TRINKLE WILL NOT CALL ASSEMBLY

Believes Road Issue Rapid Building Method—Request Does Not Come from Majority.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 29.—On the present basis of records and promises of the members of the General Assembly of Virginia, Governor Trinkle is not willing to call an extra session of that body to pass on the question of raising funds for State Highway construction purposes. So he announced in the statement given out today outlining his views on the question. The Governor qualified the statement, however, with this declaration:

"I am still willing to call an extra session of the General Assembly for a road issue, provided the request comes to me from a substantial majority of the members of the General Assembly by December 15, 1922; and by a substantial majority I mean a safe majority. Or I am willing to call an extra session of the General Assembly for the purpose of raising funds for 1923, or for the purpose of providing funds for 'paying as you go,' provided a substantial majority of the members of the General Assembly request the call of the same for either of the plans."

Assembly Can Convene Now. In closing, the Governor pointed out that the General Assembly can convene on application of two-thirds of the members of both houses, and when in session can consider any matter they desire.

He also pointed out in the statement that only 68 members of the House had requested him to call an extra session, and this lacked three of being an actual majority.

Sixteen members of the Senate had requested the call for an extra session, he said, and three others had offered to support the road issue, but made no request for an extra session. This gave assurance of only 29-30 of 68 members of that body in favor of the road issue.

In the course of his statement the Governor also said:

Gasoline Tax Understood. "I want to state as emphatically as I can that I am most deeply interested in the development of our highway system and providing for means for reasonably rapid work on the same, and that as far as my light goes now, I believe that the issuance of bonds the most feasible way of meeting the situation, it always being understood that a gasoline tax is to be levied to automatically take care of the principal and interest of said bonds, but I must be frank to say, without in any way meaning to suggest the feasibility or the probability of such a plan becoming a law, that I would feel compelled to give serious and interested consideration to any plan that might be proposed by the next General Assembly which would provide funds to build roads and pay for them as they are built."

WELL-KNOWN CONFEDERATE VETERAN DIES IN FLORIDA

Deceased Was a Native of Prince William County—Survived by His Wife and Several Children.

James Pendleton Jordan, about 80 years old, known to many of the confederate veterans of Alexandria, died November 28, in Lakeland, Fla., according to a telegram received by Edgar Warfield, adjutant of E. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, who was a personal friend of the deceased. For many years past Mr. Jordan had made his home in Memphis, Tenn., and he was spending the winter in Florida as was his usual custom.

The deceased was a native of Prince William county, Va., and at the outbreak of the civil war he was employed in Alexandria, in the dry goods store of Bryan and Adams. He joined the forces of the Confederacy assuming a member of Company H, 17th Virginia Infantry (Washington Rifles). He served through the conflict and on several occasions was cited for gallantry.

Mr. Jordan is survived by his wife and several children. It is expected that the body will be taken to Memphis for burial.

Miss Dorothy Balk, of Eastern College, spent the Thanksgiving holiday and week-end with friends in Washington.

TO THE CITIZENS OF MANASSAS

With a hope that new life may be injected into school work, I am therefore issuing this, my proclamation, setting aside the week of December 3-9 as "Education Week" for the Town of Manassas.

May our people meet together and find time to devote at least one day to this most important work now, and for all time, in the affairs of our community.

Given under my hand this 28th day of November, 1922.

HARRY P. DAVIS, Mayor.

TOWN COUNCIL IN MONTHLY SESSION

Light Rate Reduced From Seventeen Cents to Fifteen Cents Per K. W. H.

The regular monthly meeting of the Town Council was held in the town hall on Monday, Mayor Harry P. Davis presiding. The following councilmen were present: D. J. Arrington, J. H. Burke, J. M. Bell, R. C. Corwell, E. E. Collier, R. S. Hyman, E. M. Jenkins, C. M. Larkin and E. Bruce Whitmore.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and there being no objections or corrections, the same were approved as read.

On motion of E. E. Collier, duly seconded, it was ordered, by unanimous vote, that the light rate be reduced to fifteen cents per k. w. h., beginning January 1, 1923.

