

COUNTY TEACHERS IN SESSION HERE

Dr. W. J. Young and Mrs. Avery Among Speakers—Officers Named Today.

The twelfth annual meeting of the Prince William County Teachers' Association, which convened here on Wednesday, was well attended and pronounced a most enthusiastic session.

The program opened with the singing of "America" and "America, the Beautiful," Mrs. B. T. H. Hodge presiding at the piano, after which Supt. Charles R. McDonald offered prayer.

Supt. McDonald opened the meeting with words of welcome to the teachers, reminding them of their wonderful opportunity to take their places in the great world movements of today and urging upon them a full realization of their responsibility in training the youth of the land at this crisis following the recent world strife.

He appealed to them to strive to raise the standard of work in Prince William county, which now ranks 21st among the other counties of Virginia in educational work.

Mr. McDonald also commended very highly the excellent work of the teachers of the county, and particularly the work of the rural teachers.

Prof. I. N. H. Beahm, of Nokesville, followed Mr. McDonald, reciting Edgar Allan Poe's "Annabel Lee," which was enthusiastically received.

Several important questions were brought up during an interesting round table conference, among them being "What can be done with pupils who are not prepared for a grade but whose parents insist upon promotion?" and "Should pupils be kept back in a grade because of failure in one subject?"

Those who took part in the discussions included: Mrs. A. L. Henry, Groveton; Miss E. H. Osburn, Mrs. E. D. Wissler, Miss Elsie Lawson and Miss Grace Moran, Manassas; Mrs. T. E. H. Dickens, Bristow; Mrs. F. J. Chandler, Bradley; Miss Minnie L. Swart, King's Cross Roads; Mrs. J. E. Jordan, Haymarket; Prof. Beahm, Mrs. Gibson, Mr. Shumate and Prof. W. D. Nolly, of Aden.

After the singing of "Long, Long Ago," Miss Moran, head of the Manassas primary department, gave a valuable talk on the importance of silent reading, demonstrating by many devices how silent reading can be taught. Her talk was both interesting and instructive.

Mrs. A. Stuart Gibson, representing the Manassas Patrons' League, extended a cordial invitation to the teachers to attend a reception to be given in their honor at 8 o'clock. The session, after singing "My Old Kentucky Home," adjourned to Thursday morning.

The reception, with members of the patrons' league as hostesses, was a delightful social feature of the institute. The musical program, rendered by visitors from Eastern College-Conservatory, included a song by Miss Julia McCombe, of West Virginia; a reading by Miss Hazel Nelson, of Mississippi; a piano solo by Miss Arwin DeWeese, of Mississippi; and violin solos by Miss Bobbie Carr and Miss Thelma Lee, of Mississippi, with Miss DeWeese as accompanist. Cake and ice cream were served.

Thursday morning's session opened with "America" and prayer by Rev. T. D. D. Clark. Rev. Mr. Clark addressed the meeting on "The Routine of the Teacher's Life," comparing the duties of the teacher with those of the great general, the great diplomat and the great disciple. The teachers' profession must partake of the discipline, the diplomat and the drill master, he said, taking for comparison the lives of George Washington and of Baron Von Steuben, the generals; Benjamin Franklin, the diplomat, and the Paul, the disciple of Christ, who said, "Be ye also followers of me, as I am also of Christ." He mentioned the state schedule planned for the development of body and mind in the operation of which the enthusiasm and earnestness of the drill master will play an important part.

"If we are to lead in any abiding way," he said, "the teacher must learn as did the disciple Paul." Mrs. Ora Hart Avery, head of home economics education in the state, spoke during the morning session on vocational work. The growth of this work through the state is amazing, Mrs. Avery declared, 803 girls being enrolled this year as against 233 a year ago. "Those coming from other states get a new view point of the charm and beauty and advantages of Virginia life," she said, stressing this point with particular emphasis, being herself a newcomer from the state of Georgia.

"Educational progress in Virginia," said Mrs. Avery, "is real and definite, and therefore most encouraging." Here she mentioned the burden of education upon Virginia and other southern states, with two races to be educated, bad roads, scattered population, etc. From a financial standpoint it is important to consider that for every 1,000 men in this section there are 1,200 children to be educated, whereas in the states of the east there are only 750 children to every 1,000 men, and in the west there are but 500. Virginia is only $25 per child to spend, while in Montana the sum is $75.

Yet, in spite of these adverse circumstances, Virginia teachers' salaries have been increased 109 per cent. Virginia high schools in ten years have grown from 102 to 256 in number and in enrollment from 15,600 to 32,000. Virginia's educational rating, furthermore, has risen from 43rd rank to 34th, and her illiterates, 55,815 strong ten years ago, are now only 28,964 in number.

This progress, Mrs. Avery declared, is due to the untiring and courageous work of the teachers of Virginia. The influence of the teacher, next to that of the minister, is greatest in its far-reaching results, when the teacher has caught the vision, she said.

At this juncture all joined in singing "Old Folks at Home." "The Teacher's Output" was the subject of a valuable address given by Dr. Walter J. Young, of the Frederickburg Normal School.

"Teachers, like ministers, it seems, must reap their reward in the quality and caliber of those they send out—in the joy of the task itself," said Dr. Young. As the farmer's output is the result of the efficiency of the whole working system, so must the teacher's output be the result of her best efforts, the speaker declared. Her products cannot be measured in terms of material things, but in things of the spirit. Yet the very nature of the teacher's product is responsible for poor salaries, for it is less easy to measure the worth of intellectual occupation than more material things.

