

SIMPLE CEREMONY ON MARCH FOURTH

President-Elect Desires to Be Installed With Simplicity—Pageants Abandoned.

President-Elect Harding will take the oath of office next March 4 with ceremonies approximating in the simplicity those which attended the induction into office of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson.

The joint congressional committee, meeting to consider the request of Mr. Harding "for the simplest inaugural program," decided that with the approval of the President-elect, the oath of office should be administered in the Senate chamber and that all outside ceremonies at the Capitol be dispensed with.

The new President, under the plans formulated by the committee, would thus take the oath of office in the small and almost semiprivate chamber of the Senate immediately after the swearing in of Calvin Coolidge as Vice-President of the United States.

He then would deliver his inaugural address within the hearing only of members of the Senate and House, the justices of the Supreme Court and not more than 1,000 persons able to crowd into the restricted gallery space.

The committee, at the conclusion of its session, submitted its plans for the approval of Mr. Harding through a telegram sent by Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, the committee chairman, as follows:

Text of Telegram.

"The joint committee on inauguration have received your telegram transmitted through me as chairman, dated January 10, 1921, indicating your desire for extreme simplicity in the inaugural ceremonies on the fourth of next March, and that the same shall be conducted practically without expense.

"The committee has considered your suggestion in the spirit in which it was made, and has decided, subject to your approval, that the inaugural ceremonies shall take place in the Senate chamber, which involves no disturbance of arrangement incident to the inauguration of the Vice-President and involves no expense except such as incidental expenses for police, as circumstances shall require."

Preparations under way for an elaborate ceremony in connection with the inauguration of President-Elect Harding were held in abeyance today until the local and congressional committees in charge of the plans could act on the request of the President-elect that the ceremony be the simplest possible.

The District of Columbia committee on inauguration met for ten minutes this morning, but the President-elect's request was not discussed. The executive committee was to meet later in the day to take up the subject.

Knox Calls Meeting.

Senator Knox, chairman of the congressional committee on arrangements at the Capitol, called the committee to meet late today to consider Mr. Harding's request.

The announcement that, at the request of President-Elect Harding, the Washington inaugural committee last night had canceled all plans for the celebration in connection with his inauguration next March, was received here with varying emotions. Those who had opposed reviving the custom of making the occasion a gala one, chiefly because of the expense involved, expressed commendation. Others, while sympathizing with the spirit that prompted Mr. Harding's request, showed keen disappointment.

The action of the committee in meeting the wishes of the President-elect means that the parade, the inaugural ball and other features of the program that in the past have attracted many thousands of visitors to the capital from all parts of the country, will be dispensed with.

As suggested by Mr. Harding, the inauguration ceremony, it was indicated today, will consist simply of the formal administration of the oath of office, and an address by the new President, probably from the east steps of the Capitol. Then Mr. Harding will proceed quietly to the White House, where, in his own language, he "will hang up his hat and go to work."

McLean Announces Cancellation.

Chairman E. B. McLean, of the local inaugural committee, in announcing cancellation of the arrangements for the celebration, said that from the first Mr. Harding had desired an unostentatious ceremony, but had yielded to overwhelming requests for a return to old customs and to permit the occasion to be made a gala affair.

In a telegram to Senator Knox, chairman of the congressional committee having in charge arrangements for the ceremonies at the Capitol in which he apprised the Senator of his request to the local committee, Mr. Harding requested that Congress not appropriate and the committee not expend any funds whatever in connection with the inauguration.

President-Elect Harding's wish to have the festivities eliminated sorely disappointed many women, and gave fashionable gownmakers a jolt. Whether prospective buyers would take up the garments, with the ball cancelled, was the question which gave dealers most concern. Florists, it was said, also expected the loss of hundreds of orders, actual and prospective.

Inaugural Committee Meets.

The District of Columbia inaugural committee, of which E.

B. McLean, Washington publisher, is chairman, held a meeting early in the day and this session was followed this evening by a meeting of the committee's executive committee. Chairman McLean, at the conclusion of the second meeting, said that no formal action had been taken on the request of Mr. Harding, as forwarded to the committee last night, for abandonment of the proposed celebrations incident to the inaugural as "a wholesome example of economy and thrift."

