TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Held at Bennett Building Yesterday and Today—Large Attendance.

(Miss Lulu D. Metz, Secretary)
On Thursday morning, October 28, the teachers of Prince William county assembled at Bennett Building for the annual meeting of the Teachers Association. The county was well represented, there being sixty out of the number now teaching in the county present.

The meeting was called to order by Supt. McDonald and opened with the singing of "The Lord is my Shepherd," followed by prayer by Rev. Edward Taber and the singing of "America." Supt. McDonald next welcomed the teachers and commended them for their loyalty in standing by their profession during the adverse conditions now prevailing in the educational world. Mr. McDonald said further that as adversity often serves to bring out the best in individuals, just so the schools, through the faithful services of the teachers and others interested in education, will pass safely through the present crisis and be a greater power for good than ever before.

Mr. McDonald's prophecy that brighter days are in store for the schools was most encouraging and the spirit prevailing throughout the session seemed to indicate a sure fulfillment of that prophecy.

Mr. McDonald's address was followed by a model lesson by Miss Moran given to a group of her primary children.

Miss Moran gave a practical demonstration of the value of the story and its dramatization in primary teaching as well as in higher grades, and those who have seen Miss Moran's success as a teacher realize that her methods for teaching language are most valuable.

After instructions and explanations of monthly reports, forms, etc., led by Mr. McDonald, the meeting adjourned until the afternoon.

Miss Marion Lewis and Miss Louise Maloney were appointed a committee on entertainment.

The session closed with the singing of "Swanee River."

Afternoon Session

The session Thursday afternoon opened with the singing of "My Old Kentucky Home," after which Mr. C. J. Meetze, president of the Civic League work in Prince William county, conducted a most helpful league session.

Most of the schools reported either active leagues, or promised to organize leagues at an early date. These reports showed how great an agent the league is in helping the schools and community. Those schools making reports were Smithfield, Gold Ridge, Hickory Grove, Manassas, Bacon Race, Groveton, Piney Branch, and Nokesville. Nokesville, Cannon Branch, Piney Branch and Waterfall and Catharpin are to be commended for most excellent reports.

Mr. Meetze urged the importance of league work as an agent for bringing the school and patrons and community together and in creating a spirit of helpfulness and co-operation on the part of each. He spoke also upon the great responsibility of the teacher in that the child is intrusted by her that the child is entrusted to her care for a great part of the time and in that the duty of training for citizenship devolves chiefly upon her. Mr. Meetze gave a brief synopsis of the wonderful work done by the leagues in various parts of the state—buildings added to, teachers' salaries raised, school terms lengthened and buildings equipped, and urged that each teacher in Prince William county feel how great is her duty and do her utmost in having a good, active, live league in her school.

Mr. Meetze, realizing the great value of league work, has been actively engaged in the work for several years and is ready at any time to help organize leagues. Let us make this the banner year in the history of league work in our state.

Following the league session Mr. McDonald conducted a most helpful round table conference on the compulsory education law in Virginia. At this conference many teachers spoke of the difficulty of keeping the children in their respective communities in school and some helpful suggestions to help keep children in school were offered.

After the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner," Miss Elsie Larson, fifth grade instructor of Bennett Building, gave a most interesting account of her visit to the Washington schools. Miss Larson's description of the work in the schools of the capital city gave many interesting helps and suggestions for the teaching of the various grade subjects. She spoke moreover, of the excellent order she found in the schools and the spirit of helpfulness and co-operation existing between the pupils and the teachers and the pride on the part of the pupils in keeping the best order. Miss Larson's splendid account of her days' visit speaks for itself of the inspiration and help to be gained by seeing the work of others and by observation in other schools.

Mr. McDonald urged all teachers of the county to take advantage of visiting schools whenever opportunity offered. After Mr. McDonald had made a full explanation of the use of the health cards, which are now issued by the State Board of Health, Miss Mildred Herrell gave an excellent paper on the teacher's part in community work. Miss Herrell dwelt especially on the teacher's part in school activities as bringing the teacher in contact with the community. She said that the teacher's duty in this connection is not so much to assume the responsibility of community activities as to discover the talents for leadership in others and then inducing them to take part in these activities. She stressed the great value of community work as being a factor in bringing about a spirit of helpfulness and co-operation.

