YOU CAN RAISE 100 Per Cent. OF CHICKENS HATCHED

BOLGIANO'S "SQUARE DEAL" FERTILIZER. PRAISE WHERE PRAISE IS DUE. I have been most successful with my 100 per cent of chickens hatched. In former years I was only able to raise about 40 to 50 per cent, then I fed them on home products, bought from a local dealer, Bolgiano's "Square Deal" Fertilizer and strived my best to give them the best care possible. My success was due to the fact that I fed them on home products, bought from a local dealer, Bolgiano's "Square Deal" Fertilizer and strived my best to give them the best care possible.

A POULTRY EXPERT. We have just published a book containing every one who raises chickens has been looking for. "Poultry Profit for One Year." The price of this book is 25c. If you will send us 10c in stamps and mention the name of this paper, we will send you one free.

That housewife made a long step in the direction of a more conservative diet when she decided it was easier to prepare her vegetables and wash her dishes sitting on a stool of convenience than standing up. A host of other housewives might follow her example with profit.

Centuries of education and civilization have failed to give human beings a veneer of culture thick enough not to be broken through by the primitive and instinctive self-protection in a rush for safety at the cry of "Fire" in a crowded auditorium. In such a crisis man shows not one whit more sense than the beast.

Feeding tests which have been made by a number of experiment stations indicate that the ration of an average dairy cow should be about thirty pounds of best clover hay, five pounds of best timothy hay, and five pounds of best alfalfa hay, with these figures should also be kept in mind the fact that a silo of a common dimension will hold 150 tons of silage when packed.

After four years of experimenting at the national plant introduction station at Chico, Cal., B. E. Blanchard, the western cereal expert of the department of agriculture, has succeeded in separating the pure wheat from a variety of wheat known as chita. Introduced into the United States from Turkey, in tests recently conducted the new variety yielded from 10 to 15 bushels per acre more than the white Australia variety, which is the accepted standard of western wheat farmers.

A pasture and woodland of 150 acres that the writer visited the other day have been used this season as a range for sheep. It was interesting to notice how neatly the sheep were being trimmed, as if by many hands. The only words that were left were the muffled bawling and the occasional bleating of the ewes. The variety that are native to the South of Texas sheep on the average farm have more nearly demonstrated that in the case of the farm referred to.

What is your Family Worth?

If your family is worth the best you can afford in house and food and clothes, is it not worth the best reading as well? And the best reading—best for boys and girls, best for men and women—is to be found in 'The Youth's Companion.' Of stories alone The Companion will print nearly 300 in 1912. With all the rest of the paper thrown in, and counting the glorious long serial stories, they cost the subscriber less than a cent apiece. Moreover, you will look long before you will find stories so varied and interesting—stories of coolness in the face of peril, strange adventures with creatures of the forest and the sea, moving stories of life's obscure heroisms, stories breezy with good natured humor, quaint and curious character sketches. Now is the time to subscribe, for you will receive free from the time you $1.75 is received all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1911, containing the opening chapters of Ralph D. Paine's great serial story of the Boxer rebellion, 'The Cross and the Dragon.' And there is the gift of The Companion Calendar for 1912. 'On the New England Coast,' illustrated in four colors and gold. Only $1.75 now for the 52 weekly issues, but on January 1, 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.00.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Proceedings of Interesting Session Held in Manassas on Saturday.

At the meeting of the Manassas School Board for October, a preamble reciting the circumstances under which the Manassas Agricultural High School building was erected and some conflicting provisions in the teachers' contracts, was offered by Mr. Round and laid over to the November meeting held last Saturday at which time the resolution following the preamble was called up by Mr. Round and adopted. The following is the text of the resolution: Resolved, That Division Superintendent George G. Tyler and Trustee Andrew Pringle be and are hereby appointed a special committee to consider the contract in the preamble with authority to secure counsel at the reasonable expense of the Board, if they should consider it advisable, with instructions to report at the next regular meeting of the Board whether any action should be taken by the Board toward a modification of the said contract to make them harmonize with each other and with the uniform policy of the Board since the beginning of the school in 1906; and if they so find to recommend such action as they deem advisable in the interests of the school and of our people.

SCOURING FOR MATERIAL

For Water and Electricity Have Begun Operations.