McLean added, however, that the local committee would, of course, fall in line with the President-elect's desire. This was taken to indicate that the historic inaugural parade, as well as the inaugural ball, almost as equally historic, would not be features of the induction into office of Mr. Harding.

The congressional committee at its meeting decided that it would not be necessary to submit to Congress the question of changing the inaugural plans and cancelled the arrangements for erection on the east plaza of the Capitol of a huge stand to accommodate guests invited to hear the inaugural address.

Some of the lumber for the stand had been hauled to the scene and the plaza area had begun to show signs of the pre-inauguration days of previous years when order came about the middle of the day from Elliott Woods, superintendent of the Capitol, to halt operations.

Causes Waste of $3,000.

Abandonment of plans for the reviewing stand and for the sending out of engraved official invitations, members of the congressional committee said, probably would entail a loss of about $3,000 for preliminary work done. This sum will be paid out of the $50,000 appropriation finally voted by Congress yesterday and sent today to President Wilson. The remainder of the appropriation would be returned to the Treasury.—Times-Dispatch, January 11.

A PLEA FOR ACTION

We have often heard of the unthrifty man who having expended his money in the purchase of something valuable, failed to put the article in question to the service intended, whereby he might have reaped some advantage from it, but we are not able to fathom the reason why the United States government, whose business is supposed to be looked after by the wisest of men, should follow such an unworthy example.

We might ask also if the United States government has the RIGHT to disregard its plain duty and to foster a nuisance within the corporate limits of Manassas?

Several years ago the government bought a lot near the centre of the town as a site for a post office building. The lot is well situated and admirably adapted to the purpose for which the purchase was made, but there is no post office building upon it, and so far as we know, no specific, well aimed effort has been directed to achieve the erection of the desired edifice. We have the site and truly a sight it is—a sorry spectacle in the midst of our town, holding up to the view of the wayfarer its weedy and bushy arms in sorrowful pleading that it may be cleansed and dressed into respectability!

If the concerted efforts of the community could be brought to bear upon those in authority, might not this be an opportune time to launch the new campaign for our post office? Could not the incoming administration be awakened to a lively interest in the installation of their officials in a building somewhat in keeping with the glory of their much vaunted victory?

Failing in the effort to have the building erected in the near future, something should be done for the improvement of the appearance of the lot and a suggestion that it be converted into a public square or parking might receive some consideration; but at all events let us not wait until the warm season comes when weeds, trash and filth shall convert a large area in the centre of our village into a breeding place for disease and a menace to the public health. Let's go!

PROPOSED REFORMS

The general assembly of Tennessee has before it a series of drastic reforms of Sunday observance which, according to a news dispatch, are "soon to be carried into the halls of congress for federal legislative action." These proposals would prohibit on the Sabbath baseball and other games, the publication, delivery and sale of newspapers and periodicals, the operation of all passenger and freight trains, the acting of stage plays, the exhibition of moving pictures and buying and selling in any shop forms.

The author of this comprehensive scheme of repression is described as a leading lay member of a church with wide ramifications. Evidently he is very seriously impressed with the peril in which unregenerate mankind stands. This appears from the new evangel which he preaches and of which the following passage may be taken as the keynote:

Too long have the people of the earth clung to the idols, and their doom is as certain as that of Tyre and Sodom; Europe is the Sodom and America the Gomorrah, and only the immediate return to the Puritanical religious precepts of the witch-burning days can save the earth from destruction.

These, of course, are the vapors of an ill-balanced mind, but they might easily generate that mob psychology which is as destructive as it is unreasoning.

One wonders if this southern fire-brand and his aiders and abettors ever reflect on the rebuke given in the New Testament to the too strict Pharisaical observance of the Sabbath law. It might do them good to read again and ponder well the twelfth chapter of Matthew.—Washington Post.

SOLONS SAY ALIEN FLOOD TO AMERICA NOT PROVEN

Declare Johnson Immigration Bill Will Be Sidetracked Until Emergency Occurs.

