rural junior high school as lately organized by the state department. According to this recent regulation, all high schools must organize either as four-year high schools or as junior high schools, the latter to include the last year of grade work, together with two years of high school work.

Mr. Thomas D. Eason, state supervisor, spoke on the agricultural and home economics work of the junior high school, which is much emphasized under the new plan. A round table discussion followed, devoted chiefly to the same subject and led by Superintendent Oscar L. Emerick, of Loudoun county.

Miss E. H. Osbourn, of Manassas High School, and Mr. E. R. Hall, of Alexandria High School, were elected chairman and secretary for next year. Other departmental conferences were the conference of the intermediate department under Miss E. Myrtle Grenels, of the State Normal School at Farmville, and the primary conference under Miss Grace B. Moran, of the Manassas Graded School. Interesting demonstrations were given.

An "Essay on Music," a comprehensive essay by Mrs. Hodge, director of music in the Manassas schools, received the attention of the open house of the conference.

THE SCHOOL SITUATION

(EDITORIAL)

Although the school situation in Manassas district apparently had a brighter aspect upon the discovery of laws authorizing (1) the school trustees to borrow money necessary to the operation of the schools and (2) an increase in the school levy from 50 to 75 cents, a ruling from the Attorney General of Virginia says that the increase in the school levy is in conflict with the constitution, and therefore illegal, and as a result the unfortunate situation remains unchanged.

Although the legislature did pass such a law, it has been declared unconstitutional and there is no hope of increasing the levy at this time. There is nothing in view to secure a loan and the community has the same problem on its shoulders as before.

The campaign through the Alumni Association to raise the necessary funds by private subscription continues, and it is hoped that the public will not withhold its support from the movement under the impression that the situation is substantially cleared. If school patrons and taxpayers continue to contribute according to the standard set by the first subscription sheets turned in, the schools will doubtless remain in session for the remainder of the term. If they do not continue to respond, calamity is in the early future.

Dr. C. R. C. Johnson, chairman of the Manassas school board, in covering the situation, has come to the conclusion that the burden sooner or later can be accepted by the board of supervisors.

The board, already empowered to appropriate money for school purposes, may for the future make an additional levy for county purposes to cover a substantial appropriation to the schools. Dr. Johnson estimates that the sum of $2,000 a year from the board of supervisors would enable the school board to borrow sufficient money to operate the schools and create a fund to be used in liquidating the debt.

The letter from Attorney-General Saunders to Mr. J. P. Leachman, county treasurer, answering Mr. Leachman's inquiry concerning the increased levy, follows:

Your letter of March 2, asking the question whether or not Section 740 of the Code of 1919 conflicts with Section 136 of the Constitution, has just been received.

Section 740 of the Code of 1919 provides that the Board of Supervisors of a county can raise the levy for schools to an amount not exceeding 75c on each $100 in any district. Section 136 of the Constitution limits this levy to 50 mills on the $1.00, or 50c on each $100. You will, therefore, see that these sections do conflict.

The question has never been decided by the Court of Appeals. I am informed, however, that several of the circuit courts in the state have held that 50c is the limit. There is a measure before the present legislature, which seeks to amend this section of the Constitution, thereby removing the limit of 50c.

THE STORY OF LITTLE DAN AND THE DOCTOR

A Little Boy, a Big Man, Trouble and Happiness—Do You Know Such a Little Boy?

Once upon a time there lived in Manassas a little boy about four years old named Dan. His eyes were so blue that they made you think of forget-me-nots and his smile was like the bright sunshine that is so beautiful after it has been hidden by a dark cloud. Dan's face was so attractive that it was hard for one's eyes to leave it. But if you had seen his feet you would have felt very sad. "Why?" you are asking, and I will tell you. It was because Dan had only one foot that was well formed and looked as a foot should look. The other foot was what the wise doctors call a club-foot. And truly Dan's was like a knobby club, because the bones in it were so bent.

I know you feel very sorry for Dan and his mother and father. They loved him just as much as your mother and father love you. His mother often wept when she thought how dreadful it would be when Dan grew large enough to play and run like other children because he could never take part in the games that they love best and that help to make them strong. She knew he could never do the things you like to do.