After the singing of "America" the institute adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

The music, which is always an enjoyable part of every program, was in charge of Mrs. C. E. L. Hodge, former instructor of music in the Manassas high and graded school.

GRAY—LAM

Mr. Richard Lee Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Gray and Miss Elizabeth Jane Lam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Saylor Lam, both of Warrenton, were married in Washington at high noon Wednesday, October 20th, by Rev. John E. Biggs, pastor of Fifth Baptist Church. After spending several days in Washington, the bridal couple returned to Warrenton, where they will make their home until the first of the year. Mr. Gray has accepted a position as foreman of a farm in West Virginia.

"SOME PUMPKINS"

Mr. T. J. Broadus reports to The Journal that he has growing in his garden a volunteer pumpkin vine on which there are forty-one pumpkins, twenty of which are as large as a peck measure, the remaining ones being between the size of a peck and a gallon measure. Mr. Broadus says that if the various runners on the vine were placed end to end they would reach a distance of approximately fifty yards. While we do not vouch for the vine or the pumpkins we do vouch for the integrity and truthfulness of Mr. Broadus.

OPPOSED TO THE LEAGUE

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

MY FELLOW COUNTRYMEN:

I earnestly appeal to one and all to stand firmly for our American nation, and its long established principles.

We are right on the verge of one of the most important elections our country ever has had, not even excepting the days just prior to the Civil War (as some of us who went through that terrible conflict well remember.)

Let every drop of red blood of true and pure Americanism be in circulation. Let all other issues become secondary matters and the league of nations first.

But in the name of God and true Americanism let the Wilson league of nations be wiped from the pages of American literature. Our ancestors left the European country that they might set up a government of their own choice. But England tried to hold them down by seven long years of Revolutionary War, and could not do it. They tried it again in 1812 and failed. Then in about 1849 they tried through the agency of Mexico to succeed and failed.

Now, as a last resort, it would seem they are undertaking strategy, thinking to rope us into what they could not do by force. Where would ever have been our independence had we been tied down by a league of nations, such as is tried to be foisted upon us? I have to look upon this as almost a Benedict Arnold scheme to get the better of us.

My ancestors on my father's side came here from Middlesex, England, in 1862 with Wm. Penn, on the ship called "Welcome", and located near Philadelphia, Pa. America is my home and I have become acclimated to America and am 100 per cent American.

I have always been a Mossyback Democrat of the Jeffersonian type, and am still that, but cannot find that party anymore, as it seems to have been relegated in some way from the record. As it looks to me when I refer back to the formation of these United States of America that the Jeffersonian and Wilsonian Democracies are as widely divergent as heaven and hades.

We have become the greatest country on earth under the former, largely, if not entirely due to the fact that we have left European affairs alone and tended to our own business, which is a good maxim even for private individuals to follow.

The people of the United States did not by common consent send our Chief Magistrate to Europe to take a hand in the political affairs over there. The Constitution of the United States of America authorizes the President to be Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, but does not authorize him to formulate or dictate the treaty making power of the world.

This league business as anticipated by its advocates, in my opinion, is just on a par with the Babylonian work after the deluge, as they imagined they could build a tower and city so great as to defy the power of the Almighty, and escape being drowned like the antediluvians were, but it seems like the Lord confounded their languages and upset the whole scheme. I think the people of the league are confounded now as one contends it means one thing and another contends it means something different, so the very league itself is a war game in a hot bed.

The Bible speaks of wars, earthquakes, famines, pestilence, nation shall rise against nation, &c., &c., and says these things must needs be. Why don't our wise men form a league to prevent earthquakes, cyclones, tornadoes, &c? The only league to prevent war is for all to be good and observe the Golden Rule. Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. The Almighty showed some of his power sometime ago with the epidemic of flu, and who dare object to his destroying people by war as well as otherwise. The Bible is the best and only league compact for man that is safe and will not involve war if rightly obeyed. God is president of that league, and says: "Cursed is he that putteth his trust in the arm of flesh." (man.) Wrangling over the league would paralyze business eternally, especially in taking part in those foreign troubles.