On motion of D. J. Arrington, duly seconded, that Attorney Sinclair enter suit against Charles May for $40.00, on past due water bill, which was unanimously passed by recorded vote.

On motion of C. M. Larkin, duly seconded, it was ordered that Superintendent Gee and an engineer from Warrenton go and inspect the Centric engine and report condition of the same at the next meeting.

Superintendent Gee reported that the water meter at the ice plant was in accurate working condition and that the light meter at the Dixie Theatre was also working accurately.

The mayor presented complaint from Mrs. Smith on the extension of Grant avenue and on the protection of streets; and also asked the committee to do work at White's residence (colored.)

The council adjourned to meet Monday, December 4th.

VALIANT PARROT IS VANQUISHED BY HOG

Feathered Companion of Confederate Soldier Loses Life in Grim Barricard Battle.

Of course her name was Polly, for that is usually the fate of even the most illustrious of parrots. Her color scheme—green body, yellow topknot and red tail feathers—justified the name of "Polychrome;" or perhaps in her case the cognomen bestowed so thoughtlessly was more than ordinarily apt. For several years Polly was the cherished companion of Mr. Jan. Peter Skinner, a well-known and well-beloved Confederate veteran of "Fancher's" farm, lower Loudoun.

Polly was talkative, companionable and amiable to her friends; but she had a distinct aversion to the lower orders of the animal kingdom. And she just could not overcome her antipathy to hogs.

Mr. Skinner's impaired eyesight made it difficult for him to keep in other than vocal touch with his little friend, but as she spent most of her time in a cage in her master's sitting room, and as she was seldom silent, except when asleep, the companionship was close nevertheless.

Once a day Polly was given a brief space of freedom, but she was accustomed to return voluntarily to her quarters after her "constitutional," and in parrot language, discuss with her friend the events of the day.

But her domestic courage was her undoing. A few days ago she was strutting about in her hour of freedom, when she spied after a hog! Could such a dainty lady as Polly permit her view to be polluted by such an obnoxious beast? Angrily not. She flew at the hog with screams of malevolence. She gave battle with beak and claw.

When Polly did not return in the usual time fruitless search was instituted. Next day a big hog roared contentedly in the backyard, and carefully tossed aside a few soiled and tattered feathers that had once been green and red and yellow.

American Education Week

The United States Bureau of Education in co-operation with the American Legion and the National Education Association is inviting the American people to participate in a nation-wide observance of the week, December 3-9, as American Education Week.

In accordance with the request of these national organizations, the Mayor of Manassas, the Churches, the Schools, and the town papers are inviting the people to join in an observance of the week.

Sermons will be given in the churches next Sunday, December 3, educational articles will be published by the papers, the schools will give discussions of the state machinery for education and of its economic and moral value, and a public meeting will be held at which Dr. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, is expected to address the people.

FIANCEE GOES TO SCENE OF MURDER

Miss Kinchloe at Greenville, Tenn., Where Dr. Fox Was Shot to Death.

The following article is taken from the Washington Post of Wednesday November 29:

Miss Evelyn Kinchloe, fiancee of Dr. Frank Fox, who was found murdered at Greenville, Tenn., Sunday, left Washington immediately upon receipt of the news of the death of the surgeon, to whom she was to have been married.

She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Harriet M. Kinchloe, who resides at the Oakdale apartments, Nineteenth street and Florida avenue. The sisters are not expected to return here until tomorrow, it was stated at the apartment of Miss Harriet.

Miss Kinchloe, it was stated by a young woman who refused to give her name, but who said she lived with Miss Harriet, came to Washington from Manassas, Va., her home, on receipt of the news of the death of Dr. Fox, and both sisters left here immediately for Greenville.

The engagement of Miss Evelyn to Dr. Fox was confirmed.

The romance between Dr. Fox and Miss Kinchloe began while both were students at the University of Virginia, at Charlottesville, Va., where Miss Kinchloe still is studying nursing. Their engagement was made known to their friends some time ago. Dr. Fox graduated from the University of Virginia last June, and immediately thereafter left for his home in Greenville, where he entered the hospital conducted by his father.

