CARRIES OFF SECRETED TREASURES

CARRIES OFF SECRETED TREASURES. After leaving Stafford Courthouse, Searcy started, ostensibly, for Brooke Station, where he was to take the train for Newport News, passing through the territory through which he and Morganfield passed, after holding up the express train. When he was about half way through the intervening forest, he alighted from the buggy, telling the driver that he need go no further, that he would walk the rest of the distance to the station. This was the last seen or heard of Searcy and it is believed that his excuse for going to Stafford Courthouse was based upon his intention to recover the treasure, which he and Morganfield had hidden somewhere in the vicinity of the place where he left the buggy, and that he did secure the same and depart for "green fields and pastures new."

MOVABLE DAIRY SCHOOL

MOVABLE DAIRY SCHOOL. Prof. Button Explains the Advantages of the School to the Farmers. (Continued from First Page.) its agricultural school, a reputation which has been largely due to the successful series of farmers' institutes. If this meeting is as it deserves to be, the best and most successful training school in the state, the best will advertise the town in a desirable manner and do much to secure future state and government aid for the school. When the Davis-Dolliver bill, of which mention has been made, becomes a law, Manassas will not be the only place in Northern Virginia which will try to secure the $25,000 a year appropriation. There is now almost a certainty that this bill will become a law and an even greater certainty that the schools will be located at the town which offers the best assurance of support. Every man or woman who owns a cow or takes an interest in cows or who has the welfare of the agricultural school at heart should make it their business to attend some of the sessions of the school and thus show by their support that Manassas can and will support the best agricultural school in the state. Danville, Va., Jan. 2—President W. H. White, of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, John Kerr Branch and Colonel Thomas H. McAdams, all of Richmond, and Arthur H. Glasgow, of London, England, arrived here this afternoon. Mr. White's private car, having come in from the south. They spent the day here visiting the business and pleasure interests of the town. I am the game warden of this district "and I am the biggest nab in the United States."

GREETINGS. As we enter upon the duties of another year, we desire to thank our patrons and the public for their most liberal patronage during the year which has just closed. Our business life among you has been comparatively short, feeling that we are yet in our infancy, but it has been a great satisfaction to us to compare the grand totals of each year since our beginning and find a handsome increase for each—1910 being our banner year. We are more convinced, as older we grow, that our prosperity is due to the honest, upright and straightforward methods of doing business, which we have striven to make our motto. Now let us, this New Year, strike hands in a new compact, which shall embody all that were best in the past and what our united experience can plan in the future, and may it mean to us all renewed vigor and increased prosperity and happiness. Wishing you all a Happy, Happy New Year.

THE TWIGG ELOSSER TRAGEDY. Shortly before the bells would toll out the old, and ring in the New Year, the citizens of Cumberland, Md., were thrown into a state of feverish excitement upon learning that Grace Elosser, one of the most popular ladies of the town, and her fiancé, Charles E. Twigg, a well-to-do merchant of Keyser, W. Va., had been found dead in the Elosser home. The husband-to-be had come to the home of the bride-elect the day of the tragedy and brought with him the diamond ring which was to seal his marriage vows at the altar upon the following day. He appeared in the best of spirits and he was heard chatting and joking happily with his sweetheart a quarter of an hour previous to the finding of their lifeless bodies, by the girl's mother, sitting upon a divan in the parlor. All sorts of theories, logical and illogical, have been advanced by those who "knew just how it happened," but the farther the investigation has proceeded the deeper appears the mystery. Cruel suspicion has attached to the dead girl's sister, Mae, upon the slightest pretext, and a suicide compact upon the part of the dead lovers has been accepted by some as the more tenable cause of death. The latter theory has been abandoned by state's attorney, Robb, for the reason that the hydro-cyanic acid solution, from which it has been proven the couple died, within the short space of thirty seconds, must have had a bottle or container which a thorough examination of the premises, immediately after the discovery of the dead bodies, failed to reveal. That the couple were murdered through a third party there appears to be no doubt in the minds of the district attorney and others, but just how the murder was accomplished is still a puzzle to the shrewd detectives who are working upon the case. There are two doors to the room in which the tragedy took place, one opening upon the street and the other into the sitting room. If the murder theory is the correct one, the more logical conclusion is that the murderer came through the sitting room door, and that the poison was administered in a true Southern hospitality.