One day something wonderful happened. Dan's mother was reading the paper when she saw that a doctor was living in a town nearby who looked at children to see if they were sick or well and then told their mothers the best thing for them to do for them. Do you imagine Dan's mother took him to this doctor? That is exactly what she did. At first Dan thought he might be frightened, but he was not, for this doctor was gentle and kind. He told Dan's mother about a big city, also in Virginia, where little girls and boys with feet like Dan's might go and stay in a big hospital where a very wonderful doctor would cure them without any money at all. Now wasn't that splendid?

Dan went to this big hospital. At first he was dreadfully lonely, just as you and I would be, but the nurses and all the people were so good to him that he soon felt quite at home. After a few months he went back home, and will you believe me when I tell you that his right foot did not look a bit like a club? It looked like a foot and Dan could run and play like other boys. His mother and father and sisters and brothers were all so glad they had a real party for Dan. There was a big cake and ice cream and everything good. The children had a lovely time. Dan took part in all their games.

Do you think this is a queer story? It is a true one. It is the story of a little boy named Dan who had a club-foot and who went to a hospital where a wonderful doctor cured him without any money at all.

COMMUNITY SPECIALIST TO SPEAK HERE FRIDAY

E. J. Ward, of Washington, Expected by Women's Auxiliary—Market Topics.

Miss Lillian V. Gilbert, of Washington, demonstration agent.

Mr. E. J. Ward, of Washington, community organization specialist, will be here on Friday, March 12, to address the monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Farmers' Institute, which is to be held on that day at 2:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

It is urged that every member of the auxiliary be present at this meeting, and that each member make a special effort to secure the presence of other women.

At this time when the high cost of living is being so seriously felt it behooves us all to fight it in every way practicable. The object of this meeting is to get in a position to formulate plans to help all—both the producer and the consumer.

Mr. Ward will talk along these lines and will give us some idea of what is being done in other places. We all realize that the thing for the farmer and the housewife is to sell direct to the consumer. Mr. Ward is going to show us how this can be done by community center organization.

Both men and women are cordially invited to attend this meeting. It is also desired that the women attend the farmers' institute with their husbands. Women, come! Bring your husbands!

anywhere that are not growing as they should, perhaps you can be made as good as new by the same wonderful doctor. Write to me for a list of addresses.

NO WATER TODAY

And perhaps no water for several tomorrows!

While pump repairs were in progress last night at the municipal water, light and power plant, a chain broke, releasing 425 feet of pipe weighing approximately two tons, which fell to the bottom of the well.

Thirty consumers will have to be patient until the piping, now 200 feet out of sight, can be re-moysed and adjusted.

Although the danger from drinking ordinary well water is not so great now as in the summer months, Dr. Edgar C. Harper, county public health officer, and Dr. J. C. Meredith, town health officer, strongly advise that all water used be boiled for fifteen minutes.

BANK HAS NEW CASHIER

Mr. W. A. Smith, of Alexandria, Succeeds Mr. Carr at Nokesville.

The Bank of Nokesville, beginning today, is under the management of a new cashier, Mr. W. A. Smith, of Alexandria Courthouse, who has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. H. J. Carr.

Mr. Smith has had several years' experience in banking with the Metropolitan National Bank and the Farmers and Mechanics Bank in Washington. For the past year he has been deputy treasurer of Alexandria county.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have come to Nokesville and are staying for the present with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hale.

CATHARPIN

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McDonald were summoned to Norton, Wise county, on Friday evening on account of the illness of Mr. McDonald's son, Mr. Paul McDonald.

Mrs. Gilbert Keller, who lives near here, was called to Waynesboro last Saturday afternoon, when she was struck by a painful and serious accident last Saturday while cutting wood. The axe slipped and cut his foot, nine stitches being necessary to close the wound. He is at "Pageland," the home of Mr. Richard Collins, and is now getting about on crutches and doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Richard Collins, who has been quite sick, is improving slowly. Miss Edmonia Pattle has returned to her home after spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. William Wheeler, of Wellington.

Miss Marjorie Brower, of Manassas High School, spent the week with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Brower, being unable to resume her studies on account of a severe cold.

Mr. Cary Smith, who has been extremely ill, continues to improve. Many in this locality are suffering with severe colds.

Present plans indicate that the show is to be a semi-annual feature of the city.

MAY FORM LEGION POST IN COUNTY

Captain Harrell and Other Ex-Servicemen Hope to Arouse Sufficient Interest.

Mr. Cornelius H. Harrell, late Captain, U. S. A., with other ex-service men in this locality, is endeavoring to arouse interest in the formation of a Prince William post of the American Legion, the national organization of American veterans of the world war.

