everybody and wear it on our sleeve at all times, but we find it is not the easiest thing to keep in repair. By and by it begins to be less interesting, and finally it disappears altogether. In business we need the kind of ambition which creates things and pushes the world along; an ambition to do or to be, to produce or to master something, and which never for an instant loses sight of the goal first aimed at unless it be to aim at some goal which is still higher and still harder to reach. That sort of ambition consists of only two elements, work and purpose.

The business world is a wonderful active world. Something is always happening, always moving and so, like this great world, we people are a part of it and must move on. Those of us who are ambitious and willing move faster, perhaps, than those who are less thoughtful, less active, or less energetic. There is not one of us, however, who would not like to feel that he is moving a little faster than the crowd.

One day the highest salaried man in the world was asked how he had succeeded. He replied: "I haven't succeeded. No real man ever succeeds. There is always a larger goal ahead."

The secret of the successful typist or stenographer lies in specializing. If you go into the office of any good business man and ask for employment, you will receive the question: "What can you do?" If you say "anything," you might as well save your breath, for the result will be just the same as if you said "nothing." On the other hand, if you say: "I can operate the typewriter with speed and accuracy equal to the best," you have at once placed yourself in the ranks of the specialist, the kind that is wanted in every business.

Another important quality is punctuality. Someone has said that punctuality is the politeness of kings, the duty of gentlemen, and the necessity of business men. Lack of punctuality destroys confidence in the individual and produces distrust, while a practice of this virtue has been the means of the success of many men.

Courtesy is one of the most important elements in any walk of life. In business, especially, it is important. If one is courteous and kind, he is liked and respected by everyone. A person in business comes in contact with many people of all kinds. The impression they first obtain is generally the lasting one.

Genius is mainly the power of making continuous efforts. The line between failure and success is so fine that we scarcely know when we pass it—so fine that we are often on the line and do not know it. How many a man has thrown up his hands at a time when a little more effort, a little more patience, would have achieved success. As the tide goes clear out, so it comes clear in. Sometimes prospects may seem darkest when really they are on the turn. A little more persistence, a little more effort, and what seemed hopeless failure may turn to glorious success. The journey is long, the hill is steep, the burden heavy, but if we are determined we are sure to win. There is no failure except in failing to try.

There is no real success without moral character. Moral character is justly felt to be an indispensable element in all kinds of business. A person may be as brilliant, as clever, as broad, and as strong as you please, but with all this, if he is not honest and just, he will certainly fail.

In a few words, the qualities essential to success in business are, first of all, ambition. Without enthusiasm for our work we cannot succeed. The next is, we must specialize. There is no place in the world today for one who is a jack of all trades and master of none.

Punctuality is a necessity in business life.

Courtesy is very important, for manners are not idle, but the fruit of a loyal nature and a noble mind.

Without moral character we cannot hope to succeed.

The last, but not the least, is the genius of persistence. We may count on being lucky once in awhile, but to be a real success in business we must get out our shovel and dig!

OLD VETERANS AT THE REUNION

Number of the Boys of '61 Attended Reunion at Richmond—Story of One Veteran.

Among the interesting events of the week is the reunion of Confederate veterans in Richmond this week, and a large number of the boys in gray are in attendance.

Several of the Prince William veterans are among the crowd and renewing old friendships and viewing old scenes.

We believe the following little story will be of interest to our readers, showing the indomitable spirit that still exists among these old heroes. It is a spirit that one can well wish will never die.

"Well, here I am in Richmond," said George W. Sheram, of Barnesville, Ga., who walked the entire 614 miles to attend the Confederate reunion. Mr. Sheram admits that he is eighty-three years old. He is spare of build, active, light on his feet, and he walks with an easy and graceful stride. He consumed thirty days in his stroll, finishing good and strong, and just twelve pounds lighter than when he started.

"Never had a better time in my life," he said. "I guess not less than a thousand persons offered to give me a ride, and at every place the people were good and kind to me. Twice, I think, I was allowed to pay just a little for my bed, but in the majority of cases the people with whom I stopped offered to give me money. Of course I could not take it. I stopped and rested whenever I felt like it, walking when I pleased. A number of times when I got to stores along the road the people would insist on giving me things to eat. I thanked them, but I did not need them, and I had money to pay for what I wanted.