Testimony taken by the Senate Immigration committee in hearings on the Johnson bill prohibiting immigration for one year has failed to prove the existence of an emergency, according to Senators who tonight analyzed the evidence submitted by more than thirty witnesses during the past week.

They declared the charge that "millions of aliens would flood the United States, increase unemployment and create economic chaos had not been proven.

One member of the committee predicted that inasmuch as the Johnson bill admittedly was an emergency measure designated to meet a temporary need—that of checking the alleged flood—it probably would be sidetracked until such time as the emergency could be proven. Other committee members expressed similar opinions, saying that the present immigration laws would remain unchanged for the present, or until the committee was able to draft permanent immigration legislation.

The committee plans to continue its hearings this week and begin drafting a report to the Senate sometime next week. Chairman Colt said tonight he did not know the views of the whole committee, and could not estimate how long would be required to draft a report for the Senate embodying the opinion of all members.

Chairman Colt told the committee today that testimony taken to date showed conditions in Europe had not produced a

GERMANY NO DANGER SAYS FRENCH WRITER

Materially Incapable of Causing Trouble for Number of Years in Herbetts's Opinion.

"Germany today does not endanger peace," writes Jean Herbetts, foreign editor of Le Temps in an article devoted to both the military and economic conditions across the Rhine. Mr. Herbetts has been traveling through Germany for some time, gathering material.

"The most competent persons, speaking for the allies," he continues, "affirm that Germany is materially incapable of commencing a great war within a goodly number of years."

Disarmament, so far as artillery is concerned, he says, is proceeding satisfactorily. "The number of cannon delivered is in the neighborhood of 28,000 and about six-sevenths now have been destroyed. On the other hand Germany is far from having surrendered enough rifles (hardly 2,000,000) and machine-guns." Disarming of the civil population, now going on, is expected to yield better results.

Dismantling of the German navy by the British, also is in progress "and is being carried on with exceptional vigor."

"In addition to all this," comments M. Herbetts, "the prestige of the military has fallen unbelievably low beyond the Rhine." Organizations of former officers, he says are being formed constantly and Germans, if they wished war, would find officers to lead them, but, except in Bavaria, and possibly East Prussia, these associations are isolated and "growing rusty."

To illustrate how the military spirit persists, he tells of a young lieutenant he knows who puts on his uniform and wears all his decorations at breakfast—but who does not appear in uniform in public.

"The masses of workers," he adds, "suffered too greatly during the war, either at the front or by the privations behind the lines, not to detest the military regime, which, in return for all their sacrifices, brought only a disaster without parallel. One can say without exaggeration, that the population of the industrial regions is profoundly antimilitarist."

"Germany has, then, neither the material nor the morale required for a vast offensive. She could only undertake upon occasion small military operations upon her eastern and southeastern frontiers. But her western neighbors would stop her quickly and she knows it.

"In the last analysis, the peace of Europe depends only upon the allies."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