Those who carry on the work of the world, those who work quietly for things well worth while have as their reward the abiding joy of work well done. "Watch the output," he counseled, "and have this satisfaction despite criticism, lack of material reward and misunderstanding of the teacher's profession. Get out of the rut, dare to attempt great things in dealing with those entrusted to your care. It is for the teacher to remodel the human soul in sublimity, symmetry and beauty. We are to be judged by the fruits, the speaker declared. The teacher's reward, which nothing can take from us."

Singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the morning session adjourned. Home economics again was the topic of special interest when the afternoon session began. After singing "Love's Old Sweet Song," Mrs. Avery was invited to speak again.

Every girl should have at least one year of home economics education, she asserted. To so many people this subject means only a little cooking and sewing, she said, when in reality home economics is a science which meets in every way the needs of the home. It is a training which includes the study of chemistry, biology, home nursing, physiology and hygiene, keeping of accounts, business arithmetic and home management, with all the problems involved therein, and the study of food constituents, balancing of meals, and also the proper preparation and cooking of foods, serving of meals as well as the making of garments and other sewing.

Mr. G. C. Throner, supervisor of medical inspection under the state board of health, explained the plan for medical inspection of school children as outlined by the state board of health. "All pupils, in all the public, elementary and high schools of the state," he said, "shall receive as part of the educational program such examinations, health instruction and physical training as shall be prescribed by the state board of education and approved by the state board of health."

Mr. Throner spoke of the very great importance of this inspection and gave instances where physical defects had crippled the life work of hundreds and hundreds of people. The first duty of the teacher, he declared, is to look out for the health of the children entrusted to her care.

Supt. McDonald has set the third day of October for such inspection throughout the county, and an appeal is made to the teachers to co-operate in every way to make it successful. This is a most essential part of the teacher's work.

Mr. Throner's explanations were decidedly helpful. He urged the making of physical exercises a part of the school schedule a few minutes each day. It is through systematic exercises that many physical defects are corrected, he said, especially incorrect posture, protruding shoulder blades, sunken chests, drooping heads, poor nutrition, assimilation, etc. His lecture ended with a demonstration with definite instructions to the teachers.

At this morning's session Miss E. H. Osburn, principal of Manassas High School, was re-elected president, and Miss Lulu D. Metz, also of Manassas, was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Supt. McDonald appointed the following district vice-presidents: Hayfield; Dumfries, Miss Nora Beasley, of Dumfries; Occoquan, Miss Mary T. Carter, of Occoquan, and Gainesville, Prof. Harry M. Pearson, of Haymarket.

The three-day session of the institute will close today.

[Editor's Note: We are indebted to Miss Lulu D. Metz, secretary of the institute, for valuable assistance in the preparation of this report.]

The State Highway Commission on Wednesday awarded contracts for highway improvements amounting to $254,168. Hyde and Baxter, of Washington, will grade and macadamize six and a half miles from Greenwell to Milford Mills, this county, at a cost of $102,700.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Merchant have traded their home in Grant avenue to Mr. E. W. Merchant, of Richmond, for the property at the corner of Main and Church streets, where Mr. S. T. Hall now conducts a furniture store. The building is being painted and Mr. and Mrs. Merchant expect to take possession about November 1, when Mr. Hall has secured another place.

Mrs. Murray Adams Hawkins with her two little sons, Ira Clarke and Murray Adams, and her sister, Miss Susie Adams, of Washington, are the guests of their sister, Mrs. W. P. Larkin, near town.

BATTLEFIELD OWNERS ASKED FOR EASEMENT BY PARK ASSOCIATION

Major Ewing Seeks Permission to Place Markers on Historic Spots Outside of Land to Be Purchased With Park Funds—Land Owners Asked to Co-Operate.

Assisted by some of the leading men of wealth and influence in the country, the management of the Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park is following a splendid and comprehensive plan, declared Mayor E. W. Ewing, addressing a conference of battlefield landowners and others interested in the project at Manassas Saturday evening. Major Ewing, who lives at Ballstop, is president of the corporation, which represents the public.

"Not more land, but more opportunities and more co-operation," the speaker said, "are the preeminent needs of the movement."

Then he pointed out that the plans, which have the approval of men of large means and nationwide reputation, propose to build suitable monuments and markers, if the landowners will grant the privilege, at all of the important points made historical by the battles of July 21, 1861, and that of August, 1862. As at Gettysburg, he said, so on these Virginia battlefields it is proposed to put suitable and visible markers so that one even from a distance can get a comprehensive understanding of the troop movements of both battles. That this may be done, the co-operation of all landowners is requested, an easement for their signatures being now in circulation.

Dr. S. S. Simpson, of Manassas, has a copy of the easement, and will be glad to see any landowners who are interested. The impossibility of buying all the battlefield land was pointed out by Major Ewing, and he showed that if that were done many square miles would have to be acquired. Large land areas are not, it was further shown, included within any battlefield park in this country; but positions and movements are shown and prove a great inspiration to any thinking person who visits the place, as well as a monument to the men who died in the several battles thus commemorated.

"The park management," further said the speaker, "will acquire about 150 acres upon which to build its museum, which will probably be a fire-proof replica of the old birthplace of R. E. Lee, and it is now planned there shall be erected replicas of other famous old southern homes. Think of what that means to this community. But, friends, the park management is not wedded to any one spot upon which to build these splendid replicas, this miniature southland. There is now under way a movement, headed by one of the rich men of this country, to endow this park in a sum of not less than $1,000,000. Of course, I don't know that this endowment will materialize, but I have faith in it.