I have read after some of the best men, both "pro and con," on the league; have studied the phases from many different angles; have debated the question in its infancy and before it was ever thought in this community of ever being a political or national issue, and I feel sure that if all would have searched as unbiased as I have done that it would be buried in oblivion on the 2nd of November.

In order to do what I believe to be my duty will be to vote against Cox and Wilsonism and in doing so will have to vote for Harding and Brooks as the lesser of two evils, for in doing so I must sacrifice the party name for the time being, and affiliate with other company until Democracy is in fact what it claims to be in name.

In conclusion, let me plead with you (who have been fellow-Democrats with me, to let the name go at this critical hour and stand shoulder to shoulder for our dear American nation and the star-spangled banner, which was written by Frances Scott Key while a prisoner on a British vessel while the British were trying to capture Baltimore, Md., after burning part of the United States capitol at Washington, D. C., some 106 or 106 years ago.

Fellow Americans can't you see the scheme that is being so deceitfully pressed upon us, as a pretense for a lasting peace of the world?

Would to God that I could herald this warning to every voter between now and the 2nd of November. I am now nearly 78 years old, therefore, I will not likely be either injured or benefitted by the league, but for the future good of beloved America and its people I am giving this message of warning.

The destiny of our country and its nationalism is hanging now in a critical shape. Vote for the league and internationalism and the ruin of our country, or vote against the league and for nationalism and save America from everlasting ruin.

The advocates of the league aver emphatically that the league if ratified will preserve peace. This is a mere assertion with not a centilla of proof or guarantee for their claim. It is altogether a guess all the way down the line of their contention. God has destroyed the wicked with wars and once destroyed the world with water.

In the war with the Amalekites Saul was ordered to slay everything—King Agag, all the people and all the stock—and when Saul spared the king and the best of the stock it displeased God.

The Bible says there was war in heaven. Michael and the angels fought the dragon and his angels. Michael as commander gained the victory and cast satan out from heaven. So, now, dear Americans, let us arise with might and determination on the morning of Nov. 2nd and smite the league of nations with full force, that when the ballots are canvassed the news will be flashed to every nook and corner of the United States and its possessions, that America yet remains a free, untrammelled, and unentangled nation, and that satan has been cast down where he will not resurrect.

When Gen. Wolf was wounded at the heights of Abram, he exclaimed when he was told that the British were running, "I die happy." I hope that on the 2nd of Nov. that the leagueurs will have been defeated as were the British under Montcalm.

Trust in God and do the right by voting against the league, by voting against Cox. Respectfully,
C. FITZWATER.

NEXT TUESDAY'S ELECTION

On Tuesday, November 2, next, the electors of the Nation will decide whether during the four years commencing March 4, 1921, the policies of this country, insofar as they are controlled by its President, shall be dictated by Gov. Cox, a man of independent thought and action and liberal and progressive views, or by Senator Harding, the candidate of a Senatorial allegory of standpatters and reactionaries.

In this election the voters, both male and female, of Prince William county will cast their ballots. It is a matter of common report that the democratic voters of the county are in a measure apathetic while it is expected that the full republican vote of the county will be polled. But The Journal is not willing to concede that the democrats of Prince William county will not do their full duty on November 2, and believes that when the ballots are counted it will be found that she has registered more than a normal democratic vote. We are led to this conclusion not only by reason of knowledge of the fact that Prince William county will not stand for reactionism and standpattism as against liberal and progressive views and action, but for the further reason that several matters of interest to the State of Virginia will be voted upon at the approaching election.

The Hon. Carter Glass, of Lynchburg, than whom no man stands higher in the councils of the democratic party, has opposition in the person of a Negro lawyer from the city of Richmond by the name of Pollard. The democrats of this county are going to assist with their full voting strength in handing to this aspirant for a seat in the United States Senate a justly merited rebuke in offering himself as a candidate for this high office in a Southern democratic state.

Hon. R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, is being opposed for his seat in the Congress of the United States by Dr. M. Brooks, a republican, also from Fairfax county.

