No "Breaking In"

ONE characteristic of the "Queen Quality" Custom Grade Oxfords is their flexible fit. Toe many shoes are like the wooden lasts over which they are made—stiff and unyielding. They have to be "broken in." When a shoe is broken to conform to the foot, the original lines must be changed. The shoe then becomes loose and shapeless. "Queen Quality" Shoes "keep their shape" because they fit perfectly with a flexible fit. The shoe yields to the foot as does a glove to the hand. We have over fifty styles of these superb shoes to show you.

Special number at $1.50. Warranted Pure Linen, in Gibson Tie, Plain and Cap, Toe.

MUTH KIDNAPPER RUSHED TO JAIL

A. J. Keen Sentenced to Twenty Years for the Crime

HOW THE BOY WAS RECOVERED

Manassas, June 20.—Twenty years of manly courage and a lifetime of suffering for the Eastern peninsula was the reward granted to John Joseph Keen, the abductor of little Freddie Muth. The enormity of the man's crime, which had aroused the world to quick action, and the witness with which justice moved has never been equaled in this community. Keen fell into the clutches of the law Monday afternoon about the time the courts were closing. Promptly at 10 o'clock Monday morning he was photographed and measured by the Berthel method. Twenty-five minutes later he had been arraigned before a magistrate and committed to court without bail. The grand jury quickly found a true bill, and at 11.30 a. m. he was in the criminal court awaiting his trial to face Judge Stuberger. He pleaded guilty, and shortly after 12 o'clock the Judge passed sentence upon him, and at 1.30 the great room of the penitentiary closed behind him. In his quick trip from liberty to the solitude of Cherry Hill no friendly hand or voice was raised in the prisoner's behalf. If he behaves himself under the rules, his term will be reduced to 12 years and three months. The court had the power to give him a life sentence.

Much sympathy is expressed for the wife and three children Keen leaves without means of support. Mrs. Keen is prosecuted by the shock and disgrace that the abduction has brought upon the family. She will leave for New York and reside in New York, where she has relatives.

From the day of the kidnaping until the arrest Keen had kept the woman's purse, which he had hidden in Philadelphia. Monday the police detective and police force of this city were conducting an unrelenting search, and the authorities of other cities were furnished with a description of the boy and his captor, with instructions to keep a lookout for the pair.

The first information that Keen and his captives were in the vicinity in which the arrest was eventually made came from Joseph Sager, a baker at 404 1/2 street and Haverford avenue, who told the police that he had seen a man and boy answering the description of the pair in an alleyway at 601 1/2 Haverford avenue, shortly after midnight last Wednesday.

Sager, the baker, was acquainted with Keen, and the police were enabled to obtain his address. They missed his home and learned from his wife that he had not been there with her knowledge since last Monday, the day previous to the kidnaping. Sager, however, that he had suddenly crept into the house, as a pillow, an overcoat and a cap were missing. When the police and the police detective, who were looking for the man, but do not in this direction were removed when Charles J. Cooke, a real estate broker, reported the kidnappers with a complaint that John Joseph Keen, who had acted as collector and agent for him, had absconded $100. Specimens of his handwriting were shown the police, and they were found to be identical with the writing in the letters which the abductor had begun sending to Mr. Muth.

Special Officers Clark and Vale again instituted a search of the vacant houses in their district, and they found another visit to the dwellings 125, 257 and 259 North 42d street. When Vale reached the rear door of No. 425 he observed Freddie Muth standing on the rear step of No. 228. He called to him, saying: "Hello, Freddie."

Freddie said "Hello," and immediately began to cry. Vale rushed through the window and stepped across the roof of the adjoining house. He was just in time to see Keen hurrying down the stairs. Drawing his revolver he fired at the fleeing man, but missed. He crept through the window and followed, catching up with Keen as the latter was making for the front door. The policeman again pointed his revolver at the kidnapper, who threw up his hands and ran to the rear door. The child in the meanwhile had followed the pair and reached the first floor as the arrest was made. The kidnapper and his captives were taken to the nearest police station and from there taken in a patrol wagon to the city penitentiary.

Mr. Patton's Views on Spelling Reform

Editor JOURNAL: Having seen a number of articles in the Journal during the past few months on the question of spelling reform the writer has been strongly tempted many times to offer a few words along this line, but your correspondent feeling persuaded that no other human being has ever lived who would possibly write more ardently than himself, he has decided to do so. He has written the English language completely re-arranged and returned from bottom to top in other words, from top to bottom, and is now in the process of re-arranging it again. He has written it in the English language, but in the English language, and is now in the process of re-arranging it again. Lumber is Cheaper

The North Carolina Pine Association, which dominates the lumber business in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, has announced a normal annual output of 1,200,000,000 feet of lumber, has ordered a reduction in prices, averaging about 10 per cent, on No. 1 and some of the lower grades of lumber. The trade was found to be dull, in many places, and the association was of the last year's year. This was especially true of the lower grades. This was accounted for by the fact that consumers were using other lumber, especially that from the West, in place of that manufactured by the association, who at the same time the production within the association's territory has greatly increased.

Laughing the Ladies

From the Outlook Magazine. Never will a mother, as she values her future peace, give the restless baby soothing syrups or other quieting drugs. Why? For the simple reason that when their effect passes off they will leave the baby weaker and more susceptible than ever. By resorting to such means to gain a temporary peace she is also implanting in him the seed of drug habit, which will be a heavy burden to him when he grows up. Morphine, if the baby's resistance is due to some slight disorder, can be safely soothing and quieted by a warm sponging of his entire body. Never older any circumstances should a mother resort to such a habit-forming drug without the advice of a physician.

GOVERNOR OF OHIO DIES SUDDENLY

John M. Pattison Succumbs to Long Illness.