"Subject to reaching the million mark, there is now over $300,000 bona fide subscribed. We may never reach all of it and, if not, the endowment fails; but, if we do reach it, I say, we shall put into practical operation that feature of the charter which provides for educational work by the park. We shall hold a chautauqua every summer on some part of the old battlefield, and we shall use the southern replicas as homes for the historical chautauqua. This is not now my dream, though it was but a dream when the charter was drawn. Rich men, I am saying, men of means, men of business ability, tell me that this feature shall succeed. I am not trying to lead that part of these splendid plans, and am merely saying to you what they assure me. Take it for what it is worth; it shows that we aim high, that our plans mean everything to Prince William county, to the landowners in this community, and that the co-operation of the people here, including the right to place the monuments and markers will go far toward making possible these plans which involve at least close to half a million expenditure—not in buying lands, but in the erection of buildings upon some comparatively small tract to be selected by the fine arts committee of our project and in building roads, and in keeping beautiful the plots where important monuments shall be erected."

"This movement, let me once more declare," said the speaker, "is not local. I regret to say that we are getting comparatively a cold shoulder from much of the local community. Some of the nearby towns have con-

COUNCIL CONSIDERS RAISE IN TOWN WATER RATES

Action Deferred to Next Meeting—New Ordinances Adopted—All Present.

The monthly meeting of the town council was held at the Town Hall Monday night, Mayor Harry P. Davis presiding and all members in attendance.

Councilmen R. S. Hynson and J. H. Burke reported informally on behalf of the committee. Councilman B. C. Cornwell reported that two bids had been received for painting the roof of the Town Hall, and the bid of Mr. G. H. Pence, for $29, was accepted. Councilman M. B. Whitmore, chairman of the finance committee, presented a report of the settlement with former Sergeant R. M. Weir. The meter question was referred to the public utilities committee. The report of Treasurer P. A. Lipscomb was read and ordered filed.

Raising the water rates was proposed, several councilmen advocating a minimum charge of $3.50 instead of $2.50 a quarter. They failed to reach an agreement, however, and the matter will be brought up again at the next meeting.

Fire Chief Albert Speiden appeared before the council in the interest of the fire department and presented his resignation, on which action was postponed.

The matter of purchasing a motor truck for the use of Supt. Gue was referred to Councilman J. H. Burke for investigation and report. The question of placing trees on Lee avenue was referred to the street committee.

The building committee reported the application of the vestry of Trinity Episcopal Church for a permit to erect a new church and to remove the present building, and the permit was granted without the payment of a fee. Application of the Manassas Coal Co. for a permit to place wagon scales on West street was refused. A note of $2,000.07 for coal, payable April 1, 1922, was authorized.

A number of ordinances were adopted. A list will be found in another column.

The council adjourned to meet on the second Monday in October at 7:30 p. m.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO AND INSTANTLY KILLED

Will Edward Hammond, 7-Year-Old Grandson of George E. Maddox, Is Victim.

Will Edward Hammond, seven-year-old son of Mrs. R. Meade Hammond, of Takoma Park, D. C., was struck and instantly killed by an automobile near his home on Saturday afternoon. The machine is said to have been operated by Elder Daniels, a minister of the Seventh Day Adventists, who was passing down a grade curve on his way to the Takoma Park Sanitarium, and the driver's attention is said to have been attracted by a pedestrian who addressed him at the moment the child left the pavement.

The little boy was born in Montmorency, S. C., where his parents made their home for several years. He had started to school a few days before his death. Besides his mother, he leaves a brother, Mr. Leigh Meade Hammond.

Funeral services were held at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Maddox, of Takoma Park, with whom Mrs. Hammond and her sons have made their home. Interment was made in the cemetery at Leesburg, beside the body of his father, Dr. R. Meade Hammond, formerly of Manassas, who died three years ago. The services were conducted by Elder T. S. Dalton, of Baltimore, pastor of the Manassas Primitive Baptist Church, and Rev. Mr. Lambert, pastor of E. Jory M. E. Church, Takoma Park.

On account of the reluctance of students to take a fall examination the Alumni scholarship award of $100 to a Prince William student of Manassas High School living outside of Manassas district will not be made until spring, according to a decision of the committee in charge. The sum of $70.60 has been contributed to the fund by members of the Alumni Association, and other members who have not contributed are invited to send their contributions as soon as convenient.

Mrs. Arthur W. Sinclair, secretary of the Virginia Society, United States Daughters of 1812, expects to attend the annual state council, which meets October 10 at the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond.

SUPERVISORS IN USUAL SESSION

Bid for Erection of Bridge at Mandley's Ford Accepted—Surveyor Resigns.

The Prince William county board of supervisors held its monthly meeting at the courthouse on Tuesday, all members being in attendance, as follows: Supervisor J. L. Dawson, chairman, representing Occoquan district, and Supervisors McDuff Green, Brentsville district; B. Lynn Robertson, Manassas district; O. C. Hutchison, Gainesville district; T. M. Russell, Coles district, and William Crow, Dumfries district.