Dr. Fox, who conducts a hospital at Greenville, received a telephone message Saturday night while he was attending a patient. He immediately left, apparently to keep a long engagement. His body was found in his automobile in the outskirts of Greenville Sunday morning. He had been shot to death.

KU KLUX KLAN POSING WARNING

The Ku Klux Klan has again stepped into the spotlight. This time, Alexandria is the scene of the new move. It appears that bootlegging traffic has increased to alarming proportions. The police have failed to stem the law-breakers. Early Sunday morning, placards of warning, over the signatures of the Klan, were posted on numerous telephone poles. They were removed shortly afterwards on account of the law forbidding the use of private property for advertisement. Recent reports predict further in the road-tips.

EDUCATION WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

To Give Special and Thoughtful Attention to the Needs and Aims of Public Schools.

When American Education Week was first initiated in December, 1921, it received nation-wide observance. President Harding issued a proclamation, calling for observance of the week, in which he stated that "public education is the basis of citizenship and is of primary importance to the welfare of every State." He urged citizens of every State to "give special and thoughtful attention to the needs and aims of the public schools." Governors of twenty States issued similar statements and called upon the people to visit their schools and to inform themselves as to educational needs. Some eight thousand teachers cooperated in the observance of the week. Fifteen thousand newspapers and magazines carried special articles and editorials setting forth its advantages. Hundreds of commercial, religious, and educational institutions joined in the campaign. The work of the Legion during this week resulted in the cooperation of over 200,000 merchants, 200,000 moving picture theaters, 2000 Legion Posts, 15,000 newspapers, as well as many other similar organizations and agencies.

Here is an unusual opportunity to make known to the people of the country the struggles as well as the weaknesses of our public schools. No over foundation could be laid upon which to build better American schools.

The program for the coming American Education Week has been worked out jointly by the American Legion, the National Education Association, and the United States Bureau of Education. It provides for the consideration and study by the American people of most pressing school problems. A well organized campaign—the plan for which have already been completed—guarantees that these Nationally important questions are to have a real hearing before the American people.

The construction work on the streets of Manassas are nearing completion. Four of the five blocks have been practically finished: Centre from West street to Battle street, with the greater portion of the same from Battle to Main street; West street is finished from Centre to the railroad, also Battle street. Another work of Battle street and Main street from Centre to the railroad will be finished.

At the evening service the subject will be "Charles Wesley," and the hymns that are to be used will be some of those written by that famous character, whose preaching and hymns had so much effect upon the world.

MARKED MEN ASSAULT HOUSE

It is rumored that three marked men of unknown identity drew up before the home of Mr. John Jones, on the farm of Mr. J. W. Hook, at Dumfries, Saturday night and assaulted his dwelling. Entrance was gained by breaking through two doors. The three marked men then attempted to climb the stairs, when Mr. Jones fired upon them, and injured one. The remaining two hastily removed their injured colleague's body, and departed in their machine. The motive is thought to be robbery.

EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS OF CHILDREN

Under the common law it was the duty of the father to educate his children, but there was no compulsion on him to provide any form of schooling. Otherwise expressed, the child had no school rights which the parents was bound under the law to respect. But with the passing time, and particularly with the founding and growth of our American Republic, a new conception arose. The noncompulsory school system gave place to a compulsory system, and now required school attendance is universal among English-speaking peoples.

The compulsory system was a long time spreading over the United States, but in 1918, when Mississippi passed its first law on the subject, the system became universal in this country. Every State now requires that children attend school for some period of their lives and for all or a considerable part of the school term; and the tendency is to extend attendance requirements until all children between 7 and 16 years of age are in school throughout the term, or until the work of the elementary grades is completed.

Compulsory education has two fundamental purposes: First, to insure the best possible citizenship in order that the State may thereby preserve itself; and second, to enforce the educational rights of the child. That the first of these is fundamental in a democracy is obvious. The second is fundamental because the right kind of opportunity is essential. The latter purpose is probably even more important than the former. Children have a right to the best possible opportunity in life, and since this comes in large measure through education they have an indefeasible right to education.

