Schools start new year with new superintendent

By JULIE BOYD
of the Potomac News

When the school bell rings in Prince William County this fall, there will be a few changes. The 1987-88 school year will be the beginning of a new superintendent's term — a first in six years.

Edward Kelly was hired to replace Richard Johnson, who was fired by the School Board in December because of growing controversy surrounding his administration. Kelly was the top administrator of the Little Rock, Ark., school system. His biggest battle in Little Rock was preparing for a desegregation order handed down by a federal judge.

In Prince William, Kelly may find his biggest challenge in trying to house the rapidly growing student population.

The student population is expected to hit 38,830 at the start of the school year — a growth of nearly 1,000 students in one year.

Because of this tremendous growth, a $44.9-million bond referendum to pay for construction of a high school, a middle school, two elementary schools and an addition to Dumfries Elementary School will be before the voters Nov. 3.

The construction is only half of what the school administration says must be completed by 1991.

Schools

Within the county's boundaries are 35 elementary schools, nine middle schools and six high schools.

During the 1970s — the last population surge in this area — school construction could not keep up with the demand for classroom space. The boom was managed by putting the eastern schools on a year-round calendar with alternating periods of 45 days in the classroom and 15 days out.

The idea was phased out in 1981 and schools returned to a traditional calendar.

Realignment of school boundaries is an issue the School Board faces more often than it would like, because the changes do not come without problems from parents.

At School Board meetings there will be new faces in the chairman and vice chairman seats. Gerard Cleary, who represents the Woodbridge District, and Maureen Cadigan, who represents the Dumfries District, were elected by the board to chairman and vice chairman July 1.

The School Board members are appointed by the Board of County Supervisors. They make policies governing the schools and students.

Special programs like this one at Occoquan Elementary School make learning fun. By Mark Mingen - Potomac News

The School Board meets at 7 p.m. on the first and third Wednesday of every month between September and June.

Each meeting has a scheduled time for residents to speak. Meetings take place at the Independent Hill Administration Complex at 14800 Joplin Road.

Parents may review agendas of each meeting at the school complex or at the meeting. The agendas are distributed to various employees and concerned groups and to the county libraries. Anyone wanting a copy should call 791-8705.

Prince William School Board members are appointed by supervisors in July following the supervisor elections. In July 1988, all School Board members' terms will end.

Textbooks rental fees have remained the same for several years. They are Test scores.

 Although result for this past year's Standard Achievement Tests (SATs) are not available, school officials say more students are taking the test each year. The test is used by colleges in evaluating applications for admission. The average verbal score was 439 and the average math score was 476, a slight decrease from 1984-85.

Prince William County schools adhere to a county-wide standardized curriculum plan. The Curriculum Action Plan (CAP), specifies the basic skills that are to be taught at each grade level.

The school monitors teaching skills and student progress. Students must take a semester and final exam for each course and study art, music and physical education as part of the CAP.

Prince William offers extensive special education services to students who fall into 10 handicapping areas. Federal law dictates that children between the ages of two and 21 be provided a free and appropriate public education in the least restrictive environment.

Prince William County extends that education to children two years of age and older.

The county school system provides programs for students in all grades who are identified as gifted and talented.

Stafford schools are filling up

By SCOTT McCARTY
of the Potomac News

Few issues incite more emotion than school overcrowding. Stafford's seven elementary schools, three middle schools and two high schools are close to capacity while the county is in the midst of an unprecedented enrollment boom.

A $30 million school bond referendum is scheduled for Aug. 18. If approved by county voters, the bond referendum will pay for two new elementary schools, renovations and additions to five existing schools and furniture for the additions.

At the close of the 1986-87 school year more than 10,600 students were enrolled in county schools. School officials expect another 500 students by Sept. 8.

All Stafford schools are accredited by the State Board of Education. County bus drivers received the highest possible rating for bus safety in 1986 from the Virginia Department of Education.

Just over 80 percent of Stafford students who finish the ninth grade go on to graduate from high school. Of those, more than 50 percent continue their education.

In Stafford, the fifth grade is included at the middle school level. Elementary schools teach K-4, and high schools teach grades 9-12. Programs for the gifted and talented, special education and the Head Start pre-school program are available.

Stafford schools use a semester system, with report cards given every six weeks. The county grading scale is 98-100. A-plus: 94-97 is an A, 90-93 is a B-plus, 86-89 is a B, 82-85 is a C-plus, 78-81 is a C, 74-77 is a D, and below 70 is failing.

Lunch costs 75 cents in elementary schools, 85 cents in middle schools and 85 cents in high schools. The textbook rental fee is $7.50 per student in kindergarten, $19 for grades 1-3, $20 for grades 4-6, and $23 for grades 7-12.

There is a $30 fee for musical instrument rental. Prospective students must present birth certificates, immunization records and physical examination records at the time of enrollment. New student registration dates are announced in May and August.

SCHOOLS

CLASS / From 10

The seven members of the School Board are appointed by the Board of County Supervisors. The School Board makes policies governing the schools and students.

The board meets at 7:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. Meetings are held in the supervisors chambers in the Rowser Building on U.S. 1. Residents may address the board during the "Citizens Comments" portion of each meeting.

The School Board telephone number is 659-3141. School Superintendent Sidney Faucette and other administrators can be reached at that number.

The 1987-88 school year kicks off Sept. 8 and includes 183 school days.

Included are six teacher workdays (during the school year), two days for parent/teacher conferences and 13 days off for holidays and breaks.

Highlights from the 1987-88 school calendar:

- Sept. 8 — first day of school.
- Oct. 19 — teacher workday, no school.
- Nov. 3 — parent/teacher conference day, no school.
- Nov. 26-29 — Thanksgiving break (early dismissal on Nov. 25).
- Dec. 4 — teacher inservice/workday, no school.
- Dec. 23-Jan. 3 — Christmas break (early dismissal on Dec. 22).

• Jan. 25-28 — middle school exams.

• Jan. 26-28 — high school exams.

• Jan. 29 — teacher inservice/workday (no school).

