PRESIDENT WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

THE GROVETON PAVILION "PEACE JUBILEE" SERMON

A Program Replete With Interesting Features Marks Its Dedication, Wednesday. One thousand people heard the blind chaplain's stirring address Sunday night.

On an eminence overlooking the Groveton Confederate cemetery, the Bull Run Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy have erected a memorial pavilion which was dedicated in the presence of over eight hundred people, Wednesday afternoon.

The pavilion was decorated with National and Confederate colors and the "Stars and Bars" formed a fitting background for the rostrum. The Fort Myer band and a choir of well-chosen voices furnished the music which was a most enjoyable feature of the program.

A near-by refreshment stand quenched the thirst with ice-cold lemonade and satisfied the appetite with chicken and ham sandwiches. Soon after the noon hour, people on horseback and in vehicles of all kinds, came from all directions to take part in the exercises.

Proceeding the dedication, troop C, of the fifteenth United States cavalry, from Fort Myer, commanded by Captain Warren Dean, entertained the vast audience with its famous drill, which was one of the most enjoyable features of the occasion.

The faultless execution of every maneuver; the splendid equipment and soldierly bearing of the men together with their well-groomed and adorned mounts, of uniform color, elicited frequent applause as the troop obeyed each command given only by shrill blasts from a whistle.

The lying down of the horses—a most important maneuver when in the face of shot and shell, under certain conditions—and the mounting and dismounting of the cavaliers, as they galloped swiftly, over the field, were specially enjoyed.

At the conclusion of the drill, and to enter into the trying

PRESIDENT TAFT HERE TODAY

The Nation's Chief Executive Will Greet Battle-Scarred Veterans of the Blue and the Gray on Court House Lawn This Afternoon.

TO-DAY'S JUBILEE PROGRAM

9 a. m. Veterans of the Blue and the Gray will assemble at the Henry House on the Battlefield of Bull Run. 10 a. m. Colonel Edmund Berkeley, who commanded the Eighth, Virginia Infantry, and others will deliver addresses of welcome, which will be responded to by General John E. Gilman, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and General George W. Gordon, Grand Commander of the United Confederate Veterans, and others.

The Presidential party will consist of the following gentlemen: The President, Mr. C. D. Hillis, secretary to the President, Major A. W. Butt; Senator Martin; Representative Carlin; and Messrs. Jas. Sloan and R. L. Jarvis, Secret Service Officers. The President and party will leave Washington by auto about 12:30 p. m., arriving at Fairfax Court House about 2 p. m., stopping there about thirty minutes for luncheon with Senator R. Ewell Thornton, arriving at Manassas at 4 p. m., where they will be met on main street, near the Presbyterian church, by two troops of cavalry, who will precede the President's automobile, traversing Centre, Battle, Church and West streets and Lee avenue, to the south entrance of court-house grounds.

The President and party, leaving their automobiles, will walk to the speaker's stand, between a double row of infantry, where the Governor and staff will be awaiting them. The following will be the order of seating the distinguished visitors: In front of the chair stand will be the speaker's stand. On the right of the President will be seated Representative Carlin, Senator Martin and Mr. Westwood Hutchison. On the left of the President will be the Governor, Mr. Geo. C. Round and Mr. E. Raymond Ratcliffe. Directly in the rear of the President will be the President's secretary, Mr. C. D. Hillis, Major Butt and Messrs. Sloan and Jarvis, Secret Service Officers.

The program at the stand will be as follows: The reception committee will meet the President at the entrance to the court-house grounds and conduct him to the stand. A tabernacle of girls, representing each state in the Union, will be arranged on the platform, awaiting the President, and will sing the Manassas National Jubilee song as he enters. Immediately following the song, Mr. Westwood Hutchison will introduce Representative Carlin, who will introduce the Governor and the President. After the President's address, the exercises will conclude with a song by the chorals. The audience will remain standing in their places until the President has passed out of the grounds. The infantry will remain in a double line, extending from the court-house to the gate, until after the President has been seated in his automobile. The two troops of cavalry, which escorted the President to the grounds, will remain on Lee avenue during the program, and upon his departure will line up on the avenue, parading the President's car to pass them in review as he takes his departure.

Prays That Ezekiel's Prophetic Vision May Crown Reunion Jubilee. Colonel Lounsbury Tells How His Regiment Was Repulsed by Kirby Smith at Bull Run.

The following letter, with expressions of good will and hearty approval of the Reunion and Jubilee, was received this week from one who wore the Gray and who has laid aside all bitterness engendered by the strife of fifty years ago, to enter into the bonds of unity and peace with his former adversaries, has just been received by Chairman Round:

MY DEAR SIR: I am very, very sorry it will be impossible for me to be with you at the Jubilee of Bull Run on July 21st and to share with you across the meadows of fifty years ago. Having labored with you in another sphere in building up the waste places of dear old Virginia, I know your kindliness of heart, and what you wish and great success, paying you may realize Ezekiel's prophetic vision: "And they shall become one in thine hand, neither shall they be divided into two any more."