"No trouble at any place, save that a dog attacked me and I beat him off with my stick. That dog belonged to a negro, who made no attempt to call him off, and I managed to get a few rocks and throw at the dog, and he soon beat a retreat. I killed one snake on the trip, and several times people offered to give me a little liquor, but I am afraid of that stuff. None for me, thank you. The people were good and kind to me.

"I walked thirty-seven miles one day, that being the longest step. I saw the country and it was delightful. Rained most of the way, however, and I got soaked twice. The sun began to get a bit hot and I raised my umbrella on three days because of that.

"Oh, yes, I was with the 1st Georgia Regiment, then with the 69th and was wounded three times. Had three brothers to get killed in the war.

"By golly, the women have been mighty nice to me. Since getting here I have been overwhelmed with invitations to stay at homes. Makes us old boys feel good when they are kind to us."

IS THE WORLD OUT OF TUNE

Why Certain Laws Are Ignored
 —What Is Right and Wrong—
 —Some Observations.

Nokesville, Va., June 6, 1922.
 Editor Journal, Manassas, Va.:

Dear Editor: Will you give space for a communication in your valued paper? There are so many things taking place in many ways that do not appeal to the minds of people, even of ordinary intelligence. Now, it seems that at the special session of the legislature of 1919 there was an act passed authorizing the board of supervisors in each county in the state to appropriate funds in towns or counties to pay the car fare of the old Confederate soldiers to the general reunion held at different points in the different states. But it seems that the supervisors in Prince William county have declined to pay the fare for the past several years. The supervisors of Fauquier county have been paying (as I am creditably informed) the fare of its soldiers to the different reunions down south in Texas, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia—wherever the reunion is held—even sending them on Pullman trains.

I fail to see why our lawmakers pass a law and then have a provision in it making it optional with the supervisors to consider it or not. Why not let it be up to the supervisors without putting a "rigmarole" on paper and paying the printer out of the public's money to put something on the statute books that is only a "will-o-the-wisp" or seeming nightmare? There is a great display on Decoration Day, but soon forgotten when it comes to the real memory of the survivors of the "lost cause."

The Irishman said: "Give me the roses while I can smell them and not after I am dead."

It seems that humanity, politically and religiously, is largely a bundle of inconsistencies in so many ways, and it would almost seem that some people think that God is the same as the heathens' gods—that anything and everything is right with them.

I have been quietly observing some persons, and more especially those who feign to be moral leaders. I know of some who are so desperately religious on some things. For instance, should a church member be seen playing a game of "seven up" or "set back" with a deck of cards, he would be hailed into church council and reprimanded for his gross sin; while I have seen church members, even preachers, play base ball, where some will dispute and contend even almost to a quarrel over what one calls a "foul ball," or being put out on the run.

Look at the accidents happening to the players, to say nothing about the disputes over the game. I have noticed frequently preachers' children and others playing croquet on Sunday. I don't think there is any harm in a social game where everything is pleasant and harmonious, but I do think it a great mistake to condemn a quiet and safe game and take part in a game in which life and limb is endangered and where large stakes are wagered on the winding side.

Some persons are so opposed to wars and capital punishment, and even to taking any part in the civil laws of our country, but will try to force an unenforceable law upon the people at the risk of life on both sides.

What kind of democracy or Americanism is it that the churches must combine with the state to promulgate the religions of the country?
 When Peter smote the high priest's servant and cut off his ear Jesus told him to put up his sword, etc.
 Read Deuteronomy, 21st chapter, 18-21 verses. They might teach some of our fanatics how to rid the country of some of the evils instead of these other fanatical crazes, as I understand them to be.
 "Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, but they are they who testify of me."
 Hurriedly written while resting in the shade. Much more could be said along this line, but let this suffice for the present.

CLIFTON
 Special Masonic Sermon.
 The Masonic sermon by Rev. C. J. Fry, in the Baptist Church, was well attended. The Masons formed in line at their hall and marched to the church, Rev. Fry and Mr. I. M. Quigg leaving the ranks and proceeding into the church. Mr. Fry went to his place in the pulpit, and Mr. Quigg took his place at the organ. The procession then marched into the church to the strains of the organ and took their seats in front of the auditorium in seats specially reserved for them. Special music was rendered by a choir composed of Masons. The church was beautifully decorated with rhododendron, roses and daisies.