Pressing Toward The Mark Sabbath Afternoon Religious Reflections. (Continued from First Page.) Two characters stand out in the Bible narrative to encourage even the "chief of sinners." Simon Peter denied his Lord with oaths thrice repeated. King David committed a very great offense under overpowering temptation and followed it with a series of crimes to cover it up. Yet the former became the truest and boldest of the champions of the cross and when he was put to death for his faith, asked only of his executioners that he be crucified with his head downward because of his one great transgression, and the latter because the poet of the church universal, in whose incomparable Songs of the Ages "men of all nations and all times find a language expressive of the highest joys and deepest sorrows of the human heart." Amos R. Wells, of Auburndale, Mass., has recently given the following which records my own New Year thoughts better than I can express them. Forth from your lowly Past! In humble-wise Up to the highest heaven lift your eyes. No glories that the heroes ever knew But God has placed them waiting there for you. Forth from your evil Past! The shame and sin Dare now to live as they had never been, In Jesus' name, and in His sureness, know that the years to come are yours and pure. Forth from your "Tumbler Past! How dark the days, How dreary and perplexed your wandering ways! Forget those fears and tears and scenes abhorred, And enter all the joyance of your Lord. Forth from your lonely Past! No comrades, no friends, no warfare for the good and true! But in the time to come till time shall end You shall not lack a comrade and a friend. Forth from your Past! 'Twas given you to build A future from it all with blessing God. Enter the open gate, its liberal doors, And live its happy lord forever more. LOCAL NEWS

Mr. Chas. E. Cornwell is reported quite ill of pneumonia, at his home near Buckhall. Capt. E. Nelson, through illness, is still unable to resume his duties at the clerk's office. Mr. Lucian Payne and Miss Edna Leonard, both of near Thoroughfare, were married yesterday evening. There was a Christmas entertainment given in Buckhall church last Thursday night which was a very enjoyable affair. Dr. Herwin U. Roop will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath at 11 a. m. His theme will be "The Making of a Man." In the new school building, costing in the neighborhood of $3,000, the Haymarket school resumed its fall and winter term on Monday. If the weather permits Rev. J. K. Eber will preach in the public school building at Nokesville next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. James Birkett, former manager of the Porter estate, at this place, was here this week looking up much-cows for his dairy farm, near Mt. Vernon. At a meeting of the directors of The Manassas Journal Publishing Company held on January 2, the regular semi-annual dividend of four per cent. was declared. Up to going to press, nothing has been heard from Mr. D. I. Amidon, who disappeared from his home in Dumfries, so mysteriously nearly three weeks ago. John Cary, who was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for a criminal assault upon Mrs. Eleanor O'Neal at Cherry Hill, was taken to the "pen" on Friday. THE JOURNAL aims to give its readers clean, reliable news up to the time of going to press. If you "see it in the Journal," you may know it is as near true as the facts could be obtained. Grand lecturer, W. J. Hubbard, has given notice that he will be here on January 9 to instruct the members of Manassas Royal Arch Chapter No. 59 in the work of the grand chapter. Owing to the inclemency of the weather on Sunday night, Mr. G. W. Crabtree, lecturer for the American Prison Evangelical Society, did not fill his appointment at the Presbyterian church. Miss Sallie Hedrick, who is undergoing treatment in Providence Hospital, is no better. Her father, who is also being treated for pneumonia in the same institution, is slowly improving. Prof. Jos. B. Caldwell, chief musician for the First Regiment National Guard of the District of Columbia, has been engaged as musical instructor for the Manassas Band to take effect next Wednesday night. Mr. G. W. Crabtree, lecturer for the American Prison Evangelical Society, lectured in Courtlets' convicts on Friday street. He states that Dr. Hamner, who is in charge of the institution, is doing a good deal of good. Mrs. D. N. Davis, sister of Mr. E. K. Mitchell, of Manassas, is quite ill at her home, near Dumfries. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell left her the first of the week for Mr. Mitchell's sister to assist in caring for her during her illness. Negotiations are in progress for the purchase of a certain tract of land on South Main street for the purpose of putting a blacksmith and machinery and to be operated upon a large scale.