THE GROVETON PAVILION

A Program Replete With Interesting Features Marks Its Dedication, Wednesday.

The assembly repaired to the pavilion where the dedicatory exercises were begun with an invocation by Rev. T. D. D. Clark, in which he paid a high tribute to the noble women who had labored so zealously and untiringly for a period of a half century in caring for the graves of those who fell upon those historic plains.

In his usually happy mood, Lieut. Geo. C. Round, who has been characterized by the press as the apostle of this Peace Jubilee, said: "We are engaged today in a work that will be recorded in history as the most unique proceedings, worthy of emulation, that the world has ever known and I take pleasure in introducing to you a gentleman, who not only by reason of his natural inclination towards Universal Peace and harmony, but by reason of his honorable position, must insist upon peace, at least within his jurisdiction."

Judge Thornton, in well chosen words, commended the spirit which had inaugurated the reunion and Peace Jubilee. "On my left," said Judge Thornton, "is a monument which marks the sacrifice of Southern heroes for their beloved Southland, and in front of me stands a shaft to the memory of those who came upon these plains and spilled their blood in a cause they believed to be right."

Mr. William A. Buckley recited a poem, composed by him for the occasion, entitled, "The Blue and The Gray," which elicited much applause. The address of Mrs. Alexander, to whose philanthropy the erection of the Confederate monument, at Groveton, is largely due, was enthusiastically received. Speeches were also made by Sergeant Alexander Campbell, Major and other veterans in a true spirit of unity and peace.

"PEACE JUBILEE" SERMON

One Thousand People Hear Blind Chaplain's Stirring Address Sunday Night.

Ordeals which tried men's souls. Such a scene is unique in the history of the world and argues well for humanity. It proves that faith is stronger than doubt; hope is stronger than fear; mercy is stronger than revenge; love is stronger than hate and peace is stronger than war."

Continuing, he said he doubted that such a spectacle, such as would be witnessed on the historical fields of Bull Run, this week, could take place, save in America.

"Man is a strange mixture of good and evil," said he, "but in the long run the historian will record that the good predominates. The world is better than it was fifty years ago when those brave men fought on the fields about us. There is a thousand times more good in every human heart, to-day, than evil, else we could not celebrate this great Peace Jubilee which has aroused such universal approval. After four years, the South laid down her arms but she gained a greater victory in her defeat than had she finally triumphed over her adversaries."

Mr. Coulan paid a high tribute to the heroes of the South who, under privations and a contention against overwhelming odds, fought so nobly and persistently for the cause they believed to be right. He thanked God that one flag floated over the north, south, east and west of this greatest nation on earth.

"It was that flag," said he, "that enabled Grover Cleveland to say to England in the Venezuelan trouble: 'hands off' and she obeyed, and to Spain: 'stop persecuting the people of Cuba or leave the Western Hemisphere and you know the result."

"Yes," said he, "the world is growing better, but before we can have Universal Peace we must have a more thoroughly united church. There is only one religion, the religion of Jesus Christ, and the time has come when the churches throughout all civilization should recognize none other."

"It is not what we get out of this world," said he, "but what we put into it that counts towards peace and happiness in this life."

The services closed with the singing of the Manassas Jubilee song, "United," composed especially for the occasion by Mrs. Mary Speed-Mercer, of Elm City, N. C., and the benediction by Rev. Chas. L. DeLong, pastor of Grace M. E. Church, South.

INTERESTING WAR RELIC

L. Morgan Davis, of Alexandria, Desires to Return Captured Pistol to Owner.

On the 21st of July 1861, at the first battle of Bull Run, Mr. L. Morgan Davis, of Alexandria, who was then a member of Kemps Battery, captured a pistol from a Federal Soldier, on which was inscribed: "Herbert Smith, from a friend." Mr. Davis is anxious that the owner of the pistol, if alive, or his relatives, if known, should have the weapon. Should any of the survivors of the Federal Army, who may gather at the reunion Jubilee here, today, know of the whereabouts of the party to whom the pistol belonged, or of any of his relatives and will make such information known to Mr. Davis, this valuable war relic will be cheerfully placed in his or their possession.

TO-DAY

Fifty years ago the storm of war broke upon us. The horrors of battle, the privations of camp and the sufferings of prisoners have been told by those who know only too well that "War is hell."

With peaceful fields about us now, it is hard for us to realize what has been. With one-time foes greeting us as friends, it seems strange that men should have ever made so costly, so terrible a mistake as the cruel, bloody business of battle.