The board accepted and approved the state highway commission's plans and approximate estimated cost of the Woolsey road between Haymarket and Woolsey, with the following appropriations: State Aid, $4,593.24; other funds, $4,593.24—approximate estimate, $11,120.45 made by H. T. Ammerman, September 9. The board petitioned the highway commission to accept this estimate in lieu of plans, specifications and approximate costs to be furnished by the county according to law, and to authorize the board to proceed with the work. It is understood by the board that use of state money aid in paying royalties on local materials will be limited to 50 per cent of the unit prices shown in approximate estimates.

An appropriation of $400 out of the Special Road Tax fund was authorized for work on the highway from Beverly's Mill to Haymarket, provided that the citizens of Gainesville district raise an equal amount to be expended in 1922.

O. W. Hedrick, assistant superintendent of roads for Brentsville district, was directed to ascertain and report on the petition of H. W. Herring with reference to whether the highway leading from the Aden-Nokesville road to Kink's Cross Roads through the property of Landes and Wright is a straight road or as at present traveled.

The sum of $1,300 out of the county fund was appropriated for the tuition of Manassas High School pupils living in the county outside of Manassas district, the money to be available December 15. Supervisor Dawson voted against the appropriation.

Palmer Smith, supervisor of roads, was directed to ascertain and report whether the road along Bushy Park, known as Buckley's lane, should be widened.

The bid of the Champion Bridge Co., $4,801.30, for the erection of a bridge, with abutments complete, over Bull Run at Mandley's ford, was accepted. The bridge is to be erected jointly by Prince William and Loudoun counties and the contract will not be fully settled until Loudoun also accepts the bid.

The board authorized the purchase for the county of equipment and tools belonging to Gainesville district for $1,303.70. The money will be paid out of the Special Road Tax fund and will be credited to the Gainesville state aid fund for use in resurfacing the Haymarket-Woolsey road. The superintendent was instructed to erect suitable buildings on the jail lot for the safekeeping of this equipment.

The sum of $360, payable at the rate of $30 a month, was appropriated toward the salary of W. L. Browning, county agent. Supervisors Dawson and Hutchison opposed the measure.

The road superintendent was authorized to place a 20-foot culvert on the highway at Beverly's Mill, Broad Run, provided the culvert be furnished by Gainesville district and landowners give necessary land to change the location of the present culvert. The county will pay the cost of placing the culvert out of the Special Road Tax fund.

Toward the services of a fire warden, under control of the State Forester, the sum of $200 was appropriated. The resignation of F. Norvell Larkin as county surveyor was received and certified to the circuit court.

The matter of a bridge at Woodyard's ford was laid on the table. The clerk was ordered to return checks to the unsuccessful bidders on the Mandley's ford bridge.

Supervisors Dawson and Russell were directed to use their best efforts to buy a tractor and road machine for the use of their respective districts, any saving effected to be used in the purchase of other road machinery.

Before adjourning to Tuesday, October 24, the following bills were certified to the county treasurer for payment:

BATTLEFIELD OWNERS ASKED FOR EASEMENT BY PARK ASSOCIATION

tributed so far nothing, and the project has been under way for more than a year. Fortunately, this project appeals to the heart of the south, to the better part of the rich men who love the south, and they, men of national renown, men of large means, assure me that if we get the right co-operation on the part of the local interests, money for the buildings, for the monuments, for beautification, will be forthcoming. Let us accept these promises at face value. Let us do our part; let every tendency to "hold up someone" disappear; let us appreciate this comprehensive scheme, the greatest so far ever undertaken in a work of this kind, a memorial worthy of our fathers and mothers, a movement in the interest of truthful and full history that will help place the south of the past where rightly she belongs upon the pages of American history.

"But, my friends, just now my appeal is to the owners of all lands upon which both of these battles were fought. We mean to build a memorial park. We are assured of that, but would you have us stop there? We want the right to mark, I repeat, every important point connected with both battles. We cannot, I again repeat, buy all that land. We shall not try. But we do want to secure from you, and the men of money expect you to grant us the right, an easement which we can place of record, giving us the right to place the monuments and markers—and we shall not without your written permission go into your yard, garden or orchard, or place anything where it will be in your way—and the right to go to and from them to keep the spots worthy of the purpose, worthy of your own ancestors! Unless we get such an instrument of record, we cannot get money for these monuments; we shall have to confine our actions to the memorial park alone. We have been asking a year now for money for the park and for monuments outside of the park far and near, monuments that will enrich this community and bring it thousands yearly, that will make the old Warrinton turnpike really the Lee highway—rather than the Little River pike way which now competes so strongly with the Warrinton road; but every time a request for a donation for this larger work is made we are at once asked if we have of record the right to place such monuments. When told that we expect to get such a right we are at once informed that not a dollar for that per-pose will be donated until the easements are actually of record." "So the proposition lies at your door, landowners of the battleground in Prince William county," he said in conclusion, "What will you do? We are losing time; the interest is now abroad in the land. Shall we take the tide at its flood? I get no pay—I want no pay—but I cannot take the time to see you individually. Co-operate with me and the rest of us and sign the paper we shall place in the hands of Dr. Simpson. You can find a copy in the hands of others in your community, but we want all to sign the one document so it can, when acknowledged, go on record."

Republican Platform

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES FOR STATE OFFICES
TO BE VOTED FOR NOVEMBER 8, 1921.

For Governor:

HENRY W. ANDERSON of Richmond.

Lieutenant Governor:

JOHN H. HASSINGER of Washington County.

Attorney General:

HARRY K. WOLCOTT of Norfolk.