Rev. T. H. MacLeod preached at the usual hour Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church. Before the sermon a class of seven young people were received into the church, four of these, not having been baptized, were given this ordinance.
 The Presbyterian Sunday school will celebrate Children's Day next Sunday, June 25, at 7 p. m.
 Misses Mary Ferguson, Mary Quigg and Frances Buckley are home from their schools for the vacation.
 The wedding bells began ringing this week in earnest. Miss Pauline Davis and Mr. Clifton were married Tuesday of this week. Miss Davis is one of the most popular young ladies of the Baptist young people, and Mr. Winfield Clifton is mail carrier on Route No. 1 and is also very popular among the younger set in the village. We wish them long life and much happiness.
 Wheat is being harvested this week. Prospects are good for a good yield if the weather is just good long enough for it to be housed safely.
 Mr. A. H. Hunsberger celebrated his 97th birthday at his daughter's (Mrs. Dingers) home one day last week. Mr. Hunsberger is hale and hearty.
 Mrs. Martha Payne, who is probably our oldest woman resident, has been quite ill for some time and is confined to her bed.
 Mrs. Payne, who is said to be 97 years old, walks about three miles to church nearly every Sunday.
 Mrs. John B. Hurd is another lady in the 90's who attends the church practically every Sunday, although she had to walk about three miles also until recently. They have moved to the village.
 Mrs. Mary E. Young died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Pope. She was buried Monday in the Clifton Cemetery.
 Mr. and Mrs. Tilden Mathers are the proud parents of a young son.
 The Clifton base ball team beat the Fairfax team last Saturday afternoon, the game being played at Fairfax.
 Mrs. Ensor had a horse fall on a harrow one day last week in such a manner that it was quite seriously injured, but they have hopes of its recovery.
 Mr. W. S. Detwiler and family were visitors at W. H. Richard's Sunday afternoon.
 Mrs. Robinson and sons, of Chicago, are visiting Mrs. Jack Barrett. Mrs. Robinson was Miss Kathleen Dorsey and is Mrs. Barrett's sister.

BRENTSVILLE

The Children's Day exercises of Hatcher Memorial Sunday school will be held next Sunday night.
 The boys of the Brentsville base ball team were scheduled to play a scrub team from Manassas last Saturday, and they donned their new uniforms for the occasion, and the visitors failed to appear. We hope it was not a case of "heart failure." The team will journey to Bockhall next Saturday, when they will play the Fordside team.
 Misses Constance and Margaret Huffman are visiting their grandmother in Brookland, D. C.
 Miss May Lam is visiting her sister in Warrenton.
 Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shipp spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McKay.
 Mr. Willard Emmons spent part of last week in Richmond and vicinity in the interest of his work next year at Alton, Va., as agricultural instructor in the high school at that place.
 June 29th is the date for the next meeting of the Brentsville Kensington. The subject will be "Foreign Missions of My Church."

WHAT IS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM?

The question often arises as to the value of a newspaper as an advertising medium, and what constitutes the real basis for the value.

Of course, the great thing about a newspaper to give it any value at all to an advertiser is its circulation—without the circulation it would not be an advertising medium.

And, too, the character of any circulation is to be considered in fixing the value of that particular newspaper as an advertising medium. A newspaper may be widely circulated and yet be of little value to the advertiser. Numbers do not always count.

There is a difference in value in circulations equal in number. One man states his newspaper has a circulation of 1,500; another states he has 1,500 real bona fide subscribers, also meaning he has 1,500 circulation. But there is a difference, and on that difference hinges the value of the different newspapers as advertising mediums.

A newspaper may be "scattered" among 1,500 people, who receive it without any cost to themselves, and yet the newspaper may have very few real subscribers. The people who receive it do not value it highly enough to pay the subscription price—and yet the paper has a circulation of 1,500.

A newspaper with a real subscription list of 1,500 names shows that the 1,500 people who receive that newspaper place a value on it by being willing to pay the subscription price.

Now, which 1,500 people does the advertiser think most likely to prove valuable customers and patrons for his own business—the 1,500 who get something for nothing or the 1,500 who want a newspaper and value it sufficiently to pay the subscription price? And which newspaper will he select in placing his advertising.

The wise advertiser generally selects the one with real value in it—he does not care to reach a lot of people who want something for nothing, as he wants to sell his wares.