• Feb. 1 — teacher inservice/workday (no school).

• Feb. 15 — parent/teacher conference day.

• March 21 — teacher inservice/workday (no school).

• April 1-4 — spring break (early dismissal on March 31).

• May 6 — teacher inservice/workday (no school).

• May 30 — Memorial Day holiday (early dismissal on May 27).

• June 13-16 — middle school exams.

• June 14-16 — high school exams.

• June 16 — last day of school.

Dates for high school graduations will be set by principals after spring break.

A lot of history hidden among subdivisions

From staff reports

As Northern Virginia's suburban sprawl transforms our communities and clogs local byways, it's easy to whizz past those stodgy roadside historical markers with nary a glance.

The pace is increasingly hectic. Developers divide and subdivide, unfamiliar buildings rise above old farm fields, dust flies from construction sites, traffic thickens and it's rush, rush, rush all the way to work and back.

Amid the hustle-bustle, recalling a little local history can help refresh modern residents' sense of place, our bond with what we call home.

After all, Prince William County has a past it should be proud of. So do the two cities within its boundaries, Manassas and Manassas Park. Here, Washington drank, Lincoln visited, Robert E. Lee schemed, soldiers died and thousands of ordinary people lived lives that still fascinate.

That history has made tourism a major local industry, one that brought $40 million into the county and its cities last year. And that sum doesn't include money spent by folks who visit from nearby Washington, Maryland or Virginia communities.

Judging by their numbers, those visitors dwell on Occoquan's milltown heritage, Dumfries' rise and fall as a colonial seaport and Manassas' Civil War battles. Forgotten is an epoch that came before, the story of people settled here long before the colonists carved out their Tidewater villages and plantations.

Recorded only by potsherds and projectile points buried in the dirt, that unwritten history still awaits the archaeologist's trowel.

HISTORY / From 13

Historians say, though, that this was Doeg land when Capt. John Smith roamed up the Potomac for the English crown. Indeed, Smith and his men visited with members of the Doeg tribe during his exploration in 1608.

Settlers followed, pushing back the Doegs and transforming what they viewed as a wilderness.

By 1731, the Virginia General Assembly had carved out a jurisdiction named Prince William, after the British king's son.

The new county, which shrank in later political deals, initially comprised the land encompassed today by Fairfax, Fauquier, Loudoun and Arlington counties. Its boundaries stretched from the Potomac south to the Rappahannock River and west to the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The county's existing limits were formed in 1748 by redivision of Stafford, Culpeper and Orange counties.

Even with today's shrunken boundaries, Prince William is the only county in the state that crosses all four of Virginia's land types — from Tidewater, through the Piedmont and Triassic terrain to the Appalachians.

Prince William County's first public buildings were constructed along an Occoquan River ferry landing owned by the George Mason family. That area bustled in the early 1700s after Col. John Tayloe joined forces with Presley Thornton and John Ballentine to build an iron furnace at Occoquan.

Heavy taxes placed on tobacco, coupled with exhausted cropland, brought an economic transition from tobacco to wheat.

A flour mill operated along the river from 1793 to 1824, producing about 150 barrels per day. The town of Occoquan was founded in 1804 and incorporated in 1874, 48 years after one of Virginia's first cotton mills began operating by the river.

Nathaniel Jenney built the cotton mill, which was destroyed by fire during the Civil War.

Settlement of what is now Woodbridge began in 1653, when the first land patent established 3,000 acres from the Occoquan River to Neabsco Creek. From that tract, a 534-acre plantation was cut and became known as the George Mason plantation.

The Virginia legislature authorized construction of a wooden toll bridge in 1795. The Mason plantation then became known as Woodbridge. A flood washed away the bridge in 1807 and it was never rebuilt.

Miles to the south on Quantico Creek, colonists founded Virginia's Rippon Lodge has stood overlooking the Potomac since before the Revolution.

HISTORY / From 14

oldest surviving town. Merchants and landowners sought to establish the Town of Dumfries as early as 1740, but political bickering held off a charter until 1749.

The town also served as the third county seat, one of five designated by the shifting whims of economics and population. Woodbridge and Cedar Run had the honor first, then Dumfries, followed by Brentsville and today, Manassas.

The court sat at Dumfries from 1760 until 1820, roughly the period of the tobacco port's heyday. At its height, some say Dumfries' commerce rivaled that of Alexandria. Tradition has it that George Washington, among other prominent planters, drank, bought supplies and stayed overnight at the town's taverns, stores and hostleries.

By 1800, however, silt from the poorly managed farms had clogged the creek and killed Dumfries' seafaring livelihood.

Still, the same waterways had given rise to great concern during the Revolutionary War. Though the county was spared land battle, local militia were on constant watch for attacks by British ships.

War came in full bloom to this land 90 years later, during The War Between the States.

The Battle of First Manassas in 1861 was the Civil War's first major land battle. Fought for control of the railroads through Manassas Junction, it dashed Union dreams of a speedy end to the rebellion.

A second, bloodier battle waged there 13 months later opened the way for Robert E. Lee's invasion of the North.

During the war, Lincoln visited the junction, as did Lee and Confederate President Jefferson Davis. The battles, and their visits, brought Manassas fame that endures today. At the time, pillage, fire and killings decimated the dusty village.

The railroad junction, still recovering from wartime, became a town in 1873 and a city in 1976.

Once in Manassas, modern travelers may want to stretch their legs on a walking tour offered by the Manassas City Museum, a professional trove of western Prince William memorabilia.

Four other local museums may also intrigue the historically minded:

- Manassas Mayor Edgar Rohr's antique-car collection at Center and West streets, downtown. 368-6000.

- The visitor center at Manassas National Battlefield Park, itself one great big outdoor museum and the county's most popular tourist attraction.

Inside, photographs and articles explain the battles which put Manassas and Bull Run on the map of American history. Outside, rangers, monuments and markers guide visitors across some of the park's 4,000 acres, the most compelling testimony to the military maneuvers here. 754-7107.