This principle is not so much recognized in child-welfare as it should be. The compulsory attendance law of California has for its caption, "An act to enforce the educational rights of children and providing penalties for violation of the act," in their conception of school attendance and child labor some other States might learn a lesson from the Golden State.

Child-labor laws were originally conceived for the protection of child life, but now we see that they also have a function in the enforcement of child rights. They formerly "winked at" some occupations, such as work on the farm, probably because these were thought harmless, but now these occupations are coming under regulation, as are those in stores and factories. The reason for this newer conception is plain: Child labor on the farm is child labor nevertheless; it interferes with the educational rights of the child. Presently we shall see clearly that it is no man's prerogative to exploit a child, even though it be his own, and that the right to education is inalienable—along with the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.—U. S. Bureau of Education.

WINTER IN SUMMER

In 1816 there was no summer in the United States.

Snow fell every month of the year. Since that time 1816 has been generally called "poverty year" because practically all crops were total failures. Others have called it "eighteen hundred and froze to death." Still others have referred to it as "mackerel year" because so little pork was available that the people lived on fish.

The Weather Bureau writes us that snow fell on the seventh of June sufficient to cover the ground at Newton, Mass., and at Hopkinton, N. H., it was four inches deep.

At Salem, Mass., on Saturday, June 8, there was a slight fall of snow, but it was not deep enough to make good sleighing.

Along the northern portion of Massachusetts, large icicles were pendent, and the foliage of the forest trees blasted by the frosts.

In Williamstown, Mass., the snow was twelve inches deep on June 8, and in Cabot, eighteen inches.

Joseph Walker, an old gentleman of eighty-eight years, lost himself in the woods at Peacham, in the snowstorm on the night of the seventh, and remained there through the night, his feet becoming so severely frost-bitten that it was necessary to amputate one of his great toes.

Many people perished in the snow drifts, birds flew into houses for shelter, and great numbers of them were found dead in the fields.—Exchange.

Aim for the highest, never speculate; never endorse beyond your surplus cash fund; make the firm's interest yours; concentrate; put all your eggs in one basket and watch that basket; expenditures always within revenue; lastly, do not be impatient, for as Emerson says, "No one can cheat you out of ultimate success but yourself."—Andrew Carnegie.

THE WILL TO SAVE

Often I hear the question, how should the young man of today conserve his earnings in the face of multiplied temptations to dissipate them? I know of no royal road; if I did, I should hesitate before advising a young man to take it. There are various devices calculated to make saving simpler, but the principal element of the savings habit is not mechanical but spiritual. There must be first the will to save—not merely a pious hope that something may be left when expenses have been met. The way to contract the habit is to deduct your savings and then begin spending the rest. If you wait until you have bought what you want, your scale of spending is likely to be just enough larger to have absorbed what you might have saved. Savings must not be made contingent upon what remains from tobacco, confections, theatres and ball games. There may be appropriations made for these, but before they are considered the savings budget should be an accomplished fact.—F. H. Goff, President, Cleveland Trust Co.

JUST THIS MINUTE

If we're thoughtful, just this minute,
In whatever we say and do;
If we put a purpose in it
That is honest thro' and thro'
We shall gladden life and give it
Grace to make it all sublime;
For, though life is long, we live it
Just a minute at a time.

Just this minute we are going
Toward right or toward wrong;
Just this minute we are sowing
Seeds of sorrow or of song.
Just this minute we are thinking
On the ways that lead to God,
Or in idle dreams are sinking
To the level of the clod.

Yesterday is gone; to-morrow
Never comes within our grasp;
Just this minute's joy or sorrow,
That is all our hands may clasp.
Just this minute! Let us take it
As a pearl of precious price,
And with high endeavor make it
Fit to shine in paradise.

SCHOOLBOY'S ESSAY ON A COW

The cow is a no-ball and kind-hearted creature. The man who looks after her is called a cow-herd, but for all that he is no coward. Cows exist by means of ox-gen in the atmosphere. By the cow is the milk made. I know this to be true, for I have seen the milk-maid by the cow.