While it is true that the candidacy of a republican nominee for congress is looked upon as a joke in the eighth district, the nominee usually consenting to become a candidate by reason of hope of future reward in the event the national ticket is successful, yet the democratic voters owe it to their party to see that the party nominee receives every vote that can be polled for him.

Then the matter of the proposed amendments to the state constitution will come up at this election. The people are vitally interested in the matters of schools and roads. Whether the democratic voters of the county are for or against the amendments they are pretty certain to register their convictions on election day.

In addition to other reasons why the democratic vote should turn out in full strength is the fact that a state convention will be held next April at which time questions of importance will be acted upon. The representation of counties in this convention will be determined by the number of democratic votes cast in the respective counties at the election on November 2. The democratic voters of Prince William county will take care to see that her convention strength is not diminished by their failure to go to the polls on election day.

SHALL IT BE COX OR HARDING?

By vote of the county democratic committee it was decided that the following be handed to the county papers with the request that the same be published:

The election is near at hand. Many questions are to be passed upon Tuesday, November 2nd.

1. The administration of the national government, with all the important matters this involves, is to be determined for the next four years. Shall it be Cox or Harding? Shall it be a democratic or a republican congress? Shall it be low tariff or high tariff? Shall it be regard for the agricultural interests or disregard of those interests? Shall it be the League of Nations?

2. Amendments to the State Constitution have been proposed and are to be voted on. The voters will determine whether the tax rate for school purposes shall be raised; whether education shall be compulsory; whether the county school system shall be changed and women serve as trustees; whether the legislature shall be given the right to bond the state for road building.

3. The democratic vote that is cast will be the basis of Prince William's representation, and therefore, its strength and influence in the demo-

"MAKE GOOD OR QUIT"

Picture, if you can, that scene in the White House Wednesday. Let the imagination rest upon the stricken President of this republic, as he sits in his invalid's chair facing a group of republicans whose loyalty to country will not permit them longer to support their party, which seeks to betray it, and makes his final plea of this campaign—perhaps his really final plea, for even yet his life may be forfeited to the political enemies who hounded him to the very door of death—that the nation keep faith with itself, with its boys who gave their all in France, with the world which still looks to America for guidance along the path that leads to reconstruction and peace. His eyes wet with tears as he mentally visualizes that inferno on the fields of France into which walked the boys he had called to the defense of the colors, the sick President, who had called the nation "to the concert of war" and led it through triumphantly, again calls it to a "concert of peace" through the league of nations.

Such an appeal to the national conscience, such a call to a great moral decision, and in such a setting, has not been heard before in all America's varied history. The scene was tragic, it was pitiful in that a great President, a leader upon whose lips the world has hung, should be forced to expand his waning strength to plead the cause of peace, but withal it was a scene of historic, simple grandeur, one worthy of enshrinement by the brush of a modern Angelo.

America must make good now or quit. The President can find no alternative. It is the league or nothing. No substitute has been offered or found. It is a nation's faith in the balance against a nation's faithlessness. It is a trust preserved unbroken for the soldiers who died against a trust betrayed. It is not a party issue. Yet it has been made just that. The President regrets that partisan lines have been drawn for and against the national honor, but the responsibility is not his nor does it rest upon the party of which he is the titular head. All these things, and more, the President brought out to the pro-league republicans who visited him, and through them to the nation that, with admiration for his dauntless courage, has followed his struggle to lead America, to an unending peace and an untarnished name.

His final appeal—may it be final only as to this bitter campaign—will be answered at the polls by a thunderous chorus of ballots that will overwhelm those perfidious "little Americans" who have defamed him and sought to destroy him. America will not quit. It will make good.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

HOW TO MARK BALLOT

Under our election laws it is necessary only for the voters to scratch the names of the candidates for president and vice-president for whom they do not wish to vote, and leave the names of those for whom they wish to vote. On the amendments to the Constitution it is only necessary to strike out the word "For" or "Against," according to the way the voter wishes to vote. If "For" scratch the word, "Against," but if "Against," scratch the word "For."