It will be of especial interest to the people of Manassas to know that Mr. Chas. Farnum and his associates, capitalists of Philadelphia, to whom it is confidently expected that the franchises for water and electricity for the town will eventually be granted, have already, under a special resolution passed by the Town Council, taken action to begin the improvement of our town.

It will be recalled from a publication in THE JOURNAL, that these gentlemen requested the Council to enact special legislation in order that they might be protected in any preliminary work. This the Council did in a resolution introduced by Councilman Hyson. It was shown to the Council that unless work was begun at once it would seriously interfere with the plumbing arrangements of a number of new buildings now in course of construction here, and our City Fathers properly issued a protected permit in advance to our Philadelphia friends.

Just now it cannot be said positively when this work will begin. Mr. Farnum has placed orders, according to our best information, for water pipes—he has also been in communication with the committee of the Council, especially appointed to affiliate with him, with reference to securing poles for the electric construction.

Mr. Newman, chairman of the Town commission, states that he is employing every means to accomplish the best material for the enterprise and he hopes to find something of permanence and value in the shortest period of the country.

There isn't the slightest question about it—Manassas is on the road to a great future—thanks to the gentlemen who compose the present Town Council.

COURAGEOUS CHILD'S ACT

Brave Little Boy Stamps Out Fire and Saves Residence From Destruction.

A serious conflagration was narrowly averted by the bravery and presence of mind of little Everett Rice, son of Mr. W. M. Rice, on Tuesday evening. A lamp in one of the bed-rooms at the home exploded, and but for the energetic efforts of the household the homestead would have perhaps become a horrible holocaust. But, with remarkable courage for one so tender in years the boy fought out the flames and it was not necessary to send in a fire alarm.

COURAGEOUS CHILD'S ACT

Brave Little Boy Stamps Out Fire and Saves Residence From Destruction.

The little 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Henley had a narrow escape from drowning in a tub of water at the home of her parents here on Saturday afternoon. The affectionate mother of the sweet little lass had been absent from the room but a few minutes. When she returned, she missed the tiny cherub where she had left her sprawling upon the floor. Even with her feet in the bathtub and there found her baby faintly fighting for life. Dr. Newman was immediately summoned, but it was nearly an hour before perfect consciousness was restored.

It is supposed that the little girl crept to the vat of water which was sitting on the floor of the kitchen room, and that she, child-like, began to dip her hands into it and then felt within its depths.

The state of Massachusetts has erected near the city of Petersburg a fine monument in honor of its soldiers who fell in the eleven months' siege of Fort Mifflin, which was dedicated next Monday, November 13th, with imposing ceremonies. Governor Foss, with a distinguished party, is coming to Virginia for that purpose and will reach the Union Depot in Washington today.

Our citizens should realize their responsibility and aid the authorities in prosecuting violators and game destroyers whenever necessary. The voter can render a service by conferring with his representatives before leaving for the hurried sixty day session of the Legislature. Will you not do this? The Association is glad to receive or give information, but please make your complaints also to your representative, that he may be impressed with the necessity for legislation. Yours very truly, T. CHRISTIAN, Secretary Game Protection Association of Virginia.