The cow has been introduced into song. There is an old song called the "Soldier's S'cess." This was written in Beef Flat, as was that very pathetic ballad, "For Heifer and Heifer." To call a cow an ox is to make a bull. Crutches for cows are called accoutions. A cow likes resting. It will sleep in a shed and lie on the grass, but it will not stretch itself on a couch.

A cow does not carry on an argument very obstinately. It will soon give way. Cows seem to do pretty well, for even at death they make both ends meet. I can't think how it is so many calves die young. Perhaps the butcher could re-veal the secret.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL BULLETIN BOARD

The hospital seeks to be a community asset not a community liability. It claims no share in the organized liberality of any church or order or such, whether fraternal or benevolent. Its appeal is written on the brow of suffering humanity and calls for a response of a personal and spontaneous character like that given by the neighborly Samaritan on the road to Jerico. Compassionate hearts like his, here and elsewhere, regardless of creed, will find a way to help in providing an institution that will meet a real and pressing community need, without crippling other objects of their beneficence.

Mr. J. E. and Stenie Athey, Mrs. Jenkins and two children, and Mrs. Annie Hummer, motored from Fairfax and were guests of Mr. W. E. Athey on Sunday.

GREEN—BRAUBERGARD

New York Society Girl and Well-Known Virginia Wed.

COMMUNITY LEAGUE MEETS

Manassas High School Holds Special Thanksgiving Program.

The Community League of the Manassas High School held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, November 23. This was the time for the annual election of officers. Those elected for the coming year were: Mrs. Ashby Lewis, president; Mrs. A. A. Hooff, secretary; Mrs. E. D. Wisler, treasurer.

A most appropriate Thanksgiving program was given by the Glee Club and some of the high school students.

Following this, some very interesting stereoptical views were shown. Pictures giving the setting and customs referred to in the Tallman and The Lady of the Lake were shown, and also views representing the dairy and agricultural interests of the country. These pictures were given so that the patrons of the school might see the value of such work as an aid to the teachers in carrying over the thought of the subject matter to their pupils and the benefit the pupils would derive from visualizing the subject.

The league then pledged itself to sponsor the movement to celebrate in Manassas National Education week. This week begins December 3, and is celebrated throughout the country, its object being to stimulate an active interest in education, and to bring the pupils, teachers and patrons in closer touch. For this reason the patrons of the school are especially urged to visit the schools during this week.

CROWDS AT PLOWING MATCH

Writer Says County Fairs Can Be Run Without Fakes and Wares.

(Mrs. W. B. Deak)

Since several of our biggest farm papers have recently been expating the fakes, and worse, of the country fairs, one hears a good deal of discussion as to whether such evils are really necessary to "draw the crowds." Even well meaning folk, who want to see clean, wholesome exhibits will frequently say, "Well, it's all wrong, but guess we will have to allow such shows, or the gate receipts will be short." On the contrary, some of the biggest and best fairs—state and county—have proved beyond a doubt that people will turn out to see only worth while exhibits, of various kinds.

Recently 1,885 folked into a plowing match in Iowa. Enough more around and about swelled the contestants to 2,000. The crowd which flocked to see the contest was estimated over 5,000. There were no side shows or attractions of any sort. And it was not passing curiosity which brought these people together, but a growing interest in how best to prepare old Mother Earth for the crops whereby to feed her children. These contests have been going on from twelve to fifteen years, and prove conclusively there is no need of a lot of gambling and immorality to attract country folk. And just why should they not be interested in their own business?

Not only do people take an interest in plowing matches and better teams, but Henry Ford, and other manufacturers, are getting up some wonderful exhibits showing what tractors can do. Just a few weeks ago several thousands at a time went out to camp near our national capital to see the machines do stunts. One could see tractors plowing, tractors harrowing, tractors sawing wood, and what not? As one farmer-business-man said, with an expressive whimsical wink, "Looks like Henry and John D. have got 'em all working for them."

Between now and another fair season, just take time and thought to look up how many communities and states have seen the light, and are getting crowds—and big crowds—out to see clean agricultural exhibits of the products which concern them so nearly. Our city citizens should also begin to realize which side of their bread is buttered—for the gamblers and fakers go off with their money just as quick as they will with Reub's—and it may be that the sporty youths are more easily led astray by the corrupt women who, if allowed, follow the show.