Fifteen members are required for the organization of a post and any soldier, sailor or marine who served honorably between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, is eligible to membership, including women who were regularly enlisted or commissioned in the army, navy or marine corps.

The American Legion, which has as its first principle, One Hundred Percent Americanism, was organized in Paris a year ago by a thousand officers and men, delegates from all the units of the American Expeditionary Force to an organization meeting, which adopted a declaration of principles and selected the name by which the organization is now known. The action of the Paris meeting was confirmed and endorsed by a similar meeting in St. Louis two months later, when the Legion was formally recognized by the troops who served in the United States, and a constitution in conformity with the Paris declaration of principles was adopted.

The Legion is non-partisan and non-political. It is a purely civilian organization chiefly composed of men who were civilians before the war and have returned to civilian life. There are no distinctions of rank and no distinctions are made between home and foreign service men.

Mr. C. Keith Carlin, of Alexandria, who is department executive committee man for the eighth district, has written the following letter to Mr. M. W. King, urging the formation of a post here:

"Your name has been given me as an active ex-service man interested in the formation of a post of the American Legion in Prince William county, and I am therefore taking the liberty of writing you, and asking you to co-operate with me to this end.

"As you are doubtless aware, only fifteen names are required to be forwarded to the state headquarters in applying for a post charter. It should not be difficult to obtain these names. I have done some little work in organizing posts, and my experience has been that it is a very easy matter to induce men to become members."

"Will you not undertake the task of securing, and sending in to Mr. W. L. Price, department adjutant, 1114 Mutual Building, Richmond, Va., the necessary fifteen names? I am writing similar letters to Messrs. H. W. Sanders, G. A. Adamson, W. M. Johnson, and C. H. Harrell, of Manassas, and G. D. S. Clarkson, of Haymarket, and suggest that you all co-operate."

FARMERS TO MEET

A program of unusual interest is promised for the next meeting of the Farmers' Institute on Friday, March 12.

This is said to be the best meeting scheduled during the last two years and farmers are urged not to miss it.

LARGE NUMBER ON HONOR ROLL

Prince William Cows Continue to Make Fine Records in Official Tests.

(G. W. Merchant, Jr., Official Tester)
There has been a steady increase in the number of cows producing 50 pounds of butterfat or more per month.

The best single production of milk for the month of February was 1812 pounds of milk and 54.36 pounds of butterfat. This record-making cow is a purebred Holstein owned by Mr. J. A. Hooker, of Nokesville.

The best single production for butterfat was 76.44 pounds of butterfat and 1470 pounds of milk. This is a Guernsey cow owned by Mr. W. A. Madison.

The best average herd production for the month was 714.22 pounds of milk and 39.14 pounds of butterfat. This is a herd consisting mainly of grade Holstein cows owned by Mr. H. C. Allen.

The average production of the 266 cows tested during the month was 504.05 pounds of milk and 23.02 pounds of butterfat. Among the 266 cows tested there were 38 that made the roll or honor—a percentage of 10.1. Since this number includes many of the most profitable cows in the county it is reasonable to expect the members of the association are doing everything to promote the production of milk and butterfat in their herds.

Three junior two-year-old cows made the roll of honor, two belonging to Mr. H. C. Allen and one to Mr. E. E. Hale. These are three fine young grade Holsteins.

The following table gives the names and records of the cows in the association which have produced more than 50 pounds of butterfat during the period of thirty days ending February 29:

A CARD OF EXPLANATION

It has come to my ears that some of those connected with the Farmers' Union Store were being paid largely for their services and activities. These reports were so ridiculous that at first I treated them as a huge joke passed on us for merriment by our friends, but upon reflection, I feel that an official explanation and refutation is due the public who we invite to trade with us at our store. During the month of February, I acted as bookkeeper and treasurer of the store, every cent passed through my hands so I know whereof I speak. Not one cent was paid to any one except Mr. Byrd who was employed as storekeeper at the very nominal sum of $100 a month. He was the only "paid" man on the job. All the other brethren who so graciously helped to start and make the store the great success it is, did so entirely gratuitously, not accepting a single cent for services rendered though it has meant a great sacrifice of personal and business interests. It has now been arranged that Mr. Geo. B. McDonald be associated with Mr. Byrd in the operation of the store that customers may be more promptly waited on and so Mr. Byrd may act as bookkeeper and treasurer. These two men are the only ones now on the payroll of the exchange. Respectfully yours,
J. H. DODGE,
42-1 Sec.-Treas. Farmers' Exchange.