The Republican Party in Virginia, by its delegates in State Convention assembled at Norfolk on July 14, 1921, adopt and proclaim the following platform of principles and policies:

THE NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION

We congratulate the people of the entire country upon the overwhelming election of a Republican President and Congress in November, 1920. We commend the simple and direct manner in which President Harding and his associates in the administration have undertaken the solution of the many complex problems confronting the National Government at home and abroad. We cordially approve the prompt steps taken to inaugurate the budget system and reduce expenses of the National Government. We endorse the vigorous and commonsense foreign policy of the administration; and earnestly favor the efforts now being made to bring about reduction of military armaments by agreement among nations. We pledge to the administration our earnest support of their efforts to solve these problems in an American way for the common good of all the people.

We especially commend the broad, non-sectional spirit of President Harding, and his efforts to bring about true national unity in this time of national crisis.

NEED OF TWO PARTIES IN VIRGINIA

The unbroken control by the Democratic Party of all branches of our State and local governments for over thirty years has tended to destroy the influence of Virginia in national affairs, impair the qualities of citizenship, and to bring about a condition of stagnation in the intellectual, political and economic life of the State. It furnishes painful evidence of the evil effect of long-continued one-party control on any community. We declare it to be essential to free and efficient government that there should be two vigorous and representative parties, divided on lines of political and economic thought, promoting free discussion, and giving to the people effective agencies through which changes of policy may be accomplished and betrayals of public trusts punished. We propose in this time of State and national emergency to build the Republican Party true to the best thought and traditions of this Commonwealth, and appeal to all patriotic citizens, not in a spirit of partisanship, but in a spirit of citizenship, for their aid and support in the accomplishment of this purpose.

RACE AGITATION

We condemn without qualification all persons of any race, who in reckless disregard of the public peace, seek to arouse race antagonism and appeal to race prejudice. Any suggestion that the colored people of Virginia, constituting less than one-third of its population, can control our State and local governments, or that they desire to do so, is a patent absurdity, and a slander upon the intelligence of both races. Under these conditions, any person, white or colored, who seeks to arouse race prejudice and antagonism is sowing the seeds of those disorders which bring shame upon this nation, and is an enemy of the State.

AMICABLE RELATIONS BETWEEN RACES

Experience has shown that the delicate problems arising out of the existence of the white and colored races in Virginia cannot be solved by abstract theories or by a policy of repression or evasion. We believe that a candid and constructive policy founded upon justice, with due regard to the facts and the rights and sensibilities of both races, is essential to the restoration and maintenance of free government in Virginia and the safety of our civilization. We adopt the following principles which will guide and control the Republican Party in Virginia in dealing with this question:

1. That the people of each race have a right to their own social organizations and institutions; but any social intermingling or mixture of the races in this State is impossible. The personal rights and social integrity of each race must be preserved and respected.
2. That popular government must be founded upon the qualities of individual citizenship and not upon conflicting racial groups. It is, therefore, the duty of every citizen, white or colored, to vote his individual convictions and to support that party which most nearly represents his personal opinions. Political solidarity in either race is a menace to free institutions.
3. That the people of Virginia will uphold and respect the Constitution of the United States as the supreme law; but within the limits of that Constitution as interpreted by the courts, they have the right, and are charged with the duty to control and regulate their domestic affairs.
4. That holding public office in a republic is not a right of any man or essential to the effective exercise of individual citizenship; but is a trust to be conferred upon any citizen or withheld at the will of the people in accordance with their views as to the best interest of the State.
5. That it is an essential of free and efficient government that persons chosen for or appointed to, public office should be those who are best qualified by character, education and experience to discharge the duties of such offices, and are truly representative of the communities which they serve.
6. That the white people of Virginia, constituting over two-thirds of its population, holding ninety-five per cent of its property, with centuries of discipline and training in self-government, are charged with the solemn duty to all the people of this State to see that the State and local governments of this Commonwealth are conducted and administered in accordance with these self-evident principles.
7. That the solution of these delicate human problems must be found in the application of moral principles, not in political agitation; in practical justice founded upon facts; in a spirit of open-mindedness, sympathy and understanding by those immediately concerned of both races, having in view the higher interests of the State and the happiness and prosperity of all its people.

Hit or Miss Gasoline Makes a Motor Hit or Miss

THE problem of obtaining uniform quality is one of the difficulties that the successful gasoline producer has had to solve. The matter of varying quality is one of the greatest annoyances to the gasoline user.

It was easy to get a standard product when practically all the gasoline came from one or two types of crude petroleum. Comparatively little gasoline was used then. Today, the demand is so great that all parts of the globe have been explored for petroleum, which accounts for the great range of "crudes" on the market.

Gasoline must be uniform not only in one or two or three respects, but in every way that affects motor operation. Almost every property of the gasoline you use influences in some way the performance of your motor.

The Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) has never been content to have "Standard" Motor Gasoline exceptionally good in any one respect to the detriment of other properties.

The ideal would be to have every drop of gasoline as uniform in all its qualities as the chemicals and drugs which your pharmacist uses in a prescription. As a result of the co-operation of our Development and Manufacturing Departments, "Standard" Motor Gasoline is positively the best balanced and the highest in quality that you can buy. It is the same whether you get it in one corner of the state or another.

The Practical Use of the Bible

A Sermon by Rev. O. Grey Hutchison, Dover, Del.