The last message of the great chieftains was a peaceful benediction to all the world. From the bloody fields of Manassas, Gettysburg and Appomattox the brave soldier, whether he wore the gray or the blue, turns today to the solemn and beautiful scenes at Lexington and Mt. McGregor and "Peace hath her victories not less renowned than war."

The hand-clasp is better than a blow. Kind words mean more than screaming shell and shrapnel. A court of justice now looks down upon a battlefield. A school-house has taken the place of a camp-fire and a beautiful home supplants the dire, blank walls of a hospital. The orphan's tears and the widow's woe are hushed in a sacred memory. Instead of tares and thistles we bring now fruits and flowers.

Let the wounds heal for strife hath done no man good. Hot words and a hasty temper have never served any worthy purpose, nor lifted any man higher. It is the man who stops and thinks who moves the world. It is the man who heals wounds that is the philosopher and benefactor. It is the man who builds that counts, who tills the fields, who toils in the factory who learns, who knows that conquers the world and leads his fellows.

Manassas applauds the words of President Taft, chief executive of the first country of all the world, and says: Let there be no more war forever.

THE BROOKLYN INCIDENT. The prevailing opinion of many throughout the New England states that the bitterness engendered by the great civil war has an abiding peace only in the hearts of southern people should certainly now be changed since the action of the Brooklyn Grand Army Post protesting against the display of Southern flags at the Peace Jubilee to be celebrated here, to-day, and calling upon President Taft to take steps to prevent it. This action comes with poor grace from a body of men who have, as one of the cardinal principles of their organization: Peace on earth, good will towards men.

It was a just rebuke when Chairman Round, of the Peace Jubilee Committee and a Union Veteran made the announcement Wednesday night to his Brooklyn comrades expressing his admiration for the battleflag of the Confederacy representing one of

Manassas Jubilee Patron

COLONEL ROBERT M. THOMPSON

Colonel Robert M. Thompson was the first to give substantial aid towards financing the Manassas Jubilee and make its success possible, by enclosing his check to Chairman Round for $250, one fifth of which was turned over to the Bull Run Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to aid in the building of the Memorial Pavilion at Groveton.

He will now present to every survivor of the Civil War present at the peace Jubilee, a handsome badge of honor. Col. Thompson is a graduate of the Naval Academy and is President of the Pennsylvania Society of New York. He is now in London in connection with the dedication of a statue of William Penn, in the English Capital. Col. Thompson's place of business is at 43 Exchange Place, New York, but spends his winters in Washington.

He has manifested much interest in this peace Jubilee and has called Mr. Round his congratulations upon the efforts put forth to make the reunion of the Blue and the Gray the success he desires it to be and expressing his regrets of his inability to be present.

The following is the cablegram received from Colonel Thompson, by Chairman Round, Tuesday:

LONDON, July 18, 1911. LIEUTENANT ROUND, Manassas, Va. It is a great grief to me that I can not be with you to-day. If your plans have been carried out, the meeting on Henry Hill will be remembered as one of the great dramatic incidents of all time. The reconciliation embodied truly the existing feeling between the North and South. The good Book commands us to love one another, but it is much more important that we should like and respect each other and that we have come to do thanks to you. Henry Hill has established a new claim upon history. Present my greetings to all good Americans who meet there on the 21st. (Signed) ROBERT MANS THOMPSON.

the greatest military powers in the world's history" and appeal to them to lay aside all feelings of malice and join in a celebration having for its object the fraternization of the survivors of those who wore the Blue and of those who wore the Gray, after a lapse of half a century, thus cementing for all time, the North and the South, under one flag, in the bonds of fellowship, peace and harmony.

General Abbott Approves Re-Union Jubilee. 22 Berkeley Street, Cambridge, Mass., July 10, 1911. Lieut. George C. Round, Chairman Executive Committee, the Manassas National Jubilee.

My Dear Sir: Many thanks for your cordial invitation to be present at the Jubilee. It would give me much pleasure to do so, for I heartily sympathize with the objects of the gathering and wish it every success. At this heated season, however, I hardly feel equal to the effort. In a few days I shall count my four score years, and although enjoying good health, do not care to take the risk.

As you know, I was wounded in the battle, and am probably the only survivor of the staff of General McDowell at that date. Perhaps these facts warrant my sending my cordial good wishes to all the veterans, both those who wore the blue and those who wore the gray.

HENRY L. ABBOTT. Brig. Gen. U. S. Army, Retired.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Property of T. H. Athey to the Value of $800 Destroyed—No Insurance.

The barn on the premises of Mr. T. H. Athey, one mile west of Manassas, more generally known as the Loose place, was, together with its entire contents destroyed by fire Wednesday, about noon.

Mr. Athey and his family were seated at dinner when the fire was discovered and which was so far underway that all hope of saving the building was, at once abandoned.