- The Weems-Botts Museum in Dumfries, home of George Washington's first biographer and inventor of the apocryphal cherry-tree story. 221-3346.

- Ocoquan's Mill House Museum, once home or office to the millers who ran the riverfront community's large mill complex from the 1750s to the early 1900s. 494-7525.

Our lives center on helping people. We strive to uphold high ethical and professional standards so you can be sure of quality medical care. Most of our members live in the community and all the essential specialties are represented in the Society, so you do not have to travel long distances for your essential needs.

We have two fine hospitals: Prince William Hospital in Manassas and Potomac Hospital in Woodbridge to serve you.

We serve the community in other ways too:

1. We have a referral service
2. We have a speaker's bureau. Call us if you need a speaker on medical topics.
3. We help in health and science fairs.
4. We serve as volunteers for the American Cancer Society, United Way and other charitable organizations.
5. We give financial scholarships to deserving nursing students in the community.
6. Our spouses have an Auxiliary association helping the needy of our community in various ways.

SO GET TO KNOW US. WE ARE HERE TO HELP. CALL US (703)368-6505

Enrollment requirements set by Virginia legislature

From staff reports

A child who turns five on or before Sept. 30 may enroll in kindergarten in Prince William County.

A child who is five years old between Oct. 1 and Oct. 31 may enroll in kindergarten if the parents attend counseling at the school concerning the readiness of the child.

Parents of children who are five between Nov. 1 and Dec. 31 may enroll their children in school if they petition the School Board and receiving counseling on readiness. The children must take a test to determine their readiness for kindergarten.

Forms are available at the elementary schools.

Virginia law requires children who will be six years old on or before Sept. 30 to attend school. A child reaching his fifth birthday on or before Sept. 30 must be enrolled in kindergarten unless the parents notify the school system that they do not wish the child to attend.

Virginia also requires each new student to be immunized against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio, mumps, measles (rubella) and German measles (rubella).

Prince William County requires a birth certificate, evidence of immunizations and a transfer slip or report card from the student's previous school. A certificate of physical examination is required for students enrolling in kindergarten through grade seven.

School officials urge newcomers to enroll their children in school as soon as possible.

College campuses nearby

By JULIE BOYD of the Potomac News

High school graduates have always had to leave Prince William County, Manassas and Manassas Park, if they wanted to attend a four-year college.

But education opportunities in the county are on the verge of change.

George Mason University, in Fairfax, announced this year their desire to build a satellite campus in western Prince William and the state's top official in charge of colleges and universities says he would like to see an independent university built there too.

Both proposals must first be cleared by the General Assembly. If the satellite campus is approved it could be open for business by 1989 and the university, if approved, could be open in the mid 1990s.

There were 17,500 students enrolled at George Mason in 1986-87. It will cost in-state students $1,824 a semester to attend GMU and $3,648 for out-of-state students.

Students can attend college here in Prince William County at Northern Virginia Community College's Manassas or Woodbridge campuses — the state's largest community college.

NVCC offers two-year programs in vocational training or college preparatory studies.

There are three other campuses in Alexandria, Annandale and Loudoun County.

Total enrollment rose to 29,655 this winter at NVCC from 28,973 last winter.

Fourteen percent of all NVCC students live in Prince William County.

COLLEGE / From 18

The Woodbridge campus includes among its strengths a heating and air conditioning program and the Small Business Institute. This is the last campus to be built as part of NVCC.

The heating and air conditioning program has proven to be popular and successful. Graduates of the program generally have jobs waiting for them in the business.

Students learn the repair and maintenance ropes by working on equipment donated by area businesses, including a 100-ton water tower, old ice cream freezers and residential and air conditioning freezers.

At the Manassas campus students can learn the rudiments of a flight attendant job, and although they still would have to complete airline training, schooling gives them an edge over someone untrained in the field.

The aviation program also has a private pilot program that teaches ground instruction at the campus and in-the-air flying lessons at Manassas Municipal Airport.

Another vocational emphasis at Manassas is its welding program, which trains students for industrial employment as welding apprentices or a number of other related jobs.

Tuition for in-state residents is $16.95 per credit hour. For out-of-state students, tuition is $83 per credit hour.

The semester begins Sept. 30. For information call the Manassas campus at 368-0184 or the Woodbridge campus at 670-2191.

To the south, Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg continues a tradition of academic excellence it began 78 years ago.

With a student population of 3,192, Mary Washington has four-year programs of study that emphasize the liberal arts and sciences.

Mary Washington is a coeducational, state-supported college. It supplements its traditional curriculum with a department of historic preservation that operates in conjunction with MWC's Center for Historic Preservation.

The college also has graduate program in liberal studies and business administration.

Tuition at Mary Washington College is $66 per semester for in-state students and $132 per semester for out-of-state students.

Registration is ongoing for the first semester. The main campus number is (703) 899-4100.

Finding someone to take care of the children

from staff reports
In Prince William County in 1980 only six percent of the mothers with children under the age of 6 were employed. By 1980, that number had jumped to 48 percent.

Each day, families cope with the stressful question of "Who can keep our children?"

The Metropolitan Washington Child Care Network estimates that more than 24,000 children in Prince William County and the cities of Manassas and Manassas Park either are in day care or need it.

For families where both the mother and father work outside of the home, there are a number of child care/day care centers from which to choose.

The Planning Council, a non-profit organization based in Norfolk with a chapter in Prince William County, can pair families with providers as well as train and license people who want to become child care providers.

Its referral list names providers scattered around Prince William County. All providers are state-licensed and participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food Program, which reimburses them for nutritionally balanced meals they serve to children.

The Planning Council monitors the providers in their homes, to ensure that the children are receiving quality care.

The providers' licensing procedure includes: a tuberculosis screening, checks for possible criminal and/or child abuse records and 22 hours of training in first aid, stress management and other relevant subjects.

When a parent calls the Planning Council, an operator gives him a list of possible child care providers based on where the family lives and the hours they need the service. The parent then picks from among the names he receives.

The Prince William Department of Social Services also offers a similar referral service.