HOME TEAM DEFEATED

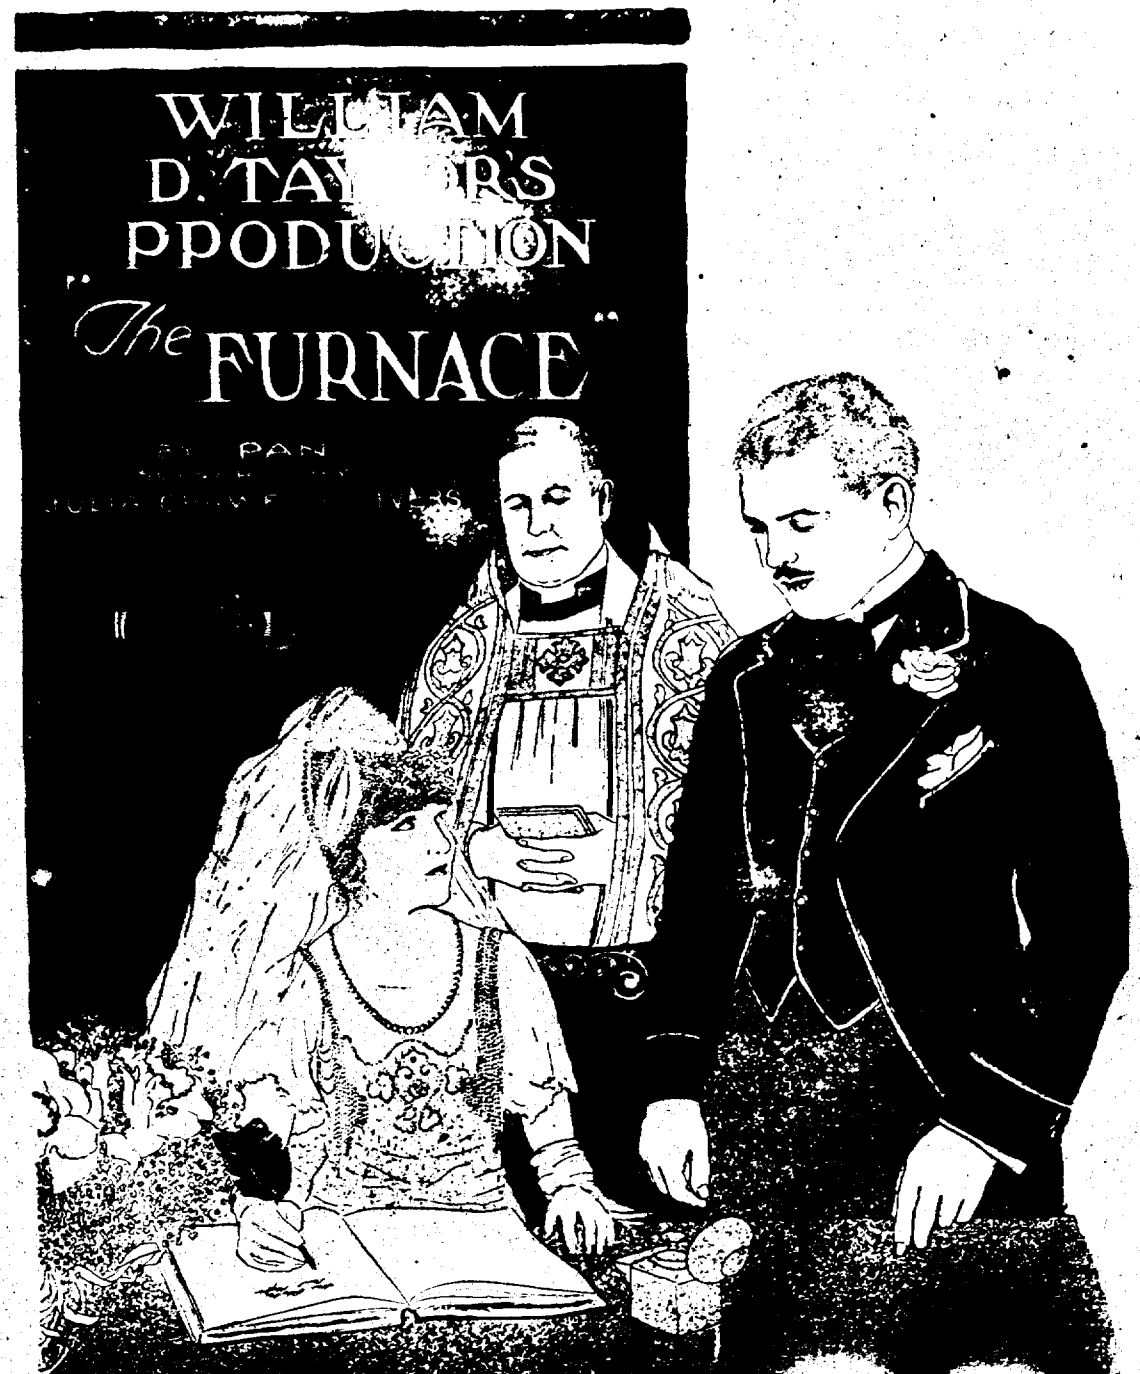

The M. H. S. Boys' Basketball team opened their season in Warrenton, Friday, January 7 when they met the Warrenton High School boys. The game was close throughout and while the officials were fair in the few decisions made, they allowed the game to become entirely too rough. The final score was 30-26 in favor of Warrenton.