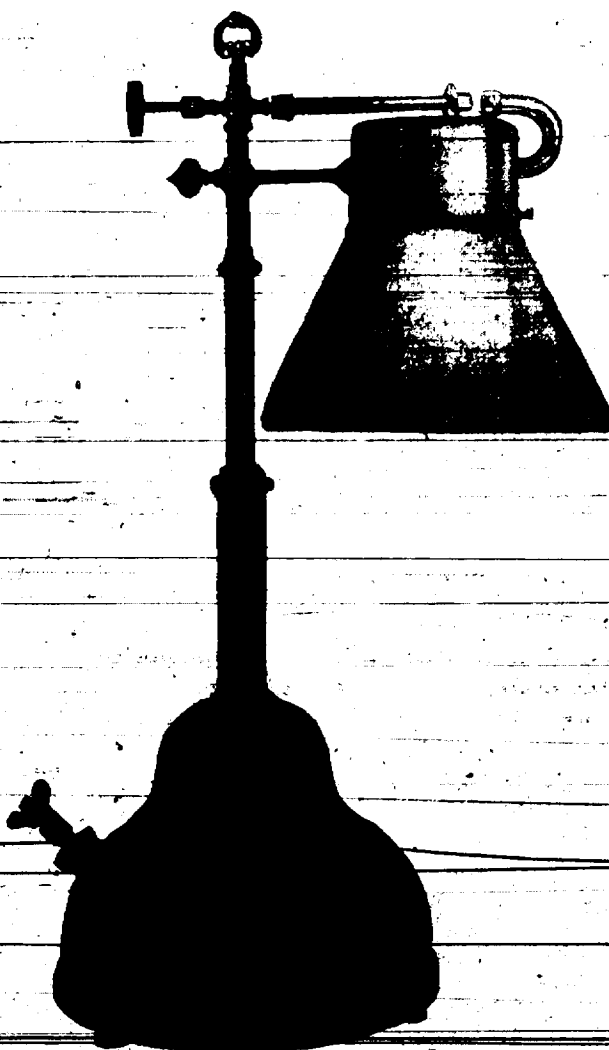

Mr. Athey, only a few days ago, had threshed his grain, measuring 140 bushels and stored it in a bin in the barn. His stock of fresh meat, butcher wagon, harness, farming implements and a lot of hay was also stored in the building. Mr. Bowen, of Casanova, who was a guest at the Athey home during the horse show, had, only a short while before the fire, driven in from the horse show grounds and stored his carriage in the barn. His horses were also stabled in the building but were blindfolded and led to a place of safety.

There are two theories as to the origin of the fire. One is that a lighted cigar or cigarette stump was thrown among straw scattered in the stable lot, by some one going or coming from the horse show grounds, igniting the loose straw which communicated the fire to a large rick of straw adjacent to the barn. The other is, that children and matches are responsible. The former theory, according to investigations is the more tenable.

Mr. Athey estimates his loss at fully $800 with no insurance. It was only a short while ago that he purchased the property and put the barn in thorough repair.

THAT DISGRUNTLED REPORTER.

The name of James E. Maddox, whose alleged residence is in Erie, Penn., will remain in the minds of the people of Manassas as existing in name only in connection with the base slander contained in the special to The Washington Post in its issue of July 22. That these specials, one purporting to come from Manassas and the other from Erie, Pa., were fabricated in the National Capital by a disgruntled reporter, for sinister motive, there can be no doubt, whatever.

The net of conclusive evidence to this effect is being closely drawn around the mysterious correspondent of The Post, and will, in time, doubtless, bring him into the lime-light. When these specials were brought to the attention of the press correspondents of Manassas, each, emphatically denied any knowledge of their authorship and at once turned their attention towards denying what they believed to be a clandestine attempt, by some disreputable party, to bring discredit upon the Peace Jubilee, engender better feelings and again open the chasm which was closed at Henry Hill, Friday, through the agency of veterans who wore the Blue and those who wore the Gray with the hearty approval of the Nation's Chief Executive.

Denial of the base charges were sent to the Washington Post, the Washington Times, the Associated Press, and The Richmond Virginian by their respective correspondents but all refused to publish the story except The Virginian, which not only gave the story full space but devoted over a column, editorially, to the villainous plot to injure the good name of the noble women of the south.

No, the story contained in those memorable dispatches is false upon its face.

It is not the spirit of southern women, after weeks of toil and self-denial in planning a Peace Jubilee in which veterans on both sides were cordially invited to participate, to deliberately insult their guests, no matter on which side they fought in the great civil war.

Water was freely given at Henry Hill, so long as the supply lasted and when it gave out, by reason of the prevailing drought, all alike were politely informed of the fact.