1/3 Less Coal—1/2 More Heat

You can save from a third to a half of your fuel and have a much warmer home than ever before if you will install a CALORIC.

The CALORIC is the remarkable furnace that heats without pipes, through only one register. It circulates heat by Nature's own method, forcing warm air up into the entire house and drawing cool air down into the furnace to be reheated and purified.

The CALORIC heats practically all types of homes, bungalow or three-story house up to eighteen rooms. It keeps kitchens and back bedrooms just as comfortable and warm as the rest of the house. Also heats churches, factories, stores and other business buildings. More than 10,000 already installed.

Rough Roads for Wheels Are Smooth Roads for Passengers

WATCH Overland 4 on rough cobble or unpaved roads. The wheels follow surface inequalities but the new Triplex Springs give car and passengers remarkable riding steadiness. They give 130-inch Spring-base to a car of 100-inch wheelbase. This makes for the gently buoyant reaction of a large, heavy car with the economy in fuel, tires, and tires, and the smoothness of riding of a sedan.

Auto-Lite starting and lighting, door opening, curtains and dash light give the most of the complete quality which makes every-thing about Overland 4.

CHECKING SPREAD OF ALL EPIDEMICS

Knowledge of Preventive Medicine is Valuable to Preserve Community Health.

The recurring wave of influenza has just brought to public attention the fortunate way in which another epidemic, which might have proven widespread and serious in Virginia, was stopped at its source through the work of a school nurse.

Not long ago the nurse who inspects the school children in a certain rural district of this state was told that a little girl pupil had been at home sick for two weeks and it was rumored that she had diphtheria. There was no telephone so a long country ride was necessary, but the nurse realized the importance of finding out the facts. When she reached the house, the mother of the little girl met her at the door.

"Yes, May has been sick with diphtheria, but she is out today, ready to go back to school, and, thank goodness, the other two children can go back too!"

The nurse regretfully explained that May and the other children must stay at home one week longer, so that the children at school might not run the risk of contracting the disease. The mother could not understand and was indignant. Even the school superintendent thought this precaution was "going a little too far," until the nurse mentioned that the period of incubation for diphtheria is one week; that these two children had been exposed and should be kept away from school until the full period had passed. Within a few days both children were ill with the disease! Then the mother also understood and was glad she had not unwittingly endangered her neighbors' children.

Many children probably were saved from diphtheria and other diseases because of the new knowledge of preventive medicine imparted by the school nurse in that community. Equally striking incidents are frequently coming to the attention of teachers and health authorities. The new Joint Committee on Physical Education in Virginia, which includes the State Departments of Health and Education and the Co-Operative Education Association, is therefore urging passage of the bill recently introduced in the legislature, providing for suitable extension of the benefits made possible through medical examinations and proper physical training in the schools.

"And It's Appetizing"

"That's the reason I like to eat at the SANITARY LUNCH. Not only that you know it's CLEAN—and that's a whole mouthful—but it's COOKED right, and not just thrown together. The good, wholesome food you get there has the right TASTE and you really relish it. It tastes like the eat Mother used to give you, and the service is so courteous and efficient that you forget that you are in a restaurant and wonder if you are not back home with your two legs stuck under the old kitchen table. It's just the difference between what a lunch should be and a hash house."

The above compliment was made recently by a homesick traveler you feel we do not merit the compliment, will you let us prove it?

Motor Car Standards Are in the Hands of the Consumers

"It is within the power of the motoring public to make automobiles measure up to their requirements," says C. K. BODINE, of Nokesville, Va., local dealer in Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars.

"The success of any automobile depends on the degree to which it gives purchasers what they want and need.

"In buying a car see that you get all that your money calls for. If you are not a judge of mechanical construction find out from owners what service their cars afford. The testimony of not one, but many owners is necessary to establish a reliable reputation. The reputation and resources of the manufacturer are guides to the quality of the car.

"Service and economy are the chief points to be considered.

"Of what use are all the comforts and conveniences of equipment if the car itself doesn't stand up? What enjoyment is there in them if the car itself is a continuous extravagance?

"Complete satisfaction can only be experienced with a car that not only includes every essential of modern equipment but which affords dependable and inexpensive performance.