PROHIBITION IN VIRGINIA

Over one hundred stills capable of quantity production were captured in Virginia, last month, the federal prohibition director for that state announces. His statistics, however, are too incomplete to prove of much interest to Washington people. We would like to know how many of those corn liquor factories were put out of business within fifty miles of the District of Columbia. There is no useful purpose served in concealing facts. For the past year the Capital has been the best market for the Old Dominion product—fusel oil, poison and all.

But the Virginia distillers are losing their market. Perhaps in disappointment over the future prospects of their business they have grown careless and allowed enforcement officers to get too great a hold on the situation. Washingtonians have turned mysteriously from corn whiskey, with the smoky tank of mountain farms about it, to synthetic gin and sacramental wine which now, we are informed on authority usually reliable, can be obtained with little difficulty.

The day of corn liquor, it seems by increasing evidence, is done. The beverage famous since the days of George Washington, the delight of the old South and the consolation of the new, will soon be as extinct as some of those mixtures described so temptingly by Charles Dickens. More rigid prohibition enforcement has had something to do with this disappearance. The officers have penetrated the most remote mountain fastnesses, guided by the odor of boiling corn, and taken to jail expert distillers, who cannot yet believe their activities were illegal.

But the principal reason has been the dishonesty of the makers themselves. Even in "bootlegging" liquor honesty is the best policy—and this the Virginians have learned to their sorrow. It may be years before absolute enforcement of prohibition comes. They have thrown away their opportunities for profit by foisting on the people rank poison.

If they had displayed less avidity, if they had given the lawbreaking public more for its money, there might have been a different story. But now the enforcement officers have the sympathy of all Washington behind them as they hunt down the smoking stills in Virginia farmhouses and lug the proprietors away to jail. Eventually, just this situation will result in the complete enforcement of prohibition. Now at least a respectable minority are out of sympathy with the law which tries to regulate the personal habits of ladies and gentlemen—but that sympathy is bound to turn when people learn the quality of liquid the "bootleggers" are selling.

The strongest ally of the Anti-Saloon League is the dishonest liquor seller. He is the man who eventually will bring about absolute prohibition in the United States.—Washington Herald.

WHY ANY CONSTITUTION?

Instead of amending the Constitution to meet the views of those who regard certain court decisions as inimical to their particular interests, why not abolish it altogether? Matters are approaching a pass where it seems there is a notion that if a body of men form an organization to promote any sort of cause, such organization automatically establishes the desires and actions of those embraced in it as constitutional rights, superior to the rights of other persons. It seems to be the fad of the day for organized minorities to assume to fix and determine the policies for the entire population. If results be the test, the assumption is not wholly unwarranted.

If it were not for the Constitution there would be no occasion to start a drive for an amendment every time a decision of the Supreme Court runs counter to the purposes, or some of the purposes, of organized groups. With no Constitution to interfere, there would be no need for a Supreme Court. Congress might continue to exist by common consent, but then Congress might some time fail to heed the will of an organized body and pass a measure "inimical" to that body's "rights" or refuse to enact a law demanded. So it would be well to abolish Congress also. Then let each distinctive organization set up its own rules and principles and make the unorganized majority fall in line. If an organized group is a law unto itself, why complicate matters by going to all the trouble and expense of making general laws? It is organization, not the Constitution, that counts. The common people, widows, orphans, ultimate consumers and the unorganized masses in general have no rights, because they are not organized.—Washington Post.

MR. WEEKS WOULD TURN BACK

Secretary Weeks is thoroughly dissatisfied with the way things are going in this country. Careful newspaper readers were aware of his dissatisfaction long before he delivered his warning address before students of Western Reserve University; he has indicated it on several occasions previously. Though probably to some extent sharing his discontent, the American people are not likely to acquiesce in his belief that one of our worst afflictions is too much popular government. He does not, it is true, state his belief in those words, but his warning against "social democracy" and his attack upon the primary system of nominating candidates for office indicate unmistakably his feeling that the people are having too large a part in governmental affairs.

That the primary system has its weak points, few students of American politics will attempt to deny. Perhaps no means will ever be found for entirely overcoming some of its deficiencies. Nevertheless, experience has not yet justified abandonment of the conviction that the primary is superior to its faults. The alternative that Secretary Weeks would offer, presumably, is the old convention plan, a plan associated in the public mind of this country with evils far worse than any proceeding from the system of direct popular nominations.