This "tempest in a tea pot" was started by a camera fiend who was denied the privilege of placing his camera at a point objectionably near the stand from which President Taft was speaking, and who left with the avowed intention of... The Peace Jubilee management and the whole affair," and who went deliberately at work to forge lighting in the National Capital that the southern people might hear the distant thunder from the shores of New England.

THE MANASSAS HOSPITAL.

The movement to establish a hospital at Manassas was given new impetus when, at a recent meeting of the board of directors, a committee was appointed to make an active canvas for aid to carry into effect plans formulated by the Hospital Association several months ago.

The object of the association to fill a long felt want of an up-to-date hospital in Manassas is one which should appeal to citizens of Prince William county.

An institution of this kind, equipped with all modern conveniences and a corps of competent physicians and surgeons would eliminate much of the trouble, in convenience and expense which now obtains in this county in cases of extreme complications of illness and those needing the services of a skilled surgeon.

It is to be hoped that the promoters of this worthy object may meet with the substantial aid and hearty cooperation which they deserve and which is due them by every citizen of the county.

PICK-POCKETS AT WORK

Several Parties Relieved of Valuables; by Professionals, on Jubilee Day.

Like all large gatherings the occasion of the Peace Jubilee was no exception for pick-pockets who came from far and near to ply their nefarious calling. That the pockets of a number of persons were relieved of valuables is no doubt true, as is evidenced from recent developments.

Nine pocket books devoid of cash, were found yesterday morning by Allick Lambert, an employe of W. M. Wheeler. These pocket books were wrapped in a portion of The Washington Post of its issue of July 21, and thrown under Mr. Wheeler's warehouse on Railroad avenue.

One of the pocketbooks contained bills from Hynson & Co., and Hibbs & Giddings which were made out to J. M. Ellicott, another contained three promissory notes, one for $100, and two for $500 each, made payable to L. C. Chappellear. Two of these notes were dated at Upperville, Va., and the other at Warrenton, Va.

Mr. B. C. Cornwell, of this place, lost his pocket book containing a check for $24, and cash to about the same amount. It is also learned that Mr. Wilber Clark, a brother-in-law of Mrs. B. J. Holden, lost his pocket book containing about $20, and a return ticket to California where he resides.

Sergeant Willcox has the recovered pocket books in his possession awaiting identification.

LITTLE MISS ROSA DONOHUE

"Daughter of Goddess of Liberty" Exchanges Flag For a Kiss From President Taft.

Seated upon the platform with President Taft, Governor Mann and other distinguished personages at the court-house, Friday evening, was Rosa Donohue, of New York city, who is known in the Grand Army of the Republic circles as "the daughter of the goddess of liberty."

Little Rosa, who is eight years old, was dressed in full uniform, representing the national flag, and entered into the jubilee exercises with much enthusiasm. Her spotless white duck jacket—the symbol of peace—was trimmed in gold lace with a double row of military buttons with shields and flags of the union embroidered upon each sleeve. The color of blue velvet, studded with gilt stars, represented the field, and the kilt skirt of red and white silk, the stripes of "old glory." Upon her right breast was embroidered a spread Eagle with shield and flags, and upon her head, from which a cluster of brown ringlets fell upon her shoulders, rested, jauntily, a white duck naval cap with shield and flags.

This little girl, thoroughly imbued with patriotism, has taken part in four G. A. R. parades and two presentations of flags upon occasions of note, and was present at the last national convention and witnessed the inauguration of President Taft.

At the exercises at the court-house, Friday evening, she presented the President with the flag she carried on last decoration day and was rewarded with an affectionate kiss from the Nation's Chief Executive.

The little girl is a grand-daughter of Owen Donohue, who was a private in the 69th New York Infantry and who was wounded in the First Bull Run battle and reported dead. He was confined for two years, in Libby and other Confederate prisons and upon his release, he went to his home, so changed in appearance that his family disowned him. It was only through a birth-mark over his right eye, was he able to prove his identity and re-established himself in the hearts of his loved ones.

"Send me THE JOURNAL" was little Rosa's last greeting to THE JOURNAL's representative as she threw her arms around his neck and gave him a kiss just before boarding the train, with her mother, for her New York home.