BRIEF LOCAL ITEMS

Oh, what lovely autumn days! The Board of Supervisors will meet to-morrow. Mr. H. J. Ayres was among our agreeable callers this week. The next big festival is one in which we should all take part, Thanksgiving Day. Manassas doesn't make claim to being the Mecca of northern Virginia, but just watch her grow. Mrs. M. L. Sison has rented the Shannon property on West street, formerly occupied by Mr. F. E. Morris. Mrs. Ada Davis has moved into the Waters property on Grant avenue, recently occupied by Dr. R. B. La. kin. Mr. French Galloway and Miss May Cornwell, both of near Independent Hill, were united in marriage this week. The National Bank of Manassas has been designated as the depository for the Postal Savings System to be established here on the 20th instant. The second of a series of discourses on The Man of Galilee will be given by the Rev. Philip A. Arthur at Trinity Episcopal Church next Sunday morning. Mr. Charles E. Fisher is moving his family this week into the dwelling recently purchased from the Brawner estate, as noted in THE JOURNAL at the time. Our thanks are due Mr. J. B. Johnson for a package of delicious peas of a seedling variety. They were unusually sweet and appetizing and our whole force enjoyed them. Mr. E. H. Smith, of the Wrought Iron Range Company, of St. Louis, is in town this week on business for the company. He is a guest while here at the hospitable home of Mrs. Mae Violet Entwisle. The large turnips which have been on display in our window this week and which have attracted such attention, were raised by Mr. M. Lynch. Mr. Lynch informs us that he has about 150 bushels of the vegetable. Hon. C. C. Carlin, our representative in congress, has been chosen as the orator on the occasion of the annual memorial services of Washington Lodge No. 16, of the Elks, which will be held in a Washington theatre building on December 3rd. The ladies of the Baptist Church will hold their annual Thanksgiving dinner at Nicol's Hall on Thursday, the thirtieth. An especially appetizing menu is being prepared and the public is cordially invited to attend and participate in the celebration. The Lutheran church members will observe "Luther Day" Sunday night, Nov. 12th. The Sunday School children will render the service, "Home Mission Crusaders," in honor of Luther's birthday. Everybody invited to attend. Services begin at 7:30. A two-horse team belonging to William Lewis (colored), which was left standing in front of C. M. Larkin's mill, on Tuesday, became frightened and ran away. Some excitement on the streets was caused by the incident, but aside from a general wreckage of the wagon, no damage was done. Governor Mann has appointed Mr. W. L. Heuser, of Haymarket, as a delegate to represent Prince William county before the National Congress of the American Society for Highway Improvement, which convenes in Richmond on November 20. Mr. Heuser is president of the Prince William County Good Roads Association.

After all the election wasn't so awful bad, but where did 239 votes come from for an independent in Prince William? Little Margaret, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Oerly, of Washington, is still winning laurels. At a memorial entertainment last week, she sang, "Sleep My Love Sleep," by Clarke and when in response to a vociferous incense, she gave, "My Hero" from the opera "The Chocolate Soldier," the audience, metaphorically speaking, was lifted off its feet. A feature of the beautiful and impressive song service at Trinity Episcopal Church on Sunday night was a solo by Miss Mary Lee Chapman, which completely thrilled the interested audience. Miss Chapman is a vocalist of considerable soul and power and her contributions to the programs at Trinity are highly appreciated. A special program is being arranged by Mr. C. Maurice Hopkins, the director, for next Sunday evening and all who attend will be rewarded. We notice by the Loudoun papers that a snow squall visited that section last week. There was a slight frost in the air here at the time, which was no doubt brought down on the winds from our sister county. It is beautiful springlike weather here now and the winter garments are still reposing in the wardrobe. We are not putting forward this information as a boast that we are especially "warm articles" down here in Prince William, but merely as a fact that Manassas is a particularly sunny place. It will be quite pleasant news to the friends of Miss Janie Higginbotham to know that it was not thought necessary at the Pastoral Institute, to which she was recently hurried, to submit her to treatment. Miss Higginbotham was bitten by a playful snake, which subsequently developed signs of hydrophobia, and her friends, fearing for her safety, insisted upon the Pastoral treatment. She, with her sister, Mrs. J. M. McFarland, of Norfolk, is now visiting another sister, Mrs. L. W. Kuschagen, in this town. The races at Marlboro, Md., this week were a feature in the sporting world, and we are pleased to note that the horses of our townsman, Mr. Ernest Utterback, came to the front in such splendid style. A writer in the Baltimore Sun says: "Ernest Utterback was by far the most successful owner at the course. In the first race Str Evelyn was third, in the fifth Hedge Rose was second, while in the sixth Black Branch, a comparative outsider, cashed first money for the Virginia horseman at 5 to 1."

I'LL NOT FORGET THEE. I'll not forget thee, Dearest, tho' we've parted; Heaven only knows if e'er again we'll meet. Thy sorrow, sighing, winged and weary hearted, Thy memory, Dearest, ever will be sweet. Perhaps of me thou'lt tender thought has fed; And I'm forgot, chance as chance may be - Yet still I pray love's rainbow e'er o'er thee bending, May bring thee only sweet tranquility. I'll not forget thee, Dearest tho' I wander; In summer noons and autumn times I stray, Absence will make thy fond remembrance fond; For I shall think of thee when far away. Yes, in my hours the saddest, loquacious, 'dreariest, The memory of thy love will comfort me. Thee I divide, tho' storms may howl around us, There's naught but death can still my love for thee. Monument to Gen. Phil Kearny. The National Tribune, editorially, makes reference to Lieutenant Round's movement to erect a suitable monument to the memory of Gen. Phil Kearny. Capt. George C. Round, Manassas, Va., writes apropos of the proposed removal of the body of Gen. Philip Kearny to the National Cemetery at Arlington, that he was killed soon after the Second Battle of Bull Run on the Little River Turnpike near Chantilly. Comrade Round is informed that the owner of the land where he was killed has offered to donate the necessary plot for an appropriate marker or monument. This proposition should receive immediate attention so that the monument can be erected while persons who are living can identify the spot. He suggests an equestrian statue, either for this location or for the Groveton field, where Kearny's last great battle was fought.