The Prince William area also offers a number of private child care and day care schools, including:

- Academy Day Care, 3820 Davis Ford Road, Woodbridge. Phone: 670-2500.
- Alpha-Bet Cooperative Pre-School, 10047 Nokesville Road, Manassas. Phone: 361-9889.

WE CARE ABOUT YOU — Providing Nursing Services Since 1979

Who will provide healthcare for you and your family?

It's a critical decision, especially for those who are new to the area unfamiliar with the local medical community.

Now is the best time to select your physician.

At Mary Washington Hospital, we understand how important it is to find the right physician—before you need one. That's why we've developed PhysicianFinder, a telephone referral service designed to help you find the physician who best meets your needs.

PhysicianFinder is easy to use and services are free. Simply call us toll free at 1-800/722-2788 or, locally at 899-1404 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Nearly 100 physicians, with experience in areas ranging from psychiatry to pediatrics, are included in our computerized listing. We'll work closely with you to match your needs to physician specialties.

The following details are generally available on all physicians:

- hours of operation
- office locations
- medical specialties
- handicapped facilities
- medical training
- professional memberships

The Occoquan River offers fishing, boating and a lovely backdrop to this little area.

Dumfries, once a major tobacco port, is now a quiet town. The Weems-Botts Museum in Merchant Park is a house built in 1798.

The Town of Quantico, located just south of Dumfries, was purchased by the Marines in 1918. It remains a major training ground for the Corps. The seven block town is entirely surrounded by the Marine Corps reservation. The Air-Ground Museum, located on base, illustrates Marine development over the years. The exhibits are in former hangars.

Old Town Manassas, further west, is home to the Manassas City Museum. It offers pre-historic and Civil War artifacts.

Both battles of Manassas took place here, so Civil War buffs will want to see the battlefield nearby.

There are guided tours, audiovisual presentations and publications at the battlefield visitor center.

Parks are in abundance in Prince William.

Ben Lomond and Locust Shade Parks offer bumper boats, water-slides, pool, mini golf, racquet ball, fitness trails and tennis courts. Ride the Gold Rush waterslide at Veterans Park. Go boating or fishing on Lake Manassas.

Prince William Forest Park offers camping, picnicking and nature trails.

And those are just a sampling of the county's 35 parks.

There are shopping malls, restaurants and movie theaters throughout the county, including Manassas Mall on the west end and Potomac Mills Mall on the east end.

Plenty of people who could use a helping hand

from staff reports

In an area as populated as this, the opportunity for volunteers are as wide as the interests of the people who live here.

Volunteering for an agency is a good way to get to know the community and at the same time fill a needed position.

Since 1981 the Voluntary Action

Center, a private non-profit agency, has matched volunteers-to-be with agencies that need someone to help out. The center, works only with volunteers ages 13 and older.

To find that perfect volunteer spot for you, call the Voluntary Action Center. One of the two staff members will set up an interview, and establish with you the sort of job you are interested in, how much time you would want to give to it and when you are available.

The staff member then would suggest three or four agencies that seem to suit your interest, and discuss the pros and cons of each with you.

Then — and staffers feel this is a big plus — VAC will call your agency and let it know of your interest. Someone with the agency will then contact you.

The VAC data base has 250 job descriptions with 120 different agencies. A sampling of the offerings include working with children, including handicapped children, at area camps, answering phones or teaching courses.

There are one-on-one situations, group needs, and short and long-term positions available.

Libraries beckon bookworms

By SCOTT McCARTY of the Potomac News

More than 399,000 books are on the shelves of Prince William's two main libraries and eight mini-libraries.

Last year, the county library system circulated more than 1.3 million books, cassettes, records and other materials.

Library hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday (Dumfries closes at 7 p.m.), and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. The two main branches, Potomac and Central libraries, are open Sundays from noon to 5 p.m. between October and May.

There is an information service to answer questions on almost any subject available at the two main branches. A telephone service for the hearing impaired is also available.

In addition to printed materials, the main libraries allow residents to check out audio/visual equipment, including slide projectors. The equipment is in high demand, so call in advance to insure availability. The equipment may be booked ahead of time.

Especially popular are cassette tapes of books. Commuters often check out the tapes.

The libraries do not have video cassette recorders.

The mini-libraries are designed as supplements to the main branches, and contain a smaller number of popular books arranged in subject order.

Library cards can be obtained with proof of mailing address for any person who lives, works or is a student in Prince William County. There is no user fee.

A special number has been established to renew most materials by phone. The number is 361-8170.

Books may be checked out for up to three weeks, and magazines for one week. Audio/visual equipment must be returned within three days. The overdue charge is 10 cents per day, with a $2 maximum per item.

Nearby areas beckon with lots to see and do

By JULIE LANGSDORF of the Potomac News

Everyone needs to get away sometimes, and luckily for Prince William residents there's a lot to do just a few miles outside of the county.

George Washington grew up in historic Fredericksburg, just 30 miles south of Woodbridge on I-95. There are more than 350 buildings from the 18th and 19th century still standing, and a special walking tour to make sure you get to all of the important ones.

See James Monroe's law office, the Rising Sun Tavern and George Washington's mother's home to name just a few highlights.

The Gari Melcher Museum, located just outside of the city, is worth a stop for the paintings and the lovely house.

In addition to beautiful buildings, there are Civil War battlefields nearby.

Stop by the visitors' center on Caroline Street for more information, or call 703-373-1776.

George Washington's Mount Vernon, in Fairfax County, is easy to reach by car or by boat from Washington, D.C.

The mid-Georgian mansion is located on an estate of more than 30 acres. In addition to the house there are nine outbuildings and gardens.

Be sure to see Gunston Hall (George Mason's house), George Washington's Grist Mill and the Claude Moore Colonial Farm at Turkey Run in McLean.

The colonial farm represents the life of a low-income family during the 18th century.

For information on Fairfax county, call the tourist bureau at (703) 768-3223.

Old Town Alexandria is just 25 miles north of Woodbridge on I-95. This historic town boasts a lovely waterfront, cobblestone streets, lovely shops and restored buildings from the 18th century.