BRIEF LOCAL ITEMS

President H. U. Hoop is on a trip through Maryland in the interest of Eastern colleges. The concrete block building of Mr. Ira C. Reid, on South Main street, is nearing completion. Mr. H. Griffith is extremely ill in his home in Grant avenue, with little hope of his recovery. Elder C. H. Waters, of Maryland, will preach in the Primitive Baptist church, on next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. A meeting of the Manassas Fire Department is requested, for tonight, by chief Randall. A full attendance is requested. The fall term of Eastern College will open Wednesday, September 27th at 10 a. m., with a much increased attendance. Owing to the crowded condition of our columns, we were compelled to omit the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors. A called meeting of the Manassas Civic League will be held in Nicol's Hall, to-night at 8 o'clock. All members invited. Mrs. C. F. Scott, of Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, was summoned to Manassas, last week, on account of the extreme illness of her father, Mr. H. Griffith. Mr. R. E. Sprinkle and family, of Washington, are moving into the property of Mrs. Sarah Keys on East Centre street, adjoining the Baptist church. There will be a called meeting of the Manassas chapter, U. D. C., on Saturday afternoon at 3:30. Important business that requires immediate attention. Mr. Owen Ramey and Miss Gertrude Griffith, both of this county, were married, yesterday, by Rev. Abram Conner at the residence of the officiating minister. The Cable Branch Mine, near Dumfries, and which is operated by the Detroit Fertilizer Company, closed down this week, for lack of water due to the prevailing drought. The grand stand and other buildings at the Horse Show grounds were decorated by the Washington Decorating Company, under the supervision of Mr. Fred R. W. Reh. Mr. D. M. Pitts, manager of the Porter farm, near this place, is the possessor of a fine motor cycle upon which he "whizzes" in and out of town with the speed of "greased lightning." Mr. E. W. Adamson took the examination before the board of pharmacists last week. He expects to go to Culpeper, soon, to take charge of the pharmacy of Bruce & Ricketts, in that place. Among the war relics shown here during the peace jubilee were the cavalry swords of Lieut. B. D. Merchant and private, Frank A. Merchant, of the Prince William Cavalry, 4th Virginia regiment. Mr. Ed. Longbeam, of Marshall Fauquier county, and Miss Carrie Parry, of near Manassas, were married in Rockville, Md., Saturday. The Journal wishes the happy pair many years of unalloyed happiness. Mr. Walter Hibbs moved into his new brick blacksmith shop, on East Centre street, this week. This shop, which Mr. Hibbs intends to equip with all modern conveniences, will be the best of the kind in the county. Mr. J. R. Dorrell has installed two hundred candle power lamps in front of his premises on Railroad avenue which not only gives his quarters an abundance of soft, white light but lights up the passenger depot platform in a manner that is thoroughly appreciated by the traveling public.

Companies C and D, of the fifteenth cavalry, which have been camping on the Bull Run battlefields and at the horse show grounds, for the past three weeks, returned to their quarters at Fort Myer, this morning. The drilling for oil at Nokesville again came to a halt, Tuesday, and the drillers engaged in sinking the well left for their respective homes, Wednesday. The cause of suspension of operation has not been ascertained. Miss Sadie and Rena Beavers, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Beavers, are quite ill in their home near Buckhall. The condition of little Lola, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beavers, who has been quite ill, is very little improved. The saw mill of Mr. Frank Milstead, located between Minnville and Headley, was destroyed by fire Monday morning. It is supposed the fire originated from an adjacent pile of saw dust. The loss is estimated at about $600 with no insurance. A party consisting of Mrs. A. E. Spies, daughter Kathleen, and son Gilbert; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Prescott and son, Alfred, and little Irwin Mather, left here, Monday, for Freestone Point, on the Potomac river, where they will camp for two weeks. Mr. George Kenton Foley, of his home in Greenville, Miss., Tuesday night. Mr. Foley is a brother of Mrs. Martha Mathews, of near the Stone House, in this county. The body is expected to arrive here, to-day, and interment will be made in the Sulley cemetery, tomorrow. A company of soldiers, each from Leesburg, Alexandria and Fredericksburg, commanded, respectively by Captains Larkin, Stymaker and Sergeant Proctor, passed through here on a special train, Sunday morning, for Calpeper, where they went into camp for summer maneuvers. The 2nd annual jumping contest and tournament will be given at Haymarket, Friday, Aug. 4th, for benefit of St. Paul's Guild House. It promises to be a great success, even better than last year. Begins at 10 a. m. Admission 10 and 15 cents. Refreshments served on grounds. A car load of shetland ponies were state-tracked here, Sunday morning, en route from Abiri, Vermont, to Dr. Elliott's shetland pony farm, near Markham. Some of the ponies were not more than three feet tall and were the envy of many little boys and girls who visited the car, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Newton Robinson and his sister, Miss Bertha Gray Robinson, editors of "The Orange Observer," paid The Journal a friendly call, Wednesday, while in attendance upon the horse show. Miss Robinson says she is familiar with every detail of her office from "sticking type" to editing spring poetry. The funeral of Christopher, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Meester, who died in his home at Milford, from blood poisoning, last Wednesday, took place from the Presbyterian church in this place on Friday, Revs. Willey Welch and Baird officiating and interment was made in the Manassas cemetery. The funeral of the late Garfield Arthur Dodge took place from the Presbyterian church, Sunday afternoon, Dr. H. U. Hoop, president of Eastern College, officiating, and the interment was in the Manassas cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. D. H. Prescott, A. B. Davis, William Foote, Geo. Muddiman, W. I. Steere and E. L. Hornbaker. Dr. Hoop paid a high tribute to the Christian character of the deceased and expressed much sympathy for the bereaved family, especially for the father who had resorted to all possible means to aid his son in his great battle against the "white plague."