The Bible has been given us as the guide and rule of our conduct. But to so many, in times past, the rule has been so complicated and the guide so obscured by historical detail and an endeavor to make all parts of it harmonize that very few had either the time or the inclination to spend on it.

But now that modern scholarship has cleared away the debris of Orientalism and has bared to us in all of its simplicity and beauty the truth regarding life, time and eternity, we truly appreciate that passage in Revelation 10:1-2: "And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud, and a rainbow upon his head, and his face was as the very sun, and his feet as pillars of fire, and he had in his hand a little book open, and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left on the earth, and cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth."

When men were wont to quibble and split hairs over trivial ecclesiastical questions for the sole joy of debate rather than to get at the kernel of truth it was necessary that the truth should be safe guarded by its several layers of coarse oriental husks just as Christ told his great message to the multitudes in parables after He had been accused of working His wondrous works through the power of Satan. But now that Thomas Paine, Robert G. Ingersoll and Charles Bradlaugh have no standing in court any more, and can hardly get a hearing at the curb-stone, our Bible has become small, stripped of its superfluous matter, and open, being understandable to all true seekers of truth. The truth of it has not changed. For truth is the same yesterday, today and forever. It is our attitude toward truth which has changed. Our attitude toward the Book is now such as to make a large book, bulky and unnecessary. And our perception has been so quickened as to give us an open view of the Book. This relation toward this Book is the result of evolution or growth; growth in knowledge, if you please. And thus it is that to us "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," is primitive justice indeed, savoring of barbarity. But in that day it was the best they knew. By reason of evolution we practice justice tempered with mercy as formulated in, "Father, forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us;" and which was finally worked out in the sermon on the Mount.

The real value of the Bible to us is that it has a hand like our hand, capable of meeting ours in a genuine, sympathetic, and assuring clasp. It has a hand stretched out with an offer to help from a vantage ground gained through moral struggles similar to our own. It has a tongue which speaks to every man in his own tongue in which he was born and in the very mood in which he finds himself at this very hour of moral need. It has a voice, now broken with a sense of failure, and now ringing clear through with joy of spiritual advance, but it speaks to us steadily in recognizable accent a message from the Unseen. It is because of its message from the Unseen, calling us to things of greater endeavor and greater good that it has its worth to us and will have as long as time lasts; and because it is truth through all eternity.

The modern man is very active. There is no passivity in religion. Therefore the modern man's religion is a living, vital thing; a thing to better man and to serve him.

No man can live unto himself.

By the association of effort, individual energy is multiplied in a kind of geometrical ratio. "One of you shall chase a thousand, and two shall put," not two thousand as we might naturally suppose, but, "ten thousand to flight." This was the promise made of old and it was no mere play upon words or idle boast of an ungrounded enthusiasm. Any man lined up with other men for some exalted purpose, feeling in himself a generous measure of their allied strength, persuaded of ultimate victory, all the more surely because of certain contagion of courage multiplies his own moral strength by at least five. Thus if one righteous man chases a thousand and evil doers, two such men organized may put ten thousand to flight. It is significant that the original apostles were sent out two and two. This was fellowship reduced to its lowest terms, but was far and a way better than the helplessness of unorganized effort.

Service also develops a new sense with the Divine. In the life of the One who stands as the supreme historical manifestation of what is god-like the spirit of service is most conspicuous. "I came not to do mine own will but his." "I am among you as one that serveth." "The Son of man is come not to be served but to serve and give his life for the moral recovery of many."

His standard of values was based altogether upon this principal of service. "Among the Gentiles the great ones exercised dominion. It shall not be so among you. He that would be chief among you let him serve. The greatest of all is the servant of all. Usefulness is greatness, and there is none other.

There are three grades of activities. And so many people confound the three. They are degradation, service, consecration.

In the second class of activities "If thy right hand," the trained and choice faculty, "cause thee to stumble, cut it off." It is better to enter into life maimed than to make moral shipwreck. It is better to cut the hand off than to steal or to forge with it. Better—aye, verily, amputation of faculty is better than degradation. Thank God the choice does not lie between degradation and amputation. For there is a third choice, that of consecration.

Degradation, amputation, consecration—the second is always better than the first; but best of all is that consecration of faculty to worthy use which yields the fullest joy of Christian service. And so through the joy and fellowship of this consecration service men will enter more deeply into that form of satisfaction worthy to be called, "The joy of their Lord."

SENATOR SWANSON'S CANDIDACY

The Fauquier Democrat publishes a letter from Hon. Claude A. Swanson emphatically denying the rumor that Senator Swanson will not be a candidate next year to succeed himself as Virginia's senior representative in the United States Senate.

Swanson supporters, whose number is legion, are at a loss to determine the source of the rumor, which, on account of its studied anonymity, is considered of malicious origin. It is under the circumstances unfortunate that such a rumor should present itself, and it is well that Senator Swanson has decisively settled the question.

"I am a candidate in the democratic primary for re-election to the United States Senate and am conducting a most vigorous campaign," Senator Swanson declares. "I have been actively engaged in organizing the state and find conditions most favorable and encouraging. I shall, as the campaign progresses, as far as my official duties in Washington will permit, present fully and vigorously to the electorate of Virginia an account of my stewardship and claims for re-election. I shall not neglect my official duties here to advance my own personal political interests. I think the best proof of fitness to continue in office or to be promoted is to remain at your post, discharging the duties for which the people compensate you, and not neglecting them in seeking to obtain continuance in office or advancement."