The Torpedo Art Factory, home to 200 artists, is full of workshops and pieces of art for people to look at or to buy.

Call the visitors center at (703) 838-4200. The special events hotline, (703) 838-5005, has news 24 hours a day.

Richmond, is near Kings Dominion amusement park and has many interesting spots of its own.

The city has 10 museums, including the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and the Science Museum. There are several historic homes, including Agcroft Hall (a reconstructed 15th century home), the Governor's mansion and plantation houses.

Williamsburg can easily be more than just a day trip.

Colonial Williamsburg, the 18th century capital of Virginia, contains the historic buildings that made Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry famous.

The buildings are restored, and the cobblestone streets still bustle

Art, music, theater groups offer creative outlets

By MICHELE MAY
of the Potomac News

Prince William County's Cultural Arts Federation helps relieve artists of paperwork so they can spend their time creatively.

Actors, singers, artists, craftsmen, writers, dancers and musicians who belong to non-profit groups in Prince William, Manassas and Manassas Park may join.

The federation helps provide them with publicity, liability insurance, technical direction and sometimes even funding.

Technical help comes in the form of "bookings" at county school buildings, advice on sound or light equipment, and occasional workshops on legal or financial matters. For example, seminars on copyright laws, insurance needs and taxes were held during the past year.

"Our main job is to maintain a low profile and support these groups," says Roger Maier, executive director for the federation.

The federation is governed by a 15-member board of directors. Board members are usually county residents with an interest in promoting the arts in the Prince William area. The board meets monthly to set policy and oversee projects in the works.

Money comes from private corporations, state grants, county appropriations and annual dues. Members pay $35 annually in dues.

The Virginia General Assembly approved a two-year grant of $30,000 for the federation to use in restoring the 1837 Sudley Manor House to create offices, art displays, meeting space and a visitor's center. This project is proceeding well, Maier says.

According to Maier, another project to find "art space" in two of the county's largest public buildings — the Judicial Center and the McCoart Administration Center — has also been successful.

"With public art space just now becoming a national trend, we could be ahead of the game," Maier said.

Artists from the group take priority, but the displays also attract artists from much further away, he said.

Officers of the federation are: David Deitrick, president; Susie Moorstein, vice-president; Adele Hughitt, secretary and Becky Lilly, treasurer.

Here is a list of the non-profit organizations who are voting members of the federation. Most of them require annual dues or fees to be members. For more information on these groups, call the federation at 369-6047.

• Bel Air Woman's Club: The federation's newest member is a community service group that provides personal growth as well as community service. Annual projects include the county's middle school level spelling bee, a student art show for grades 4 through 12 and a babysitting course for teens. They also sponsor an annual legislative breakfast, craft workshops, projects to help the poor and bring the Virginia Art Mobile to Woodbridge each year. Call Janet Grundeman at 670-3252.

The Prince William Symphony Orchestra gives several concerts every year.

• Bull Run Troubadors: 30-member barbershop chorus of quartets. Prince William Chapter of SPEBQS (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing). Meets every Monday night, produces annual show in February and other concerts in Prince William area. Open to "any male who likes to sing." Call Bob Beahm at 594-2464.

• Castaways Repertory Theatre: A community theater group that provides the opportunity for amateurs and professionals to work together in theatrical projects. Group provides on-the-job training, workshops, backstage management. Members must be at least 16 years old. Auditions are held as needed for plays that require younger actors. Group puts on three to four productions each year and meets on the first Tuesday of each month. Call Tom Attanaro at 361-1727.

• Country Chimes: Four-part, unaccompanied barbershop harmony. Region 14, affiliated with Sweet Adelines chorus, international singing organization. Rehearse Thursday evenings. Annual activities include a spring competition and performances for charitable organizations and by request. There are approximately 20 members in the Prince William-Manassas chapter. Local residency is not required to join, but auditions are required. Call Aileen Beahm at 594-2464.

• Manassas Art Guild: Group of artists and crafts workers. Group meets second Tuesday of each month. Purpose is to provide places where member artists can show work, and provide for continuing education at meetings. Several shows are sponsored throughout the year. Membership is open to any Manassas-area resident interested in art. Call Irene Hamblen 368-2074.

• Manassas Choral Society: Open to any male or female music lover, with no auditions required. The group performs at least two concerts annually, around Christmas and Easter, and one theater production. The group meets weekly on Tuesdays at Stopenwall Middle School. Students from the fourth grade through middle school are placed in the Manassas Junior Choral Society. High school students do not pay annual dues. The adult group has an average of 45 members and is active from September through June. Proceeds from the annual theater production go toward a scholarship that is awarded to a graduating high school senior. Call Virginia Lanum at 369-5318 or Mike Hanum at 791-5977.

• Manassas Community Concert Association: Subscription membership group of nearly 700 members. Association sponsors four concerts in Manassas throughout the year. Professional recording artists are booked to bring professional musical entertainment to Manassas at reasonable cost. Run by volunteer staff of about 60. Memberships entitle members to four concerts here and eight other concerts sponsored by associations in Culpeper and Fairfax. The group is one of approximately 600 such community concert associations in U.S. and Canada. Call Becky Verner at 368-0683 or Jean McKay at 368-6188.

• Manassas Junior Woman's Club: A community service group that provides personal growth. All fundraising goes toward community projects. Affiliated with the general Federation of Women's Clubs. Members are western Prince William-area women, 18 to 40 years old. Projects include annual fashion show at the Hayloft in fall, art auction, 10-k race. Ongoing services include a shoe fund (primarily for school-aged children) and a prescription fund that is operated through the county and city social service departments. Call Jane Smith at 368-7787.

• Manassas Performing and Fine Arts Center: A volunteer non-profit arts association established in 1983 to develop understanding of the fine arts in conjunction with a sense of community. Discussion groups look at literary, musical and visual arts topics. Discovery Adventures offers youngsters musical training in both the Orff and Suzuki methods. Call Francine Brann at 368-3463.

least 16 years old. Auditions are held as needed for plays that require younger actors. Group puts on three to four productions each year and meets on the first Tuesday of each month. Call Tom Attanaro at 361-1727.