Up to the United States district court in Alexandria, Va. The case of the Southern Railway Co. against the Manassas District Justices' court was sustained and the injunction awarded by the referee in bankruptcy dissolved. The fourth quarterly conference of Prince William Mission, will convene at Aden U. B. church, Saturday, January 7th, at 3 o'clock. Rev. Hammack will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He will preach at Buckhall at night. Mrs. Mary Crawford, eighty-three years old, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles McCoskey, in Baltimore, Md., on Sunday morning, of heart failure. Mrs. Crawford was a cousin of Mrs. R. W. Merchant and of Miss Ida M. Liddle, of Manassas. There was a regular meeting of the Manassas Fire Department last night, at which a re-election of all the officers took place. A resolution was passed requesting a prompt attendance of members at all regular meetings on Thursday before the last Monday in each month. Among those who kept vigil to hail the advent of the New Year, while social merriment held sway, were: Misses Louise and Margaret Weedon, and Messrs. Paul Weir, Francis Brock and Allen Merchant at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Garrison, on North Main street. The regular semi-annual dividend of four per cent. was declared by the Hopkins company, Thursday. Mr. C. M. Hopkins, secretary of the company, states that the year just closed was the best within the history of the corporation and that the present year promises to greatly exceed it. Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Hall entertained at dinner Thursday during Christmas in honor of their house guest, Miss Eula Shryock. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hedrick, Misses Viola Davis, Nellie Rorabaugh, Eula Shryock, Mrs. L. Lion, Maudie Hall and Messrs. John Brochin, Eugene Davis, Dr. Ford, H. C. Russell and James Foster. Mr. Geo. W. Loudoun, who has been operating a moving picture show, with an Edison latest model machine, at Remington, has engaged Corner's Hall for an indefinite period and began his series of shows here last night. Mr. Loudoun has 18,000 feet of films and will give an entire change of pictures each night until his supply of films are exhausted after which he will rent additional ones. Mr. D. H. Prescott returned from Baltimore this week, where he went on business in connection with his purchase of the Hamner property on East Centre street. He states that Dr. Hamner has been removed to his home in Baltimore, and though he has not recovered from the stroke of paralysis received several weeks ago, which effected his entire left side, he seems cheerful and hopeful. Mr. Frank S. Davidson, who gave the play a few months ago, assisted by local talent, entitled "Old Farmer Hopkins," which was so well received by those who attended the play, will be given on February 17 present to the people of Manassas an equally meritorious drama, assisted by the same strong talent, entitled "Folk on Willow Creek." The play will be under the aegis of the Manassas Brass Band.

and a lot of his and together with the loss of his pocket book and 400 dollars with notes dollar of insurance. The fire occurred from a lantern which one of the hands left hanging in the barn after feeding the cattle. Mrs. Jos. Speaks, of near Buckhall, lost her pocket book while shopping in Manassas Christmas eve, containing $19.00. Mrs. Speaks says she laid her pocket book down upon the counter in a certain dry goods store while she was examining some handkerchiefs, and when she sought it to pay for her purchase the wallet was gone. Among the witnesses summoned before the District Court of the United States, for the District of Virginia, held in Alexandria, Wednesday, to testify in the behalf of the defendant in the case of the United States against J. The board doth award the contract for public printing for the year ending Jan. 1, 1912, to The Manassas Journal Publishing Co., the said company having agreed to do said printing for nothing. Ordered that the board adjourn to Saturday, February 26, 1911. J. P. MANUEL, Chairman. MAJOR PURCELL PROTESTS. Major Jas. R. Purcell, representing the sportsmen of Gainesville district, appeared before the Board of Supervisors Monday, and made application to the Board to rescind its order, made at a recent meeting, closing the hunting season at the expiration of the month of December. The Board refused to grant the application. Following is Major Purcell's application: GAINESVILLE, Va., Dec. 31, 1910. TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF GAINESVILLE DISTRICT, VA. Representing those in this district, who desire the order of your honorables to close the legal killing of game to-day, I respectfully state that the killing of partridges was practically closed on the 25th inst. That some who desire to get a bird or so, or to train a young dog, could not do so because, owing to the season, they were busy sowing wheat, housing corn or engaged otherwise in November, so that the open season has been closed to them with the time. Now, owing to the fact that partridges are strong, educated and more numerous than for fifteen or more years, I respectfully ask that the order be rescinded. J. R. PURCELL. Annual Stockholders' Meeting. To the Stockholders of the Peoples National Bank of Manassas, Va. Please take notice that the annual meeting of the stockholders of The Peoples National Bank of Manassas, Va. will be held at the banking house of the town of Manassas, on Thursday, Jan. 10, 1911, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of electing directors and for the transaction of such business as may properly come before the meeting. Dated at Manassas, Va., this 1st day of January, 1911. G. E. BROWN, President.

KANN'S SPECIAL WATER-SPOT FOULARD
(Equal to any A Yard 69c 85c Foulard)
Another foulard season is predicted, one that, the fashion authorities say, will be greater than the last. We have succeeded in obtaining a foulard, 24 inches wide—a guaranteed water-spot foulard, that will bear comparison with any 85c foulard you ever bought—to sell at 69c a yard as a special leader. We're elated! It is about the biggest silk bargain we ever had to offer so early in the season, and we have a good range of colors—brown, old-blue, reseda, old rose, gray, amethyst, navy-and-white, and black-and-white, to select from. The patterns are in figure and polka-dot designs, about fifteen different combinations, and in the polka-dots about six different sizes, in black-and-white, and blue-and-white combinations. We also have about the same range of colorings, and designs to select from in foulards at the following prices:
23-inch Foulards at 59c
22½-inch Foulards at 44c