Impaired health is the ridiculous reason assigned for Senator Swanson's reported retirement—a reason which a glimpse of the Senator's robust physique would readily dismiss. It is true that he was sorely overburdened during the war, that he felt, as even a strong man will, the depleting influence of the strain. He was then chairman of one of the most important committees in Congress; Senator Martin's prolonged illness increased his burden, laying upon him the work of two senators, and, furthermore, Mrs. Swanson suffered and finally succumbed to a severe illness—a combination of circumstances which few men would be able to withstand without a scar. A period of rest, however, has sufficed to restore his usual robust health. He is still the same vigorous champion of democracy and is ready to make a strenuous and hearty campaign.

Senator Swanson holds a proud record among Virginians of today. He has served Virginians well—in the House of Representatives for nine years, as their governor for four years, and as their senator for eleven years, having arrived at a position of power and influence as a result of his ability and continuous service. Political opponents—and only a man who pursues a negative career is without them—will do well to seek a more legitimate means of opposing his re-election.

SENATOR TRINKLE OPENS CAMPAIGN

State Senator E. Lee Trinkle, Virginia's democratic standard-bearer, in his first campaign speech at Clintwood on Tuesday, confined himself chiefly to a splendid exposition of the democratic party's service record in Virginia. He propounded unblinking figures to offset charges made against democratic administration by the republican candidate, pictured Virginia progress in response to Col. Anderson's criticism, and met with masterly touch every argument advanced by his republican opponent.

That democratic rule has been perfect in every phase of its development was far from what Mr. Trinkle essayed to prove. Imperfections of the past have been discovered time and again, party history will show, and new methods have been employed to meet the changing requirements of the times. He did prove, however, to the satisfaction of his hearers, that no state in the union has been so well governed as the Old Dominion.

It is a disappointment to The Journal that space requirements make it impossible for us to give our readers a full account of this splendid presentation of the political situation in Virginia. Our standard-bearer has the situation well in hand, and democratic leaders look forward to a fine showing at the polls in November.

AN EASEMENT DESIRED

The Journal ventures to hope that Major Ewing's appeal to land owners in the region of the proposed battlefield park will meet with generous response. Major Ewing, who is president of the park association, seeks only the landowners' permission to place markers upon any historic spots not included in the tracts to be purchased for the park, thus insuring the historical perfection of the memorial.

There is no desire on the part of the park management to erect markers that will be in the landowners' way, or that access to the memorials shall be through a private door yard, garden or orchard. The request will not in any way affect the sale of the land except that its historic importance, thus emphasized, might increase its value.

It is merely an agreement between the land owners and the park association—an easement, Major Ewing terms it—whereby the land owners declare themselves willing to allow the park association to mark historic spots on territory surrounding the park. Signing the easement is, of course, a necessary formality, for the easement or agreement should be of record.

WHERE SOME LOST LETTERS ARE

Postmaster-General Hays will receive many thank-you's from distracted post office patrons as a result of his order directing that all mail sacks be thoroughly shaken out. This ruling is not expected to clear up all mysteries affecting undelivered mail, but it will eliminate at least one source of trouble.

It seems that mail sacks sent to Washington for repairs—empty, indigent mail sacks—have been found to contain on an average of 20 letters and numerous pieces of second, third and fourth class mail. This amazing discovery has led to the Postmaster-General's order.

A little thought will open up a vista of countless comedies, tragedies, troubles, disappointments, losses—and occasional gains, perhaps—as a result of letters lost. It will not hurt postal employees to spend a little extra effort in emptying mail sacks, and the small effort is likely to draw large returns. Postmaster Hays is to be congratulated upon his ability to see the little things—little things that sometimes mean so much.

Our new City Fathers who assumed office September 1 are beginning to show Manassas what a wide-awake group of municipal guardians can do. After Monday's midnight session members of their families probably are ready to vote for semi-monthly meetings, as suggested by Mayor Davis, or for the adoption of a curfew law for councilmen.

PANTHEA

When I am dead and nervous hands have thrust
My body downward to the waiting dust,
The sepulchre will lack sufficient room
To cage me, carnate, in its marble womb.

Some subtle memory of you shall be
The incarnation of the soul of me,
Yes, I shall be, because I love you so,
The voiceless presence in all things that grow.

You shall not touch a flower but it shall wake
That sleeping harp, my heart, and bid it break,
Nor drink its perfume but the wine shall be
In some wise flavored with desire of me.

I shall be patient in the kindred grass
That I may feel your foot-fall when you pass;
I shall be kind as rain and pure as dew,
A loving spirit round the life of you.

When your soft cheeks by twilight wings are fanned,
'Twill be my kiss and you will understand;
But when some sultry, storm-bleared sun is set,
I shall be lightning, if you dare forget.
—Dorian Hope.

SAFETY FIRST

Do you ever take a physical inventory of yourself? It is an excellent way of bringing weak points to your attention, and when you recognize them you can take means to make them strong. The weak spot physically in most men and women is their eyes. From illness, overwork, carelessness, or neglect, their eyes are not in the condition they should be. How about your own eyes? If they feel strained or pain, you should have them examined at once. Don't let foolish prejudice against glasses keep you away. You may not need glasses, but if you do, it is wise to wear them in time.

FOR MIDSUMMER
Lyons Velvet Hats

—If history is to be believed, women at one time wore straw hats in summer and velvet hats in winter. Woman is a creature of moods and by no means dependent upon the weather man to tell her what to wear.