"These are the standards by which a car should be judged. Purchasers can secure cars that measure up to them if they insist upon it.

"Satisfy yourself that the car you decide upon is fully equipped at the start. But above all make sure that the motor and other vital parts of its construction are such as to insure you dependable, economical and lasting service in return for your investment. By doing this you will advance the standards of the industry and benefit the motoring public as a whole."

Some of the modern dance music, agreeing, however, that with certain objectionable types omitted it has its place.

"Music, like other fine arts, improves the intellect, improves the taste and improves the will. When it has done this it has cultivated the entire nature," she concluded. "To eliminate the study of music from the schools would be disastrous, and nothing could take its place."

Dr. Edgar C. Harper, Prince William county health officer, presided over the remainder of the afternoon session, which was chiefly devoted to a program in the interest of public health.

The White Plague Problem.

The first speaker introduced by Dr. Harper was Miss Mary E. Frayser, of Richmond, field director of the Virginia Anti-Tuberculosis Association, whose topic was "Why Teachers Should Be Interested in Tuberculosis." Miss Frayser gave illuminating statistics bearing on the white plague problem and declared that the hope of the immediate future is through reaching the child in the schools.

"One person in the United States dies every three minutes of tuberculosis—a preventable disease—and it is largely through ignorance that it is with us," Miss Frayser asserted.

"Tuberculosis is the worst disease we know," she said. "It menses every home. Its economic loss is $500,000,000 each year. A little over ten per cent of the deaths in Virginia in 1917 were from tuberculosis. Many times this number of people die from other diseases who would be able to resist them if they were not infected with tuberculosis."

"We should be interested in eradicating tuberculosis because all sickness is costly. An adult is supposed to be worth $3,500 to the community. Virginia lost in one year over $14,000,000 through deaths from tuberculosis."

Health Doctrines to Preach.

"Preach the doctrine that tuberculosis is not inherited and is preventable by observance of general rules of health and is curable in early stages," she urged the teachers. "The things the doctors tell us to do are simple, common sense things. I ask you to let your children know that they are responsible for sickness. Have some form of health leagues. Make them feel that they owe it to themselves as self-respecting citizens not to contaminate the air."

Dr. Paul B. Johnson, director of the department of public health service, Potomac division, American Red Cross, spoke on "School Hygiene," the keynote of his address being "Say it with a smile." Dr. Johnson declared the matter of making health study attractive a most important factor in securing results.

"The matter of providing medical inspection is a difficult one," he said. "If people really understood about germs there would be no trouble about getting money for health work. But people do not know. Most people who are supplying money for such work grow up in an age when they didn't know about germs and so do not understand."

"One of the main things that is being done in the way of medical inspection. The great problem is to have these defects corrected after they have been discovered by the medical inspector. Why? It is a case of 'Great oaks from little acorns grow.'"

The Teacher in Health Work.

"The teacher can help in this inspection, and the teacher can teach health. Whatever you do in that way put a smile into it. Make the children have some fun out of it."

"The last point in the care of the body is the care of the mind. If the boy or girl learns to control the will in school it will be of great value in later years. The control of the emotions is another point."

"Moral ideals are perhaps what we need in this day and generation more than anything else. Young people need high moral ideals not only to prevent wreckage of morals, but of health also. We can wrap up the matter of health very closely with regard for the child as a living soul."

Dr. Roy K. Flannagan, assistant state health commissioner, made one of his characteristic health talks, speaking rapidly and convincingly.

The health of the school child is a matter of deep concern to the teacher who really intends to teach," said Flannagan. "Defects among our children are great and there is an attention of mind among teachers which is the sign of the importance of the child's health. The child is defective if he is not in a condition in which you are expected to have a lot of physically your complicated teachers can be fairly good health inspectors themselves. You owe it to yourself to find out how you can about the children, remembering that it takes a sound body to make a sound mind."

Dr. Flannagan also outlined the various disorders which affect the health, with particular emphasis on preventable disease.

"Backward and Gifted Children" was the entertaining topic of the address by Dr. George O. Ferguson, of the University of Virginia.

"We refer when we speak of backward or gifted people not to their physical characteristics," said Dr. Ferguson, "but to their intelligence. It is only in the last few years that attention has been paid to these classes. Intelligence has not necessarily a very great relation to character, but in the main there is an agreement. In general there is extremely little relation between the child's health and his intelligence."