THOUGHT TO BE RECOVERING

Cincinnati, O., June 18. John M. Pattison, governor of Ohio, died at his home in this city at 10:30 a. m. today. He had passed a good night, and there had been no report of any serious change during the day. The early news from his home was considered favorable, and the later announcement of his death came as a great shock to the governor's friends.

Not at any time a man of powerful physique, Governor Pattison had been for some time suffering from a weakened condition, the strain of the political campaign having so worn on him that a trip to the south was taken in November and December in the hope of regaining health. After the election in November it was said that he was suffering from malaria. The interest in his death during the past few days has been increased by several days he hovered between life and death. During this time his every thought passed to his family, and he had been in the hospital for several days. It was not until the afternoon of June 17 that he was able to get up to his room, and as soon as his weakened condition permitted he was brought in Cincinnati, spending several weeks in a hospital until the physicians thought him ready for a trip to his country home. One week ago he seemed to have so far recovered his strength that no ill effects were anticipated from the trip to Millport, and a special electric car carried him to within a short distance of his home, an ambulance taking him the rest of the way. Physicians expressed a cheerful opinion as to the outcome of his trip, and he was expected to be up and about within a few hours of his death.

John M. Pattison, born in Clermont county, Ohio, on June 18, 1847, retained his home there during his entire life. For the last 15 years he has been president of the Indian Central Life Insurance company. As a Democratic leader in the senate he supported every movement for a more stringent observance of the Sabbath. It was because of this that the nation's tongue gave him its support in the last election. He was a lifelong member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and was a trustee of the university of Washington.

Andrew L. Harris, Republican, lieutenant governor, under his constitutionality amendment, succeeded to the term for which Pattison was elected.

AGREE ON MEAT BILL.

President and House Committee Get Together On Disputed Points.

Washington, June 13.—The basis of a complete agreement on the meat inspection legislation between President Roosevelt and the House committee was announced at the White House Speaker Cannon announced that the committee in this instance had agreed to accept the president's suggestion to amend the bill by providing for the levy of an assessment to make up any deficiency in the amount available for this work, as suggested by Mr. Cowan, representing the Texas cattle growers, and later agreed by the president.

The cost-review provision will not be contained in the measure. This action meets the suggestion of the president. The words "in the judgment of the secretary of agriculture" will not be contained in the measure. This action meets the suggestion of the president.

The section valuing the civil service law for one year in the selection of inspectors will go out of the provision, also one of the president's recommendations.

There is to be no date on the label of the packing of meat food product. In this the president yields to the committee. The language which gives inspectors the right to the packing plants at all times is amplified by the words "whether the same be in operation or not."

SEIZED A SAUSAGE FACTORY.

Concern in Newark, N. J., Reeking With Filth and Vermin, Closed.

Newark, N. J., June 20.—City health inspectors confiscated the contents of Harry Rosenthal's bologna sausage establishment, a small room in a Jones street tenement. They claim to have found the utensils, machinery and the room in general reeking with filth and vermin. Four baskets of meat, said to have the appearance of sausage, were found and seized by the inspectors, together with other scraps of meat which were said to be decaying in the sausage-making machines. Preservative solutions and coloring matter also were taken by the authorities.

Rosenthal, when questioned by the inspectors, declared that for five months he had worked under an arrangement with a number of butchers, who furnished the materials to be ground into sausage. He said he received $4 for every 100 pounds turned out. The butchers sold the product, he said, for 12 cents a pound.

JERSEY POSTOFFICE LOOTED.

Postmaster's Family Exchanged Shots With Burglars, Who Escaped.

Phillipsburg, N. J., June 20.—Burglars entered the postoffice at Hampton Junction, 18 miles east of here, along the line of the New Jersey Central railroad, and blew open the safe and carried off all the money and stamps it contained and articles of jewelry owned by the postmaster. The haul is valued at $500. Herman Bigelow is the postmaster, and he and his family reside in the building. About midnight Mrs. Bigelow was awakened by an explosion, and on going to the front window saw a man standing on the pavement. She raised a cry and the fellow fled at her. Her son ran to her assistance and opened fire on the burglar, five in number, who by that time had left the building and were shooting. The postmaster also joined in the battle and 40 shots were exchanged. No one in the Bigelow family was injured, but it is not known if any of their shots took effect.

FAMILY OF FIVE DROWNED.

While Returning From Circus They Drove Into River in Darkness.

Sisseton, S. D., June 20.—A family of five—C. W. Martin, his wife and three children—were drowned in Little Minnesota river near Bosco. The family came here from their farm to see a circus. Returning home late at night along the river road, Martin drove off the bank in the darkness. The whole family and one of the horses perished in the river, which was swollen greatly by recent rains.

Valuable Race Horse Dead.

New York, June 18.—James R. Keene's famous 4-year-old colt Syson, who succeeded last year to be the best horse in training in America, died in his stall at the Sheepshead bay race track of blood poisoning. The horse had been ill for a long time with a skin disease. His attendant had neglected his withdrawal from all of this year's big stables, including the Brooklyn, Suburban and Brighton Handicaps. In all of which he was the future book favorite. An 8 1/2-year-old Mr. Keene was offered and refused $100,000 for his colt, whose only defeat in his racing career was in the Futurity of 1904.

Jeans-Keeper Killed By Lunatic.

Trenton, N. J., June 20.—Henry Conant, an attendant at the State Hospital for the Insane, died at the institution from a fractured skull, resulting from an attack made by Mrs. Kirby, a retired tenant of the pavilion for the criminal insane. Kirby had been searched by Conant for some keys and becoming enraged at the result, she rushed at him with a brick and struck him on the head.