Miss Claudia Waters, the representative of The Little Brown, text and story book company, of Boston, Mass., returned to Manassas Friday, after a brief visit to her home in Washington, D. C., and to her home in Luray and Winchester. Miss Waters is delighted with her trip and greatly encouraged by the success which has crowned her efforts in behalf of her company. Capt. Jack Peyton, who conducted the train between Manassas and the horse show grounds, states that 500 passengers were carried on the first and 1,500 on the second day of the Horse Show by his train. The passengers handled by Conductor Peyton speak in the highest terms of the courtesy accorded them by this popular veteran of the Southern Railway Company. One of the New York-Richmond path-finder cars, of the Touring Club of America, which left Washington, Monday, for Richmond, in preparation for the First Annual Road Congress to take place in Richmond, October 30 to Nov. 1, under the auspices of the American Association for highway improvement, arrived in Manassas on its return trip to Washington on its return yesterday. The brick-layers began work on the new home of the National Bank of Manassas, Monday, and the work is being rapidly pushed forward towards completion. That portion of the building facing on Main and Centre streets will be of white pressed brick, with white granite window and door-sills and when the plans are fully carried out the building will present a substantial and handsome appearance. Miss Daisy Bonner was given a surprise party on her birthday last week, in her home near Manassas, at which refreshments were served at a late hour and an enjoyable evening spent. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Boston Steele, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Bibb, Misses Alma and Sallie May Shoemaker, Rosa Dunch, Mamie and Bessie Steele and Messrs. J. B. Hornbaker, Herman Burke and Norman. The horse attached to Madox & Byrd's delivery wagon, while standing in front of the store, Friday afternoon, took fright at an automobile and started off at a lively gait. An attempt was made at the railway crossing on Main street to stop the horse, but turning north he went, at a break-neck speed, down the railway tracks until he reached Fairview avenue crossing when he turned south on the avenue and was caught at Kincheol's store. No damage resulted to either horse or vehicle. RETURN THE FLAGS. Chairman Round requests the return of the large flags placed in the hands of any citizens for decoration purposes. He is responsible, under bond, for their return and must pay for them if not returned. Some small U. S. flags and Confederate battle flags were taken from the trees on Grant avenue, on Friday, for souvenirs or otherwise. Please return them. Not only are they the captains of industry in birdland, but they are exemplary folk in domestic felicity. I never heard Jenny even scold the old man once, nor did I ever hear him say anything that I could, by the most violent interpretation of bird language, imagine was a curse word. There was no time for such miserable behavior. Nor did Mr. Wren ever take any mysterious trips and fail to show up on time. He never even went out with 'the boys,' much less took rich juicy worms to the other girls. And Jenny was a model of a wife. Never once did she go down the street to meet a man. Nor did she belong to any swell set, nor put on foolish airs. There was no time for this as another domestic was being prepared in a cigar box on the opposite end of the porch.

Miss DeCoursey, who is an accomplished pianist, entertained a company of Mr. and Mrs. Payne's neighbors with some delightful music. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Thos. B. Whebebe and daughters, Misses Nellie and Mary and son, Robert. Death of Mr. Jas. P. Hulish. Mr. Jas. P. Hulish, a life-long resident of Fauquier, died at his home here on the morning of June 23rd, aged sixty-eight years. He had been a great sufferer for the last twelve years with a peculiar nervous affection. Often racked with pain, which he bore with great fortitude, his Maker. Long and weary were the nights and the morning brought no relief. Only those who were familiar with his suffering can know that death to him was a welcome messenger and felt that his rest departed desire that his soul be released from this tenement of clay had indeed been granted and he was with Him he had humbly and truly served from his early youth. The funeral services were held in the Baptist church, just opposite his residence, of which church he was a consistent member, Rev. T. D. D. Clarke, pastor, officiating. Interment was made in the Annsby by the side of a beloved daughter, who preceded him to the better land some years ago, in the morning of her life. Mr. Hulish was one of the first to respond to his country's call when the clarion note was sounded. He joined the Prince William Cavalry, a company conspicuous for gallantry and daring, and served throughout the war. Although nearly half a century has passed away since those stirring times, and few of his old comrades are left to answer the roll call, yet it was the men who won the gray who were his heroes, and his inspiration. He tall bears the name of Dr. H. M. Clarkson, Capt. J. E. Herrell and Messrs. Jno. W. Hall, Henry F. Lynn, J. P. Smith and Jas. W. Bell. Mr. Hulish is survived by his widow, who was Miss Mary Virginia Smith, three sons and one daughter, namely: Mr. Randolph Hulish, of Lathrop, Pa.; Messrs. James A. and Lawrence A. thousands of the vast assembly knew no bounds. No discordant note came from either of these distinguished speakers.