OUR METHODS ARE MODERN

¶ We do not hesitate to change the methods of handling our accounting and other clerical work, if by so doing increased efficiency and economy will result.
 ¶ A large part of the work that once was done slowly and painstakingly by hand is now handled rapidly and with far greater accuracy by machines.
 ¶ A much larger working force than we now have would be required to handle our business if we still employed old-fashioned methods.
 ¶ We do not aim, however, to let the increased use of machines cause us to grow machine-like in dealing with our customers. In this respect we intend always to remain intensely human.

HAYMARKET
Mr. Taber preached last Sunday on the text, "Behold I Stand at the Door and Knock." He said in part: Christianity has for many years been confused with gloom and sadness. While it does not seek to be an entertainment or diversion, Christianity is primarily the religion of happiness. The faith of true religion gives the bravery that is the keynote of happiness. No man can be brave without faith. If he believes that all things work together for good—peace, courage and bravery are the natural logical and necessary result.

Mr. H. C. Teal has been installing the machinery for the new mill this week and has nearly completed it.

We are very sorry to learn that Mr. W. H. Garrett, who has been very ill at his home here, has to undergo an operation and was accompanied to a hospital in Washington by Mr. W. M. Jordan Tuesday. His many friends hope for his speedy recovery.

The trees have been nicely trimmed by the telephone company along its lines here and the phone is now giving splendid service.

Our streets are being much improved by crushed stone being placed on them by Corporation Manager C. L. Rector.

The drivers of about a thousand autos, who have passed through here since the rain of Tuesday, look very happy and citizens are exceptionally so, as they do not have to take so much dust.

Don't forget to attend the motion election returns in Parish Hall next Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. There will be excellent music and refreshments will be served. You can enjoy yourself and at the same time know the returns as fast as they come. Bring some friends with you, the ladies say. Admission, 15c and 25c.

Thomas L. Finn, who was to give a tent entertainment here last week and which everyone took pains to advertise, failed to come, and about 300 people who, thinking they would enjoy a good play, were sadly disappointed.

While Thomas Garnett, son of Mr. T. E. Garnett, was walking near the Norfolk run with his gun a small boy, who was with him, picked it up and accidentally discharged it. The ball struck Thomas near the knee, making a bad flesh wound. Medical aid was summoned and the injury is not thought dangerous. This is the second accident of this kind through small boys handling guns, the previous one ending fatally to a boy named Payne.

John D. Lane, who has been ill, is able to work again.

It is expected that after this Saturday night's play, which will be a world of fun, that the pictures will be held on Friday night of each week, and will give more opportunity both to patrons and management.

Mr. John H. Davis, of the Warrenton road, was a caller in town Wednesday.

Mr. Henry Payne and Lucian Payne were guests of relatives near Bristow Sunday.

The new garage presents a neat appearance and is a building Haymarket may well be proud of, and should the new store spoken of last week be erected, it will be another improvement.

Mr. Edward Griffith called on friends in Wellington Tuesday.

Miss Ollie Gill, who has been visiting with relatives and friends in Washington, has returned home.

CATHARPIN

Mr. Frank W. Brower has returned from a visit to Mr. Jas. Metcalf and his brother, Dr. Hayden Metcalf, at Sudlersville, Md.

Mrs. Gilbert Keller visited relatives in the valley recently.

A miscellaneous shower was given at Oakwood, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. McDonald, on Tuesday afternoon for Miss Lucie A. Dogan, of Groveton. A large number of guests were present and a most enjoyable afternoon spent. Miss Dogan was the recipient of many useful and handsome presents of linen, silver, cut glass, etc.

Mrs. C. F. Brower has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Willis, in Roanoke.

Mrs. Harry Ward, who formerly lived at Sadley farm, lies in a critical condition in Providence Hospital, having been gored by a cow last week. Mrs. Ward's home is now in Maryland.

Mr. C. F. Brower, of Round Hill, visited his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Brower, at "Lone Oak" farm, Sunday.

Messrs. Luther L. Lynn, C. O. Polan, L. J. Pattie, J. W. Alvey and E. N. Pattie attended a Masonic meeting at Haymarket Monday night. Mr. Alvey received his first degree in Masonry at this meeting.

Mr. Ashby Nells, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Nells, on Monday last, had the misfortune to have his leg broken in two places, by being thrown from a buggy rick by a run-away horse.