• Country Chimes: Four-part, unaccompanied barbershop harmony. Region 14, affiliated with Sweet Adelines chorus, international singing organization. Rehearse Thursday evenings. Annual activities include a spring competition and performances for charitable organizations and by request. There are approximately 20 members in the Prince William-Manassas chapter. Local residency is not required to join, but auditions are required. Call Aileen Beahm at 594-2464.

• Manassas Art Guild: Group of artists and crafts workers. Group meets second Tuesday of each month. Purpose is to provide places where member artists can show work, and provide for continuing education at meetings. Several shows are sponsored throughout the year. Membership is open to any Manassas-area resident interested in art. Call Irene Hamblen 368-2074.

• Manassas Choral Society: Open to any male or female music lover, with no auditions required. The group performs at least two concerts annually, around Christmas and Easter, and one theater production. The group meets weekly on Tuesdays at Stopenwall Middle School. Students from the fourth grade through middle school are placed in the Manassas Junior Choral Society. High school students do not pay annual dues. The adult group has an average of 45 members and is active from September through June. Proceeds from the annual theater production go toward a scholarship that is awarded to a graduating high school senior. Call Virginia Lanum at 369-5318 or Mike Hanum at 791-5977.

• Manassas Community Concert Association: Subscription membership group of nearly 700 members. Association sponsors four concerts in Manassas throughout the year. Professional recording artists are booked to bring professional musical entertainment to Manassas at reasonable cost. Run by volunteer staff of about 60. Memberships entitle members to four concerts here and eight other concerts sponsored by associations in Culpeper and Fairfax. The group is one of approximately 600 such community concert associations in U.S. and Canada. Call Becky Verner at 368-0683 or Jean McKay at 368-6188.

• Manassas Junior Woman's Club: A community service group that provides personal growth. All fundraising goes toward community projects. Affiliated with the

While you're in Williamsburg, stop by Jamestown and Yorktown just a few miles away. John Smith and 103 other settlers came to Jamestown in 1607 to begin the first permanent English settlement in the New World. The remains of early houses still stand, and there's a replica of one of the ships that brought the settlers over.

Call the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation (804) 229-1607.

Yorktown is the site of a Revolutionary War battle that took place in 1781. There are multimedia exhibits and artifact displays as well as a movie to teach you all about the battle. Call the Yorktown Victory Center at (804) 887-1776.

WANTED!!!

DAVID A. WOODMAN
(ALIAS: DAVE/WOODY)

WANTED!!!

YOUR BUSINESS IS WANTED BY THIS MAN!

This man has lived in the Woodbridge Area since 1950. He has been a retail merchant for over 25 years, helping many of you with the purchase of furniture, carpets, draperies, and accessories (with Williams Wayide & Country Classic Furniture). This background made real estate an obvious step with the confidence of a seasoned professional, he is now asking for your business and support. Since joining the real estate market in 1984, he has joined the ranks of the "Million Dollar Club", become a "Notary", become a member of the Coldwell Banker "Sales Advisory Council", made the 100% Club in 1985, made the 200% Club in 1986, and much more. Service has always been a major point with him in all of his retail dealings, and is the backbone of real estate. Please give him a call today for help with all of your real estate needs, selling, buying, renting, & relocation. Residential and commercial.

Get Virginia license within 30 days

By MOLLIE RORER
of the Potomac News

It costs drivers living in the Prince William area each about $3.85 more per year to register their cars properly than it may cost drivers in other parts of the state.

Vehicles registered in Arlington County, Fairfax County, Alexandria, Fairfax, Falls Church, Prince William, Manassas or Manassas Park and dated 1977 or later must pass an annual emissions test before the owners will receive state tags. The emissions test costs about $3.85. Many official inspection stations perform the test.

Newcomers to the state must get a Virginia driver's license within 30 days of moving here. The driver's exam includes written, road and visual tests and may be taken at any of the 51 branch DMV offices.

Local DMV offices are at 14008 Smoketown Road, Dale City, and 9002 Mathis Ave., Manassas.

If you have a valid license from another state, the written and road tests are not required. The Virginia Driver's Manual has all the pertinent information you will need to pass the test, and it includes a list of the different office locations.

Age: If you are between the ages of 16 and 19, you may obtain an operator's license provided you have passed an approved Virginia driver education course. If you are younger than 18, you must have parental permission to obtain the license.

If you are 19 and older, you may obtain an operator's license without taking a driver education course. See the driver's manual for more information about course approval. —

Cost: Operator's licenses cost between $6.20 and $21.60 and are valid for between two and seven years, depending on your date of birth. One DMV manager explained the rationale behind this: The state is trying to put everyone on a five-year cycle, so that when you turn 30, 35 and 40 you will automatically know to renew your license.

Learner's permit: If you are 15 years, eight months and one day old, you may apply for a learner's permit. The permits are good for one year and cost $3.

Take along: positive proof of your name and birthdate. This may be a birth certificate, passport, military records or even school records. If you have a social security number, furnish the number on the license application. This will become your driver's license number.

Out-of-state permit regulations: If you are an out-of-state student enrolled full- or part-time at an accredited Virginia school and not gainfully employed, you may drive on your home state license. The same goes for non-Virginia residents who are active duty military personnel and do not have another job here, and their dependents (aged 16 or older, of course).

Vehicles registered in the name of the non-resident military member may be driven with valid home-state license plates.

Other non-residents who are temporarily living/working in Virginia may drive with home-state plates and licenses for not more than 60 days.

Registration: Virginia registration of vehicles includes a title, registration card and license plates. To transfer a title, bring to DMV a valid title from your former state of residence. If you purchased the vehicle prior to that state requiring vehicle titles, bring a bill of sale and current vehicle registration issued in your name. The titling fee is $10.

Payment of the registration fee — $22 for vehicles weighing up to 4,000 pounds, $27 for vehicles of 4,001 or more — gets you two license plates, decals and a registration card.