In the very best cities the average number of retarded children is 33 per cent. He also referred to courses of study for the individual child, the Stuntor plan, the Cambridge plan and systems of group tests, declaring that plans of classifying pupils according to intelligence are subject to error unless pursued with care and expertness and common sense.

Thursday Evening Session.

Rev. A. Stuart Gibson, rector of Trinity Church, presided over the evening session on Thursday. Rev. Wm. Stevens, pastor of Grace Church, offered the invocation, after which an address, "The New Democracy in Education," was made by Mrs. Randolph B. Maynard, chairman of the Richmond district of the Co-Operative Education Association.

Mrs. Maynard, speaking in the interest of community leagues, declared it the teachers' business to develop leadership. "The objects of bringing a new democracy into education," she said, "are to train the mind to think and to give the courage to act and to develop character in serving our fellow men."

"Virginia is giving only $10 for the education of a child, New York gives $40 and Montana gives $65. The extra money must come through organization. We have attained world domination through the war; we can only keep it by developing leadership. It can be developed through community organizations."

After a violin solo by Prof. O. W. Mosher, Miss Agnes Kloman, of Warrenton, school nurse for Fauquier county, gave an entertaining account of her experiences in France during the war.

Social Engineering.

Prof. Logan, head of the English department of the State Normal School at Harrisonburg, spoke on "Progressive Tendencies in Twentieth Century Education." "The school has a social service to perform," declared Prof. Logan. "It must train the individual for service."

Prof. Logan spoke of the school as a social centre, a broadening of the scope of the school by a rearrangement of studies, with changes in the method as well as the content of teaching; the use of the moving picture in education, attention to the health of the school child and other points, with particular reference to social engineering.

The conference program, which was pronounced a huge success, was arranged by Miss Lulu D. Metz, state vice-president in charge, who completed her arrangements for the meeting before yielding to the advice of physicians to observe absolute quiet for some weeks on account of serious injuries sustained by a recent fall.

[Editor's Note.—We are indebted to Miss Elizabeth Stewart, of Fairfax, secretary pro tem, for valuable assistance in obtaining this report of the conference.]

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of Ruth Keys, beloved wife of Willie Kinchee, who died at her home near Dumfries, Sunday, February 22, 1920, age thirty-five years, nine months and three days. She had been in bad health for several months but her death was unexpected.

Besides her grief stricken husband and three small children, she is survived by her father, mother, four sisters, five brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

Her funeral service was conducted in Dumfries Baptist Church by Rev. Henry Nicol and her body was laid to rest in the cemetery there.

There is no death, 'tis life prolonged, A call to which we all respond, As one by one our spirits rise To view the land of paradise.

There is no death, 'tis spirit bright, A summons from the toils of life, 'Tis passing to that blissful shore Where parting moments come no more.

You don't know the sorrow to be left alone, Till the angels send a message to you.

THE GREAT SHARPSHOOTNESS

[The following folk-song, or the tribal chant to the tune of Dixie, recently was contributed to "Romance" by William R. Benet, who is unable to furnish the name of the author.]

Oh, I'm going out in the woods next year
To shoot for beer and not for deer.
I am, I ain't.
I am a great sharpshootness.

At shooting birds I am a beaut.
There iss no bird I cannot shoot.
In the eye. In the ear.
In the teeth or in the wingers.

I've just come back from the Philip-pines.
I have, I was.

My uncle has a factory there
Where they make brushes, and they use 'em for the hair.

For the teeth, for the feet, for the eye-brows a-a-and
The fingers.

Oh, I had a girl and her name was Daisy.

When she sang the cat went crazy
With deliriums and St. Vituses
And all kinds of cataliptics.

One day she sang a song about
A man who turned himself inside out
And jumped
Into the river

He was
So very thirsty.

Oh I had a horse and his name was Bill

And when he ran he couldn't stand still
He ran away
One day

And also I ran wid'im.

He ran so fast he couldn't stop.
He ran into a barber-shop
And fell exhausted
With his eye-teeth

On the bar-ber's
Left shoulder.

Oh I went up in a balloon so big
The people on the earth they looked like a pig.

Like a mouse. Like a katydid.
Like flieses and like flieses.

The balloon turned up with its bottom side higher.

I fell on the wife of a country squire.
She made a noise. Like a fog-horn
Like a steam-whistle. And like the dynamite.