As discouraging as the present situation is, Mr. Weeks should not so readily surrender his faith in the capacity of the people for self-rule. The very fact—mentioned by himself—that the legislative branch of the government was never at a lower ebb in the public mind should encourage the feeling that the people have made note of a blunder and will undertake to correct it at the earliest opportunity. In the long run, the primary system will demonstrate its advantages.—Times-Dispatch.

THE WORLD IS GETTING BETTER

The world is getting better all the while—
 I feel it in the fellowship of men,
 I find it in the gospel of the smile,
 The medicine of laughter now and then.
 The race goes on, the contest is as keen,
 But now it is a race and not a war,
 And hours of toil have hours of play between,
 For men are getting kinder than before.

The world is getting better, that I know—
 For men are getting nearer than of old,
 Are finding other pleasures as they go
 Along the trail that merely gathered gold.
 Not what you have is honored—what you do—
 And life has more of love and less of guile;
 The brotherhood of man is coming true—
 The world is getting better all the while!

LAUGH AND LIVE

WET NURSE

Jones was one of those men who grumble at everything and everybody. He was once attacked by inflammatory rheumatism, and was carefully nursed by his wife, who was devoted to him, in spite of his fault-finding disposition. His suffering caused her to burst into tears sometimes as she sat by his bedside.

One day a friend came in and asked him how he was getting on. "Badly, badly," he exclaimed, "and it's my wife's fault."

"Impossible!" said the friend in surprise.
 "Yes, the doctor told me that humidity was bad for me, and that there woman sits and cries just to make it moist in the room."

A BARBER'S PLAN

"I'm afraid we'll have to charge 25 cents for a shave from now on," said the barber.

"How's that?" asked the man in the chair.
 "Well," replied the barber, "men's faces are getting longer and longer every day thinking of prohibition, and it takes twice as long to shave them."

MARRIED IN WASHINGTON

Married at Petworth M. E. Church, Washington, on June 20, Mr. Walter L. Hornbaker, of Manassas, to Miss Helen Haislip, of Washington.

Rev. G. Ellis Williams, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by friends and relatives of the young couple, the ring ceremony being used by the clergyman.

The bride was accompanied to the altar by her uncle, Mr. C. E. Patton, of Washington, who gave her in marriage at the altar.

The maid of honor was Miss Olive Hornbaker, sister of the groom, with Mr. J. Carl Kincheloe, of this town, as best man. The maid of honor was attired in orchid taffeta silk, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony at the church, the guests enjoyed a wedding breakfast at the home of the mother of the bride, Mrs. Annie Haislip.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornbaker, accompanied by Mrs. Haislip and Mrs. Welch, of Washington, are at Colonial Beach, where they are the guests of Mrs. Welch, at her cottage.

The many Manassas friends of the couple extend congratulations, and will welcome them when they return to Manassas, where they will be at home to their friends.

MISSING SIXTY YEARS

Family Finally Locate Grave of Kinsman Near Richmond.

After a search of sixty years in which no trace of the man could be found, the family of Henry Strange, of South Carolina, Confederate soldier killed in action, was rewarded yesterday when John Strange, nephew of the dead man, was taken to his kinsman's grave by L. T. Wyrick, Athens, Tex., who declared he buried the soldier's body at a lonely spot near Swift Creek, five miles north of Richmond.

Wyrick declared he and Strange were fighting side by side, when the latter fell, and that Strange was buried between two trees. Wyrick and young Strange went to the spot in an automobile where the grave was located.

Forest Reserve Obtains Site on Pedlar River Watershed.

The federal forest reserve has just completed the purchase of 5,650.6 acres of land from the city of Lynchburg, which is located on the Pedlar river watershed and in the Natural Bridge area of the forest reserve. The government pays that city $36,725.39 for the land, and later will take 1,500 additional acres, title to which will have to be perfected by condemnation. Lynchburg originally bought the land to protect its water supply in the foothills of the Blue Ridge.

The Urbanna Sentinel is another paper that has to watch the kickers and growlers. It says: "Some people criticize because a thing should be done better and they offer suggestions that are reasonable, while others just talk and make noise, and no one pays any attention to them or their pet habit of finding fault."