Insurance: All vehicles in Virginia must have a valid standard automobile liability policy. Minimum coverage is $25,000 for bodily injury, $50,000 for injury or death of two or more persons and $10,000 property damage. Yearly payments of the $300 uninsured motorists fee exempts you from this, but the fee is not insurance.

Child Safety Seats: These seats are required for children age four or younger when they are riding in a Virginia registered vehicle driven by a parent or legal guardian. If you are financially unable to purchase a seat, apply for one at the Virginia Department of Transportation Safety. VDTS has information about exemptions due to medical reasons, size of child, vehicle design and number of occupants.

Inspections: In addition to the emissions test mentioned above, you also must have your vehicle inspected annually at an official inspection station. These inspections cost $7. For more information, contact the state police.

Local licenses: Most cities, towns and counties require you to display a local license

Where to get lights, water, phones and cable television

The rapid growth of Prince William County keeps the utility companies hopping to provide services to new residents. To have service turned on takes from one day to several days with deposits varying according to the utility.

- Continental Telephone of Virginia provides the entire county with telephone service. Contel's offices are located on Minnieville Road in Dale City. For service requests, call 680-8822. To inquire about billing, call 680-8811.

Electric service in Prince William is provided by:

- Virginia Power (494-5111).
- Northern Virginia Electric Cooperative (335-0500).
- Gas service is provided by:
 - Washington Gas (750-9500). To report escaping gas, call 750-1400.
 - Columbia Gas of Virginia (361-3181).

Water service is provided to most of the county by:

- Prince William County Service Authority (335-7151 in Woodbridge and 368-0121 in Manassas), which also provides sewer service.
- Virginia American Water Company (491-2136) serves Dale City. Dale City sewers are maintained by the Dale Service Corporation (494-6888).

The city of Manassas (361-4104) and Manassas Park (361-0124) provide water and sewer service to community residents.

Several small communities in the county have other arrangements for water service, but generally the county is served by the Service Authority.

Seven cable television companies supply more than 23,000 Prince William homes with television entertainment.

- Lake Ridge Cable (494-7133) serves Lake Ridge, offering 32 basic channels and 7 premium channels.

Dogs, cats need rabies vaccinations

from staff reports

If your free-roaming cat is urinating or defecating on public property or on private property without the consent of the landowner, you are breaking the law.

In February 1985, the Prince William Board of County Supervisors approved an ordinance that makes it illegal for a person to allow his pet to commit the above actions, and violators can be fined up to $1,000 and sentenced to jail for up to one year.

Prince William County, Manassas and Manassas Park do not allow dogs to run loose. Dogs must be licensed and cats and dogs are required to be vaccinated against rabies.

Violation of most animal control ordinances in all jurisdictions is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine.

Prince William County pet requirements:

- All dogs must be licensed annually. Residents may obtain licenses at the county animal shelter, 14807 Dumfries Rd., in Manassas Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tags are also distributed through the Cashier's Office at the County Executive's Office, in the McCoart Administration Center on Davis Ford Road. Residents must show proof that the dog has been vaccinated against rabies.

- Residents must have cats vaccinated against rabies by a licensed veterinarian, who will issue certification.

- To report a stray or abandoned animal, contact the Prince William County Police Department at 335-6500 in Manassas or 335-7200 in Woodbridge.

- Residents must pay a $25 fee for a dog caught running loose.

- The Animal Shelter tries to keep strays as long as possible, but will dispose of them if an owner

Getting the most out of your newspaper

The Potomac News welcomes contributions from our readers. These may be announcements, news tips or letters to the editor.

How do you follow through on your contact with the newspaper?

You may write or drop by personally: our address is 14010 Smoketown Rd., Woodbridge, Va. 22192.

Or you may call the paper at 670-8151, metro 385-9516 and from the Stafford/Fredericksburg area, 659-2104.

Here are a list of guidelines to help our readers ensure that their announcements or inquiries go to the proper person:

News stories of general interest: Readers who have ideas, news tips or items of general interest may call the news editor at the main number, 670-8151, or write the newspaper. Announcements should be submitted by mail or dropped by the office.

Obituaries: Obituaries run daily, free of charge. Deadline is 9 a.m. the day of publication.

Business: The Potomac News publishes a business news page each Monday. It includes features and brief items about area businesses. If you have a development in your business, contact the business editor by noon Thursday for the following week's page.

Community news: Each week, the Potomac News publishes neighborhood information and items of interest compiled by more than a dozen local columnists. The columnists, the neighborhoods they represent and telephone numbers are listed in each Wednesday's Lifestyle section, if you wish to contact them about an upcoming event or news item.

Announcements

Weddings, engagements, births: Family Album contains announcements of births, engagements, weddings, family reunions and anniversary celebrations, and it appears each Wednesday. All copy submitted for the page must have the name, address and daytime phone numbers. All pictures must be identified on the back, and the pictures will not be returned. Wedding announcements must be submitted within six weeks of the wedding date. Engagement announcements should be submitted not less than two months before the scheduled wedding date, and all announcements appear as space permits.

Church news: Area church news appears each Friday. Items should be submitted in writing to the Potomac News. Include all relevant information and a contact person's phone number. Sorry, pictures will not be returned.

Community happenings: Meeting announcements for local groups and organizations appear daily in the Community Happenings column. Submit information for this listing seven days prior to your meeting.

Area briefs: Prince William Briefs appear as space permits, and they include announcements of awards, advancements and miscellaneous news about Prince William groups and individuals. There is no deadline, but you should include a contact name and number with any information submitted.

Letters to the editor: The Potomac News editorial page serves as a forum for the community and encourages a lively exchange of views. Letters must be signed and include a home address and telephone number.

Community sports: Community sports are run each week as space becomes available. All copy must be received by Monday at 5 p.m. to be published that week. Stories should be typewritten (double spaced) or neatly printed on letter (8½ by 11-inch) or legal (8½ by 14) paper. Game stories should be brief (no more than four sentences) and should be packaged together by division with the sports and the name of the league clearly identified. Writeups should include the name, home and work number of someone we can contact if questions arise.