Tuesday last the boys again journeyed to a foreign floor; this time they met the Alexandria High School Quint. The team not yet over injuries and bruises which they accumulated in Warrenton, put up a game fight but went down to a 15-32 defeat.

When a Millionaire Marries an Actress

THERE is usually one of two results—a divorce within a year, or a life of bitter quarrels, suspicion and disillusion; for the love of money and the love of admiration are poor foundations on which to build even a "modern" marriage.

"THE FURNACE" is the story of such a marriage, and the "furnace" was the hell-fire which the souls of these envied and yet unhappy people were compelled to pass before the dross of convention, jealousy and misunderstanding had been burned away.

No one, married or single, should miss this powerful picture at the DIXIE THEATRE Friday and Saturday, January 21 and 22.

CLIFTON

Old winter gave us our first taste of his wares Sunday night, when it began snowing about 9 o'clock, and kept up snowing, hailing or raining until Monday afternoon; as it was rather warm much of the snow and sleet melted as it fell, so it was not very deep, but it grew colder Monday night and froze, the sleet covering the whole earth next morning, much to the disgust of every one, except the small boy to whom "Old Santa" had brought a new sled; he was as happy as a "robin in the spring," but it again grew warmer during the day and began to thaw and get cloudy, so that it became slush before night.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Burke are the proud parents of a brand new boy. Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Detwiler are also to be congratulated, only the new arrival in their home is a daughter.

Mr. George A. Pearson died of pneumonia last Monday, January 3, at his home near the village. Mr. Pearson, who was about forty-seven years of age and unmarried, is survived by his mother, sister and three brothers. The funeral took place Wednesday from his late home, interment being in the family burying plot.

John R. Clark, a former resident of Clifton, died in Washington last Tuesday. His remains were brought to the Catholic cemetery at Fairfax for burial Thursday. Mr. Clark, who was in the fifties, probably fifty-five, and unmarried, is survived by three sisters and one brother. He was born at Clifton and his youth and early manhood were spent here until he left for Washington, about thirty-five years ago.

The School and Civic League met in the school building last Friday night.

Miss Campbell failed to arrive to begin school with the rest of the teachers, owing to the illness of her mother, but she is now in her usual place and it is reported a new teacher will arrive this week to take charge of the primary grades. We will then have an accredited school with a faculty to be proud of.

The officers of the newly organized grange are to be installed Wednesday night of this week.

County Demonstrator H. B. Derr will give a lecture on "Poultry," in the school building, on Thursday night of this week, when he will make final arrangements for the district corn show, which will be held in the school building January 27 or 28. It is hoped that our farmers will bring their best bushel and best ten ears for display. The prizes will be $3.00 and $10.00 respectively and if a prize is won here, the chance of a better one in the county show at Fairfax will be greater. All come out and show what Centreville district can do in corn.

There was service in the Presbyterian Church as usual Sunday morning at 11 o'clock; the first communion of the New Year was celebrated at this service.

The Baptists had service at night; they were addressed by a young man from Richmond, sent out by the state board.

Sunday morning while on his way to Sunday School in a car with a party of young people, Mr. Johnson halted the machine by the roadside to admit Miss Wells, another passenger, when the bank suddenly caved in with all hands, leaving the machine upon its side. No one was injured, and after calling into service horses, blocks, tackle, etc., the craft was set upon an even keel, cranked up and the little Ford went merrily on.

Mrs. Quigg, who has been confined to the house with a very heavy cold, is getting better slowly.

Mr. O. L. Southard, who has been ill so long, died December 26, at the home of his wife's parents, at Mt. Crawford, Va. Mr. Southard has been a Clifton resident for fifteen years or more, coming here when he was first married and has resided here ever since. He was a railway mail clerk and had many friends and is survived by a wife and two children, his mother and brother.

FEATHERSTONE

We are just emerging from a rain and snow storm.