EDUCATION IS THE NATURAL BULWARK

- 1. It is a financial investment that yields the highest dividends.
- 2. It results in safe and sane citizenship.
- 3. It increases the ability and desire to serve others.
- 4. It adds to the appreciation and happiness of life.
- 5. It multiplies the chances of success in life.

Education Fits for Service.

- With no schooling the child has only one chance in 150,000 of rendering distinguished service.
- With elementary schooling the child has four times the chance of the one without it.
- With high-school education he has 57 times the chance.
- With a college education he has 800 times the chance.
- Fewer than 1 per cent of Americans are college graduates, yet this 1 per cent has furnished—
- Fifty-five per cent of our Presidents.
- Fifty-four per cent of our Vice Presidents.
- Forty-seven per cent of our Speakers of the House.
- Thirty-six per cent of our members of Congress.
- Sixty-one per cent of our Secretaries of State.
- Sixty-seven per cent of our Attorneys General.
- Sixty-nine per cent of our judges of the Supreme Court.—Wisconsin Educational News Bulletin.

STATE NEWS NOTES

Committee Sues In Call.

The body of Preston Richardson, drug clerk, 35 years old, who committed suicide in a call in the First District Police Station Saturday night by hanging himself after he had been arrested and locked up on a charge of being drunk, was taken Monday to Columbia, Va., for burial.

Richardson made a noise out of his necktie and then suspended himself from a bar of the cell. He was recorded on the police blotter as being from Suffolk. He was originally from Fluvanna county. Two brothers and one sister survive. These are Harry Richardson and Miss Lizzie Richardson.

When brought into the station Richardson collapsed at the desk and for a time it was feared that he had been drinking poisoned whiskey. That was about midday. He revived later and seemed to be in fairly good spirits shortly before he took his life.

Lay Minister Arrested.

William J. Jones, a lay preacher and for twenty years a letter carrier with the Lynchburg postoffice, is under arrest charged with rifling a registered letter and extracting $15 therefrom. His case goes to the federal grand jury at Lynchburg in January. Jones frequently supplied suburban pulpits and his arrest came as a complete surprise to that city.

...MANUFACTURER OF...

FERTILIZERS

Direct from Factory to Farm

Always the Highest Quality

Always the Lowest Price

Did you buy your fertilizer from the other fellow and get stung? If so, don't forget him; he may undertake to sting you again next year. Did anyone sell you fertilizer on the positive promise that he would meet my prices and then refuse to meet my prices? If so, why pay him more? If so, don't forget him; he may undertake to deceive you again next year.

Did you buy your fertilizers from me and save a lot of money? If so, don't forget me; I will undertake to save you a lot of money again next year.

No need for me to mention the fact that I sold all grades of fertilizers to the farmers in Northern Virginia at much lower prices than did any other factory. Everyone knows it.

As to the quality of my fertilizers: I refer you to all the bulletins of the Department of Agriculture, State of Virginia, for this year, wherein are published the analyses found by the Department of all fertilizers of all factories from samples secured by the official inspector of the department.

These reports of the department are accurate and official. And you will find that all grades of my fertilizers exceed in every instance guaranteed analysis. And you will also find that the tests of my fertilizers run uniformly higher than the tests of any other factory.

Therefore, I have made good my advertisements to the farmers that my fertilizers would be found always THE HIGHEST QUALITY, at always the lowest price.

Not one ounce of sludge acid; not one ounce of acidulated leather scraps; not one ounce of tobacco stems has been used in the manufacture of my fertilizers. Only the highest quality of material known to the fertilizer business has been used in the manufacture of my fertilizers. This has been and will always be my policy and practice.

IF ANYONE STUNG YOU THIS YEAR, DON'T LET HIM STING YOU AGAIN NEXT YEAR.

JAPS CANNOT BECOME CITIZENS OF U. S. A.

Supreme Court Declares They Shall Not Be Naturalized—Race Color Discussed.