Classified ads are taken either in person by phone: Main office, 670-9175; Manassas, 369-9268; Stafford/Fredericksburg, 659-2104; Metro, 385-9516. Phones are staffed from 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays and 5 to 9 p.m. Mondays. Regular hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and deadline is noon on the day before publication.

Subscriptions: It's easy to subscribe to the Potomac News. Simply call the circulation department at 670-6152 (metro: 385-9516); from Stafford/Fredericksburg, 659-2104. Rates are between $4.80 for four weeks and $80 for one year.

Back copies: Back copies are available for the previous 12 months by calling or visiting the circulation department.

PET / From 38

cannot be found. There is a $5 adoption fee and the adopter signs a statement that he will take the animal to a veterinarian within 48 hours.

- It is unlawful for pets to urinate or defecate on public or private property without the landowner's consent. A pet owner may allow his animal to relieve itself within curb or gutter area on a public street as long as remains are removed immediately.

- There is a trespassing law. If a landowner formally requests that your pet stay off of his land, you must restrain your pet or face a misdemeanor charge. This law applies to dogs, cats, horses, gerbils and other animals.

In the City of Manassas:

- All dogs six months and older must be licensed annually, not later than Jan. 31. Dog licenses are available in November for the coming year at a cost of $5 per dog and $2 for spayed and neutered dogs. Tags may be purchased in person at the Treasurer's Office of Manassas City Hall, 9025 Center St., or by mail. Proof of rabies vaccination must be provided at time of purchase.

- Cats must be vaccinated against rabies by a licensed veterinarian, who will issue a certification.

- To report a stray or abandoned animal, call the city Animal Shelter, 3050 Liberia Ave., at 361-2812 or call the Manassas City Police Department at 361-4121.

- The animal shelter is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Residents whose animals are caught running loose must show proof of ownership, rabies vaccine and license before the pet will be released. The city charges a $10 pick-up fee and a $3 per day boarding fee. Unidentified animals will be disposed of five days after they are impounded.

- Any animal not claimed by its owners after five days will be available for adoption for a $10 fee. In the City of Manassas Park:

- All dogs six months old and up must be licensed within 60 days after the pet is first owned. Residents must show proof of rabies vaccine to obtain a license. Tags may be obtained for $5 if the pet is spayed or neutered, or $10 through the City Treasurer's Office, 103 Manassas Drive, Manassas Park. Licenses must be renewed annually.

- Cats must be vaccinated against rabies.

- The animal warden will pick up stray or loose animals on complaint and will impound those not identified or properly licensed at the city Animal Shelter, 3050 Liberia Ave. in Manassas.

- The warden will remove dead animals from roads on request.

- For more information call the Manassas City Police Department at 361-1136.

BOMANZA ... the brand that makes the difference.

Put this sign on your lawn.

It won't kill crabgrass, but it gets rid of houses fast.

Between one mowing and the next, your house could change owners. And you know that's fast! How can we be so sure?

Because we're a member of the Homes For Living Real Estate Network.

When our sign goes up, a lot of things happen. With our exclusive Homes For Living magazine, a picture and description of your home is available to home buyers in our area. An through our 2,000 affiliated offices, we'll reach potential out-of-town buyers. After all, they account for one-third of all home sales.

When you consider that our 35,000 Homes For Living sales associates have billions of dollars in home sales each year, you know we don't let any crabgrass grow under our feet.

Call us today.

SHANNON & LUCHS

"From Teddy to Today"

Theodore Roosevelt was in the White House in 1906 when Herbert Shannon and Morton Luchs began their successful real estate company.

The firm persevered during the dark days of the Depression, and no fulltime worker was let go. This reputation for "treating people right"—both client and employee—shines through the years into today.

Whether you're interested in a smooth real estate transaction with a superbly trained agent or mulling the rewards of a sales career, make an informed decision and give us a call.

We're Shannon & Luchs—for yesterday, today and all your tomorrows!

An Exclusive Benefit for our Buyers & Sellers: Peace of Mind THE ERA® BUYER PROTECTION PLAN

When you're buying a home, buy with no major repair worries—choose a home covered by the ERA® Buyer Protection Plan. It's your best protection against costly, unexpected repair bills after closing.

The Buyer Protection Plan is, simply, an exclusive ERA program to protect you against expensive repair or replacement costs on the eleven major working components in your new home: water heater and sump pump, furnace, built-in appliances, electrical wiring, central air conditioning, exposed ductwork, exterior painting system, and fixtures. Your protection lasts for a full year from date of purchase on a professionally covered home and up to five years on a new home.

The Seller Protection Plan works to protect sellers the same way. While your home is on the market, those same major components are covered from 15 days after you list your home until the date of sale, a maximum of 165 days.

So relax. When the buyer signs the ERA Buyer Protection Plan you don't have to worry about buying someone else's troubles. And your sale while your house is on the market, with our exclusive Seller Protection Plan.

With ERA, working components of the house are covered. And so are you.

WOODBRIDGE

INTRODUCING A NEW STANDARD OF VALUE.

Discover a new standard of value in spacious single family homes. Where four bedroom homes start from the high $140's. Where value is visible in such features as six-panel colonial doors, crown molding and chair railing—all standard. Where the Chadwick-American energy package includes natural gas heating and double insulated wood windows, standard. At Stratford Glen, a new standard of value is built in. These are single family homes with spaciousness you can feel. And I-95 is only minutes away.

INTRODUCING A NEW STANDARD OF VALUE.

Discover a new standard in luxurious townhome living. Where architectural distinctions like nine-foot ceilings and six-panel doors are standard. Where first-quality upgrades such as cedar shake shingles, decks and fireplaces are, of course, standard. Where such luxurious touches as crown molding, chair rail and even garages are, your guessed it, standard. And where you're just around the corner from I-95 and only ten minutes from the Beltway.

With so many luxuries standard at Occoquan Mill, you might wonder what's left. But why leave it up to your imagination? These are garage townhomes with a difference you can see. Take a look at this new standard of luxury and value today.