The Standard of Comparison

Why Buick Cushions "Ride Easy"

Buick cushions are comfortable on all roads because of their "double-deck" springs and resilient hair pads. The upper springs, which are light and easy-acting, yield to the slightest road irregularity. The lower springs are larger and stiffer. They come into play on rough country roads, carrying the passenger in comfort over bumps which cause the ordinary seat to "strike bottom".

Between the springs and the French-plaited leather upholstery are two thick, yielding pads of interlaced hair which positively prevent "lumping".

In Buick seat cushions, as in every other part of the car, is built the quality which has made Buick cars the standard of comparison.

GROVETON COMMUNITY LEAGUE

Has Speaker at the June Meeting of the League—Good Work Done.

The Groveton Community League was most fortunate in having Mr. George W. Guy, of Richmond, as special speaker for the meeting of Friday, June 16. Mr. Guy is executive secretary of the Co-Operative Education Association, about which he spoke. In giving a brief sketch of the association, he stated its aim realized the long-felt want of many people for just such an organization to bring the schools and the patrons and entire community closer together through social gatherings, coming together for the purpose of improving schools and grounds, for bettering roads and everything that has to do with our physical and mental life.

Of course the work is carried out by the different leagues of the state. Last year there were 1,000; $200,000 was contributed for their splendid work; 207 schools were kept open that would otherwise have been closed, and the total of typhoid cases was reduced from 14,000 to 3,000 through health talks, papers and work.

Our county president, who was unavoidably absent at the opening of the meeting, arrived in time to welcome Mr. Guy in behalf of Prince William and to cheer us and encourage us with his usual hearty words of advice.

The next meeting is to be a big rally day on July 7. Be sure to save the date.

Build Up Your Strength

Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract contains all the valued drug principles of purest Cod Liver Oil without the nauseating taste of the oil itself, and has proven ideal in treating run-down, weakened conditions, especially in children. Most persons in whom are found tubercular tendencies are to a greater or less extent anemic—the blood pale and impoverished. Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract, in addition to the medicinal virtues of Cod Liver Oil, contains peptonate of iron to help supply this deficiency.

In the treatment of children who are pale and listless and who catch cold easily, you may confidently expect an increase in the appetite and weight and the general appearance of good health very quickly after beginning the use of sometimes after two or three days' treatment. We strongly recommend, however, that the treatment with Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract be continued until such a time as there is every indication of a perfect healthy condition. Aged persons who find their general strength below its normal state will find in Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract that mild, healthful tonic of which the system is so greatly in need. Remember, Rexall Wine of Cod Liver Extract is guaranteed to satisfy, or money back. PRICE $1.00.

To Maintain a Standard—is not always an easy task. In these times when the public is clamoring for something cheaper, it's a great temptation for merchants to cheapen their products. We have always refused to do this for the quality here must be kept up. We buy only the best and sell only the best—and at prices that are consistent with a standard quality. Selling only meats we have no "baits" to throw out. Our only inducement for you to buy is: Quality plus Service and Sanitation. LOCAL BANKER IS PRESIDENT

Virginia Bankers' Association Honors Mr. G. Raymond Ratcliffe.

The Virginia Bankers' Association, which was in session at the Homestead Hotel, Hot Springs, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, ended its work Saturday afternoon. The election of officers resulted in Mr. G. R. Ratcliffe, of the People's National Bank of Manassas, being elected president of the State Association; E. W. Tinsley, of Roanoke, vice-president; W. F. Augustine, of Richmond, secretary, and W. S. Irby, of Kenbridge, treasurer.

The selection of Mr. Ratcliffe to head the State Association is an honor well deserved by that gentleman, and it assures the organization of both safe and progressive leadership for the ensuing year, and our citizens are pleased that Mr. Ratcliffe was selected to fill such a responsible office in the association.

Mr. Ratcliffe has been cashier of the People's National Bank since it was organized.

The meeting of the State Bankers' Association had a fine program for the annual meeting, and the whole body enjoyed their visit to Hot Springs.

WIRES DAMAGED BY STORM

Heavy Wind Fells Trees and Puts Lighting System Out of Order.

Last Saturday afternoon about 5:30 a storm broke over Manassas and resulted in several trees being blown down in various sections of the town.