Japanese cannot be naturalized in the United States and cannot become citizens of this country, the Supreme Court of the United States decided in its first construction of Federal statutes bearing on the subject. The decision was the first delivered by Justice Sutherland, as a member of the court and was handed down in a case brought by Takao Ozawa, who in 1914 applied for citizenship in Hawaii. The ruling is expected to attract wide attention not only in the United States but abroad, notwithstanding the failure of the court to make any reference to its diplomatic significance.

Case Long Pending.
The case has long been pending in the Supreme Court and last term when reached the argument during the conference on limitation of arguments and far eastern questions its consideration was postponed at the request of the Department of Justice. No reference is to be found in the decisions of the 'gentlemen's agreement' under which Japanese immigration into the country has been regulated.

In the Ozawa case the court stated that "there is not implied—either in the legislation or in our interpretation of it—any suggestion of individual unworthiness or racial inferiority. These considerations are in no manner involved." It also referred to the "complimentary" terms used in describing in the papers presented to the court "the culture and enlightenment of the Japanese people." With such an estimate the court said, it had "no reason to disagree." Such matters however, Justice Sutherland stated, could not enter into the decision of the case. "We have no function in the matter," he said, other than to ascertain the will of Congress and declare it.

The two questions decided by the court were whether the general naturalization act of June 23, 1906, was limited by the provisions of Sections 2169 of the revised statute authorizing the naturalization of "free white persons" and those of African birth and descent and whether if so limited, Japanese were eligible to naturalization. In an exhaustive analysis of the history of the legislation, the court held that section 2169 was in full force, and that under it Japanese could not obtain citizenship in this country.

"Free White Persons"
The court proceeded to discuss whether Japanese are "free white persons" within the meaning of the statute. It was the intention of Congress, the court held "to confer the privilege of citizenship upon that class of persons whom the fathers knew as white, and to deny it to all who could not be so classified."

"It is not enough," it added "to say that the farmers (of the law) did not have in mind the brown or yellow races of Asia. It is necessary to go further and be able to say had these particular been suggested the language of the act would have been varied as to include them within its privileges. If it be assumed that the opinion of the farmers was that the only persons would fall outside the designation "white" were black, and negroes, this would go further to demonstrate their lack of sufficient information to enable them to ferret precisely what would be excluded by the terms in subsequent administration of the statute."

Having ascertained when Congress intended to include "it follows" the court added, "as a necessary corollary, that all others are to be excluded."

STRAWBERRIES BEING SALES PER QUART IN FLORIDA

Thanksgiving strawberries will come higher this year, for buyers are paying $4.25 a quart for them delivered on the railroad platforms at Plant City, center of the production area in Florida, and one of the largest strawberry shipping points in the country, began its shipping yesterday, the earliest date in seven years. The bidding open at $1.25 a quart and the berries rapidly went up to $4.25 while bids went as high as $4.80 with no berries in sight.

One farmer received a check for $72.25 for a lot of seventeen quarts the best actual sale price of the day. It was at the rate of $4.25 quart and represented the highest price ever recorded there.

One quart of berries was sold in auction today for $1.01, the bidding having started at $3. The seller sent the money to the Children's Home at Tampa as a Thanksgiving gift.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At the anniversary meeting of the Episcopalian Church, held at the home of Mrs. D. E. Lewis, on behalf of Mrs. Feeta, who turns it was, on the afternoon of November 28th, the following resolutions were passed:

Whereas, That in the passing of our dear sister, Mrs. John Hopkinson, our Church Missionary Society has met with a serious and lasting bereavement,

Resolved, That we thank God that He spared His faithful servant to such a ripe old age, and for her consistent Christian character.

Resolved, That in her sweet, gentle and generous nature, in her unwavering trust in our Lord Jesus Christ and wonderful patience and gentleness in her lingering illness, while awaiting the Saviour's call, she has left us a beautiful example.

Resolved, That the sweet perfume of her life, which is exemplified in the virtues recorded in Gal. 5:22-23, calls us individually to look for His coming, for it may be in the morning, or at noon or at night. To let us watch lest we be not ready when the Saviour calls.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the daughters of our dear sister, shared by those who were her constant companions, spread on the minutes and printed in our local papers.