THE ELECTION IN PRINCE WILLIAM. The election passed off quietly here on Tuesday. The vote was light, not only in Manassas, but throughout the county. Mr. Wedderburn developed more strength than had been attributed to him. He carried Alexandria city over Mr. Thornton by a majority of 86, and at Independent Hill and at Wellington, in this county, the action of the party was especially surprising, however. Sen. Thornton has carried the county by a majority of 240. There were many scratched and disqualified ballots. The returns from this county have been so slow in coming in that it is impossible for us to give the vote in tabulated form this week, the board of canvassers having just completed its labors. We are, however, enabled to give totals, which we append: FOR STATE SENATE. R. Ewell Thornton, 479; A. J. Wedderburn, 239; James E. Herrall, clerk, 634; Thos. H. Lion, commonwealth attorney, 718; J. P. Ludlum, treasurer, 718; C. A. Barber, sheriff, 716; W. A. Trunkus, commissioner of the revenue, district No. 1, 415; S. T. Cornwell, commissioner of the revenue, district No. 2, 308; J. F. AVOID HARSH DRUGS Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels. If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact. We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing, and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless, and colorless. Combined with other well-known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge, nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons, and aged people, as well as for the most hearty person. They come in three size packages, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain them only at our store - The Rexall Store. W. F. Dowell. THE STORY OF JIM CROW.

By JAMES SPEED.

On numerous occasions in the early part of the summer I had heard strange low sounds from the heavy beech woods. The strangeness of the notes fixed my attention, and at length I determined to investigate. At first I thought it an animal, but I concluded it must be a bird.

My curiosity was now thoroughly aroused, and I determined to spend a whole afternoon if necessary in discovering the nature of the notes which came constantly from the timber when I was not there. Seating myself at the base of a giant beech after dinner, I waited patiently. I do not know how long I was there, but I was aroused by the strange guttural sound.

It is possible that I was listening to a species of wood thrush, but I do not know. I was startled to see a flash of light in the trees above me. I looked up, and saw a large hawk perched on a twig which I knew must be their nest. As I arose they saw me and, uttering their shrill notes of alarm, flew away. The hawk, however, remained on the branch to which they had just retired, and I saw the nest contained an egg and a young chick.

At first the little fellow looked red and ill at ease in his new surroundings. I offered him food of all kinds, but he would not touch it. He looked at me with a suspicious glance, and when I took a step towards him he uttered a shrill note. I felt responsible for him after stealing him from his parents. I obtained some bread and butter and put it into his mouth. He did not touch it, but when I put a morsel of fat into his mouth he ate it.

The next day I climbed into the beech to get the nest. I found it empty, but I saw the tracks of the hawk. I followed the tracks until I found a hole in the ground. I dug it out, and found a nest containing two eggs. I saw the tracks of the hawk leading to the hole.

THE STORY OF JIM CROW. (Continued) Jim was a small, dark-skinned man who lived in a small house on the edge of a large plantation. He was known for his cunning and his ability to get the best of every situation. One day, he was accused of stealing a horse from the plantation. He denied the charge, but the plantation owner would not believe him. Jim decided to take matters into his own hands and escape the plantation. He managed to steal a horse and a pack of supplies, and he rode away into the woods. There, he lived for several months, hiding from the plantation owner and the law. One day, the plantation owner discovered that Jim had escaped, and he sent a party to search for him. Jim was captured, but he managed to escape once again. He was eventually caught and taken to a court of law, where he was sentenced to prison. However, Jim was a clever man, and he managed to escape from prison as well.

Making Sure. O'Reilly was a hunched but intelligent fellow who lived in the old part of town. He had been called to the "great beyond" with the funeral, and he went to the cemetery. All of the arrangements were made for him by the undertaker. He had straightened up the house and looked over the funeral arrangements. He had a great deal to do, but he was determined to see that everything was done to the satisfaction of the family.