At the corner of Battle and Church streets a tree was blown down, and in its fall broke the electric wiring of the city lighting system and resulted in the city being without lights for quite a time, as the lines supplied both the commercial and street lighting systems. The tree was removed and repairs made to the lines, so that the commercial system was put in condition to supply current. The street lights were out all night Saturday night, but the repair gang have completed repairs and all the lines are in good condition again.

On Main street, at the corner adjoining Mr. D. J. Arrington's store, the wind also blew over a large tree, but it fortunately fell in the street and did no damage to Mr. Arrington's store or building.

DON'T LET HOUSE-TO-HOUSE GANVASSERS FOOL YOU WITH Trick Demonstrations

We have just learned that clever agents or slick canvassers representing certain hosiery mills or brokers are going from house to house offering 3 pairs of ordinary silk hosiery for $5.00. They are inducing women to buy by slick, smooth salesmanship and apparently sensational demonstrations on a single hose.

WE SELL HUMMING BIRD SILK HOSE—A BETTER SILK STOCKING. For Less Money!

BEWARE OF THESE TRICK TESTS:

(1) "NAIL FILE TEST"—Canvasser takes a nail file, sticks it down inside the stocking, and draws it up the hose to show it will not catch or tear the silk. This is simply a trick—Humming Bird hose will stand this test.

(2) "PULL TEST"—The solicitor has you take hold of one end of the stocking and pull against him with all your might to show the strength. Humming Bird Hose will stand all the pulling you can put on them—even a "tug of war." Humming Birds will not tear.

(3) "FRESH STOCK"—Agents claim their hose are shipped fresh from the mill, therefore will wear longer. This is more "bunk." Humming Bird Silk Hose are pure dyed, and will not weaken nor deteriorate with age. We are prepared to back up the statement that Humming Birds will wear longer than any other silk stocking made.

(4) "GUARANTEE"—The "Bell Ringer" guarantees his silk stocking to give satisfaction; but he gets your money and where is he tomorrow? What is his guarantee worth? We guarantee Humming Birds to give complete satisfaction, and we are right here every day in the year behind the guarantee. Also, the Humming Bird Hosiery Mill is back of our guarantee.

THREE PAIRS HUMMING BIRD HOSE, all colors. $4.50 OUT-SIZES IN BLACK, $2.00 PER PAIR—BUT THEY ARE REAL OUT-SIZES. THEY ARE KNIT OUT-SIZE—NOT STRETCHED OUT-SIZE.

SEE THE DISPLAY OF HUMMING BIRDS IN OUR WINDOW TODAY. COME IN AND LOOK OVER THE NEW GOODS JUST RECEIVED FROM THE MILL

NOTE POINTS OF SUPERIORITY OF HUMMING BIRD SILK HOSE:

(1) EXTRA LENGTH—The whole stocking is over-length, measuring 30 inches against the standard 27 inches. This extra length gives additional comfort and wearing qualities.

(2) DOUBLED TOP—The mercerized top is doubled to the silk, which gives extra strength, superior finish and makes the top elastic.

(3) FINEST GRADE OF SILK—The body of the stocking is made of the finest pure thread silk (12 thread.)

(4) PURE SILK SPLICING AND DOUBLE SOLE—The high splicing and double sole are reinforced with PURE SILK, instead of cotton; this SILK SPLICING makes the hose come out of the wash tub minus the shabby look of the COTTON SPLICED hose.

(5) WEAR RESISTING HEELS AND TOES—Made of four threads of long staple SEA ISLAND COTTON; the most wear resisting material known.

(6) SLENDER ANKLES AND FEET. Slender and snug fitting.

(7) ANTI-RUNBACK STRIPE—NO MORE "LADDERERS." A RUNNER STOP at the junction of the silk body and Mercerized top that prevents "RUNS."

(8) ALL SIZES ARE KNIT—Every size of Humming Bird is KNIT ON MACHINE; many mills knit only EVERY OTHER SIZE and BOARD or STRETCH to the larger size; when stocking is washed they come back to where they were knit; this is why Humming Birds hold their shape and FIT AFTER WASHING.

(9) PURE DYED—Humming Birds are PURE DYED—not "LOADED," and do not deteriorate with age.

(10) GUARANTEE—We stand behind every pair of Humming Bird Hose, AND WE ARE HERE ON THE JOB WHERE YOU CAN FIND US; you are not HUNTING PHANTOMS as you are with the "BELL RINGER."

ALL COLORS—Blacks, Whites and all the New Sport Shades.