Standing under a canopy formed by the intertwining of the Confederate and National colors, the old veterans placed upon the lapel of their coat the memorial badge of honor, which Colonel Robert Thompson had donated to them especially for the occasion.

At the conclusion of the reunion ceremonies, all thoughts turned to Manassas where President Taft was expected to place the seal of his hearty approval upon the great Peace Jubilee and to deliver a message of good will and cheer to the thin lines of the Blue and the Gray now nearing the shores of eternity.

LEGION OF HONOR THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG. Neither Can He Ever Die According to British Law.

It is a curious point of British law that the king never dies, or, if he does, in another way it would be as if he never died. The law will admit that there may be a demise of the crown, meaning, of course, simply that there has been a transfer of the royal authority from one person to another. It is a maxim that "the king can do no wrong," and under the law he would not be held personally responsible for any crime or tort that he chose to commit at any time. Many royal authorities that the king is not actually and literally the sovereign, and that the statutes made by him in his majesty might be considered a subject must be ascribed to his advisers. One thing seems to be certain, and that is that the king is never under no circumstances what is arrested. Nor, moreover, could his goods be distrained or taken in execution should he fail to meet his liabilities. A quaint feature of British law is that in theory the king is present at the law court at every sitting, though he might in point of fact actually be on the continent or elsewhere. It follows, therefore, that it is impossible to nominate him as plaintiff should he not put in an appearance when his case is called, since the law specifically states that the king is there. In a similar sense the king is always constructively present in parliament, though he is in fact thousands of miles from his shores. His majesty is under the law the nominal guardian of all infants, idiots and lunatics, and to him is granted the sole right to print the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer and all acts of parliament in the United Kingdom. It has been stated, furthermore, that should he so desire the king could forbid the printing of any or all of them anywhere within his dominions. Harper's.

MINED THE ROAD.

The Volunteers Wiped Out the Foo, but It Was a Sad Story. "I can tell you the saddest thing that happened during the whole war," said an old negro to a group of listeners. The story was this. One night it was reported that the town was in peril of attack from the enemy, and the fighting forces were quickly mustered. One of the volunteers conceived the idea of mining the road and reaching the foe in time to annihilate the foe. There was plenty of powder, and the scheme was adopted. The rest of the defenders stood some on one side of the road, some on the other, ready to discharge their rifles into what might be left of the assailants. The day passed without incident, but as the night wore on the strain of the situation began to tell on the nerves of the defenders. Presently, however, there was the sound of hoofs on the highway, approaching rapidly. Such was the state of mind of the defenders that the sounds appeared to indicate the coming of a mighty cavalry force. It was a terrifying moment. A vivid flash lighting up the scene as the first horseman reached the spot told that the mine had been exploded and it had done its work. There was not a vestige of an army to be seen when the smoke cleared away excepting the scattered fragments of a big black mule. The party laughed at the old man's conclusion his tale, "That's a good enough story," said one of them, "but what was there so sad about it?" "It was my uncle, sah," was the old negro's pathetic reply.

A Battle of Languages. Three or four languages strove for mastery in ancient Gaul, which is now France. German was spoken by the 12,000 Frank invaders. Popular Latin was spoken by 6,000,000 Gallo-Roman. Literary Latin was the language of the church and of literature. Low Latin was afterward the language of the administration. German was the first to succumb. In four centuries it ceased to be understood by the soldiers, and in seventy years more it had become an object of ridicule. But it survives in more than 300 words, expressing the things of government, law and war, and thus forms an insignificant part of the French language.

Corpses Rings. The author of the old-fashioned shell-back class always wore a corpse ring. This is a plain band of silver or gold inscribed within with the sailor's name and port. Corpses rings are worn for the purpose of identification in case of death by drowning through shipwreck, etc. The shell-back sailor can never swim, and he looks forward faintly to lying suddenly beneath the sea. To be dead, he usually prefers so—a death by a hanging was in hospital.—Buffalo Express.

Man Has Got Out. "No," said Woodie, "I don't see Whismat at all and more. He has dropped out of our social set." "He tells a different story," remarked Binkston. "Indeed?" "Yes; he claims he has climbed out."—Catholic Standard.
The Out at. "You're looking blue." "What's the matter?" "Well, I'll tell you. A patient I had to treat died this morning." "Ah, cheer up. He might have died even if you hadn't been called."—Toledo Blade.