IF I CAN LIVE. To make some pale face brighter and to give a lustre to some tired dim eyes. One of the best of things in the world is to see a young man in the prime of life. One of the best of things in the world is to see a young man in the prime of life. One of the best of things in the world is to see a young man in the prime of life.

AN UNFINISHED JOB. A patient entered a dentist's office on the other day and after showing an swollen cheek for admittance to the dentist's office, he said, "I've been having a pain in my cheek for several days, and it's getting worse all the time. I've been to several dentists, but they haven't been able to do anything for it. Can you help me?"

What? George William Curtis was lecturing on a stage one day when suddenly a heavy sob-sob-sob broke loose from the auditor. The lecturer looked at the man who was sobbing and said, "What's the matter?" "Oh, it's nothing," the man said. "I'm just a little overcome by your lecture." "Overcome?" the lecturer asked. "Overcome by my lecture?" "Yes, sir," the man said. "You've given me a new idea of life, and I'm just a little overcome by it."

Lincoln's Legs and Whisky. A well known stranger one day called on Abraham Lincoln. After a few minutes of conversation, the stranger said, "I've heard that you were a great fighter." "Yes, I was," Lincoln said. "But I was never in a fight." "I've heard that you were a great fighter," the stranger said. "But I was never in a fight," Lincoln said.

Know Me Well. Michael, the man who lived in the old part of town, was known for his cunning and his ability to get the best of every situation. One day, he was accused of stealing a horse from the plantation. He denied the charge, but the plantation owner would not believe him. Michael decided to take matters into his own hands and escape the plantation. He managed to steal a horse and a pack of supplies, and he rode away into the woods. There, he lived for several months, hiding from the plantation owner and the law. One day, the plantation owner discovered that Michael had escaped, and he sent a party to search for him. White ex-president Roosevelt was on his famous Louisiana hunting trip he passed by an old colored man's cabin and saw two fine bounds in the yard. Mr. Roosevelt made several offers for the bounds, each larger than the last, but the old man shook his head.

Finally the president said: "If you knew who I am you would sell me those dogs." "I would sell dem houn' dawgs if I knowed who you-is!" exclaimed the old man. "Who is you, any how?"

"I am President Roosevelt," was the reply, uttered in an impressive tone. The old man looked at him a moment, and then said: "See heah, I wouldn't care if you was Booker T. Washington, you couldn't get dem dawgs!"

A GREAT DISCOVERY

We expect the lion's share of the trade of the dressy young men of this town and county, this season.

The object of this suit is to set aside a deed of trust from Eastern College to Thos. H. Linn, C. E. Nicol and Geo. C. Round, trustees, of the County of Prince William, Va., ...

Pat had been seized with violent pains and was hurried to a hospital. The physicians in charge, after diagnosis, informed him that he had appendicitis, and that an operation was necessary as his appendix must be removed immediately.

Pat had not the least idea of what an appendix was, and so informed the physicians, who laughingly told him that after the operation he would leave the appendix in the window so he could see it when he was able to sit up.

Some days after the operation Pat's curiosity got the better of him, and he raised up in bed to take a look at his appendix. To his amazement a monkey was sitting on the window sill, and when he saw Pat he began to make faces and chatter at a great rate.

The astonished Irishman gave the monkey a long, hard look, and then exclaimed: "Don't do that, me boy, don't do that. Can't you see your mother is a very sick man?"

"I tell you I won't have this room," protested the old lady to the bell boy, who was conducting her. "I ain't agoin' to pay my good money for a pigsty with a measly little folding bed in it. If you think that just because I'm from the country—"

Profoundly disgusted the boy cut her short. "Get in-mum, this ain't yer room; this is the elevator."

Mr. Oscar Lippincoot—I hope you'd 'doin' int'n' nothin' personal in dat song, Miss Jackson?

On a pleasant Sunday afternoon an old German and his youngest son were seated in the village inn. The father had partaken liberally of the home-brewed beer and was warning his son against the evils of intemperance. "Never drink too much, my son. A gentleman stops when he has enough. To be drunk is a disgrace."

"Yes, father, but how can I tell when I have enough or am drunk?"

The old man pointed with his finger, "do you see those two men sitting in the corner? If you should see four men there, you would be drunk."

The boy looked long and earnestly. "Yes, father, but—there is only one man in that corner."