—In winter she wears hats of straw or lace—in summer, behold, she dons the chapeau of velvet.

—Because it is becoming almost always, and because it seems peculiarly adapted to seaside wear, we excuse the inconsistency of lovely woman's fads, and applaud her in her chic velvet hat though the weather be 100 degrees in the shade.

—These new models are in large, medium and small shapes. The color list includes blue, brown, pheasant, cherry, taupe and black.

—The trimmings are of pin ostrich, in fancy effects.

He Tried SUNOCO Oil

And this is what he said:

"That SUNOCO OIL I got from you proved to be fine; especially for the Haynes. It has worked better than it ever has since I bought it. I have been trying to buy some more of the oil since my return, but no one seems to handle it out here. I am writing to the factory today to have them send me some. Tell Ladd (I think that is the name of the fellow that works there with you all the time) that all I have to do with the Haynes is give it lots of Sunoco oil and gasoline and drive it like Sam Hill."

The writer is Mr. J. B. Gibson, who recently left here in his Haynes for Webb City, Mo.

What Mr. Gibson thinks is the opinion of many other SUNOCO users. Have you tried it on your car?

STATE NEWS NOTES

Governor Davis has announced the appointment of James A. Bear, of Roanoke, to succeed the late James A. Mundy, Jr., as a member of the state highway commission. Mr. Mundy died suddenly of apoplexy last week at his home at Natural Bridge.

A permanent laboratory for fruit growers and farmers has been opened at Winchester by the state experiment station, with Mr. M. R. Hough in charge. It will examine insect pests and supply farmers and apple growers with detailed information when to spray and what to use. No charge is made for the service.

Considerable excitement was caused at Bealeton, Fauquier county, a few days ago when five pistol shots sounded in rapid succession on the station platform just as a northbound train was about to pull out. The lady firing was not a good shot, however, according to the story from Bealeton, and the colored man fired at made a good run for it and escaped unhurt. The woman, the story continues, was Mrs. Louie Kane, of Alexandria. There have been several disagreements in the Kane family, it is claimed, and at the last falling out Kane took their two children and went back to live on the farm of his father, near Bealeton. Mrs. Kane came up the day previous and took the children with her on her return. As the train was about to leave, a colored man employed by Kane came on the platform and snatched one of the children away from the mother, who promptly drew her pistol and emptied it after him. The man dropped the child, and Mrs. Kane boarded the train in triumph. The conductor relieved her of her pistol.

When Daniel Fitzgerald, a resident of Amherst county, decided that he would take a mule ride to Halifax county for a visit with friends, he did not know he was sick, but it did not take long for Traffic Officer Young, when the man passed him in Lynchburg, to see that he was a case of smallpox loose in the city. Fitzgerald was hurried to the health office, where his trouble was speedily diagnosed. Quickly the department got the man back home and soon the county authorities had established a quarantine. The man, his wife and three children were found to be suffering from the disease, and none of them knew it.

A flying machine of the DeHaviland type—en route from Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., to Langley Field, Va., and in command of Lieut. C. E. Shankle, accompanied by two other bird men—in attempting to land near Heathsville, struck a straw stack, turned upside down and was almost completely wrecked. While in the air the water line of the engine burst, heating the engine to such an extent that Lieut. Shankle found it necessary to land promptly. One of the men was slightly hurt. The wreck was shipped to Washington.

A new form of "frightfulness" is revealed in a story reaching Danville from Rockingham county, North Carolina, just across the Virginia line, in which a malefactor sought to convert a "fivver" into an infernal machine. The story involves a county officer named Martin, who lives at Mayodan and who, a few nights ago, drove his car into a tobacco house at Madison while he took supper. On the way home he noticed his engine firing only on three cylinders and the following day he drove the car, without first examining it, back to Madison to have repair work done. The garage mechanic, lifting the hood, found two sticks of dynamite tied to the engine and connected by wires to a spark plug, the evident purpose being to detonate the explosive as soon as the car was cranked. Providentially, however, the perpetrator of the deed had laid one of the wires over a steel rod, causing a short circuit.

Frank Wilkins, of Philadelphia, trainmaster of Bloch Brothers Carnival, which was en route from Lexington to Chase City, had both legs crushed under the carnival train near Lynchburg Sunday afternoon, and he was brought to a Lynchburg hospital where both legs were amputated, one below and the other at the knee. His condition is said to be satisfactory.

A 2,000-pound bomb ended the career of the battleship Alabama at 12:15 on Monday. A Martin bomber, flying over the old warship anchored off Tangier Island in Chesapeake bay, tore her mast off, destroyed her superstructure and turned her over on her side in shallow water. Six other planes almost simultaneously rained 1,000 and 2,000-pound bombs on the hulk as she went down. Four hit the vessel as she trundled over, and the remainder landed in the water within twenty to thirty feet. The plane which gave the Alabama her death blow flew over the vessel and dropped a 100-pound sighting bomb. Her pilot then guided her back, and from the observations taken the 2,000-pound bomb dropped in the identical spot where the sighting bomb hit—directly at the base of the main mast. The tests on the Alabama are declared to have been a success.

Jacob and John Perkey, proprietors of the famous caverns near Grottoes, have been fined $125 each and placed under $500 bond for twelve months for catering to tourists on Sunday and otherwise breaking the Sabbath laws by selling tobacco, soft drinks and employing men as guides in the caverns, according to a dispatch from Staunton. It is said that will appeal the decision of the magistrate's court.