Mr. Paul Jones is under treatment at the Episcopal Hospital, Washington, for eye trouble.

A large Hudson car, stolen in Washington, was driven over a bank near Neabasco creek on the Rippon Lodge farm recently, and the thieves after taking the extra wheels, tires and whatever plunder that could be easily carried from the vehicle, made their escape in another car which was following. The owner of the stolen Hudson was promptly notified of its whereabouts.

Mr. L. E. Strother has been on the sick list with a bad cold.

Miss Laura Chamblin was a guest at the home of Mrs. Strother, Monday.

Few plows have been started in this neighborhood.

FORD CARS NOT TO BE REDUCED

Ford Company Advises Dealers That Prices on Ford Cars Will Remain Same—No Change in Models.

An announcement which will interest prospective Ford buyers has been sent out by the Ford Motor Company to all of its dealers, including Mr. W. E. McCoy, of Manassas, which reads as follows:

Several inquiries have recently come to us concerning the likelihood of another reduction in the price of our cars, and as these inquiries no doubt emanate from prospective purchasers, we want to state again with greater emphasis that Ford cars are already being sold at a figure actually below cost and for an indefinite period another reduction or change in design is entirely out of the question and not at all contemplated.

We believe the public will be fair enough to fully appreciate the frankness of the above when they consider the extent of our recent price cut which was in fact the equivalent of several reductions in one, in our desire to contribute toward satisfying their demands for lower living costs notwithstanding our sacrifice in marketing our cars at a loss until we are able to materially reduce present costs through lower material prices and greater manufacturing efficiency. While we have of course made some progress in bringing down operating costs, we still have a long way to go before any thought can be given to further reductions in present car prices, so we have no hesitancy in making these open statements to acquaint you with the true situation.

You can therefore give assurance to prospective purchasers of Ford cars that now is their real opportunity to buy below cost and obtain delivery. Everyone is familiar with the heavy demand for Ford cars in the spring, and this year will be no exception, as in spite of conditions, business is already rapidly accumulating, so that many who desire Ford cars will be obliged to await perhaps until mid-summer for delivery, causing considerable inconvenience and possibly financial loss, particularly to commercial customers.—Advertisement.

DIXIE THEATRE

Saturday, January 15th
"The Soul of Youth"

REALART PICTURES Presents "THE SOUL OF YOUTH" A WILLIAM D. TAYLOR PRODUCTION
THE BOY THAT NOBODY WANTED
He came into the world unwanted and unloved. His mother SOLD him to a rich woman who needed a baby to put through a scheme! The scheme failed and then the rich woman didn't want him either. So he landed in an orphan's home, and grew up there, with the reputation of being the worst boy in the school. He never quite understood how or why he earned that distinction. He wasn't a bad boy—he was just a very lonesome one. HE NEEDED WHAT ALL CHILDREN NEED—JUST SOMEBODY TO LOVE HIM AND GIVE HIM A SQUARE DEAL. For he was really an awfully nice boy, with a whole lot of good hidden under his shy, homely exterior. Don't fail to get acquainted with this boy, who comes to this theatre next Saturday. "THE SOUL OF YOUTH," a big William D. Taylor special, with the boy who played "Huck Finn," in a picture for young and old.

THE BIG JANUARY SALE

The freight was slow in delivering our goods and we disappointed some of those Monday and Tuesday shoppers, but we are ready now with "bells on" and the store is all "set up" with bargains from one end to the other. And not a "hand full" to look at; we do not do it that way; you will find great piles of good things and at prices that will make you stop and wonder and rub your eyes for fear you do not see right.

Shoddy, trashy, cheap goods? Not one cent's worth! The merchandise from one end to the other is standard, staple merchandise. But the price is the only cheap part about it. Not how cheap merchandise—but how cheap can we sell you GOOD MERCHANDISE is our slogan.

Remember, please, we promise for January only. They may be cheaper in February, but the general opinion is to the contrary, and honestly, we do not know; we simply know we have enough contracted for to carry us through January.

We have been crowded more than we hoped. Are you profiting by the sale?
